CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background

Movie is one of important things in human's life nowadays. Summer (1992: 476) defines movie as a roll of material which is sensitive light and which is used in camera for taking photographs or moving pictures for the cinema, a story, play recorded on film to be shown in the cinema on television. Additionally, Danesi (2010: 134) says that movie is a literary work which covers someone expression, thought, idea, concept, mood, and experience which is delivered in moving pictures form with certain plot, in order to director or author can convey meaning and purpose in the film. film is expressed as the dominant form of visual mass communication in the world, as more than hundreds of millions of people watch in cinemas, television movies or via digital video discs (DVDs). this means the film can reach many social segments so that the film has the potential to influence the audience, because in addition to functioning as a movie entertainment as well as an extension of the thinking and ideology of the maker (Elvinaro Ardianto & Lukiati Komala, 2007).

Film is a mass communication tool that emerged at the end of the 19th century. Film is an unlimited communication tool in its scope which in it becomes a free expression space in a process mass learning. The power and capabilities of the film reach a great deal social segment, which makes filmmakers have the potential to influence to form a view in the community with the message content inside it. It is based on the argument that the film is a portrait of reality in society. Movies always record the growing reality and develop in society and then project it inward screen. (Sobur, 2003:126 – 127). Film as a form of artwork, many intents and purposes contained in the making. It is also influenced by that message want to be submitted by the filmmaker. Despite the approach different, can be said every film has a target, that is interesting attention to the content of the problems conceived. other than that films designed to serve unlimited public or non-public purposes limited. (Sumarno, 1996:10) Film which is also a communication medium, does not reflect or even recording reality; like the other medium of representation of film only construct and "relive" the image of reality through code - codes, conventions, myths and ideologies of his culture a specific mode of signification practice of the medium. (Turner, 1991: 128).

Based on the definitions above, it can be concluded that movie is a the combinations of moving images and audios(voices) which are chained to form a story to entertain or convey ideas and concepts by someone. Movie is also used as a communication tool to express creativity of an artist. Besides that, Movie is also divided into various genres, such as action, drama, comedy, horror, documentary, sport, or even a combination of some genres.

One of the most interesting genres of movie is drama action. It is because the combination of the two genres create a good entertainment and suspense for the audiences. One of good movies related to this genre is Green Street Hooligans Movie. The movie is about fanaticism happening to the main character because of environment influences since he decided to move to a new country. The movie also portrayed how dangerous the fanaticism is and therefore it can be considered as important issue to be discussed nowadays.

J.P Chaplin (2008: 495) defines fanaticisms as energetically attitude that over to a point of view or a cause. Fanaticism is also a sense of love that is more up to be a tremendous impact on a person's attitude to life. Calhoun (2004: 349) further explains that fanaticism is not merely a strong commitment to a world view, ideology and belief system since many people are devoted to a certain religion, ideology or political system without being fanatic. However, Perkinson (2002: 172) argues that fanatics is dogmatic people whose theories, ideologies and proposed solutions are absolutely right in their own eyes.

Based on the definitions of fanaticism above, it can be said that fanaticism is a circumstance where people have self belonging toward something in a very high level and always being ready to prevent that thing from anything which opposes it. It is very dangerous if the society got that kind of problem. Therefore, the society should get enough information regarding this problem in order to know deeply about it and finally can avoid being fanatic.

Based on the explanations and problems above, the researcher decided to research the fanaticism in Green Street Hooligans movie. This movie generally tells about the fanaticism happening in football fans. The portrayals of fanaticism in this movie were very clear since it portrayed a character from being just as a usual person to finally be a fanatic fan of English football club. Therefore, the researcher chose this movie as the object of the research.

The researcher hopes that this research can give beneficial things toward society, specially for those who want to know more about fanaticism so that they can finally know what actually the fanaticism is and can avoid it as a good society, or, even can prevent others from being fanatic as the further implication of this research.

B. Research Question

Based on the background, the researcher formulated a research question “What are the characteristics of fanaticism in the Green Street Hooligans Movie”?

C. Research Objective

Related to the research questions, the researcher formulated the research objectives “To find out the characteristics of fanaticism in the Green Street Hooligans Movie”.

D. Research Significance

Theoretically, the researcher expects that this research can give beneficial contribution and information to society generally and to the students of English Literature Department who interested in analyzing fanaticism in movie specifically. Furthermore, the researcher expects that this research will be the great resources for further research related to the fanaticism.

Practically, the result of this research is expected to be useful and helpful for the readers in order to give a deep understanding about fanaticism so that they can differentiate which one the fanaticism is and also they cannot easily be influenced or doctrinated by this kind of ideology and also they can finally avoid it as a good society.

