"But Allah doth support with His aid whom. Fair in the eyes of men is the these saw with their own eyes twice their number."

Allah menguatkan dengan pertolongannya bagi siapa yang Dia Kehendaki. Sungguh, pada yang demikian itu terdapat pelajaran bagi orang yang mempunyai penglihatan (Mata hati)

(QS. Ali-Imran: 13)

"Patiently, then, persevere: for the promise of Allah is true: and ask forgiveness for thy fault, and celebrate the Praises of thy Lord in the evening and in the morning".

Maka bersabarah kamu, sesungguhnya janji Allah itu benar, dan mohonlah ampun untuk dosamu dan bertasbilah seraya memuji Tuhanmu pada waktu pagi dan petang.

(QS. Gafir: 55)

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

بِسْمِ اللهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيْمِ

Alhamndulillahi rabbil a'alamin, the researcher praises to the Almighty Allah Subhanahu Wa Ta'ala the merciful God who blessed, guided and given the health to the writer during writing of this thesis. May Shalawat and Salam be with our prophet Muhammad Shallallahu 'alaihi Wasallam. Peace be upon him. The most excellent worshipper, supreme among a prophet who has guided from the darkness to lightness in this world as well as next world. I bear witness that there is no god but Allah and I bear witness that Muhammad is the messenger of Allah.

The writer realizes that in writing and finishing this thesis, there are many people that have provided their suggestion, advice, direction, support and motivation. Therefore, the researcher would like to express, her greatest highest appreciation and deepest where the writer mentions them as follows:

Firstly, the writer's special gratitude for her beloved parents, La Seki and Wa Saena who have given their loves, cares, supports for the success of the writer's study. Their kindness and patience will be never forgotten in the writer's mind till the end of world. Billion thanks to all the things that they have given. Then, her deepest thanks to beloved brother and sisters Herna, Herni, Herman. Thank you so much for being kind and love. Thanks to big family especially Ninasari, S.Keb, Suwasti, S.T., Surawati, S.E, Ali Okto, S.T., M.T who given supports, motivations and suggestions and other helps.

Secondly, the writer's greatest thanks to the Rector of UIN Alauddin State Islamic University of Makassar, Prof. Dr. Musafir Pabbari, M.Ag., the dean of Adab and Humanities Faculty, Dr. H. Barsihanoor, M.Ag., the head of English Literature Department, H. Muhammad Nur Akbar Rasyid , M.Pd., M.Ed.,Ph.D., the secretary of English Literature Department Syahruni Junaid, S.S., M.Pd., and the staff of Adab and Humanities Faculty as whole for their administrative supports, helps, facilities throughout the period of the study.

Thirdly, the deepest thanks to the honorable supervisors, Serliah Nur, S.Pd., M.Hum., M.Ed. and Faidah Yusuf S.S., M.Pd., for their comments, advices, and supports that they gave to the writer throughout doing the research. Furthermore, the billion thanks too are appreciated to the examiners Syahruni Junaid, S.S., M.Pd and Sardian Maharani Asnur, S.Pd., M.Pd. who have given their comments and advices to the writer. The sincere thank that the writer does not forget to express also for all of the lecturers who have given their knowledge and enlightenment during academic years since 2011.

Special thanks to the Study Club Al-Muhajirin thank to the MPM (Mahasiswa Pecinta Masjid UIN Alauddin Makassar) to FSRN (Forum Studi Raudhatunnisa), who teach many things and give beautiful knowledge and experience for the writer. Who given contributed for the success of this thesis. Special thanks too for my buddies are Dewi Rianti Umasugi, S.KM., Fatmawati Yusuf S.Sos., Siti Kamariah, S.KM., Nurul Wahida., S.SI., Amaliah Rezkiyanti, S.Pd, Firnalis, S.Pd, Rostina,

S.Pd, Lestari and Nikma, who have given corrections, advices, suggestions and support. Billion support and love their given to the researcher.

Besides that, the deepest thanks and appreciation individually and collectively to students of English Literature Department academic year 2011. Specially, to her friends in AG. 5 and 6 for togetherness that the researcher passed in university. Furthermore, for dearest friends that always give support and help during writing this thesis, Sitti Nihayah, S.Hum., Rahma Bahira, Devi ratna sari, S.Pd, Karniaty, S.Hum., Maryuni, Muawwana, Marfiah, S.Hum who gives their inspiration and support.

The last but not least, the special thanks to also to Club of ECUINSA, BPEC Club, CEC (Cambridge English Club), FORUM MAHASISWA MAKASSAR MUNA, and the big Family of KKNP V Pattalassang for knowledge, educations, brotherhood, support, entertainment and advice.

Finally, the writer presented this thesis for those whom interested in reading this thesis. She hopes it will be useful, beneficial, and of course give a contribution for the readers even the writer realizes that this thesis is still far from the perfectness.

This thesis studied about children's response toward picture book of Sofia the First Once upon a Princess which aimed to find out the positive and negative response of intrinsic elements of picture book Sofia the First. This research used descriptive qualitative method in revealing the data. The research instruments were interview sheet and list of questionnaire to get the valid data that 15 children as subject of the research. The writer applied accidental sampling technique to get the respondents. This research revealed that the majority of children gave positive response toward the picture book. This research was presented from the percentage by all category of intrinsic elements. The positive response of children of the intrinsic elements showed that children liked, pleased, enjoyed, and became happy, enthusiasm, excited and nice responses. The researcher also found that some children gave negative responses which showed the percentage of intrinsic elements. Some of them responded that the picture book was not too attractive, unclear, flatted, unexciting, difficult to understand, unfunny, was not great story and others.

INTRODUCTION

A. Background

Every human has various ways to express and utter his or her feeling and what he or she thinks about his or her life. One of them is through literature. According to (Wellek and Weren, 1990:94), "Literature is said to be creative, an art which an author has produced." It means that literature is a result of imagination which is inspired from the reality or fantasy by the writer which is produced into words as an art of writing.

Literature is literary work that can be enjoyed and learned by all people especially for children. The most great and attractive literature is children's literature. Children's literature as a concept is defined as literature exclusively about children. Children's literature refers mainly to stories, poetry, rhymes, folk tales, drama, exclusively created for children such as infants, toddlers and the young people as target audience, (Junaid, 3: 2014). Children are both more and less literal than adults. They have different views and ways to know the literature. One things that makes children different from adult literature is actually the existence of illustration which is believed as useful tool in helping the children's literacy. Illustration plays an important role in children's literacy development "children like pictures and children need pictures", (Nodelman and Reimer, 2003:274). Then this also supported by Doonan's writing (1993: 57) that the reader scans the picture first, then reads the text, then return to the picture to reinterpret in the light of the words. That showed the important of the picture and illustration in the story can make the children more attractive and easier to understand. Children may not understand the same complexity of ideas. Since their understanding is less limited, the expression of ideas must be simpler both in language and in form.. On the other hand, children may accept the fantastic more rapidly than many adults (Lukens, 2003:8).

