CHAPTER 1

INTRODUCTION

A. Background

A text in the literary work has meaning when it has been read because between the readers and the literary text causes the process of interpretation of the text by the readers objectively which the result is the recognition of the meaning of the text. The first readers' appreciation of a literary work will be continued through the responses of the next reader (Jauss 1983:14).

Iser (1978:68) reveals that there is an individual relationship in the reading process. Text and readers meet through a situation whose realization depends on both. Rosenblatt (Stoodt, 1996:82) states, "the text does not tell them the exact meaning they must actively create the meaning. This is the basis for theory that a work of literature is created through the interaction (transaction) between reader and literature"

Based on the statement above, reader and literary works have a strong relationship with the readers because readers exactly are people who enjoy the literary work and have role in giving the meaning and appraising the literary work. The reader as a receiver messages in order to communicate with the text of the literary work. Then, the readers give response based on their interpretation about text of literary works.

Moreover, Beach and Marshall (1991:28) classifies seven strategies the readers respond to the literary work, they are describing, engaging, conceiving, explaining, interpreting, connecting, and judging. In these strategies, the readers describe what the literary works tell about and involve their feeling and imagination to conceive the story of literary works. After that based on their interpretation, the readers give respond to the literary work according to their judging.

One of the literary work that is interested to the object of research is Totto-chan novel because it contains many unique events about education value. This novel narrates about a hyperactive little girl named Totto-chan. She was expelled from the school when she was still 1st grade elementary school. Therefore, mother though to must find school for Totto-chan where people can accept and handle her girl's character. Finally, mother sent Totto-chan to elementary school Tomoe Gakuen. This school is so unique because it uses the train as a class for students. The system educational of Tomoegakuen elementary school is different with other conventional school. In This school, the children are free to do anything that they want, what subject they want to begin, it is not arrangement, but this system exactly is success to make children find their passion.

Although this novel tells about children and it can be read by anyone including children, but the researcher was more interested to choose the students 3rd grade of Madrasah Aliyah as the research subject. The researcher was interested to analyze the ways of students 3rd grade of madrasah Aliyah respond the Totto-chan novel by using Beach and Marshall's theory of response strategies, they are describing, engaging, conceiving, explaining, interpreting, connecting, and judging. Besides that, this research is important. Because it could be known the ways students' appreciation toward literary work.

Therefore, the researcher conducted a research under the title: Students' Response to" Totto-chan" Novel by Tetsuko Kuroyanagi (Action Research at 3rd Grade MA Madani Paopao).

B. Research Question

In relation to the statements above, the researcher formulated the research question as follows:

How do the 3rd grade students of Madrasah Aliyah Madani Pao-Pao give response to the Totto-chan novel?

C. Objective of the Research

Based on the research question above, the researcher concluded a research which aimed to find description of:

To know how the 3rd grade students give respond the Totto-chan novel.

D. Significance of the research

Theoretically, this research was expected to provide theoretical insights to the response theory with focus on aesthetic response of the reader to literary work, especially novel. Practically, through this research, the students can know, interpret, understand, and enjoy Totto-chan Novel. Therefore, the researcher hoped the students may give appreciation to read more a literary work, especially the novels.

E. Scope of the research

The researcher only focused on analyzing the students' response to the Tottochan novel. This research used Beach and Marshall's theory of reader response strategies (1991: 28), they are including engaging, describing, conceiving, explaining, connecting, interpreting and judging.

CHAPTER II

REVIEW OF RELATED LITERATURE

A. Previous Findings

Before doing this research, the researcher has some similar researches about the reader response. Those researches are:

Cintysa P. (2015) Comparative Study on Popular Literature: A Reader-Response Critic on Stephenie Meyer's Twilight and Kami Garcia and Margaret Stohl's Beautiful Creatures. The objective of this comparative study was analyzing of the comparison of the elements in Twilight and Beautiful Creatures which were related to the readers' interest when they read those novels. The results of the study showed that when the readers read gothic romance novel, they looked for something which is very different from other genres, such as the characters which possess the physical beauty, the places which are considered as beautiful and extraordinary and the love story that was full of sacrifices and romantic expressions. According to the whole finding, the readers more adore Twilight than Beautiful Creatures, because it succeeded in attracting the readers' attention and filling what they expected in gothic romance novel.

Boardman (2015), Aesthetic Responses to Literature and Their Effects on Student Engagement. The purpose of this mixed methods study was two-fold. First, she investigated the effects of poetic or music texts on student responses. She focused on the different types of responses the students had, how their responses changed, and the teacher's role. Second, she investigated how aesthetic responses influenced student motivation; she examined the impact this type of read aloud has on student motivation, particularly relating to engagement. Those findings indicated that the use of musical texts in reading aloud support students as they responded aesthetically to texts. The study showed that incorporating music and video that related to the musical texts being read aloud enhances the aesthetic responses of students. Teacher questions, reactions, modeling, and scaffolding provided students with different ways in which to engage with the text.

Lasari (2015), Analyzing Motivated Readers: A Reader-Response Study on A. Fuadi's The Land of Five Towers. This research applied reader-response theory, specifically transactional reader-response and theory of motivation to find out the number of motivated and unmotivated readers and what are the motivations gained after reading The Land of Five Towers. The study showed that all of the respondents or 100% are motivated and 0% is unmotivated after reading The Land of Five Towers. The motivations are gained by the readers who were classified into 7 (seven) categories. Those categories were motivation to study abroad and get better education, motivation to improve and learn deeper one's passion, motivation to make parents proud, motivation to work harder than before, motivation to be successful in career or work, and motivation to maintain a good and long-last friendship. Some motivational parts in this novel are A- Half Hearted Decision, Hundreds of Thousands of Handshakes, Mice

Meeting, Man JaddaWajada, Five Countries Four Continents, Fellowship of The Manara, Tyson's First Attack, Inner War, and Trafalgar Square.

