CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background

Dance in reality is actually the appearance of body movements, the body as an expression tool for verbal communication and body language is very important for humans. Body movements can be enjoyed as part of body language communication. The body has a role and function to be the language of motion to obtain the meaning of movement.

Dance is the soul an expression occurring in motion created beautifully and follows the rhythm of the music. In the course of dance there is a symbolic gesture that shows a message conveyed to the audience. Hawkins (1990: 2) Dance is the expression of the human spirit that is transformed by the imagination and given from through the medium of motion, so that it becomes a form symbolizing her motion as an expression of the creator. Setiawati (2008: 20) Dance on the fact indeed is the appearance of motion of the body. Therefore, the body as tool says for verbal communication and body language are very important role for humans. Body movement can be enjoyed as part of communication is body language.

One of the functions of dance is as a system of symbols something created by humans and conventionally used together, regularly and truly learned so as to give a sense of human nature that is a framework full of meaning to orient themselves to others. Segers (1978: 5) the dance can also be seen from its function as a system symbol or also called semiotic. Semiotic is a discipline that investigates all forms or communication that occurs by means of sign and based on sign system or sign system. System of symbol is closely related to the art of dance because in the dance has certain in symbols in an each presentation as in motion, costume and makeup.

In Gowa, art has some dance work learned from generation to generation is currently held by the third generation, namely Mak Cida. The dance wants to research is Pakarena Dendang Ri Dendang from Gowa South Sulawesi. The characteristic of the Pakarena dance, in addition to performed dance moves, the dancers also chant poetry in dances that have a moral message characteristic. Pakarena Dendang Ri Dendang as a traditional dance tells about a woman who is Waiting for the proposed.

Furthermore, Islam also gave the explanation about it, specifically it was stated in Al-qur'an that God creates something in pairs.

وَمِنْ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ خَلَقْنَا زَوْجَيْنِ لَعَلَّكُمْ تَذَكَّرُونَ (٤٩)

"And everything we create in pairs can you remember the greatness of God"

(Az-Zariat : 49)

From the verse above, it can be summarize that we have created everything in the universe in pairs to complement each other. Similarly with Pakarena Dendang Ri Dendang where the woman have to be patient for the proposed because God creates something in pairs.

Pakarena in Makassar is "Akkarena" which means "Bermain". Gowa people usually dance Pakarena for custom event or entertainment. People do not think of Gowa Pakarena Dance as entertainment, but as a thanksgiving that represent each of the aesthetic movement of the dance. It is told that the dance originated from the mythical tale Pakarena farewell occupant "Boting Langi" (land of the God) and the occupants "Lino" (earth) in the old days. Before parting, "Boting Langi" teaches "Lino" about the way of living, farming, raising up to how to hunt which became a dance ritual when the inhabitants of the "Lino" convey a sense of her residents "Boting Langi".

Pakarena Traditional dance is interested phenomenon to researched, because this dance is usual dance in the show on royal ceremonies, but now rarely used. Therefore, until now this dance still develop although has been eroded by changing times. The changes make it a different, does not mean the same as the more advanced development or decline altogether more retarded than previous state. Dance in ceremonies are basically not the same from time to time, both in motion, the length of time, the costumes, the place, and so on. All of that changed with each society's life.

Pakarena Dance originally only performed in the Kingdom, now involve in the community in the festivities which considers all habits that used to be exercised by the Kings should still be implemented. However, the values that are contained in Pakarena Dance still held and trusted by the community. There are some changes Pakarena Dance in this era, as dancers, venues, and customs. Pakarena Dancers today is different from Pakarena Dancer in old periode. When the era Kingdoms, Pakarena Dancers is the teenage girls who are still sacred condition, or not menstruation. In nowadays, the dancers are adult or who have menstruation because consider has many get life experience or dancing. The younger generation now is still less who want to learn Pakarena Dance, because the movement just looks monotonous, and the lack of Pakarena coach so the generation right now are more likely to learn the creations dance.