E. Research Scope

In this research, the researcher focused on the characteristics of fanaticism and the process of a character finally being fanatic. The researcher used theory of Marimaa (2011: 33) to analyze the characteristics of fanaticism which is divided into 5 kinds such as Unwavering conviction about the absolute rightness of one understands, Seeking to impose one's convictions on others, Dualistic world-view, Self-sacrificial devotion to the goal and Devotion itself is more important than the object of that devotion.

LITERARY REVIEW

A. Related Research

Silwan (2012) in his thesis, “Aggressive Behaviour Pattern, Characteristic and Fanaticism Panser Biru Group PSIS Semarang”, this study used qualitative approach. The results of this research are some aggressive behaviors of Panzer Blue did in supporting the team PSIS Semarang such as (1) physical aggression, namely: (a) pitching, (b) a fight, (c) destruction, (d) the beating; (2) verbal aggression, namely: category racist (a) the song Jepara town whore, (b) the referee custody, (c) stupid, (d) black, (e) contempt, (f) invective, (g) the song provocative, (h) scoffed-mockery. In this study, it is explained that characteristics presented in the group of supporters were blue and many attributes yells performed at PSIS match.

Haspisari (2015) in her research, “Fanaticism and Aggressiveness on Football Supporter”, this study used quantitative method. The results of this research show that there is a significant relationship between fanaticism and the aggressiveness of the football fans. Coefficient R shows that the relationship between fanaticism and aggressiveness are at a very weak level of relationship.

The similarity between this research and the previous findings above is the analysis relating to the fanaticism. The first previous finding has similarity in terms of method where both researches use qualitative method. However, there is also difference in the second previous finding. The second previous finding used quantitative method while this research used qualitative method. The second previous finding also has similarity to this research which is analysis relating to the football supporter. Another difference is the object, the first previous finding above analyzed fanaticism of the Panser Biru Group PSIS Semarang while this study analyzed fanaticism in Matt Buckner character in “Green Street Hooligans” movie.

B. Pertinent Ideas

1. Fanaticism

The term fanaticism has sometimes been used in too broad a sense in common usage and even in scientific literature, so it has become a label even for activities that could be defined more adequately by other terms. For that reason, some claim that the term fanatic is useless as stated by Bryans (2005: 154). Fanaticism many encountered in lifetime, no exception to the fanaticism of the football club because of football has the largest audience compared to other sports. Soccer supporters are always linked with supporters of a team. Supporters are active, giving support based on certain feelings of love and fanaticism. Presence supporters for the football team is certainly very much expected because this sport is not just a sport with the aim to maintain health but has develop into a business and industry. The presence of supporters brings the spirit of its own for the football players. Attention and support very awaited by players from their supporters (Shalimow, 2010: 33). In many ways, fans are interpreted as a group of people who have brutality, anarchy, dealing with riots, and so on. Research on the behavior of supporters has been done by the University of Cardiff shows the number of victims directly proportional to the club's achievements. The better the achievement of the club then the more the fallen victim. Victory celebration, alcohol party, or ridicule against supporters of the opposing team is the cause of the riots that caused the fall victim. Their behavior becomes uncontrollable. Potential unrest is getting bigger when the winning team wins (Fikret, 2005, pp. 283) Football is the most popular type of sport in the community all over the world, so every organized football game is always plenty spectators who watch the stars and favorite teams compete. Excitement football matches are incredible not infrequently affect the fanaticism of the audience against favorite teams. They often use team attributes their favorite, have photos of their idol players, and always buy tickets for watching his favorite teams compete. Even the audience is willing take any action for his favorite team. Such actions for example: fighting with the supporters of other teams, booing, or throws opponent players who cheat, throw a referee who is considered heavy one side against the opponent and even willingly against the security (Yadi, 2009, p 17).

Talking about fanaticism it is necessary to mention the relative of the term fandom that has been used primarily in the sphere of entertainment. Devoted supporters of a sport, athlete, sport club, game, musician, band, actor, or other similar attraction are usually called fans. A fan can be loyal and devoted without having a fanatical attitude but the inclination towards fanaticism is sometimes also found specifically among fans. For example, there is nothing exceptional about a fan trying to identify her/himself with the object of her/his fandom by wearing the same style of clothes or by associating her/himself with her/his idol with special tattoos. At the same time we can take as an extreme example a fan of the now deceased pop musician Michael Jackson who has undergone several surgical operations in order to look like his idol as said by Hills (2007: 471).