The similarity between those researches and this research is the discussion about reader response. The reader response is the object of the researches, but has different cases. While the differences of first research, it focuses on A Reader-Response Critic on Stephenie Meyer apostrophes Twilight and Kami Garcia and Margaret Stohl apostrophes Beautiful Creatures. The second the research is about Aesthetic Responses to Literature and Their Effects on Student Engagement. The third research talked about Analyzing Motivated Readers: A Reader-Response Study on A. Fuadi's The Land of Five Towers. Whereas, the researcher is going to research about the Students Response to Totto-Chan Novel.

B. Pertinent Ideas

1. Reader response theory

Reader response theory is about how readers give a meaning toward literary work as their reaction and response to the text. Literary works basically always get a response from the readers. Response is utterances of reader or how the literary work is received according to the experiences. Reception theory can be said that analysis about texts which have as a starting point to the reader.

In the reader response theory, Jauss in Bressler (2003:66) proposes that when interpreting a given text, its social components and historical background must be taken into account; therefore, readers from different time periods can have valid, yet different interpretations of the same text.

Iser states that to analyze a text, one must take into account the reactions to it; therefore, the reader becomes as important as the text, and the text must be concretized into the reader's consciousness. Parting from this, Iser proposes two types of literary works: artistic and aesthetic. The former would be the original creation of the author, and the latter would be the realization process produced by the reader after reading the artistic creation. Hence, what Iser denominates literary work is the point where the text and the realization of the reader meet:

“The convergence of text and reader brings the literary work into experience, and this convergence can never be pinpointed precisely, but must always remain virtual, as it is not to be identified either with the reality of the text or with the individual disposition of the reader.” (Iser, 1978: 275)

This personal and individual—or for Iser, virtual—connection between reader and text is dynamic because the text presents the reader with an array of perspectives and patterns that the reader must use and relate to, elements that have to be somewhat unknown to him or her, for reading to be entertaining. The reader's imagination must be attracted and engaged for the realization process to become one that is active and creative, serving the personal purpose of the reader. In a novel, for instance, an insignificant detail for one reader can be the delight for another, yet this reaction is as varied because readers have different tastes and interests, but the point is that there is always some element—trivial or capital—that lures readers into dynamic reading. Iser (1978:277) states that “the literary text needs the reader's imagination, which gives shape to the interaction of correlatives foreshadowed in structure by the sequence of the sentences.” Although the imagination of a reader can run as fast and as far as the reader lets it, the text’s correlatives would only permit a reasonable amount of expectation for the reader, because if imagination and expectation ran wild, a text could never fulfill them.

Based on the statements above, reader response approach refers to how a literary work reaction with the readers, concretizing the results of the reading by used imagine ability toward a literary work and the readers will be confront the impression in the commentary form to a literary work.

2. Reader’s response strategy

In the reader response, there is an interaction between the structure of the text and the reader’s response. It evokes a situation where individual reader give meaning to the text. This is because each reader will interact with the text differently, as the text may have more than one vivid interpretation. Beach and Marshall (1991:28) introduce the response strategies into seven phases:

a. Engaging

The readers always involve their emotion in the literary works. They imagine what happening with characters in the story. Therefore, the literature and the art exist in the curriculum as a means for students to learn the way of expressing their emotions, their thoughts and their imaginations.

The readers who are engaging or applying aesthetic reading is like entering and becoming one with the text, in order for understanding the characters' actions. Therefore, the readers emotionally can give a response toward literary works.

b. Describing

In this strategy, the readers will be retelling the story of literary works. When reading literary text, every reader will find the different things in same literary works. The readers will describe the things or the parts in the literary work that are gaining their attention, at least in three sentences. Furthermore, the readers also will give the details about elements in literary works structurally, such as the characters, background, setting and even the shape of slot in story.

c. Conceiving

The readers understand the characters, setting, and language use of the literary works. In this activity, the students understand the literary works to applying their knowledge about social action in the society and cultural background. Therefore, understanding toward the characters of the story cannot be separated with social behavior and when the students read the story of the literary works with the different tradition and cultural background, they can understand the characters' actions according to their own culture.

d. Explaining

Students try to explain the best possible why the character of the story do a certainly action.

e. Connecting

Students connected their experiences to what happening to the characters of the story.

f. Interpreting

The students use reaction, conception, and connection to articulate theme. Interpreting activity involves determination symbol meaning or specific event of the literary work story. For making an interpretation is commonly about what is uttered by the text.

g. Judging

The students give their argument about the text, author and even plot of literary works as their judging.