Children literature has an important role to language and literature development. One of the works in children literature is picture book. Picture book is a book which consists of text and picture, and it is usually constructed by its meaning. Elizabeth Kennedy said that a picture book is a book, typically for children, in which the illustrations are as important as (or even more important than) the words in telling the story. Picture books have traditionally been 32 pages long, although little golden books are 24 pages. In the picture books, there are illustrations on every page or on one every pair of facing pages. As (Nodelman & Reimer, 2003:295) mentioned, "Picture books embody at least three stories: the one told by the words, the one implied by the pictures, and the one that results from the combination of the other two". Picture books communicate information or tell stories through a series of many pictures combined with relatively slight or nor texts at all, (Norton, 2011:158). Besides that picture books communicate self-acceptance, and they model coping strategies for children who learn to cope with powerful emotions. Through picture books, children meet families, settings, and cultures which are in some ways very similar and very different from their own. As a result, picture books contribute to the child's cultural identity and multicultural awareness.

Picture books represent a unique visual and literary art form that engages young reader and older reader in many levels of learning and pleasure (Sipe, 2007:273). Every ilustration can stimulate the reader and also make the reader lives in the story. Knowledge of recent developments in picture books, the ways of reading these books, and bridging picture book forms and innovations with reader response will enable practitioners to initiate fruitful conversations about the importance of picture books in the curriculum and inspire new directions in research.

The most of favorite genre in children's literature is picture book where provides varieties of story and the unique design in the book. Therefore, every reader when read the book automatically they will be scan what they read and what they have seen. In this case, each different reader will have different view or way to response what have read. In the Qur'an had mentioned that:

(Qs.Az-Zariyat : 8)

"Truly, ye are of varying opinion"

It means that every people has been always different view to response something. In this verse showed that musyrikin's people have different view about Rasulullah but in this research only give evidenced that different people can influence different perception or response. So, it makes the writer interested indeed to analyze about response because it is time talk with the respondents directly and to know their response about children's literature especially picture book of Sofia the first. Then, Sofia the first's picture book is a famous literary work by Disney Art in 18th November 2012. Most of children have known about Sofia's programming from the movie but they have never seen or rare to know that there are Sofia's picture book. Also, the advantage this research gives them an opportunity to read, think, and understand the story from it. Then, the other reason I choose this episode book because that is new serial book also the picture and the story tell more clearly and easier to understand for the children.

B. Research Questions

Based on the explanation above, the writer formulates research questions about children's response to the picture book of Sofia the First "Once Upon a Princess" as follows :

How are the negative and positive children's responses to the picture book of Sofia the First "Once Upon a Princess"?

C. Objective of The Research

Based on the background above, the writer focuses of this research:

1. To know the negative and positive children's response to the picture book of Sofia the First "Once Upon a Princess".

D. Significance of The Research

The result of the research is expected:

1. To increase the knowledge for the writer and reader about the picture books.

2. To inform the teachers or parents who teach children may use picture books as the media of teaching.

3. To be a reference for the next researcher especially student of English Literature Department as main or second source of student learning about children's response to picture book in literature.

E. Scope of The research

  In this research, the writer would like to limit and to analyze on children's responses to the picture book. T-he writer only focuses on negative and positive responses toward Sofia the First "Once Upon a Princess"'s picture book based on Thursone's theory; where the children read the book to analyze and to response the picture book.

CHAPTER II

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

A. The Previous Study

The writer presented some previous studies which are relavant and relete to this research as follows:

Pertiwi (2015) conducted a thesis of the response of female readers in Yousafzai's autobioghraphy "I Am Malala". This thesis focused on find out the response of female readers in intrinsic elements. This research used Thursone's theory to analayze the research and used qualitative approach to answer the problem statement. The result showed that female readers give positive response in intrinsic elements and moral value in Yousafzai's autobioghraphy "I am Malala". They gave positive comments about the character, theme, plot, setting and point of view and also if the readers put themselves into Malala, they would do the same things as Malala did. From this book, the readers were inspired by Malala's personality such as Malala was known as brave and strong women and also she is a true fighter.

Lisnawati (2014) stated on her thesis, Literary Elements and The Interaction of Word and Image in Judie Mc Ewen's Picture book "The Lost Egg", about kinds of literary elements and how the word and image interact in judie Mc Ewen picture book "The Lost Egg". This research used descriptive qualitative to analyze the data. The writer analyzed the literary elements by using Luken's theory and Nodelman's theory to answer how the word and image interact in picture book. She found that there were eight kinds of literary elements in picture book. They were character, plot, theme, setting, point of view, style, rhytm and tone. Besides that, she found how to analyze the image and the word interact each other in picture book.

Christine (2012) conducted a thesis, Children responses to a picture book during a small group, co-constructed read aloud. In her thesis, she used a picture book to find out the responses (how the children re-construct the narrative text given) of her respondents of the research, 9-10 years old students after reading aloud with their group. From this research, she found out that the students enhanced their literary understandings and their thinking about book. Based on the research result, she concluded that the children were easy to interpret the message of the story by using the picture book (consisted of words and pictures). That is why the children can achieve the complex levels of thought by interacting one another.

Those previous studies above have the similarity with this research where all of previous study focused on the responses and picture book. While the differences finding are the first previous study, Gianti Eka Pertiwi's thesis, concerned on the female readers about autobioghraphy. The second previous study, Lisnawati's thesis, focused on the analyze the kinds of the literary elements in the picture book. Nonetheless, the third previous study, Christine L. Braid's thesis, focused on what the students may achieve in learning by interacting each other using picture book. Related to the third previous study, in this research the writer focuses on children's response to the picture book.

B. Children

Children is plural from child. The child is a young human being below the age of puberty or below the legal age of majority. Children is a human being between the stages of birth and puberty. According to The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child "a child means an every human being below of the eighteen years unless under the law applicable to the child, majority is attained earlier". According to passal 1 verse 2 UUD No. 4 in 1979 children are those who are in 21 years old and haven't got married yet. From some definition we can conclude that children is a human being the relative 0-21 years physically and have never marriage.

Children is a small human being which have different view with adults. According to Luken (2003:8) children are not little adults. They are different from adults in experience, but not in species, or put it differently, in degree but not in kind. We can say then of literature for young readers that if differs from literature for adults in degree but not in kind. Children too, seek pleasure from a story, but the sources of their pleasure are more limited.

According to psycology science child psychology deals not only with how children grow physically, but with their mental, emotional and social development as well. In my, the development of children psychology includes the physic, mental, emotional, and social. Chapman and Chambell (2000: 19) point out "children often do wonderful and delightful things. They perform acts bravely, kindly, honestly, and respecfully." According to Morryson (1988: 25), there are several characteristics of children, they are; angry, fearful, jealous, happy, curious, and selfish. Morryson (1988: 68) also stated "the self-concept of children is built by the personal characteristics (emotion and behavior), motivation, intelligence, and talents as they unfold.