In this case, we are probably dealing with fanatical identification with the object of devotion. There is also an intersection with religious fanaticism here when we think, for example, about ritual crucifixions in the Philippines in sports team fan culture is characterized, for example, by wearing clothes with club symbols and by attending if possible every match the club plays. But fandom takes on fanatical proportions when the fans no longer tolerate the idea that the other teams can also have their fan base, when they start to use violence against players and fans of opposing teams or when all of their life and self-identity is focused around the avidly-supported club. So there is nothing odd when fans feel anger if someone from their favorite club goes over to another club, but the situation takes a more serious turn if she/he is beaten up or receives death threats from fans because of his/her decisions. Fanatic can be interpreted as the attitude of someone who does or loves something seriously and earnestly (Hidayatullah, 1995 :56). While "ism" can be interpreted as a form of belief or trust. So, from the two definitions above can be deduced that fanaticism is a belief or belief that is too strong against a teaching be it politics, religion and so on in this case against the club soccer.

According to Calhoun (2004: 349), fanaticism is not merely a strong commitment to a world view, ideology or belief system. Many people are devoted to a certain religion, ideology or political system without being fanatics. In Calhoun's view (2004: 350-351), fanaticism is not the same as merely exhibiting extreme enthusiasm either. Men and women of principle are considered confident and not fanatic. Besides, those who fight selflessly and tirelessly for social change are considered heroes. If someone has strong convictions it does not mean that she/he would think about her/himself as infallible. What does differentiate fanatics from people who are confident in a positive way is that they are absolutely certain their understandings are absolutely correct.

Additionally, Perkinson (2002: 172) defines fanatics as dogmatic people whose theories, ideology and proposed solutions are absolutely right in their own eyes. At the same time fanatics avoid critical thinking when they ignore or are not able to see those arguments, facts, or consequences that refute his solutions.

Furthermore, Marimaa (2011: 35-48) proposes theory when it comes to analyze the indications of fanaticism as follows:

- 1) Unwavering conviction about the absolute rightness of one understands

A True Believer closes his/her eyes and ears to the facts that, in his/her opinion, are not worthy of being seen or heard. S/he does not fear dangers or obstacles and s/he is not disturbed by contradictions because s/he denies their existence. His/her infallible doctrine helps him/ her to deal with the displeasures and uncertainties of the surrounding world. Such doctrine isolates him/her from him/herself and from the realities of the surrounding world. When someone believes that s/he holds the absolute truth, s/he also believes that s/he has all the answers. True doctrine is considered the answer to every problem in the world.

2) Seeking to impose one's convictions on others

A faith community of fanatics is certain about the absolute truth of the words of their leader and they are convinced they are the only ones authorized to interpret those words of truth. They are proud to be chosen and hate those who do not care about the truth. The latter are regarded as doomed. This fanatical community tries to subject everyone to their truth, be it through religious or political ideology. Deviation of the world from this truth is considered an accident that must be corrected. Fanatics are ready to sacrifice themselves for their ideas. They attack the disorder of the imperfect and unholy world.

3) Dualistic world-view

Destructive fanaticism goes beyond the “moderate” distinction between “us” and “them”. Usually, in-groups (“us”) are viewed in a positive light and out-groups (“them”) are vilified or regarded with scepticism. But in fanaticism such distinction exceeds all moderation. “They” become enemies who are not simply bad but even embody “cosmic evil”. So the world does not simply consist of people with their virtues and vices, it becomes a battlefield between light and dark, good and evil. In literature on this subject it is sometimes referred to as a Manichean dichotomy or Manichean construction. For example, traditional Christianity makes a distinction between Christians and “the world” (the latter is seen as being under Satan’s rule). In Islam there has historically been division between the ““House of Islam”” (Dar al-Islam) where Muslims live and rule and the ““House of war”” (Dar al-Harb) that needs to be Islamized either peacefully or, when unsuccessful, with war. When both of those beliefs are taken to extremes a peaceful mission turns into violence and blood where either coldly-calculated violence or fanatical fervour are used to reach their goals. We can also turn to the two most famous 20th century totalitarian regimes — National Socialism in Germany and Bolshevism in the Soviet Union — to see that both of them frequently used violence since both had a clear ““enemy”” who needed to be destroyed. Whilst the former targeted Bolsheviks and Jews, the latter, relying on the concept of class struggle, targeted ““enemies of the people””. Conspiracy theories are also suitable for such mindsets. For a fanatic, Donskis notices, there is satisfaction in such conspiracy theories that ascribe all the bad to the ““community, whom we hate””.