3. Synopsis of Totto-chan Novel

This novel tells about a six-year-old named Totto-chan, a first-grade student of elementary school, who wants to know about everything around her and every new thing she found. Her big curiosity makes her very active, so that she is labeled naughty and strange. She likes to stand up in front of a window during lesson, and give comments on everything she saw. The teacher feels that Totto –Chan disrupted all the teaching process, so the teacher tells the entire problem to Totto – Chan’s mother and advised, to make the girl to another school. Therefore, her mother decides to register Totto – Chan to new school (Tomoe Gakugen) a school where the students study in a railway – coach classroom with its wide windows. Because of that they will enjoy the outside world while studying. Totto –Chan’s mother realizes that allows its students to express their feelings, opinions or ideas, which are only having at Tomoe Gakugen. In addition, one thing that makes this school special is its classroom; Tomoe Gakugen uses a railway coach as a classroom, which is wide enough for eight to ten students. The classes are decorated and the chairs are arranged just like the classroom of public school in common. This school not only teaches math, science, arts, physics, biology, gardening and so on, but also how to speak and act and think positively and to be responsible for everything they have done. This reflects the Tomoe School’ black and white symbol i.e.: a circle consisting of two Tomoe (comma), which describes the headmaster ideas for his students. His ideas are the harmony and balance body and mind which are united to form a perfect circle equally developed.

The book describes the times that Totto –Chan had, the friends she makes, the lessons she learns. All of these are presented to the reader through the eyes of the child. Thus, the readers see how the common lessons are transformed into a beautiful exciting place full of joy and enthusiasm. The reader also knows in their role as an adult, how Mr. Kobayashi introduces new activities to interest the pupils. One sees in Mr. Kobayashi a man who understood children and struggles to develop their qualities of mind, body and heart. In the school, the children live happy lives, unaware of the things going on in the world. The World War 2 started, yet there is no sign of it in the school until one day, the school is bombed and never rebuilt. Thus, end Totto-Chan's years as a pupil at Tomoe Gakuen.

4. Biography of Tetsuko kuroyanagi

Kuroyanagi was born in Nogisaka, Tokyo, in 1933. Her father was a violinist and a concertmaster.<sup>[2]</sup> Her nickname as a child was Totto-chan, according to her 1981 autobiographical memoir.<sup>[2]</sup> Kuroyanagi went to Tomoe Elementary School (Tomoe Gakuen) when she was young. After that, she studied at the Tokyo College of Music, majoring in opera, as she intended to become an opera singer.

After graduation, however, she was drawn to acting and the television entertainment industry by her joining Tokyo Hosō Gekidan and training at the Mary Tarcai Studio in New York. Subsequently, she became the first Japanese actress who was contracted to Japan Broadcasting Corporation (NHK).

After voicing Lady Penelope in the Thunderbirds TV series, Kuroyanagi first became well known in 1975 when she established her afternoon television program "Tetsuko's Room" (Tetsuko no Heya), which was the first talk show on Japanese television. The show was broadcast by the private television channel Television Asahi, and featured Kuroyanagi's discussions with celebrities from various fields, including television, sport and politics. Tetsuko's Room was very successful, and Kuroyanagi started to be referred to as a "phenomenon" in Japan, in contradiction to the image of "servile" and "wifely" women on Japanese television". Statistics show that, by the early 1990s, Kuroyanagi had interviewed over two thousand Japanese and foreign guests. It is acknowledged that her warmth as an interviewer and skilled art of talking is a factor that made the TV program live long.<sup>[1][5]</sup> She is also familiar with the Japanese audience with her regular appearance on the television quiz show "World Mysteries".

1981 marked a turning point in her career, as Kuroyanagi published her children book Totto-Chan: The Little Girl at the Window, in which Kuroyanagi wrote about the values of the unconventional education that she received at Tomoe Gakuen elementary school during World War II, and her teacher Sosaku Kobayashi. The book is considered her childhood memoir, and upon release, it became the bestselling book in Japanese history.<sup>[9]</sup> The book was first translated to English in 1984 by Dorothy Britton, and it was published in more than 30 countries.

Kuroyanagi is known internationally for her charitable and fund raising works.<sup>[5]</sup> She founded the Totto Foundation, named for the eponymous and autobiographical protagonist of her book Totto-chan, the Little Girl at the Window.<sup>[2][3]</sup> The Foundation professionally trains deaf actors, implementing Kuroyanagi's vision of bringing theater to the deaf.

In 1984, in recognition of her charitable works, Kuroyanagi was appointed to be a Goodwill Ambassador for UNICEF, being the first person from Asia to hold this position.<sup>[3]</sup> During the late 1980s and the 1990s, she visited many developing countries in Asia and Africa for charitable works and goodwill missions, helping children who had suffered from disasters and war as well as raising international awareness of the situations of children in poor countries.<sup>[1][2][11]</sup> Her visit to Angola in 1989 was the first recorded VIP visit from Japan to this country, and marked a milestone for the diplomatic relation between Japan and Angola.<sup>[12]</sup> Kuroyanagi has raised more than $20 million for the UNICEF programmes that she has been involved in, through television fund-raising campaigns.<sup>[13]</sup> She also used the royalties from her bestselling book, Totto-chan, to contribute to UNICEF.<sup>[5][13]</sup> Kuroyanagi also participated in the international UNICEF 'Say Yes for Children' campaign, other celebrities.

In 1997, Kuroyanagi published the book "Totto-chan's Children", which was based on her experience working for as a UNICEF Goodwill Ambassador from 1984 to 1996. Kuroyanagi is a director of the Japanese branch of the World Wildlife Fund. Kuroyanagi has twice brought America's National Theater of the Deaf to Japan, acting with them in sign language.

For her involvement in media and television entertainment, Kuroyanagi won the Japanese Cultural Broadcasting Award, which is the highest television honour in Japan. Since then, she has been voted 14 times as Japan's favourite television personality, for the show Tetsuko's Room.