C. Classify of Children

Children based on Jean Piaget in Owens (1988:127) in physiology science there are four stages development of classification of them as follows:

1. Sensorimotor Stage (Infancy)

Sensorimotor stage occurs in the age of 0-2 years old The characteristics of this stage are the infant has a reflexive to proactive behavior. In this period, intelligence is demonstrated through motor activity without the use of symbols. Knowledge of the world is limited (but developing) because it's based on physical interactions / experiences. Children acquire permanence object at about 7 months of age (memory). Physical development (mobility) allows the child to begin developing new intellectual abilities. Some symbolic (language) abilities are developed at the end of this stage. They are still trying to adapt their selves to the world. They try to imitate the language or the action around them. For example, the infant will try to say the word "da da" which means good bye as their parents usually do.

2. Preoperational Stage (Toddler and Early Childhood).

In this period (which has two sub stages), intelligence is demonstrated through the use of symbols, language use matures, and 20 memory and imagination are developed, but thinking is done in a non-logical, non-reversible manner. Egocentric thinking predominates

3. Concrete Operational Stage (Elementary and early adolescence).

The concrete operational stage occurs in the age of 7-11 years old. The characteristics which are found in this stage are the children thought characterized by conservation, decentration, and reversibility. Their logical thought is relative to concrete or physical operations. The children begin to understand that they have to pay attention on the other also. They need to play and to share with their friend. In this stage, intelligence is demonstrated through logical and systematic manipulation of symbols related to concrete objects. Operational thinking develops (mental actions that are reversible). Egocentric thought diminishes.

4. Formal Operation (Adolescence and adulthood).

This last stage occurs when an individual in the age of more than eleven. These stage characteristics are the capability of abstract thought, complex reasoning, and flexibility. An individual in this stage is becoming an adult. They begin to understand clearly and thought logically. In this stage, intelligence is demonstrated through the logical use of symbols related to abstract concepts. Early in the period there is a return to egocentric thought.

So that's way, according to some experts, children in 8-12 years that is observers with carefully and serious because their view of reality of the world then their serious attention of the things in around them. Those skill makes their assessment to the something that she/he refers to be exact and acute.

D. Reader Response

Reader is an object who run the activity to obtain the information or message for the writing. Through reading, the reader can interprate what his or her own idea is. Every reader has a different perception of what he or she reads. The reader has an important role of literary work, because the reader gives many critics and additions to expanse of literary work itself. In a large reader, Miller assumed (2006:3), reader may come from different socioeconomic level, from different ethnic group, and from different geoghraphic region, at least half of them may be a different gender. The reader may also differ in ways that are not readily apparent. A large reader, or even a small one, can include people who differ in religion, faith, political affiliation,and sexual orientation. The reader is not just adult but reader is `general included the children.

Response is a reaction of stimulus. Response is a feedback or answer from something's reaction. Response is also interpreted as a real behaviour or attitude tangible well before detailed understanding, research, influence or rejection, like it or not and utilation at a particular phenomenon Sobur (2003: 9). According to Susanto (1998: 17), response is a reaction of rejection or acceptance which is happening to someone after receiving the message.

Reader response is a theory how the reader gives the response to something. A literary work will have a high appreciation and best selling if there are many reader's responses. Reader response usually called reception theory. Endraswara (2011 :118) said that reception is derived from the latin recepire which means to accept or enjoyment the literature by readers. Pradopo (2007 : 234), quoting Jauss' statement said that a literary work always has a different meaning to different reader, or from one generation to the others that will never have the same perception.

Reader's response also talks about the reader and the experience of the reading where the reader is someone who honors, reverses, and serves the text from what she or he is reading. The reader also critics the text nevertheless the reading experiences are frequently private and personally. A theory, which gained prominence in the late 1960s, that focuses on the reader or audience reaction to a particular text, perhaps more than the text itself. Reader-response criticism can be connected to emphasize the role of the reader in actively constructing texts rather than passively consuming them. Reader-response criticism argues that a text has no meaning before a reader experiences—reads—it. The reader-response critic's job is to examine the scope and variety of reader reactions and analyze the ways in which different readers, sometimes called "interpretive communities," make meaning out of both purely personal reactions and inherited or culturally conditioned ways of reading.

Reader response suggests that the role of the reader is essential to the meaning of the text of the story. Reader response has some purposes such as examining, explaining, and defending the readers' personal reaction to a text. In responding, the reader must explores some items of the story. By exploring the items of the story, the reader may give the reasons why the reader likes or dislikes the story, explain whether the reader agrees or disagrees with the authors, identify the story's purposes, and criticize the text of the story. Judith Fetterley (1978: 235) stated that there is no right or wrong answer to a reading response, but the important thing is that the reader must demonstrate the understanding of the reading and clearly explain support the reader's reactions. Besides that, before writing the reading response, the reader has already read the story and the reader should not read the summary of the contents only.

1. Kinds of Response

Louis Thursone in Nasution (2009:12) stated that there were some ways the people used to express their response such as influence or denial, appraisal, like or dislike, and positive and negative thing of something they assessed. Through this definition, there are two variables that may affect the way people response something. They are structural variable and functional variable. Structural variable means some factors that influence the physical stimulation and functional variable means some factors within the people themselves (mood, their past, and so on).

Besides that, based on these variables, response can be classified in two categories:

A. Positive Response

Positive response appears if someone please, like, receive, and give positive comments to an object , Soemanto (1998: 28). The positive response can be known through the affective, cognitive, and psychomotor phases in this case like pleasing, approaching, and expecting something. Affective is something that relates to feeling such as interests, values, motivation, purpose and goals. Affective domain refers to the emotion and sensation aspects as interest, attitude, appreciation, the way of adjustment. Krathwohl, et.al (1973) said the affective domain includes the manner in which we deal with things emotionally, such as feelings, appreciation, enthusiasms, motivations, and attitudes. Furthermore cognitive is mental skills (knowledge). Cognitive Domain refers to the intellectual aspects as knowledge, comprehension, and train of thought. Bloom assumed (1956), cognitive domain involves knowledge and the development of intellectual skills. This includes the recall or recognition of specific facts, procedural patterns, and concepts that serve in the development of intellectual abilities and skills. Psychomotor Domain refers to the skill and activity physically. Based on (Simpsn 1972), the psychomotor domain that includes physical movement, coordination, and use of the motor-skill areas. Development of these skills requires practice and is measured in terms of speed, precision, distance, procedures, or techniques in execution.

B. Negative response

Negative response is a response that occurs when a person refuses, disagrees, dislikes, even gives a bad comments to an object, (Lahey 2007:365). The negative response can be seen through the way someone acts in situation. If the information given or changes to an object, it will not affect a person's actions or he/she will avoid or even hate the object.

E. Picture Book

The phrase "picture book" is commonly used to describe a book, most often written for children, in which the content is conveyed through the use of words and pictures in combination or through pictures alone. A picture book differs from an illustrated book in that the pictures it contains form an essential part of the structure of the book. Due to physical factors in the bookbinding process, picture books are conventionally 32 pages long.

Picture books are a relatively new form of book, originating in the early twentieth century. Wanda Gag is widely considered to be a pioneer in the development of the picture book form. The formula for illustrated books had been to show text on the left page and pictures on the right page, without combining them. In Millions of Cats, Gag mixed up the order of pictures and text, combined pictures and text, and stretched pictures onto more than one page. Her ideas paved the way for modern authors/illustrators like Maurice Sendak, Dr. Seuss, and Eric Carle.