4) Self-sacrificial devotion to the goal

There are no fanatics without this trait. For example, someone may have a fixed idea that the Sun moves around the Earth and they despise scientific discoveries that prove the contrary. So s/he believes that with similar kindred spirits they constitute an enlightened minority that fiercely opposes the rest of humanity that is seen as blinkered by their erroneous views. But s/he only becomes a fanatic when s/he starts to impose his/her fixed idea on others, demands that schools must teach not a heliocentric but a geocentric view and is willing to sacrifice not only his/her time and money but even his/her life to make his/her ideas dominant in society. Self-sacrificial devotion to a goal is common to all fanatics, whether their fanaticism be connected with religion, politics, the world of entertainment, hobbies or something else. Therefore, the fanaticism of a sport fanatic, for instance, might not be rooted in any special ideology but it manifests itself in self-sacrificial devotion to a sport or club even if in the long term this could harm his/her health or cause trauma, for example, when getting into a fight with fans of an opposing team.⁵⁶ A fanatical computer gamer may not consider a highly addictive game the best ever made but his/her fanaticism focuses on self-sacrificial gaming that deepens the addiction and affects his/ her health up to the point where it can even cause sudden death.

5) Devotion itself is more important than the object of that devotion

This last characteristic can also be seen as a relatively universal trait for all fanatics. Even if the fanatic may deny it, the devotion itself is more important to him/her than the object of that devotion. Essentially they are all on the same side and their opposites are actually moderate. Fanatics regard other fanatics with suspicion and they are quite ready to assault each other, but in reality they are closely related. ““They hate each other with the hatred of brothers. They are as far apart and close together as Saul and Paul. The primacy of devotion over the object of devotion illustrates the universal nature of fanaticism. That is why fanaticism is not only limited to the religious or political sphere, but encompasses almost every field of human activity. For the fanatic it is important to be zealous about something or somebody. If s/he gets disillusioned, disappointed or bored with the object of devotion, s/he soon needs to find another object with which s/he wants to be associated.

2. Hooligans

Hooligans with the football world are closely related, because when there are football matches there must be the hooligans Watch the game. Hooligan first appeared in England and was not Wonder if currently England is the largest hooligan producer. At first the word hooligan was given by the British media for Football supporters wh riot. And this hooligan said Awarded by British media when the 1950s experienced English football Progress of the domestic league¹. At that time, the soccer riots in England have not become a social problem because it was originally English football Developed by the middle and upper classes. Later, the game of football Adopted by a group of laborers and hired workers and then this group Which then seemed attached to the game of football. Since then The atmosphere of the game was colored by its rough audiences, Hari Wahyudi (2009: 124).

3. Synopsis

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

A. Research Method

The design of this research is descriptive analysis in form of qualitative research. Bog and Taylor in Moleong (2010: 3) state that qualitative methodology is a research procedure that produces descriptive data in the form of words written or spoken of the people, or, behavior that can be observed. Furthermore, the researcher used descriptive qualitative method to analyze the representation of fanaticism toward to Matt Buckner character in “Green Street Hooligans” movie.

B. Source of Data

In this research, the researcher took the data from Green Street Hooligans movie’s scripts by Lexi Alexander. The movie was published on September 9th 2005. Its duration is about one hour and forty eight minutes.

C. Instrument of Research

The researcher used note taking as the instrument of this research. Nazir, (1988:124-125) stated note taking is a system of recording information which includes the last name author, page and related information.

D. Procedure of Research

The procedures of data collection in this research were formulated as follows:

1. The researcher watched the “Green Street Hooligans” movie intensively.
2. The researcher identified fanatic behaviour in the “Green Street Hooligans” movie.
3. The researcher wrote down the data found from the movie into pieces of paper.
4. The researcher classified the data based on Marimaa’s theory of characteristic of fanaticism.

E. Techniques of Data Analysis

The researcher analyzed the data by using Marimaa’s theory of fanaticism. The data were classified based on the Marimaa’s characteristics of fanaticism theory such as unwavering conviction about the absolute rightness of one understands, seeking to impose one’s convictions on others, dualistic world-view, self-sacrificial devotion to the goal and devotion itself is more important than the object of that devotion.

CHAPTER IV

FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

A. Findings

After watching the Green Street Hooligans movie intensively, and reading the script of green street hooligans from Lexi Alexander, the researcher found 15 extracts in accordance with the 5 characteristics of fanaticism proposed by Marimaa, here are some data contained in the movie green street hooligans:

Extract 1 (00:31:15)

This scene shows that Matt tries to ask Pete to run but, Pete convinces him not to run and keeps fight.

Matt : Come on, let's get out of here.

Extract 2 (00:32:10)

This scene shows the clash between GSE (Green Street Elite), against their rival opponent from Birmingham Supporter.

Matt : Come on!

Birmingham Hooligan member : oh really, let's see!