This dance is a mean of entertainment and welcoming the sombayya (kings) in the way of marriage, harvest parties, circumcision and others. Now this dance can still be found on special events, because its presence that has been displaced by more dynamic modern dance as a mean of entertainment. Costume dance is now modified in such a way that the old costume has been forgotten. As a classic dance, Pakarena must be maintained and preserved as a cultural heritage. As a youth, it is an important task that must be carried out in preserving culture in South Sulawesi in terms of traditional dance.

The symbolic meanings of Pakarena Traditional Dance is very beneficial to be reviewed, because the community of South Sulawesi do not know what the meaning of Pakarena Traditional Dance. Especially for the successor cultures have much to find out about the cultures of South Sulawesi. Based on the reason, the researcher interested to analyze “The symbolic meanings of Pakarena Traditional Dance Performed in Gowa Regency”

CHAPTER II

REVIEW OF RELATED LITERATURE

A. Previous Finding

Purwanto (2010), in his thesis “A Symbol Analysis on Punk Song Lyrics American Idiot (Green Day): God Save The Queen Sex Pistols”. In this research, the researcher focused on the symbols that used in two punk songs they are American Idiot (Green Day), God Save the Queen (Sex Pistols). In this research the researcher used qualitative method in analyzing American Idiot (Green Day), God Save the Queen (Sex Pistols) which contains some symbols. This study was useful to the readers who want to know further about symbol analysis and explication about the lyric, and their contribution in building the themes in those lyrics. The researcher applied semiotic approach to describe this research.

Fikri (2016), in her thesis “The Symbolic Meaning of Punakawan in Puppet and Its Relevance to Islamic Ethics”. This research, the researcher used symbolic interaction as a theoretical framework introduced by George Herbert Mead. In this research the researcher used qualitative method and it applied semiotic approach to described the symbolic meaning of Punakawan in Puppet art. Then this research used inductive method to make easy to serve the data. The result of the research. Those approaches and techniques of research are used to get a deep knowing that related to Islamic ethic.

Darwis (2017) in his thesis “The Symbolic Meanings of Ringgo Dance in East Luwu Regency”. This research, the researcher used qualitative method and it applied semiotic approach to described symbolic meanings of Ringgo Dance. In primary data the researcher did observation and interviewed related about the research. Secondary data is obtained from some data related to research in the form of books, articles, and data from literature and other literature related to this research. Then, analyzed using interactive models of Miles and Huberman. The results of this research showed the representation of the symbolic message in Ringgo Dance consists of the attributes used and the dancer's body movements.

The similarities of this research with the previous research above were talking about culture and meanings. The differences were this research focused on analyzing the symbolic meanings of Pakarena Traditional Dance performed in Gowa Regency. The researcher used the first concept of Semiotic theory by Ferdinand De Saussure about Signifier and Signified.

B. Pertinent Ideas

1. Semiotics

In everyday life, humans were not loose with a sign or symbols. Sign and symbols can be found in various traditional ceremonies that held by various communities. As for the study of the sign and symbols are semiotic. Danesi (2011:30) Saussure described sign as a binary structure, which structures consist of two parts: First, the physical part is called Signifier and Second, conceptual part is called signified.

Semiotics becomes one of study that even becomes tradition in communication theory. Semiotics purposed to find out the meanings that contained in a sign or interpret the meaning so that is known how to communicators to construct the message. Littlejohn (2009:53) the traditions of semiotics are consist of set theories about how the signs presented items, ideas, situations, emotions, and the condition of the outside signs itself. Cultural codes which become one of the factors of the construction of meaning in a symbol becomes in an important aspect to know the sign of the message in the construction. As one of thought study in cultural studies, of course semiotic viewed how cultures was becoming cornerstone of thought from the formation of meaning in a sign.