Picture book describes about the word and picture work together to provide a meaning and a message of the story. Picture book requires the reader to bring together of clues, from both the pictures and words and make connections between these. A picture book is a book, usually a children's book, in which the illustrations are as important as (or even more important than) the words in telling the story.

(Brown & Tomlinson, 2005:76) assumed, picture books are profusely illustrated books in which both words and illustrations contribute to the story's meaning. Picture books are written in all genres which have a rich illustrative component. These books come in variety sizes, shapes and lengths. Picture books are 32 pages long. Anything from one, to 20 to 30, to 50 to 100 words can make picture book. Just as long as the text and idea (and letter as the illustration).

Picture book is most often aimed to young children, and while some may have very basic language especially designed to help children develop their reading skills, most are written with vocabulary a child can understand but not necessarily read. Picture books tend to have two functions in the lives of children. First, the children know the book from the picture book read by adults, and then children read it by themselves once they begin learning to read.

Successful art takes us away from our current world to a level of deeper and wider understanding than our limited lives, maybe to a world uglier or more beautiful, more humorous or more somber, simpler or more complex. Just like the best of any art form it forces us to confront the depths of our secret selves. It sometimes said that picture books for the younger child require simpler composition than those for older readers. But real artistry means that complexity may be appropriate for any age, as it is for example, in Anno's Journey by Mitsumasa Anno or in any of Errol LeCain's or Susan Jeffer's picture.

In any composite of verbal and pictorial storytelling, the people see the picture's contents all at once, but it is exposed the verbal story a little at time in linear progression. Joseph Schwarz commented that assemble and associate the elements of the verbal story, keeping them in mind as we simultaneously acquire new information. Associates in a partnership is one term used to describe the relationship of the writer and illustrator of a picture book, Lukens (2003: 40).

Some picture books are wordless and some use picture and written text to contribute to the narrative than picture book can provide factual information and accurate illustration. Nodelman in Lukens (2003: 41) who has written extensively about picture book, believes that children who come to understand their convention and structures can enjoy the picture books with great vitality and conscious appreciation, discovering how pictures and words together.

Lisa Rojany Buccieri and Peter Economy (2002 :19) divided and classified the kinds of children's books by the age groups for readers of various formats as set out such as board books for newborn to age 3, picture books for ages 3–8, coloring and activity (c&a) books for ages 3–8, novelty books for ages 3 and up depending on content, early, leveled readers for ages 5–9, first chapter books for ages 6–9 or 7–10, middle-grade books for ages 8–12 and young adult (ya) novels for ages 12 and up or 14 and up.

Based on the classification above, the special reader in this research is children (8th-10th years old). Both Children and adults actually the same reader in literary works, but have a different way to express what their own idea or give meaning to something. Dietsch (2006:304) stated that meaning is not limited to the text of a work; the reader plays an active role. Hughes (2007) said that reading is a complex interaction between the text, the reader and the purposes of reading, which are shaped by the reader's prior knowledge and experience, the reader's knowledge about reading and writing language and the reader's language community which is culturally and socially situated.

In this research, the writer will use a picture book of Sofia the First "Once upon a Princess" which is an adopted result from the movie which has the same title as "Once Upon a Princess" which launched in 2012. In this research the writer will use the second edition of the picture book which established in 2014.

F. Kinds of Picture book

There are seven kinds of picture book based on Junaid (2014:33);

1. Baby Books

These books usually feature more interactive elements like cloth, pop up and plastic. As they are for babies words are less important and it's more about the way they are played with or read by adults. They often feature a lot of actions and noises the adult does as reading them. These books have simple design, bright color or unique illustrations and its concentrate about animals, plants, objects, or daily activities.

2. Interactive Books

These books are more about an entertaining story. They feature both words and pictures and average around 1000 words. They are usually paper pages with either a hard cover or paperback. The age group for these between 4-6 and these children are starting to read the stories themselves so the words used are important. Junaid mentioned (2014:33) these books make children participate verbally and physically. When the children read these books, these books ask some questions, demand them to make a move, require them to manipulate to instruction in the book, and request then to find an object in the illustration. The example is Does an Elephant Fit in Your Hand by Laura Purdi Salas.

3. Toy Books

Toy books are made from paper constructed, cut, and folded to provide see through, moveable, changeable, or three dimensional illustration. These books for all ages group, Junaid (2014:34).

4. Concept Books

These books start to introduce basic learning of alphabet, numbers, colors, fruits, animals, buildings, shapes, building and other object. They have more of an emphasis on words than the toy books however images are still the main attention as this audience cannot read yet. They average around 300 words and often are board books with interactive elements. These books age for ages 2-8.

Concept books introduce children to a theme such as the alphabet, counting, colors, fruits, or shapes. Some can be as simple as "A is for Apple." Others are more complex like the "Miss Kindergarten" series, where each sentence uses a letter of the alphabet to tell a Kindergarten story. Other example like "Planting a Rainbow" by Lois Ehlert.

5. Wordless Picture Books

Wordless picture books have no text. In these types of books, the stories are told completely by the pictures. Making up stories to go with the pictures is a perfect pre-literacy activity. Junaid assumed (2014:34) the words do not because picture can tell about the story. They present consistent tone. Children takes several benefits as they read picture book. Firstly, they can develop a concept of the narration in the story. Secondly, they develop their language usage. Thirdly they learn the way to open and to read the page of the book from front to back and from left to right.

Finally they begin to understand that they can make a story. These books for age: 2-12 years, the example book is The Snowman by Raymond Briggs.

6. Picture Storybooks

Picture story book is the most common type of picture book. It presents a good integration of text and pictures to tell the story. The text of the story is amplified by pictures. This book is commonly for children aged 4-7, but many best picture book can be enjoyed by children aged 8 or up. Picture storybooks are frequently found as the early reading books to introduce the reading skill at school. They have the strong story line portraying the aspects as family life, nature, realistic and fanciful animal and monster stories, tales of other times and place. The example is Alice's Adventures in wonderland by Lewis Carrol or the tale Timun Emas retold by Kak Yudi and illustrated by bang Odit, Junaid (2014:35)

7. Easy to read and Pattern Books

Easy Reader books, also known as Beginning Readers or Early Readers, use a limited vocabulary and are structured as chapter books. Text blocks are bigger and the included images function more as illustrations than as essential elements in the story. Some representative Easy Reader imprints are I Can Read, Ready to Read, and Easy-to-Read. This for age: 4-8 years and novice readers for the examples The Cat in the Hat by Dr. Seuss

These are the next step up from the previous books they have a higher word count up to 2000 words. They are written so the child can read them all by themselves. They have simple language and usually are told through action and dialog. They still feature illustrations on every page.