B. Discussions

In this section, the researcher discussed about the data analysis found in Green Street Hooligans movie by Lexi Alexander. After analyzing the data, the researchers found 15 data related to Marimaa's theory of fanaticism characteristics. Here the researcher explained further about all the data found in Green Street Hooligans Movie;

1. Unwavering conviction about the absolute rightness of one understands

In this part the researcher found 3 extracts which were suitable with the first Marima's Fanaticism characteristics theory. Extract 1 This scene shows Matt and Pete with friends are surrounded by other hooligans, Matt wants to run away due to outnumbered, but Pete is sure that it will come out despite losing. this scene shows a fanatic like Pete in this movie will not be back down in realizing the goals of his group, although he must be hurted for doing so. This corresponds to the first characteristic of a fanatic believing in one's truth and truth, and it does not listen to the others' opinion, as when Matt tries to warn Pete to back down because they are outnumbered, but Pete does not back down because his belief is unanimous.

This section or Extract 11 looks Matt is very excited after his idea to surround hooligans from Manchester successfully, he feels like he has to protect his friends well, this part is suitable with the first characteristic of fanaticism stated by Marimaa

Unwavering conviction about the absolute rightness of one understanding. This section is also suitable with the characteristics of the first fanaticism, in which Matt firmly believes that what he does to Manchester hooligan is the act of protecting his comrades, Matt feels that it is not his friend who should protect him, but he is the one who has to protect his friends in the GSE.

In Extract 13 shows that Matt and his father Carl, are walking together discuss about what Matt is doing during in the UK. At that time Matt's father accused Matt of having joined the gang, but Matt denied that the GSE (Green Street Elite) was not a gang but his friend. This scene also shows that Matt denied his father's opinion that GSE is a gang, he is convinced that people on GSE are his friends, this is suitable with the characteristics of fanaticism first unwavering conviction about the absolute rightness of one understand, where a fanatic would deny opinions contrary even though it is his closest family.

After analyzing extract 1,11 and 13 the researcher found that a fanatic will be very firm to his stand and does not want to accept anything else or contrary to his beliefs, this is very compatible with the theory of Kelmer's first characteristic Unwavering conviction about the absolute rightness of one understands, where Pete and Matt figures try to convince others and even their immediate family not to fight their beliefs, even the characters Pete and Matt strongly believe that what they believe is the answer to all of their problems. as shown in Extract 1 where Pete and Matt are besieged with their friends among the rivals, but they do not run away because they believe that firmness with their friends will be strong. Meanwhile on Extract 11 Matt feels that his actions after escaping his friends from a group attack rivals are the right thing to do despite hurting some of those rivals.

It is also happened in Extract 13 where Matt tried to convince his father that what he did by joining the GSE supporters group would not be dangerous for him.

the three explanations of the three extracts have corroborated with the Marimaa's first characteristics of Fanaticism that an unshakeable belief in truth that a fanatic understands will make him not accept things that are outside of himself or his group.

2. Seeking to impose one's convictions on others

In this scene or Extract 3 shows Pete was explaining to Matt that the Arsenal is a great team but their hooligans are sucks. The scene shows that Pete was explaining briefly about some of the team and hooligans (firm), which he knows for Matt, but he still recognizes that his group (GSE) is the best, and all his rivals are lousy. this is accordance with the second characteristic in which a fanatic will try to convince others that his group is the best of the other.

In Extract 7 Pete wants to show that football is better than softball by inviting him to play football. This scene shows that Pete tries to convince Matt that football is the best and he persuades him to play football with some children, it shows that a fanatic will try to convince others that what supported by the group is the best, not only with the conversation but by inviting others to feel his experience as well, in this case playing football.

The two extracts show how a fanatic will attempt to assimilate others that what they believe is the best, a fanatic will show both verbally and non-verbally to others that what they have and believe is not wrong, this happens to the Extract 3 where Pete tried to convince Pete that their hooligan group is the best and has a reputation among other hooligans. Pete explains it by mentioning the shortcomings of other Hooligan groups, that he has hit every Hooligan leader who he has ever met. Meanwhile at Extract 7 Pete tries to explain that soccer is better than softball by taking Matt to play soccer with his neighborhood kids, right then the first time Matt is playing soccer. Both Extracts fit perfectly with Marimaa's fanaticism characteristics to impose one's convictions to others, that a fanatic strongly believes that what they believe is better than the other's beliefs.

3. Dualistic world-view

In Extract 5 Pete is assured that the main rival of GSE (Green Street Elite) is hooligans of the Millwall football club. this section displays where Pete tells Matt that their biggest rival is Millwall, he says that GSE and Millwall have been hostile for a long time, so hard for their competition that Pete likes their union as Israelis and Palestinians. It is consistent with the third fanaticism characteristic proposed by Marimaa, it is the Dualistic world-view, where a fanatic is very close to the competition between groups.