In 2000, Kuroyanagi became the first recipient of the Global Leadership for Children Award, which was established by UNICEF in the 10th anniversary of the 1990 World Summit for Children.<sup>[3]</sup> In May 2003, Kuroyanagi received Order of the Sacred Treasure in recognition of her two decades of service for the world's children

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

A. Research Method

The researcher used qualitative method to analyze the students' response to Totto-chan novel. Burns and Grove (2003:19) describe a qualitative approach as “a systematic subjective approach used to describe life experiences and situations to give them meaning”. Moreover, Holloway and Wheeler (2002:30) refer to qualitative research as “form of social enquiry that focuses on the way people interpret and make sense of their experience and the world in which they live”. Researcher used the qualitative approach to explore the behavior, perspective, experience and feeling of people and to emphasize the understanding of these elements.

B. Subject of Research

The subjects of this research were the 3rd grade students of Madrasah Aliyah MADANI Pao-Pao UIN Alauddin Makassar. Moreover, from 33 students in one class, the researcher chose to analyze 10 students who appreciated to read and give respond the Totto-chan novel.

C. Instrument of The Research

The researcher used interview sheet to answer research question. According Scott in Khanka (2013:18) states that an interview is a purposeful exchange of ideas, the answering of questions and communication between two or more persons. The list of the question of interview sheet was taken based on Beach and Marshall theory (1991:28) as follows:

1. What do you think of the character of the story?
2. Do you like the setting? Where and why?
3. What event in the story do you think is very important? Why?
4. Can you feel what is felt by the character? And imagine what happens?
5. Would you do the same thing if you were the character? Explain it.
6. Why is the character forbidden to do something?
7. A character is extremely hated by someone but he/she keeps patient and obeys. What do you think of the character's action?
8. Do you agree or disagree of the bad action done by anyone to the character? Why?
9. In your point of view, what does the story talk about?
10. Do you have the same experience with the character? Your brother?
Parents? Neighbor? Friend?
11. Have you ever read book or watched film which is similar to the story read? Tell the story and connect it.
12. Can you connect this story to social life? Culture? Religion? How do you connect it?
13. Is the story interesting and valuable? What values do you get from reading the story?

D. Procedures of Collecting Data

In this research the procedure of data collection is interview.

1. First, the researcher chose 10 students from one class who appreciated to read the Totto-chan novel.
2. Second, the researcher gave times to the students to read the Totto-chan novel.
3. Third, after students read the Totto-chan novel, the researcher interviewed the students one by one to get the data response toward the Totto-chan Novel.
4. After that, the researcher analyzed the students' response by using Reader response strategy (Beach and Marshall, 1991:28).

E. Technique of Data Analysis

The researcher used Beach and Marshall's theory of reader response strategies (1991:28) After the collecting data the researchers will hear recordings of responses from various students to be classified into Beach and Marshall's Theory response strategies that are, engaging, describing, conceiving, explaining, connecting, interpreting and judging.

After analyzing the data, the researcher found that every student gave response differently toward the Totto-chan novel and their response are categorized based on Beach and Marshall's theory of response strategies that would be explained below.

Student.1

“Totto-chan sendirilah yang terkesan bagi saya. Karena saya sangat suka dengan karakternya yang memiliki rasa ingin tahu yang besar. Di tambah lagi dengan sifatnya yang polos, hanya sayang orang-orang yang tidak tahu mengenai Totto-chan dan menganggapnya sebagai anak yang susah diatur.”

Peristiwa paling penting dalam novel ini saat totto-chan harus dikeluarkan. Padahal si tottochan sendiri adalah seorang anak yang diam-diam genius.”

Totto-chan herself impressed for me, Because I really like the character who has great curiosity. In addition to its plain, its only unfortunate that people who do not know about Totto-chan and assume her as an uncontrollable child. The most important event in this novel when Totto-Chan must be turned out. Whereas Totto-chan herself is a child who secretly a genius.” (Describing)

“Kalau saya membaca novel, saya ikut mengimajinasikan sehingga turut merasakan apa yang dirasakan oleh Totto-chan Mungkin beberapa perilaku Totto-chan saya suka. Tetapi selain itu tidak.”

When I read a novel, I share imagination so as to feel what Totto-chan feels. Maybe I like some of Totto-chan’s behaviours. But not for the other. (Engaging)

"I remember Tomoe-Gakuen school principal said that" disrespectful mean to embarrass yourself, that every time he saw the garbage they have to throw it into the trash, and that they should not do anything that makes people annoyed or disturbed ". (Conceiving)

Saya tidak setuju dengan tindakan guru Totto-chan di sekolah pertamanya karena dia masih kecil dan setiap anak memiliki metode belajar yang berbeda. (Explaining).

I do not agree with the teacher's behavior Totto-chan in her first school since she was a child, and each child has some different learning methods. (Explaining).

Novel ini menceritakan mengenai anak-anak yang sering dianggap remeh dan dikatakan anak ini bodoh. Karena metode belajarnya yang berbeda, seperti Totto-chan sehingga memberikan inspirasi atau motivasi dan saya merekomendasikan kepada guru untuk membacanya, supaya mereka tahu bahwa setiap anak memiliki metode belajar yang berbeda.”