G. Literary Elements of Picture book

The excitement of a good picture book is the constant tension between the moments isolated by the pictures and the flow of words that join these moments together, Nodelaman in Lukens (2003:48). Acording to Lukens (2003: 49) In literary element of picture book there are eight literary elements :

1) Character

Every human being has its own character. It differentiates one person to another person. It acts as the identity of human beings. With the characters, they can live their life in social lives. Character is figure of story. A story created by through existences of character. Character can be used described by how character speaks, appears and acts in the story. Character is used to know how mentality or emotion of the person or how the person is distinguished from others. According to Abrams (1971: 20) character as the person in a dramatic story or narrative work, endowed with moral and dispositional qualities that are expressed in what they say and what they do. Kennedy in Koesnosoebroto (1988: 65) defined character as an imagined person who inhabits a story. Further Rahmawati (2011: 15) said that character is the persons in narrative work through imagination of author that confronted the events of the story and expressed in what they say in dialogue, and what they do in action.

2) Plot

Plot is an important element of literary work, because the plot tells the important event that occur in a story. The word plot is in fact a technical term to say about a series of tied together event in a story. Rene and Austin (1982:131) said that setting reffers to geographical of the story, time period, daily lifesyle of the characters and climate of the story. Perrine (1984: 41) defined a plot as the sequence of incidents or events of which a story is composed. While connoly (1955: 6) called it the arrangement of the details and incidents in astory. He said plot has a beginning, a middle, and an end.

3) Theme

A theme must represent the whole part of the story,because theme is a basic development of a whole story. Actually it is not easy to find out the theme in a novel. The reader has to read the novel and understand what the story tells about. Luken (2003:129), theme in literature is the idea that holds the story together, such as a comment about society, human nature, or human condition. A good literary work when the people or the reader can understand the story well from theme. According to Hamalin and Karl (1967 :323) a good author suggested his theme, or purposed the story, through character, atmosphere, setting, plot and style- thus theme is a kind of composite statement which requires the comprehension of numerous other elements.

4) Setting

Setting is the place, time and situation the story happened. The directors have to make some consideration of it because it also supports the succes of the story. Connoly (1954 :14) said setting is in a sense the time, place and concrete situation of the narrative, the web environments in which characters spin out their destinies. Then also Abrams described setting as the general locale and the historical time in which the action occurs in a narrative and dramatic work, while the setting of an episode or scene within a work is the particular physical lacation in which it takes place.

5) Point of view

Point of view is the view of author how to tell a story in a literary work. Connolly in Koesnosoebroto (1988:85) stated that point of view is the way an author chooses to tell his story, it can be a first person observer and a third person a limited range and unlimited range (the omniscient point of view).

Meanwhile Wilkerson in Koesnosoebroto (1988:88) recognized three kinds of point of view, they are first person, omniscient, and objective. The authors use point of view to tell his story controls how and what the reader sees, it determines the reader's angle of vision. Qalbiyullah (2009:10) explained that point of view is one important tool in telling a story since it determines how much the reader should know of what is happening in the story. Furthermore, point of view should be consistent with a story's purpose or meaning, the author wants the reader to react to the story.

6) Style

Style is a literary element. It describes the way the author uses words. There some items that should be considered in style such as the author's word choice, sentence structure, figurative language, and sentence arrangement. All of them works together to establish the readers' mood, the images of the story, and the meaning of the text. It also describes how the author describes the events, objects, and ideas of the story. (International Reading Association: 2003).

H. Synopsis

Once upon a time, in the kingdom of the Enchancia there lived a little girl named Sofia and her mother "Miranda". Even Miranda was a cobbler shop, their family were happy. When Sofia and her mother visited to the castle. They went to the castle to bring King Roland a new pair of shoes. The King and Miranda fell in love at the first sight when they took one shoes and looked each others. Then, the couple married and soon Sofia and her mother were off to the castle for a life the never could have imagined.

Miranda lovingly greeted the King's children, Princess Amber and Prince James. She gave them each a pin she had embroidered with their family crest. Then, King Roland placed a tiara on Sofia's head. While King Roland could see it was going to take a while for Sofia to get used to her new royal life. Therefore, King Roland gave a surprise to help her feel welcome. King Roland and Sofia were dancing for the first time at the time.

The next days, Sofia joined Amber and James for the riding coach to Royal Prep Academy. The head mistresses Flora, Fauna, and Merry weather-greeted her at the gates. In the school, she played with her friends but it made Princess Amber was jealous. Amber was wicked toward her step sister "Sofia". However Sofia wasn't angry but it made her sad.

Sofia focused on the dancing party, she met Cedric for help. Cedric was a Royal magician. He gave her some magic words to say when to waltz. Little did she know that the spell would put everyone to sleep and help Cedric steal the amulet. A little while later, everyone watched as King Roland Proudly escorted a beaming Sofia into the ballroom. The orchestra began to play. It was time for the first waltz. Sofia confidently spoke the magic words Cedric had given her "Somnibus Populi Cella". Everyone instantly feel asleep, including Cedric. She said "I must have said it wrong".

After that, Sofia sank to the floor and cried. Then, a single tear feel onto her amulet and made it glow. Suddenly a blue light appeared and transformed into Cinderella. Cinderella came to help Princess Sofia. And finally, Princess Sofia and King Roland began to waltz. Then Sofia asked him "why do they call you Rolland the second? The explained that his father had also been named Roland. So she guests that made her Sofia the first.

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHOD

A. Research Method

The research, the writer used a descriptive qualitative method. Bogdan and silken in Rahmat (2009 : 2-3) said that qualitative method is one of research which results descriptive data such as oral, written or behavior of someone observed. Descriptive method concerns on how to produce the descriptive data related to the topic. Descriptive qualitative methodologies include interviews, focus groups, content analysis, review of literature, observational studies, case studies, life stories, grounded theory studies, concept analysis, ethnographic studies, and phenomenological studies, (Fitzpatrick, 2012:123).

B. Subject of the Research

he main subjects in this research are children age (9- 12th). In the rate of the age, the children are categorized as the middle-reader books which are suitable with picture book. There are 15 children readers that analyzed by the writer. The researcher chose the respondents in Makassar and Gowa areas. However, the location was not determined specifically because there were some residence and place visited to get the appropriate respondents. location and place. They read a Sofia the First "Once Upon a Princess" picture book and they gave their responses. In order the researcher used the incidental sampling to get the data. Incidental sampling means that the sample is taken incidentally wherever and whenever the respondents based on criteria. According to (Mann, 1999:103) the selection and appropriate use of sampling methods that yield unbiased estimates of behavior are critical.

Table. Biodata of Respondents

C. Instrument of the Research

In this research, there are two kinds of intrument collected the data they are Questionnaire and interview. Therefore the writer interviewed the respondents by using a recorder and give them questionnaire sheets to be filled. It aims to find out description of the response of children to the picture book of Sofia the first, to get negative and positive response in Sofia the First "Once upon a Princess" picture book.

1.) Questionnaire

In this research the writer used closed-ended questions consists 12 items to find out the children's responses. It aims to get a series of statement from the responding by indicating whether one strongly agree (SA), agree (A), undecided (U), disagree (D), strongly disagree (SD).

Ridwan (2002:12) stated that Likert Scales is used to measure person's, attitude, opinion, and perception on the occurring event or the social phenomena.