Meanwhile in Extract 8 shows a hooligans from manchester named Nigel warns his friends that who can face Pete Dunham just him alone. As described in the previous explanation, that a fanatic is very close to the competition between groups, this scene shows where a Manchester hooligan tells his friends that who can face Pete Dunham from him (Nigel) only, this scene corresponds to the third characteristics of fanaticism proposed by Marimaa about dualistic view world.

The two extracts above correspond to the third characteristic of the Marimaa's, the Dualistic World View, which in Extract 5 Pete describes the rivalry between GSE and Millwall as the Palestinians and Israelis rivalry, where GSE and Millwall meet and there will be fights, as well as Extract 8 where a Hooligan from Manchester named Nigel is very excited to meet with Pete, and only he who can face it. The very strong rivalry shown by the two extracts is very much in line with Marimaa's third fanaticism characteristic, a fanatic belief that there are only two in this world. We and They. A fanatic will do every possible thing to defeat or show to another group that their group is the best and anyone who disagrees with them is the enemy.

4. Self-sacrificial devotion to the goal

Extract 2 shows a fight between GSE (Green Street Elite) faced with hooligans from Newcastle united club after the game. This scene shows the fights that occur in two groups of GSE and Hooligan supporters from Newcastle United, where they are reluctant to hurt each other so that their group can be said the best one or the strongest one. they will sacrifice themselves so that the purpose of their group achieved.

Extract 3 shows that Matt (GSE) is injured when there is a fight between GSE and hooligans of newcastle united. As previously described, a fanatic will not hesitate to sacrifice themselves for group purposes, this scene shows how Matt looks hurt by hitting his opponent, and Matt still wants to go even if it can harm him. This is in accordance with the fourth characteristic of fanaticism proposed by Marimaa about self sacrificial devotion to the goal.

Extract 6 shows that Matt tries to split Stevie dunham trying to beat his friend, Pete. The scene shows that Matt defends Pete from his brother (Steve), and Matt is ready to accept resistance from Steve for daring to fight him, which indicates that a fanatic will not be willing to have a group of friends harassed by others, even if it is his own close relative, he (Matt) is ready to protect his friend who is the leader of GSE group (Pete).

Extract 9 shows that there was a fight between GSE and hooligans from manchester, when GSE came to the city of manchester to watch the game.

The scene reveals a fight scene between the GSE and another group of Hooligans from Manchester, they will fight anyone who is out of their side, and do not care about their safety as long as it can realize their group's goals, they will still face it.

Extract 10 shows that a man from the GSE camp was hit by a bottle of hooligans from manchester. the scene shows how a person wants to sacrifice themselves to defend their group, here it looks like one of the members of GSE hits the bottle in the head to break. This corresponds to one of the characteristics of fanaticism by Marimaa about self sacrificial devotion to the goal.

Extract 12 shows that Matt puts tattoo of West Ham's logo in his body to prove that he is dedicated to GSE. the scene shows how a person wants to sacrifice themselves to defend their group, here it looks like one of the members of GSE hits the bottle in the head to break. This corresponds to one of the characteristics of fanaticism by Marimaa about self sacrificial devotion to the goal.

the six extracts discovered by researchers on the Green Street Hooligans film show indications of violence perpetrated by fanatics both for others as well as for themselves, as shown in Extract 2,3,6,9 and 10 fights between Hooligans cause injury to one another, harm to themselves and the environment around them. while Extract 12 shows that Matt wants to put a tatto to his body with the West Ham United logo, the GSE (Green Street Elite) football club. all extracts fit the fanatic characteristics proposed by Marimaa about Self-sacrificial devotion to the goal, where a fanatic will do anything including violence to achieve their group's goals, even it must sacrifice themselves.

5. Devotion itself is more important than the object of that devotion

Extract 14 shows Bovver is annoyed for not succeeding in convincing his friends that matt is an undercover journalist. His belief that journalists have always had a devastating effect on hooligans, make him hate everyone who deals with journalists, even though the person is not a journalist. In the fifth characteristic of Fanaticism by Marimaa about Devotion itself is more important than the object of that devotion, loyalty or obedience is more important than its object. The sense of obedience in a fanatic is more important than the object to which he obeys. That's why if the object that he obeys betrays or has contradicted with his belief, then a fanatic will choose to leave the object that he obeyed or his group and give his obedience or his loyalty to rival groups in accordance with his beliefs. this happened to Extract 15, where Bovver character in the Green Street Hooligans film voted betrayed from the GSE, and leaked information to the rival group (Millwall), because his decision to expel Matt from GSE for being an undercover journalist was not approved by his friends , and felt his obedience to the GSE was not appreciated by his friends.