The use of semiotics as a method of reading in various branches of science is possible because there was inclination to looked several of social phenomena in language. Pialang (in Tinarbuko, 2012:11) the explorer of semiotics as study method into several branches of science was possible because there was inclination to looked several of social discourse. Based on the semiotics view, when the whole social practice can be considered the phenomenon of language, then everything can be viewed as a sign. This was possible because the extend of understanding of the sign itself.

In semiotic science of communication and sign system, in short of the ways people understand phenomenon organize them mentally and of the ways in which they devise means for transmitting that understanding and for sharing it with other. Eco (1979:4) a general semiotic should include not only a theory of how codes may establish ruler for system of signification, but also a theory of how sign may be produced and interpreted.

2. Semiotics of Ferdinand de Saussure

Ferdinand de Saussure who the first to formulate a systematic way to analyze language, which can also be used to analyze system sign or symbol in the life of the community, by using structural analysis. Language is a system of signs that express ideas thus can be compared with the writing, the symbolic ceremony, forms and manners, etc. Analyze human thought process structuralism from the starting concept to appear symbols or signs such as ceremonies, military signs and so on forming system of the language. Saussure develops a language as a system of signs. The most famous concept is the distinction a sign language into two aspects, that is the signified and signifier.

There are five concepts of Saussure in binary opposition, there are:

a) Signified and Signifier

Saussure argues that the basic elements of the language are sign of linguistic or linguistic signs, which is also called words. The sign is the unity of signifier and signified. Although the signifier and signified looks as entities separated, but both there are only as a component of the sign. The sign is the basic fact of language. Bredin (1984:67) Saussure introduces the concept of language sign. According to Saussure, the sign of language is the main unit of language because language is merely a large number of signals that are related to each other by various means. In Saussure's view the language sign does not combine an object with its name but between the concept and the sound image. The combination of concepts and sound images is a sign. The internal structure of the sign in Saussure's view is binary or dyadic, consisting of a sound image slice which is then called a signifier and a conception slice called a signified.

Chandler (2002:20) says that model of sign by Saussure is in the dyadic tradition, that is;

b) Syntagmatic and Associative (Paradigmatic)

The forms of language can be described carefully with researched relation of associative (paradigmatic) and relation of syntagmatic. Example from outside is pillar of the building. The pillars related to each other with the other parts of the building, and related with a kind of other pillar that could be used. Associative relation (paradigmatic) is derivatives relation or inflective a series of form with basic form of language units. While the syntagmatic relation is relation that obtained if the units to put within the one follow of speech.

Chandler (2002:79) Saussure claims that a sign is meaningful because the sign is different from other marks. The differences can be paradigmatic or syntagmatic. Syntagmatic is the same thing that can be compared with something else that determine the value of mark, while the paradigmatic is something that is not the same that can be exchanged with something else that determines the value of the sign. Syntagmatic concerns the placements, while the paradigmatic concerning replacement or substance.

c) Langue and Parole

Langue is a systematic and abstract system of a language without the system, meaning parole speech is not possible. Sanders (2004:5) interpreting langue as a potential linguistic system that is in the minds of all members of a society said, and waiting to be raised in the parole of individual speech or speech acts.

The grammar contained in books or vocabulary in a dictionary is a langue, whereas speech or writing produced when communicating orally or in writing can be in it there is error, repetition or simplification is parole. Wahab (1989: 7) believes definition of parole is the whole of what the person said, like construction of individuals the appears from the choices of speaker or pronunciation that required to produce this constructions based on free choice. Therefore, the parole is manifestation of individual language.

The differences of language studies on langue and parole influences not only linguistic studies by later scholars, but also studies in other disciplines such as film, advertising, literature and politics.

d) Synchronic and Diachronic

In the term synchronic linguistic studies on the linguistic it means study about linguistic for specific time. While diachronic is language study from time to time. Therefore, the language can be tracked over time and studied for a period of time.