2.) Interview

The second instrument that researcher used is interview which consists 6 questions to children as a sample of the respondent of the children's response to picture book Sofia the first. the researcher conducted by using tape recorder to take the data respondent.

D. Procedure of Collecting Data

In collecting the data, there were some steps of procedures of collecting data, they were:

1. The writer looked for the subject of the research based on writer's criteria and classified them in the research.

2. The writer introduced herself, explained the writer's purpose and asked for available time of the subject.

3. The writer explained the procedure of the research.

4. The writer gave more time to the respondents to read the picture book.

5. After reading the picture book, the writer retold about the content of the picture book.

6. The writer distributed a piece of paper (questioner) to the respondent to be answered.

7. The writer interviewed the object of the research. Then, the writer asked about their response either negative or positive response towards intrinsic elements of picture book Sofia the first.

8. While interviewing the writer allowed the respondents to take other data which contain picture, video, and record.

9. After collecting the data the writer made a transcript of the interview result and the questioner result.

10. Finally the writer classified the data into positive and negative responses.

E. Technique Data Analysis

In collecting data from questionnaire the writer analyzed by using Likert Scale. The items consist of 5 options, namely Strongly Agree (SA), Agree (A), Undecided (Un), Disagree (D), Strongly Disagree (SD). Each statement is scored 5 for SA, 4 for A, 3 for Un, 2 for D, 1 for SD. Likert Scale is used to measure a person's attitude, opinion, and perception on the occurring event or social phenomena, Ridwan (2012 :12). The questionnaire will have recapitulated by giving a numerical value to each answer as follows:

The table of Numerical Value for Each Statement

Items	SA	A	Un	D	SD
Positive Statements	5	4	3	2	1
Negative Statements	1	2	3	4	5

To the rate frequency and percentage of children's responses, the writer use criteria:

a. 8 to 10 is classified as strongly positive

b. 6 to 7 is classified as positive

c. 4 to 5 is classified as moderate

d. 2 to 3 is classified as negative

e. 0 to 1 is classified as strongly negative

(Adapted From Depdikbud in Junaid 2014:36)

The formula that used in analyzing the data is:

$$P = \frac{fq}{N} \ x \ 100\%$$

P = Percentage of the scale

Fq = Number of frequency

N = Total sample

Research variable	Indicator	No. Instrument
Children	Character	1,2
	Theme	3,4
	Plot	5,6
	Setting	7,8
	Point of view	9,10
	Style	11,12

Therefore, to get data through interview is by using record with some list questions of interview. The children's response by interview use to support the questionnaire about negative and positive perception toward intrinsic elements of Picture book Sofia the first.

CHAPTER IV

FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

A. FINDINGS

After conducting a research to children's response toward intrinsic elements of Sofia the first "once upon a Princess" using interview sheet and questionnaire list, the researcher found the responses of children about the picture book.

1. Data found from questionnaire list toward Sofia the First "Once Upon a Princess"

   a. Table 1. I am pleased to Princess Sofia because she is kind, charitable, and care with others.

No.	Response	Quality (x)	Frequency (FQ)	Percentage
1.	Strongly Agree	5	10	67%
2.	Agree	4	3	20%
3.	Undecided	3	2	13%
4.	Disagree	2	0	0
5.	Strongly Disagree	1	0	0
	Total		15	100%

The table above presented that from 15 students as respondents, 10 students (67%) very agree, 3 students (20%) agree, 2 students (13%) undecided, none students less agree and disagree. It showed that from 15 students 10 students very agree. It means that most of students like to Princess Sofia.

   b. Table 2. Sofia is a careless girl and not confident

No.	Response	Quality (x)	Frequency (FQ)	Percentage
1.	Strongly Agree	1	1	7%
2.	Agree	2	1	7%
3.	Undecided	3	0	0
4.	Disagree	4	5	33%
5.	Strongly Disagree	32	8	53%
	Total		15	100%

The table above demonstrated that from 15 students as respondents, 1 student (7%) very agree, 1 student (7%) agree, none student undecided, 5 students (33%) less agree, and 8 students (53%) do not agree. It can be seen that from 15 students 8 students said strongly disagree with the statement that Sofia is a careless girl and not confident. It means that most of students not agree that Sofia is a careless girl and not confident.

c. Table 3. The theme of Sofia the first in this book is not interesting

No.	Response	Quality (x)	Frequency (FQ)	Percentage
1.	Strongly Agree	1	0	0
2.	Agree	2	3	20%
3.	Undecided	3	1	7%
4.	Disagree	4	7	47%
5.	Strongly Disagree	5	4	27%
	Total		15	100%

The table above showed that from 15 students as respondents, none students very agree, 3 students (20%) agree, 1 student (7%) undecided, 7 students (47%) less agree, and 4 students (27%) do not agree. The statement above showed that most of students from 15 students stated disagree. It means that they disagree with the statement that the theme is not interesting.

d. Table 4. Princess Sofia or Sofia the First is the suitable for this story

No.	Response	Quality (x)	Frequency (FQ)	Percentage
1.	Strongly Agree	5	9	60%
2.	Agree	4	2	13%
3.	Undecided	3	2	13%
4.	Disagree	2	2	13%
5.	Strongly Disagree	1	0	0
	Total		15	100%

The table above indicated that from 15 respondents as respondents, 9 students (60%) very agree, 2 students (13%) agree, 2 students (13%) undecided, 2 students (13%) less agree and none students do not agree. Based on the table above indicated that from 15 students 9 students answered very agree. It means that most of students very agree that Princess Sofia or Sofia the first is the suitable for this story.

e. Table 5. The sequence story of Princess Sofia is very nice and makes me have enthusiasm for reading the next book of Sofia the First

No.	Response	Quality (x)	Frequency (FQ)	Percentage
1.	Strongly Agree	5	5	33%
2.	Agree	4	5	33%
3.	Undecided	3	4	27%
4.	Disagree	2	1	7%
5.	Strongly Disagree	1	0	0
	Total		15	100%

The table above showed that from 15 students as respondents, 5 students (33%) very agree, 5 students (33%) agree, 4 students (27%) undecided, 1 student (7%) less agree and none students do not agree. The statement above showed that positive statement (very agree and agree statement) dominate the other statement where from 15 respondents 5 respondents answered very agree and 5 respondents said agree. It means that most of them agree with the statement that the sequence story of Princess Sofia is very nice and makes them have enthusiasm for reading the next book of Sofia the First.

f. Table 6. After reading this book, I felt the story was flat and not interesting

No.	Response	Quality (x)	Frequency (FQ)	Percentage
1.	Strongly Agree	1	1	7%
2.	Agree	2	3	20%
3.	Undecided	3	1	7%
4.	Disagree	4	3	20%
5.	Strongly Disagree	5	7	47%
	Total		15	100%

The table above presented that from 15 students as respondents, 1 student (7%) very agree, 3 students (20%) agree, 1 student (7%) undecided, 3 students (20%) less agree, and 7 students (47%) do not agree. It can be seen that from the all answers the dominant answers were strongly disagree which 7 respondents from 15 respondents answered be like that. It means that most of students after reading this book, they felt the story were not flat and interesting enough.