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

This chapter provides conclusions and suggestions based on the findings of fanaticism characteristics by Marimaa. After watching the movie from Lexi Alexander, Green Street Hooligans and script intensively, the researcher gave conclusions and suggestions to the reader as follows:

A. Conclusions

Based on the findings and discussions above, the researchers concluded that the Green Street Hooligans movie directed by Lexi Alexander, has a match with Marimaa's theory about fanaticism characteristics, among which 5 fanaticism characteristics of Marimaa have a match with what happens in the movie Green Street Hooligans, where the researcher analyzed by watching and reading the Green Street Hooligans movie script regularly, the researcher found 15 extracts, where each extract is divided into 5 types of characteristics of Marimaa consisting of Unwavering conviction about the absolute rightness of one understand as much as 3 extracts, Seeking to impose one's conviction on others as much as 2 extracts, Dualistic world view of 2 extracts, Self sacrificial devotion to the goal as much as 6 extracts, and devotion itself more important than the object of that devotion 2 extracts.

B. Suggestion

1. The researcher suggests for those who want to conduct the similar research to not only examine the fanaticism of football, but other objects or sides also such as; religion, politics, organizations and anything related to fanaticism.
2. The researcher hopes that by reading this thesis, the readers will get knowledge about fanaticism clearly, so readers are not easily affected in groups of fanatical groups in the community.
3. Finally, the researcher hopes that this thesis will be able to be a reference or recommendation to the students of English language and literature so that they will not be easy to become a fanatic person especially in the organization which can disturb their lectures.

APPENDICES

A. The script of Green Street Hooligans Movie

Pete Dunham: Fuck it, I will take you with me. You might learn something...

Matt Buckner: About soccer?

Pete Dunham: No mate. Not about soccer, AND FOR FUCK SAKE, STOP SAYING SOCCER!

Matt Buckner: I've never lived closer to danger, but I've never felt safer. I've never felt more confident, and people could spot it from a mile away. And as for this, the violence? I gotta be honest - it grew on me. Once you've taken a few punches and realize you're not made of glass, you don't feel alive unless you're pushing yourself as far as you can go.

Pete Dunham: You don't run, not when you're with us... You stand your ground and fight!

Matt Buckner: Pete Dunham's life taught me there's a time to stand your ground, and his death taught me there's a time to walk away.

Matt Buckner: You know the best part? It isn't knowing that your friends have your back. It's knowing that you have your friends' back.

Matt Buckner: [Discussing the West Ham / Millwall Rivalry] It's like the Yankees and the Red Sox.

Pete Dunham: More like the Israelis and the Palestinians.

Pete Dunham: TOMMY! Don't you wanna finish me off then?

Tommy Hatcher: You're already finished little Petey! The NTO will take care of you in a minute you mug!

Pete Dunham: We didn't kill your son Tommy! YOU DID! You should have protected him mate! He was your son!

Tommy Hatcher: Don't you talk about my fuckin son! DON'T TALK ABOUT MY FUCKIN SON!

Matt Buckner: Was that a terrorist attack? What happened here?

Shannon Dunham: Welcome to match-day madness. Tottenham was in town last night.

Matt Buckner: What are you talkin' about, baseball is a girl's game? The Red Sox has a guy that pitches the ball over 90 miles per hour!

Pete Dunham: Who cares? All that means is that he can have a wank faster than you.

Pete Dunham: So, I'm guessing you're not much of a fighter.

Matt Buckner: Fighter? That's probably the first fight I ever had.

Pete Dunham: You call that a fight?

[first lines]

Pete Dunham: Fuck me. If I knew we was going to a bar mitzvah, I would have brought me fuckin' skull cap. Mate, Tottenham's due north. Are you lost? Or just fucking stupid?

Pete Dunham: [Matt and Pete are sitting at a food vendor stall, reading a newspaper the morning after the Birmingham game/fight] Fuckin' journos. Look at this.

[he slaps the paper]

Pete Dunham: West Ham wins 3-nil in a blindin' performance, and our little scrap makes the headline. Bloody muckrakers.

Matt Buckner: So, what is this?

Pete Dunham: Bollocks journo bullshit.

Matt Buckner: No, no, this, the GSE.

Pete Dunham: [whispering] Shhh! Lower it, son!

Matt Buckner: What are you guys, like, an organized political movement or something?

Pete Dunham: No, mate. We're a firm. You never heard of a firm in the States?

Matt Buckner: No.

Pete Dunham: All right. Every football team in Europe's got a firm. Some have two.

[Matt gives him a blank look]

Pete Dunham: Christ, I forgot how clueless you Yanks are. All you've seen of us is the stadium riots on TV, innit? Come on.