The diachronic approach seeks to investigate the history of languages, relationship between languages and reconstruct the languages that have been lost. Sampson (2005: 18) synchronic approach attempts to analyze the language as a communication system that exists within a certain time bracket. In the same language Berger (2005: 18) explains that Saussure's diachronic is historical, while synchronic is analytic, so synchronous text analysis will see the international ships between elements in the text, whereas diachronic aims to see how the narrative in the text develops.

e) Mental and physical

In terms of mental, language is a totality of thoughts in the human psyche. Physically, the language is the vibration of air through a tube in the tool talk man. Because mental and human physical beings become one, then language is a meeting between soul and mind in totality the vibration that are created through the tools of speech.

3. Symbols

Symbols are a kind of sign, paintings, words, badges, gestures, and so on that expressed something or contains a specific purpose. The symbol of something or situation that is understanding of media to the object. Herusatoto (2000:10) the words symbols come to Greek "Symbolos" which means a sign or traits that to tell something to someone. Hartoko and Rahmanto (in Sobur 2009:157) divided symbols into three, there are:

- a. Universal symbols, related with Arketipos. Example sleep as a symbol of death.

- b. Cultural symbols that are affected by specific culture. Exaxmple Keris from Java.
- c. Individual symbols that usually can be interpreted in the context of the overall work of the author.

Symbol is a literary element used in literature to help readers understand a literary work. The particular ideas or quality that is expressed by symbol. Fontana (1994: 8) Symbol is human communications depends largely or sign in the form of written or spoken words, images or gestures. Then, symbols are profound expressions of human nature.

In this study, a symbol is a viewed as a material expression or form conventionally standing for an idea, a belief process, or act, figure or sign. Literary device that contains several layers of meaning, often concealed at first sight, and is representative of several other aspects, concept or traits than those that are visible in the literal translation alone. The symbol is using an object or action that means something more than its literal meaning.

Based on explanation above the researcher also gave definition about symbol, symbol was something used for or regarded as representing something else, a material object representing something.

4. *Kelong

In Makassar literature, the word Kelong is known. Kelong is generally interpreted as singing. Like the word Akkelong, this means singing. But what is meant by Kelong in regional literature is a kind of rhyme, but can be pronounced like someone who sings. Kembong (2008: 34) said Kelong is one type of Makassar literature in the form of poetry. Seen in terms of Kelong, especially the traditional Kelong has a similarity with the Pantun in Indonesian literature, such as four lines in a stanza, has poetry, and has no title.

Special characteristics Kelong in the traditional Makassar that are:

- 1) The lines in the Kelong stanza are an integral whole to support a meaning.
- 2) The unity of sound contained in each row is a syntactic unity in the form of words / groups of words with the pattern 2/2/1/2.
- 3) Number of syllables on each patterned line 8/8/5/8.

The meaning in the Makassar Kelong contains values in social life. Value is something that is valued or respected or something that is to be achieved because it is considered as something that is valuable or worth. So in the Makassar Kelong it was found to contain several values that needed to be keep and preserved.

5. Pakarena Traditional Dance

1) The History of Pakarena

In traditional dance implied message from society in the form of knowledge, ideas, beliefs, values and norm. Alwi (2013: 1038) traditional art is art created by people who contain elements of beauty that the result belong together. Pakarena Dance is an art that related to various aspects of human life which is filled with a high philosophy from the depiction of life, both at the lower level and at the top level. In its implementation, Pakarena is a spectacle and entertainment for invited guests and the surrounding community. Not only as entertainment, but also Pakarena have moral values and messages. In other these functions Pakarena as a medium of communication and aesthetic expression in its function as a messenger.