g. Table 7. I am pleased to read picture book Sofia the First because I can see the beautiful places through the story

No.	Response	Quality (x)	Frequency (FQ)	Percentage
1.	Strongly Agree	5	8	53%
2.	Agree	4	5	33%
3.	Undecided	3	2	13%
4.	Disagree	2	0	0
5.	Strongly Disagree	1	0	0

			15	100%
	Total		15	100%

The table above can be seen that from 15 respondents as respondents, 8 respondents (53%) very agree, 5 students (33%), 2 students (13%) undecided, and none students less agree and does not agree. Based on the table above indicated that most of students pleased to read picture book Sofia the first. It showed from 15 students 8 students strongly agree with the statement.

h. Table 8. In my perspective, the pictures of place in the story of Sofia the First is unclear and the view is not attractive

No.	Response	Quality (x)	Frequency (FQ)	Percentage
1.	Strongly Agree	1	1	7%
2.	Agree	2	3	20%
3.	Undecided	3	2	13%
4.	Disagree	4	7	47%
5.	Strongly Disagree	5	2	13%
	Total		15	100%

The table above showed that from 15 respondents as respondents, 1 student (7%) very agree, 3 students (20%) agree, 2 students (20%) undecided, 7 students (47%) less agree and 2 students (13%) do not agree. It can be seen table above from 15 students 7 students answered disagree. It means that most of students disagree with the statement that the pictures of place in the story of Sofia the First is unclear and the view is not attractive.

i. Table 9. I like the story telling because it is easy to understand

No.	Response	Quality (x)	Frequency (FQ)	Percentage
1.	Strongly Agree	5	6	40%

2.	Agree	4	4	27%
3.	Undecided	3	1	7%
4.	Disagree	2	4	27%
5.	Strongly Disagree	1	0	0
	Total		15	100%

The table above showed from 15 students as respondents, 6 students (40%) very agree, 4 students (27%) agree, 1 student (7%), 4 students (27%) less agree and none students do not agree. It indicated that 6 students from 15 students said strongly agree that they like the story telling because it is easy to understand. It means that most of them very agree that the story telling is easy to understand.

j. Table 10. I dislike the way of the author's told the story of Princess Sofia

No.	Response	Quality (x)	Frequency (FQ)	Percentage
1.	Strongly Agree	1	0	0
2.	Agree	2	4	27%
3.	Undecided	3	1	7%
4.	Disagree	4	2	13%
5.	Strongly Disagree	5	8	53%
	Total		15	100%

The table above showed that from 15 students as respondents, none students very agree, 4 students (27%) agree, 1 student (7%) undecided, 2 students (13%) less agree, 8 students (53%) not disagree. It demonstrated that from 15 students 8 students answered strongly disagree. It means that most of them agree that they like the way of author's told the story of Princess Sofia.

k. Table 11. The use of the words to tell the story of Sofia the First is very beautiful and polite

No.	Response	Quality (x)	Frequency (FQ)	Percentage
1.	Strongly Agree	5	8	53%
2.	Agree	4	4	27%
3.	Undecided	3	3	20%
4.	Disagree	2	0	0
5.	Strongly Disagree	1	0	0
	Total		15	100%

The table above showed from 15 students as respondents, 8 students (53%) very agree, 4 students (27%) agree, 3 students undecided, and none students less agree and do not agree. It showed that most of students from 15 students very agree answered the use of the words to tell the story of Sofia the First is very beautiful and polite.

l. Table 12. I felt that the style and words in the story of Sofia the first are nothing special

No.	Response	Quality (x)	Frequency (FQ)	Percentage
1.	Strongly Agree	1	0	0
2.	Agree	2	3	20%
3.	Undecided	3	1	7%
4.	Disagree	4	8	53%
5.	Strongly Disagree	5	3	20%
	Total		15	100%

The table above showed that from 15 students as respondents, none students very agree, 3 students (20%), 1 student (7%) undecided, 8 students (53%) less agree and 3 students (20%) do not agree. It can be seen that from 15 students 8 students answered disagree. It means that they disagree that the style and words in the story of Sofia the first are nothing special.

2. Data found from interview toward Sofia the First "Once Upon a Princess"

a. Character

It is shown on the figure that there were thirteen respondents said that Sofia was a kind-hearted girl. She was polite, friendly, and helpful. Besides, she was forgiving and charitable. It could be seen when the writer asked to the first, fifth and sixth respondents about how the character Sofia in this story was, she said: Sofia was nice girl. She was friendly with the other friend and she helped her friends and the birds also. However, two respondents from the eighth and the fourteenth respondents assumed that Sofia was kind but careless. Actually she was nice but if she was doing something, she was always careless. It can be concluded that most of respondents by interviewing gave positive response toward the character of Sofia the First. It showed form the data above, thirteen respondents from fifteen respondents answered that Sofia was a kind-hearted girl. She was polite, friendly, and helpful. Besides, she was forgiving and charitable.

It was shown by some respondents such as the first and third respondents assumed that: the theme of picture book Sofia the first was good, interesting and suitable for this book. Then, one respondent by the seventh respondent said that I rather agreed with the theme of Sofia the First because the theme was not too attractive but it was good. Meanwhile, 3 respondents from the twelfth, fourteenth, and fifteenth respondents said that they agreed. They assumed that I agreed with the theme but had a less interest because it was not fun when I saw the theme of the book. It presented that most of respondents liked with the theme of Sofia the first. It could be seen by the way they gave the positive opinion toward it.

c. Plot

As presented on the table, ten respondents said that the plot story was easy to understand. Some of them such as the first and the thirteenth respondents said that the plot story was easy to understand because many pictures on the story and the story was not too long. Then, three respondents by the sixth, seventh and eleventh respondents answered that the plot was quite easy to understand "easy" to understand but little difficult to understand when there was some words that they did not know. Besides that, two respondents said that the plot story was easy to understand but it was not great. I understood with the story but the story was not great and it was flat. Therefore, the writer concluded that most of respondents gave positive responses toward the plot of Sofia the first.

d. Setting

It is presented on the figure that most of respondents stated a positive feedback about the setting. Ten respondents answered that the setting was nice, beautiful and interesting especially in the castle and in the school. Most of respondents liked the setting. The responses of the sixth and eighth respondents assumed that the setting in this story was very interesting especially in the school and in the castle because they wanted their school looked like in the story (there was a swing magic). Then, one respondent of the seventh respondents said that the places (setting) were not interesting and less obvious many pictures less clear like when Sofia in the school. While 4 respondents from the ninth, eleventh, fourteenth, and fifteenth respondents said that the setting was captivating but unclear "actually the story was interesting but the pictures were unclear such as when Cinderella appeared at the time and when Sofia ran with amber looking for mantra's book of Cedric. The respondents' responses about the setting presented were most of them liked with the setting. It could be seen by 10 respondents gave positive statements toward the setting of the picture book.