This novel tells about child who is underestimated and judged as stupid child because of his different learning methods, such as Totto-chan is so inspired or motivated. Furthermore, I recommend to the teacher to read this novel, so they can know that every child has different learning methods. (Interpreting)

“Cerita ini mirip dengan kisah Thomas Alfa Edison mengapa saya katakan demikian. Karena Thomas juga dianggap seorang anak yang aneh karena waktu kecil dia pernah mengerami sebuah telur dan bertanya “mengapa telur jika dierami oleh induknya bisa menetas apakah jika saya mengeraminya juga telur itu juga akan menetas”

This novel has the same thing with Thomas Alfa Edison’s story. Why I say like that because Thomas was also considered as a strange child and when he was still child he incubated an egg and asked “why if the egg is hatched by its mother can hatch. Whether, if I hatch it too, will the egg hatch too?” (Connecting)

“Menurut saya buku ini menarik Karena di dalam buku ini tokohnya seorang anak kecil yang baru kelas 1 SD, selain itu buku ini memiliki banyak pesan moral salah satunya jangan melihat orang dalam satu sudut pandang saja. “

I think, this novel is interesting because the main character in this novel is a girl who is still 1st grade in elementary school. Besides that, this novel has many moral messages, one of them is don’t judge someone by only one point of view. (Judging)

Student.2

“Totto-chan merupakan tokoh cerita yang bertingkah laku sangat hiperaktif dan dia dapat melakukan segala hal yang diinginkannya. Di Tomoegakuen, ya saya menyukai settingnya ketika di Tomoegakuen karena totoo-chan memiliki guru dan kepala sekolahnya yang bijak pengertian.”

Totto-chan is a story character who behaves very hyperactive and she can do everything that she wants. In Tomoegakuen, yes, I liked the place setting in Tomoegakuen because Totto-chan has a teacher and his wise school principal.” (Describing)

“ya, saya bisa merasakan tokoh ibu yang sabar ketika anaknya dikeluarkan dari sekolah. Ya, saya insyaAllah bisa meniru sikap kepala sekolah dan ibu yang sangat sabar dan menghargai apa yang dia lakukan.”

Yes, I can feel the patient mother figure when the child is expelled from school. Yes, InsyaAllah I can imitate the attitude of the principal and the mother who is very patient and appreciates what she does. (Engaging)

Kepala sekolah membiarkan murid-muridnya melakukan semua yang mereka sukai karena si kepala sekolah tau menjadi seorang murid yang hiperaktif itu menyenangkan. (Conceiving).

The principal let his students do everything they like because the principal knows that being a hyperactive student is fun. (Conceiving).

Telling about different learning processes schools with other.” (Interpreting)

Tidak, karena waktu masa-masa SD saya kebanyakan main. Tidak pernah mengalami apa yang dirasakan oleh Totto-chan dan saya baru pertama kali membaca novel bertema seperti novel ini. (Connecting).

No, because the time period most of my elementary school play. Never experienced what is perceived by Totto-chan and I first read the novel themed like this novel. (Connecting).

Yes, the book is very interesting to me. Totto-chan because a child who is hyperactive and have behavioral much. (Judging).

“Ya, buku ini sangat menarik perhatian saya. Karena totto-chan seorang anak yang hiperaktif dan memiliki tingkah laku yang banyak.” (Judging) di novel ini ialah saat totto-chan mulai bersekolah di tomoegakuen. Peristiwa yang penting menurut saya, pada saat totto-chan sering berdiri dibalik jendela dan memanggil pemain musik jalanan Novel ini menceritakan seorang anak yaitu Totto-chan tokoh utamanya, ia memiliki imajinasi yang tinggi.”

Student.3

“Totto-chan adalah seorang anak yang baik dan juga anak yang periang, semangat, dan memiliki rasa ingin tahu yang tinggi. Seperti pada saat ia di kelas, ia sangat semangat dalam hal belajar, dan anak ini memiliki imajinasi yang tinggi dibanding anak-anak seusianya yang lain. Setting yang saya sukai

Totto-chan is a good girl and also a cheerful, uplifting, and curiosity girl. Like when she was in the classroom, she was very passionate about learning, and this child had a high-level imagination than other children of her age. Setting that I like in this novel is when Totto-chan starts school in tomoegakuen. The important event in my opinion, when totto-chan often stood behind the window and called the Novel street music player to tell a child that is Totto-chan the main character, she has a high imagination. (Describing)

“Saya merasakan kesabaran ibu Totto-chan menghadapi anaknya yang cukup besar ingin tahunya. Sepertinya saya akan melakukan sesuatu yang berbeda dari Totto-chan. Tidak serta mengikuti apa yang dilakukan tokoh dalam cerita ini.”

I feel the patience of Totto-chan’s mother facing her daughter who is so curious to know anything. It looks like I will do something different from Totto-chan. And do not follow what the characters do in this story.” (Engaging)

*Kita sebagai manusia jangan menganggap seseorang dari sebelah saja, tetapi pahami dan mencoba untuk mengerti apa maksud dari yang ia perbuat. (Conceiving).

We as human beings do not think of a person from the side only, but understand and try to understand what the purpose of what he did. (Conceiving).

Saya tidak setuju karena Totto-chan memiliki rasa ingin tahu yang sangat tinggi makanya dia berperilaku seperti itu. Gurunya pun belum tau bagaimana Totto-chan yang sbenarnya, gurunya hanya tau kalau semua anak kecil itu sama, tetapi Totto-chan memiliki karakter yang berbeda. (Explaining).

Disagree because Totto-chan had curiosity is very high so she behaves like that. His teacher did not know how true Totto-chan, his teacher only knows that all the children are the same, but Totto-chan has a different character. (Explaining).

: Novel ini menceritakan pembelajaran/Pendidikan. (Interpreting).

This novel tells about learning / Education. (Interpreting).

“iya saya pernah. Tapi saya lupa judul filmnya.