Pakarena Traditional Dance is one the traditional dances in Indonesia. Pakarena Traditional Dance comes from Gowa Regency, South Sulawesi. In Gowa language, "Pakarena" comes from word of "Akkarena" the definition of "Main" whereas affix of "Pa" means "the performers". People of Gowa usually perform Pakarena Traditional Dance in custom or entertainment events. However, Gowa people do not consider the dance for entertainment only, but also as an act of thanksgiving that is represented by each of the aesthetic movement of the dance. Bantang (2004) said Pakarena comes from the word "Akkarena" which broadly means playing, playing can be interpreted as playing sports, playing pencak silat, or playing spears. "Akkarena" got the prefix "pa" into Pakarena, meaning a form of dance that developed in the middle of the Makassar community, which began with the development of the kingdom of Gowa as the largest kingdom in the Indonesian region.

Nobody knows the exactly about the origin of this dance, but the story that develop in the people of Gowa told that Pakarena Traditional Dances comes from a myth, which tells two inhabitants of different lands, Botting Langi (from the Kahyangan land) and inhabitant of Lino (from the earth). When the two lands were ready to be separated, botting langi taught Lino inhabitants about the way of life start from how to grow crops, how to build and nourish husbandry until the ways to hunt the animals through the motions of hand, body, and foot. At the end, as a gratitude expression of the inhabitants of Lino to the inhabitants of Botting Langi the inhabitants of Lino combined every motion becomes a dance named Pakarena Traditional Dance.

Pakarena Traditional Dance is played by four until seven women and the dancer must be women. Because of the dance, basically reflect the characteristic of Gowa women like soft, polite, faithful and obedient. They accompany the beauty of Pakarena Traditional Dance by bright costume by the red, white, light green and yellow colors. The complete costume consists of "Baju Pahang" (made of woven), "Lipa' Sa'be" (typical silk sarong from South Sulawesi), and jewelries like necklace, bracelet, bun, and big size fan.

Pakarena expresses the elegance of the Makassar ethnic women symbolizing their politeness, loyalty, obedience and respect towards their spouses. The dance consists of 12 parts that have their own distinct meanings although they are difficult to differentiate by untrained eyes, since patterns appear to be similar. Both the seated position which commences and ends the performance, as well as the clock wise movement represent the cycle of human life, sometimes we are the top, while at other times we are down. Therefore, Pakarena Dancer cannot open the eyes too wide, feet and hands also may not be raised too high. In all choreographies, the dancers hold and play the distinct traditional fan.

Pakarena Traditional Dance has beautiful aesthetic movement that you can see in every hand motion and foot motion. The dance is always accompanied by two Tambours, Kannong-Kannong, Gong, Kancing, and a pair of Puik-Puik (flute) that is played by seven men. To hit the drum, the players usually use drumsticks or “Ba’bala” that is made from buffalo’s horn and also use both hands. The sound of the drums implies the strong character of South Sulawesi men. In other versions, the dance is also accompanied by song. For the people of Gowa and Makassar, this dance is already become a part of life and as a reflection of ideology. The dance is also as a media that is connecting them to God. The beauty of Pakarena Traditional Dance should be conserved and enjoyed because of its meaning.

2) Costume and accessories

In Pakarena dance, the dancer used “Baju Bodo” as traditional costume of South Sulawesi. This costume usually used in wedding party, dancing or other event. Jalins (1990: 6) argued the costume that glutinous to someone is reflection of soul and characters of someone. Koten (1991:2) traditional costume is one of an identity or characteristic identity of wearer it. The people of South Sulawesi usually called “Baju Bodo” with term “Baju Tokko”. “Baju Tokko” have shaped square and short sleeve made with various color and used muslin cloth. Muslin cloth is the cloth that made from roll cotton that weaves used yarn cotton. There are many colors of “Baju Bodo” such as: yellow, red, purple, white, black, green and orange. All of the colors have special meaning.

While, in South Sulawesi sarong was usually called “Lipa’ Sa’be” that used with “Baju Bodo”. “Lipa’ Sa’be” is silk sarong with boxes motive and usually use bright color. Usually this “Lipa’ Sa’be” suitable with the color of “Baju Bodo”. Not only woman, but also the man also used “Lipa’ Sa’be” when play the music however the motive is biggest.