e. Point of view

Based on the table above, it is seen obviously that 10 respondents answered that the point of view of the third person used in this story was easy to understand. Many of respondents liked the point of view of Sofia's story because the author used first person and automatically they could understand quickly. Moreover, it could be seen when the eleventh and fourteenth respondents responded that the point of view in this story was easy to understand because the story directly mentioned the name of character then also the picture's person was shown on the book. Besides, one respondent by fourth respondent said that the use of point of view in the story was quite easy to understand. Then, four respondents from the first, eighth, ninth and tenth respondents answered that they did not like it because they preferred first person's point of view. They dislike the point of view liked this story because they preferred the point of view by using first person's point of view. Thus, most of children liked and stated positive comments with the point of view in this story which was the use of third person. Based on the responses, it could be concluded that most of them liked and agreed with the point of view in this story.

f. Style

Based on the table above, it is seen that twelve respondents answered the style was well-developed. Then, the words and the languages are attractive and easier to know and understand. It was showed by some of them like the fifth, seventh and eighth respondents said that the style was interesting and they understood easier and also they got the attractive words in the story. By two respondents from the eighth and thirteenth respondents stated that the style was flat and not entertaining. Then, only one respondent from tenth respondent assumed that the style was a bit interesting. It was shown that most of children had positive opinions about the style which 12 respondents gave positive response toward the style of picture book Sofia the first.

A. DISCUSSION

Jauss in Pradopo (2007:234) said that literary work always has a different meaning to different reader or a single text can be interpreted in different ways by different reader. It means that different meaning from different readers which every reader has various perceptions in every literary work. Based on the findings above, it showed that the children have different responses to the picture book of Sofia the first. The responses can be negative or positive. Positive response appears if someone is pleased, like, receive, agree, as well as give positive comments to an object (Soemanto: 1998:28). Meanwhile, negative response is a response that occurs when a person refuses, disagrees, dislikes, and gives a worst comment to an object (Lahey: 2007:365).

The aim of the questionnaire above is to know the percentage of the children's response toward the picture book of Sofia the first. The writer found the varieties data from the research. The writer concluded and classified the data based on the percentage of the data. Besides that the writer appeared the interview data for supporting the questionnaire data. The writer concluded both of the data as follows:

The first, the respondent's responses toward character to picture book Sofia the first after reading the picture book. From 15 respondents as the respondents, 10 respondents (67%) very agreed that they were pleased by Princess Sofia. Then, 7 respondents (47%) disagreed that Sofia was a careless girl and not confident. They disagreed with the statement. It means that they agreed that Sofia was not careless girl and was not confident girl. The data is supported by interviewing data that most of respondents answered that Sofia was a kind and nice person. She was polite, friendly, and always helped other people. She was forgiving and charitable. Therefore, only little person said Sofia was unkind girl, careless and unconfident girl. Therefore, the writer concluded that the children's responses toward the character were positive response.

Secondly is about children's responses to theme in the story. It is shown by their comments based on the data percentage. The data showed that from 15 respondents as respondents, 7 or (53%) respondents disagreed that the theme of Sofia the First in this story was not interesting. It means that they agreed that the theme of Sofia the First was interesting theme of this book. In addition, 9 respondents (60%) very agreed that Princess Sofia or Sofia the first was suitable for this story. Moreover, the data is supported by interview data that most of them responded that theme was interesting and suitable for this book. They answered that the theme was nice, interesting enough, and suitable for this book. It showed that the majority of respondents as respondents in this research gave positive response toward the theme of Sofia the First in the story.

Thirdly, based on the data percentage of the respondent's responses of the plot story the writer concluded that from 15 respondents 5 respondents (33%) strongly agreed and 5 (33%) agreed with the plot. It means that there are 10 respondents agreed that the sequence story was very nice and made them enthusiasm for reading the next book of Sofia the First. Then, 7 respondents (47%) strongly disagreed that the story was flat and not interesting. It presented that they agreed that after reading the story they felt the story was not flat and interesting enough. In addition, by interviewing the writer found the detail data about who were supporting the data above. Based on interview data, it showed that 10 respondents gave positive response toward plot story. They said that the plot was easy to understand. Therefore, positive response dominated the other response. It means that respondents' response toward plot in the story was positive.

Fourthly, the respondent's responses toward the setting of the Sofia the First's picture book demonstrated that 15 respondents as respondents, 8 respondents (53%) very agreed that they were pleased to read the picture book Sofia the first because they might see the beautiful place in the castle. Then, 7 or (47%) respondents disagreed with the statement of questionnaire that the pictures of place in the story were unclear and the view was not attractive. It means that they agreed that the pictures of place in the story were clear and attractive. Besides that, the data was supported by interviewing. Interview data showed that the dominant responses of respondents were positive response. Ten of them answered that the places and views (setting) were nice, beautiful, and interesting especially in the castle and in the school. It can be seen most of them gave good opinion about the style. So that is why the respondents' perception about setting was positive.

Fifthly, the respondents' responses toward point of view of the story. It can be seen by the data percentage showed from 15 respondents as respondents, 6 respondents (40%) strongly agreed and 4 respondents (27%) agreed. It means that there are 10 respondents agreed with the point of view in this story. They agreed and liked the story telling because it was easy to understand for them. Besides that, there were 8 respondent (53%) strongly disagreed. They did not agree that they dislike the way of the author told the story of Princess Sofia. It means that most of them agreed and liked the way of the author told the story of Princess Sofia. Moreover, it is supported by the interviewing data that most of them liked the point of view based on the response that they answered the point of view was easier to understand such as the use of the third person in mentioning the name of the subjects. Based on the both data above, it presented that respondents' responses about point of view were good assumption. Therefore, the respondents' responses toward point of view were positive.

Sixthly is about the respondents' responses toward style of the story of Sofia the first. From 15 respondents as respondents, 8 or (53%) of respondents very agreed about the use of the words to tell the story of Sofia the First was very beautiful and polite. Then, 8 respondents (53%) disagreed that the style and words in the story of Sofia the first were nothing special. It means that they agreed that the style and words in the story of Sofia the first were special. It is supported by interviewing data. They responded that the style was well-developed. The words and the languages were attractive and easier to know and understand. Most of them gave positive responses toward point of view in this story.

Moreover, by analyzing the percentage of the data, the writer found the means score of the children's response to picture book of Sofia the first. From the data analyzed above, it can be concluded that children's responses toward intrinsic elements to the picture book of Sofia the First showed positive response as the majority of response from the all respondents. The indicator of character got 8, 73%, it means that point of character indicated as strongly positive. Then, the response of theme, it perceived 8, 00% and it was classified as strongly positive. While in indicator of plot was 7, 73%. It was presented as positive item. The category of setting was showed by 7, 80% then it was classified as positive. Meanwhile, the indicator of point of view was 7, 73%. It was indicated as positive response. Then the response of style, it was presented in 8, 10% as indicated as strongly positive. Then also, the analyzed of interview from each item of intrinsic elements was indicated positive. They liked, agreed, pleased with the intrinsic elements of the story. So that is why, this picture book is given positive response by the children.

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

In this research the writer found positive and negative response from the children's response toward intrinsic elements of picture book of Sofia the First.