Yes, I ever. But I forgot about the title. (Connecting)

“Ya menarik, Karenakoh utamanya (Totto-chan) memiliki rasa ingin tahu yang begitu tinggi, memiliki imajinasi diluar fikiran, sehingga gurunya menganggapnya aneh. Karena ia belum mengetahui totto-chan yang sebenarnya.”

Yes interesting, because the main character (Totto-chan) has such a high curiosity, has imagination beyond the mind, so that his teacher thinks it is strange. Because he doesn't know the actual Totto-chan yet. (Judging)

Student.4

“Totto-chan adalah seorang anak kecil yang penuh semangat masuk sekolah dasar namun, di sekolah pertama si Totto-chan dikeluarkan karena sikapnya yang kadang aneh. Yang saya sukai pada saat dia sekolah di tomoegakuen. Pada saat Totto-chan bercerita sangat lama dengan kepala sekolah tomoegakuen dan dia menghargai itu.”

Totto-chan is a small girl who enthusiastically enters elementary school but, in Totto-chan's first school was expelled for her sometimes-bizarre behavior. What I like when she goes to school in Tomoegakuen. Events that I like when Totto-chan tells a very long story with the headmaster of Tomoegakuen school and he appreciated that." (Describing)

“Ada beberapa bahasanya yang seakan kita ikut dalam cerita itu. Misalnya, pada saat Totto-chan bercerita dengan kepala sekolahnya. Disitu tertulis bahwa Totto-chan ini bercerita sangat lama, terus kepala sekolahnya ini bertanya” cerita apalagi yang kau mau ceritakan” dan disitu saya membayangkan betapa sabarnya kepala sekolah ini mendengar cerita Totto-chan yang sangat lama. Melakukan hal yang sama: saya bisa meniru kepala sekolah. and do

(There are several languages that seem to be involved in the story. Such as, when Totto-chan tells anything to headmaster of Tomoegakuen school. In this novel, Totto-chan is so long speak anythings, but the headmaster asks “what else do you want to tell me” I'm imagine how impatient the headmaster to hear Totto-chan's story in a long time. (Engaging).

“Yah yang saya ingat dan pahami bahwa mereka tidak boleh mendorong orang yang lebih kecil atau lemah daripada mereka, bahwa bersikap tidak

sopan berarti mempermalukan diri sendiri. Itu yang saya pahami.
(Conceiving).

Well I remember and understand that they cannot encourage people who are smaller or weaker than they are, that disrespectful mean to embarrass yourself. That's what I understand. (Conceiving).

Kalau menurut saya, saya tidak setuju dengan gurunya. Dia hanya memandang Totto-chan hanya satu sudut pandang saja. Itu sangat tidak etis.
(Explaining).

If you ask me, I do not agree with the teacher. She just looked at Totto-chan only one point of view only. It is very unethical. (Explaining).

“Novel ini menceritakan tentang Pendidikan.”

This novel tells about education (Interpreting)

“Waktu SD disekolah saya dulu, seperti disekolah pertama Totto-chan kita disuruh belajar dan terus belajar. Disitu saya kadang merasa bosan. Pada saat saya sudah kelas tiga saya baru serius belajar. Ini baru pertama kali saya baca novel.

In my elementary school, such as Totto-chan’s first school, we were asked to study and study again. It made me sometimes feel boring. But when I was 3rd grade elementary school, I have been serious to study and this is the first time I read a Novel (Connecting)

“Novel ini sangat menarik untuk dibaca karena buku ini menceritakan kisah hidup yang nyata seperti masalah, seorang guru yang cuek terhadap muridnya, yang hanya memandangnya dengan satu sisi, seorang guru yang sangat mengerti keadaan muridnya dan orang tua yang selalu mendukung anaknya. Masalah ini adalah masalah yang benar-benar terjadi didalam kehidupan kita.”

This novel is interesting to be read because this novel tells a real-life story such as a problem about the teacher who ignores his students, who only look at her with one side, a teacher who is very understand his student and parents who always support their children. This is a problem that really happens in our lives.”

“Tokoh dalam cerita ini menarik, misalkan Totto-chan yang anaknya sangat periang dan memiliki rasa ingin tahu yang tinggi. Di tomoegakuen, sekolah baru Totto-chan. Dia merasa sangat bahagia. Dia menyukai sekolahnya dari gerbong kereta. Peristiwa pada saat Totto-chan dikeluarkan dari sekolahnya dan guru Totto-chan memanggil ibu Totto-chan. Karena Totto-chan dikeluarkan dari sekolah tersebut, dan ibu Totto-chan mencarikan sekolah baru untuknya dan kemudian menemukan sekolah tomoegakuen. “

The characters in this story are interesting, for example, Totto-chan is very cheerful and has a high curiosity. The events at which Totto-Chan was expelled from his school and the Totto-chan teacher called Totto-chan's mother. Saya tidak merasakan apa yang saya baca dalam novel ini dan mungkin saya tidak akan melakukan. (Engaging).

I do not feel what I read in this novel and maybe I will not do. (Engaging).

Saat kepala sekolah membiarkan murid-muridnya berenang telanjang, karena ia ingin mengajarkan kepada meeka bahwa semua tubuh itu indah. Dan ada orang tuanya tidak setuju dengan ide itu dan menyuruh anaknya tetap memakai baju renang. (Conceiving).

When the principal lets his students swim naked, for he wants to teach them that all bodies are beautiful. And there are parents do not agree with the idea and told his son still wear a swimsuit. (Conceiving).