In tradition, costume of South Sulawesi also uses accessories. Accessories that used to furnish “Baju Bodo” and “Lipa’ Sa’be”. Some of accessories that used, such as: necklace, bracelet, large headcraft, earrings, sima’ and flowers. And every of accessories have special meaning.

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

A. Research Method

The researcher used the qualitative method as the approach to collect analysis and write the report. Qualitative approach is also as the assumption that the researcher is primary instrument for data collection and analysis. The researcher physically went to site to observe the natural setting and understanding gained through word (Creswell 1994:21)

B. Object of the Research

Primary data was the symbolic meanings of Pakarena Traditional Dance performed in Gowa Regancy. Secondary data were the respondents such as; the dancer in Sanggar or art workers in Gowa Mak Cida and musician who knew about Pakarena Traditional Dance Puang Nasir.

C. Instrument of the Research

In conducting the data, the researcher delivered literature review, interview and documentation.

1. Literature review

The researcher read some references and reading the materials in the form of research books about Pakarena Traditional Dance.

2. Interview

The researcher interviewed to the respondent which consists of some questions related to the meaning of symbols that had been prepared and carried out directly and more deeply towards the parties concerned, such as custom figures, dancer figures, traditional dancer and traditional musician (See Appendix 1). Mardalis (2009:46) stated that interview is used to conduct direct question with the local people to obtain the accurate primary data as answer of research problem.

3. Documentation

The researcher took pictures during the research process as documentation. Documentation is collected data by taking data from records, documentation, and administration that appropriate with the problem of research. In this research the data generated like image in dance demonstration, reading and understanding of the symbols that contained in Pakarena Dance movements and the notes during this research in progress (See Appendix 2). Suwandi, (2008:158) states that documentation is when the researcher goes to the tourist offices and write object of the research.

D. Procedure of Data Collection

In collecting data, the researcher applied several procedures as follow:

1. The researcher visited the studio and saw the direct performance of Pakarena Traditional Dance.
2. The researcher took a picture in every motion of Pakarena Traditional Dance.

3. The researcher gave interview to the informant which consists of some questions about Pakarena Traditional Dance.
4. The researcher analyzed the symbols of Pakarena Traditional Dance.

E. Technique of Data Analysis

In analyzing data, the researcher did several procedures as follows:

1. The researcher used Semiotic theory by Ferdinand De Saussure about Signifier and Signified (1916:65). He says that signifier is to describe the form or expression and signified is to explain meaning and concept.
2. The researcher drew the conclusion from all the findings that the researcher found.

B. Discussion

Pakarena Dance developed since the establishment of Gowa Kingdom. Basically Pakarena Dance is an art that associated with various human life, with a variety of high philosophy about the depiction of life both within the community and the kingdom. Along with the development of the times, the expert of Dendang Ri Dendang still maintains the originality of his movement.

Mak Cida is one of the Pakarena Dance masters who are members of IKARE studio (Ikatan Pakarena Gowa Raya) located in Bulutana village, Kec. Tinggi Moncong Kab. Gowa which until now still uphold the value and sanctity of Pakarena Dance especially Pakarena Dendang Ri Dendang. She studied the dance around the age of 9 years and now mak Cida is 85 years old even though he cannot dance anymore he still can sing along at the dance in the start.

Pakarena Dendang Ri Dendang is a classical dance that until now its movement was never changed or still original. The dance is passed down from generation to generation by Cida mothers around the time of the Kingdom of Gowa which is still preserved by the children and grandchildren.

The number of dancers Pakarena Dendang Ri Dendang must be even, usually amounted to 2 to 12 female dancers and there is no age limit if you want to learn this dance. The movement is very simple as well as with the costumes he used was very simple, using the clothes bodo (tokko), sarong, fan, shawl, and flowers on the left. This dance has a very deep meaning about a lady or a woman who is waiting for the appeal, until the time comes a man who came from far to apply for the woman.

This dance accompaniment consists of two internal accompaniment in the form of poetry sung by the dancers and external accompaniment in the form of two drums (Ganrang). In this dance there are only two drums that are used differently in other areas that already use the flute, gong, pui-pui in accompanying Pakarena. The people in Bulutana still maintain the authenticity of their dance so until now the dance is still there as well as the music is still awake its authenticity.

Difference with the Pakarena Dance in general the movement is very slow, Pakarena Dendang Ri Dendang has a movement that is not too slow so that the duration needed in the dance is not long. It's just a movement that looks monotonous and in repeated as well as with his poetry.

Picture 4.1 can be seen in the first movement is the first movement where in this movement dancers sit with the position of the right foot in bend and left foot touching the floor and right hand is on the right foot. In signifier the movement signifies a sense of modesty towards the guests or kings who come in an event such as royal events, weddings and others. In the early movements of dancers are still in a sitting position while poetry or commonly called Kelong. (Interviewed with Puang Nasir. 16th July 2018, Bulutana).

Picture 4.2 The second movement is the position of the fingers of the left hand bud (Pucu'na), in the signifier it's as a form of reverence to the kings, officials and guests who come with the foot position is still like the initial position of reverence. In this movement the dancer is still singing until it finishes on again. (Interviewed with Puang Nasir. 16th July 2018, Bulutana).

Picture 4.3 The third movement is to stand slowly while singing Dendang Ri Dendang. In this movement, the dancer is still in the ready position with the foresight down and has not moved while waiting, the dancer keeps singing assisted with the Ganrang musical instrument. (Interviewed with Puang Nasir. 16th July 2018, Bulutana).

Picture 4.4 The fourth movement is a rotating motion clockwise while moving both hands forward and back with the position of the hand using a fan with the same view to the front down. Its signifier is a cycle of human life from where it was born until marriage and then died. That's how it goes all the way to her children and grandchildren. (Interviewed with Puang Nasir. 16th July 2018, Bulutana).

Picture 4.5 The fifth movement is rotating to the left with the same movement as the fourth movement. This movement is a pattern of motion that done repeatedly. Repetition of motion and variation are completely performed by the dancers, as well as the singing called kelong poem. (Interviewed with Puang Nasir. 16th July 2018, Bulutana).

Picture 4.6 The sixth movement of sitting is the final or concluding movement of a dance. In this movement the position of the dancer is the same at the beginning of the movement, the right leg is buckled while the left leg still touches the floor and the right hand holds the fan with the position above the calf. Along with the end of the movement the lyrics of the kelong are over. (Interviewed with Puang Nasir. 16th July 2018, Bulutana).

The poem in the rhyme Dendang Ri Dendang tells about a lady or a woman. The meaning of this song is a woman, who has long waited for a man where at that time came a man to propose, but he still thinks about what his next fate or life would be if he was with the man. Therefore as a woman must really think carefully about what and how the background of the man. Kelong Dendang Ri Dendang is sung simultaneously at the time began to dance from beginning to end. (Interviewed with Puang Nasir. 16th July 2018, Bulutana).

Picture 4.7 The musical instrument used in accompanying dance is Gendang. The drum in Makassar is called Ganrang, made of wood of choice, porters and trawlers made of rattan and kenur (tasi), the shape is rounded round, the two edges each have holes, then covered with goat skin, cow or reindeer skin. Before it is installed the skin should be dried to produce a good sound. In Pakarena Dance Dendang Ri Dendang using two middle or medium size drums commonly called Ganrang Pakarena. The blows used in this dance are Tunrung Rumble (opening and transition blows), Tunrung Rua (two stroke), Tunrung Lambussu (continuous blow). (Interviewed with Puang Nasir. 16th July 2018, Bulutana).