Menurut saya tidak, karena Totto-chan bisa dianggap seorang anak kecil. Karena anak kecil itu kan belum dewasa jadi sebaiknya harus memberika toleransi kepada Totto-chan dan berdiskusi denga ibu Totto-chan bagaimana baiknya. (Explaining).

I do not think so, because Totto-chan can be considered a child. Since the little girl is immature so should be tolerating Totto-chan and discussing with Totto-chan's mother how good the solution is. (Explaining).

“Menceritakan suatu pendidikan”

Tells about education (Interpreting)

“Tokohnya menarik, misalkan Totto-chan. Agak sulit menggambarkan suatu sikap anak kecil kedalam suatu cerita, dan dalam cerita ini digambarkan beberapa anak kecil dalam suatu sekolah dimana disetiap kelas terdapat seorang anak yang memiliki sikap karakter yang berbeda. Jadi tokoh dalam cerita ini menarik. Pada saat Totto-chan dikeluarkan dari sekolah lamanya. Dan ibunya mencari sekolah baru, dan pada saat itu ibunya menemukan sekolah tomoegakuen dan Totto-chan diterima di sekolah itu “

The characters are interesting, for example, Totto-chan. It is rather difficult to describe a child's attitude into a story and in this story some young children in a school where each class has a child with different character attitudes. So the characters in this story are interesting. At the time Totto-chan was expelled from his old school. And her mother was looking for a new school, and by that time his mother found a tomoegakuen school and Totto-chan was accepted at the school " (Describing)

But such behavior as opening the lid of the desk drawer, it is not worth reprimanded until expelled from school. ## B. Discussion

This part, the researcher discussed the data analysis that had been found in the students' response. The researcher identified the students' response to Totto-chan Novel by using Beach and Marshall Theory (2001) that divided the response strategies into seven phases, they are; Describing, engaging, conceiving, explaining, interpreting, connecting, and judging.

In the seven phases of response strategies, the researcher found that every student give respond differently toward the Totto-chan novel as following explanation:

1. Describing

In this strategy the reader has described different stories or characters in the text of the story with their interest in the various characters in the story. Starting from the properties, behavior, place, until the events experienced by characters in the story.

Based on the explanation about describing above. The researcher found that every student found the different things about the character, the setting, and event in the Totto-chan Novel. First, the researcher began to explain about the students find the different things about the character; the student.1, student.2, student.3, student.4, student.5, student.8, student.9, and the student.10 described the Totto-chan character with the different things. student.1, student.3, student.4, student.10 described that Totto-chan has a high curiosity and vivacious girl. Whereas the student.2 described that Totto-chan is hyperactive girl and student.8 described that Totto-chan has a different character. The most different with other describing is student.9 since, only this student described Totto-chan is a strange child because always stand in front of the window to call singing beggar. However, different with student.6 and student.7, because these describing, the students more interested to described the Totto-chan's mother who has a patience character.

Second, the researcher began to explain about the students find the different things about the setting and event in the story Totto-chan novel. student.1, student.6, and student.8 interested in the event when Totto-chan was turned out from her first school. However, they have different reason such as student.6 interested in the event when Totto-chan was turned out from her first school because in this event, the Totto-chan's mother keep calm and be patient who she known that Totto-chan must be turned out from the school. Whereas, student.8 interested in the event when Totto-chan was turned out from her first school because of that Totto-chan was accepted in the Tomoe Gakuen school.

2. Engaging

In this strategy, some readers have included their feelings when reading the storyline, the character of the characters, and some of the events that occurred in the story / text they read and some of the students did not participate in the story they read. They just want to just read.

The readers always involve their emotion in the literary works. They imagine what happening with the characters in the story. Therefore, the readers emotionally can give a response toward literary works. Based on the explanation about engaging strategy, the researcher found that student.2, student.3, student.6, and student.7 involved their feeling in the Totto-chan's mother who patiently faced problem and Totto-chan's character. Whereas, student.1, student.8, and student.9, the students involved their feeling in all of event in the story of the Totto-chan novel because they state that they always imagine what they read. Moreover, student.4, the student involved her feeling when Totto-chan tell anythings to the headmaster in a long time and student.10, the student felt also when Totto-chan was turned out from th school. However, the student.5 did not involve feeling when she read the Totto-chan Novel.

3. Conceiving

This strategy makes the reader understand the meaning of an event or an act that is prohibited by the character in the story. Then understand the causal effect of the action and make it a life lesson.

In this strategy, the students understand the literary work to applying their knowledge about social action in the society. Therefore, understanding towards the characters of the story cannot be separated with social behavior, they can understand the characters' actions according to their own culture.

Based on the explanation about the conceiving strategy above, the students conceive the Totto-chan's actions according to their knowledge. the student.1, student.4, and student.9 stated that, "don't judge someone by the one side" (student.1), every child has a different character (student.4), and we must understand and appreciated to each other (student.9)." Whereas the student.8 conceive why the teacher forbid the Totto-chan stand in front of the window because lest when Totto-chan calling the music player on the road fear will fall and get hurt, and blame back school.

4. Explaining

In this case the reader has tried to explain an act of a character who is considered less favorable treatment of other characters in the story and take the conclusion whether that is done exemplary or otherwise.

Students try to explain the best possible why the character of the story do a certainly action. However, in this strategy, the researcher only found that there were two students give respond that explained why the character of the story do a certainly action. The student.1, Student.2, student.3, student.4, student.5, and student.6 explained about her disagreement about the teacher turned out from the school because as a teacher must have understood toward student. Whereas, the student.9 explained his criticism toward Totto-chan's behavior that he wouldn't not to be Totto-chan because every school have a same rule. Whereas, the student.8 explained his agreement about the teacher turned out Totto-chan from the school

5. Interpreting

In this strategy it is hoped that students will discover the symbolic meaning and summarize the whole contents of the novel. Then students are able to articulate the theme of the book or novel that they read. Based on the events they have gained in the novel.