Picture 4.8 in Pakarena dance Dendang Ri Dendang dancer wearing a shirt bodo (Tokko) is red. Starting from the royal period color of clothes used in the dance that is still red. Why red color? Because at that time the red color is often used during the royal event so that until now never changed. (Interviewed with Puang Nasir. 16th July 2018, Bulutana).

Fans and scarves are characteristic in Pakarena Dance. The fan used is a folding fan while the shawl used is a white scarf. White is identical to holy, clean so that at the time of dancing will feel a peace

Lipa 'Sabbe is Sarong weaving typical of South Sulawesi used at the time of dancing. Motives also vary from large and small boxes, lines and horizontal. In Pakarena dance the dancers used a sarong with a Sarong position must pass the ankle or cover all the legs. It signifies a politeness towards the kings who come.

In other poetry that has a moral meaning and message, every part of the Pakarena Dendang Ri Dendang dance is a symbol that has a meaning that implies waiting for a woman who is waiting for a man but in waiting is still thinking about her future fate. That is why in this dance is played by a group of female dancers who are calm, patient in appropriate with the Dendang Ri Dendang dance.

The creation of a movement is how people live in society. Pakarena Dance is classified into 11 main movements that must be carried out by the movement is Sambori'na, Ma'biring Kassi, Digondang, Jangang Lea-lea, D'yolle, So'nayya, Lambasari, Ani-ani, Leko 'Bo'dong, Sanro Neja, and Dendang. This movement is included in a dance called Pakarena Dance which has duration from night to morning. However, usually Pakarena Traditional Dance is separated so that in one place only uses the dance Pakarena Sambori'na for example and in every place has a different Pakarena movement. In Bulutana, there are two kinds, Pakarena Dendang Ri Dendang and Pakarena Soregandang, except that Pakarena who is in the Bulutana area uses kelong when dancing and the duration is in accordance with the situation and condition at that time. There were not many studios or people who still want to maintain or even want to learn about Pakarena Dance in South Sulawesi, for the reason that very classical dances and movements are so monotonous that people learn more about Modern Dance.

There are some opinions saying that dance is haram in religion, but when looking at it from the point of view of the way it is conveyed it is not something that must be forbidden. For example, the Sufi dance, this dance is usually carried during certain events even the clothes used are very closed and do not show curves. Similarly, in the Pakarena Dance, the dancer uses Bodo and Sarong clothes which do not show the dancer's curves at all. Meanwhile, the movement was very calm as well as the Sufi dance. Its different with modern dance that show the curves of the dancer's body and naturally it is forbidden by some religious people or figures.

In this Pakarena Dance, the researchers not only focus on their movements, but the costumes they are also still seen politely from the Sarong used to cover their feet. There are several art critics of South Sulawesi who are very contradictory to the dancer costumes in this era. They said the dancer costume in the millennial period was no different from bridal clothes. Moreover, Bodo clothes is the oldest clothes in the world that was used as everyday clothes until the 1930s. Naturally they said like this because of their love for the culture of South Sulawesi which has been abandoned many days, especially the problem of increasingly modern dancer costumes.

In this era, Pakarena Dance is rarely found, especially classical or Pakarena who have a long duration from morning to night. Pakarena is usually obtained at traditional events in the village which is still maintaining the authenticity of the dance. As in the Bulutana area, Pakarena shown still using the original and has not been changed at all. So that the successors have also been taught since they were young as well as the music. That is why in the Bulutana area every time there are weddings or official events, the dance that used is Pakarena Dendang Ri Dendang dance.

From various kinds of Pakarena Dance in South Sulawesi, there are some dances that are suitable for the conditions of the region, such as in areas close to the beach usually the dance that is played is Ma'biring Kassi (playing by the beach). That is why before there is Pakarena Dance, people in the area are taught how to grow crops, catch fish, process life and so on then from that process a dance movement is made. That's where the beginning of Pakarena Dance that has many versions in each region.