The students use reaction, conception, and connection to articulate theme. Interpreting activity involves determination symbol meaning or specific event of the literary work story. In this strategy, the researcher found that students articulate theme of Totto-chan novel. Such as; the student.1, the student interprets that this novel told about a child who has a different way of learning. The word "dianggap bodoh" means that Totto-chan's attitude behaves differently or unnaturally. Like, opening the lid of a desk drawer hundreds of times and waiting for street musicians passing then told him to play music so that makes a noise in the classroom. The student.2 interpret about different learning process one school with another. Because, based on the method of learning between tomoegakuen schools and the first school Totto-chan indeed very different. The student 4, student.5, student.6 interpreted this novel told about Education. Because from the beginning of the story to the end of the text always discuss about something that concerns about education such as schools, teachers, and learning methods. The student.7 stated that The Totto-chan Novel tells about a touching life of Totto-chan. Because, if we look at the interpretation of this child. So, every text in Totto-chan's story tells of Totto-chan's touching life experience. The student.8 interpreted the Totto-chan novel telling about the method of learning abroad that is Japan. This student compared Indonesian and Japanese learning methods. In Indonesia applying k13 must learn all subjects. Meanwhile, in Japan students only focus on the lessons of interest. The student.9 interpreted the Totto-chan novel tells about a child who wants to continue her school without any pressure from his friend. Whereas, the student.10, the student interprets the novel Totto-chan tells about a child who has different skills and advantages.

6. Connecting

This strategy students are invited to remember an event that a student had experienced in real life or a novel they had read. Then connect the experience into the novel that they have read.

Students connect their experiences with what happening to the characters of the story. In this strategy, the researcher found that there were five students gave respond that connected the story of the Totto-chan novel with their experience, another book, and reality in the social life. the student.1 connected this novel with another novel that is Thomas Alfa Edison which is almost the same as the novel Totto-chan. The student.3, student.4, and student.8, the student connected the characters in this novel with their own experience. As like student 8, the student connected other characters in this novel with experience that also never disabled but able to face and finally recover. Whereas, in student.10 connected the characters in the Totto-chan novel with reality in the social life. However, the student.2, student.5, student.6, student.7, and the student.9 state that they never experience or see in the real life, and read other books like the Totto-chan story.

7. Judging

In this case, the reader will give the impression of interesting or not a literary work based on the content of stories and figures they have read. Students can then take life lessons and moral messages delivered in the novel and it becomes the value of the quality of a literary work itself.

The students give their argument about the text, author and even plot of literary works as their judging. In this strategy, there were nine the students give response that refers to the judging strategy. based on the student.1, student.2, student.3, student.4, student.5, student.7, student.8, student.9, and student.10. the researcher concluded that the students interested to read the Totto-chan Novel because this novel told about the child 1st grade of elementary school (student.1) that had a high curiosity and hyperactive (student.2 and student.3), this novel told about the reality life (student.4), there were many moral values in this novel such as; how the parents love their child (student.5), Totto-chan's mother has a patient character (student.7), the headmaster appreciated to hear the Totto-chan's story (student.8), and this novel is interesting and good to be read (student 9 and student.10).

Based on the data above, the researcher concludes that the students give different response and their response can be categorized into response strategies by Beach and Marshall theory they are; Describing, engaging, conceiving, explaining, interpreting, connecting, and judging. Then, from the four previous findings, the researcher compared that it has similar and difference with this research. The similarity with Cintysa, Boardman, and Lasari's research is the object which is about response, while the difference is placed in the subject. It means that the researcher focused on analyzing students give respond to the Totto-chan novel. It is different from the previous reserchers such as Cintysa, Boardman, and Lasari. Cyntisa focused on analyzing Comparative Study on Popular Literature: A Reader-Response Critic on Stephenie Meyer apostrophe s Twilight and Kami Garcia and Margaret Stohl apostrophe s Beautiful Creatures and found that the readers more adore Twilight than Beautiful Creatures, because it succeeded in attracting the readers' attention and filling what they expected in gothic romance novel. Whereas, Boardman focused on analyzing, Aesthetic Responses to Literature and Their Effects on Student Engagement and found that the use of musical texts in reading aloud support students as they responded aesthetically to texts. The study showed that incorporating music and video that related to the musical texts being read aloud enhances the aesthetic responses of students. Teacher questions, reactions, modeling, and scaffolding provided students with different ways in which to engage with the text. Whereas, Lasari focused on analyzing Motivated Readers: A Reader-Response Study on A. Fuadi's The Land of Five Towers and found that all of the respondents or 100% are motivated and 0% is unmotivated after reading The Land of Five Towers. The motivations are gained by the readers who were classified into 7 (seven) categories. Those categories were motivation to study abroad and got better education, motivation to improve and learn deeper one's passion, motivation to make parents proud, motivation to work harder than before, motivation to be successful in career or work, and motivation to maintain a good and long-last friendship. Some motivational parts in this novel are A- Half Hearted Decision, Hundreds of Thousands of Handshakes, Mice Meeting, Man Jadda Wajada, Five Countries Four Continents, Fellowship of The Manara, Tyson's First Attack, Inner War, and Trafalgar Square.