[they get up and walk away from the stall]

Pete Dunham: See, West Ham football is mediocre. But our firm is top-notch, and everyone knows it. The GSE: Green Street Elite. Arsenal... great football, shit firm... the Gooners. Tottenham... shit football, and a shit firm... the Yids, they're called. I actually put their main lad through a phone box window the other day.

Matt Buckner: [Matt looks down at the newspaper] What about Millwall?

Pete Dunham: Ah, Millwall. Where to even fucking begin with Millwall. Millwall and West Ham firms hate each other, more than any other firms by far.

Matt Buckner: Sorta like the Yankees and the Red Sox.

Pete Dunham: More like the Israelis and the Palestinians.

[Matt laughs]

Pete Dunham: We haven't played Millwall in ten years. Their top boy's this geezer named Tommy Hatcher. 'Orrible ol' cunt. Back in the Major's day, Tommy's son was killed in a scrap. After that, he went completely mental. Lost the plot.

Matt Buckner: Well, who's the Major?

Pete Dunham: Ah, the Major. Quite a legend 'round here. He ran the GSE in the Nineties, when I was comin' up. Hardest bastard you ever saw. They say we kinda lost our way when he left. But believe me, my boys are bringin' the ol' GSE reputation right back.

Bovver: [Pete and Matt walk into the pub] Jesus, you two attached at the fucking hip or what?

Pete Dunham: Leave it out Bov, it's getting old.

Bovver: Nah, I'm starting to wonder about you two. I mean if I didn't know any better I'd say you was a couple of gay boys.

Pete Dunham: Bov, we've known each other a long time yeah? I trust you more than any other bloke I know, but you're getting dangerously close to crossing the line with me. If you got a problem then it's your fucking problem, not mine. But if you wanna discuss it further, we can go outside.

Keith: So he's a Yank, AND an undercover "journo", looks like we'll have to give the boy two funerals.

Pete Dunham: [after learning about why Matt got kicked out of Harvard] If he's done that to me I'd have beat the seven shades of shit out of him!

Pete Dunham: So what were you studyin' before this geezer stitched ya up?

Matt Buckner: [Hesitates] ... History

Pete Dunham: History? I teach history!

Matt Buckner: [surprised] You teach?

Pete Dunham: Yes... cheeky slag! History and P.E. What you think the GSE paid a bloody wage? Mate I'm smart as fuck!

Matt Buckner: You look nervous.

Pete Dunham: Nervous? Fuck off...

Matt Buckner: Well what's on your mind then?

Pete Dunham: Only two little words keep every Hammer in England up all night... "United away".

Dave: Now that we can stop kissing each other asses, I got to point out [points at Matt]

Dave: ... you see the first punch he threw?

Pete Dunham: Yeah.

Dave: Little bit on the feminine side.

Matt Buckner: What?

Pete Dunham: A bit gay. A little bit gay.

Steve Dunham: There comes a time when the best reputation you can have is with your family.

Pete Dunham: Look mate, I'm not being funny, but the last thing I want to do is take you to the match with me. So here's how it works, you give me half the money, I'll go to football, and you can have a wonder 'round where Churchill took a tom, or whatever it is you Yanks do here in Jolly old.

Matt Buckner: Tom?

Pete Dunham: Tom. A tom tit. A shit. It's rhyming slang, like bees and honey for money. Or I could say to you, give me the fucking bees.

Matt Buckner: I made a promise to Steve.

Pete Dunham: Well Steve ain't here, is he mate. And to be honest, your pissing in the wind if you think I'm taking you with me.

Matt Buckner: Well, I'm not giving you the money.

Pete Dunham: You ain't really got a fucking choice mate. And your starting to get on my tits. Give me half the money.

Matt Buckner: [Matt points to something] Cops!

Pete Dunham: [Pete looks over to where Matt pointed, and Matt tries to kick Pete. Pete grabs Matt's foot and turns to him] Well how fucking stupid do you feel now? Come on then, dance for me Yankee.

[Pete kicks Matt's other foot and Matt falls to the ground]

Pete Dunham: That's what you get for fighting like a bleeding tart. But try that again, and I will kick he shit out of you.

Matt Buckner: yeah, the tom out of me, i get it.

Pete Dunham: [laughing] Get up, come on.

Pete Dunham: [to Bovver] This is Matt, Shannon's brother.

Matt Buckner: [Holds his hand out to Bovver] Hey.

[Bovver turns his head and smokes his cigarette]

Swill: That's the painting on his face, he don't give a fuck, does he? He don't give a fuck.

Pete Dunham: Mate, he's practically family.

[Bovver shrugs]

Swill: [laughing] Oh mate, he's fucking painful!

Pete Dunham: Bov's a miserable cunt, but we love him dearly don't we boys?

Dave: Yeah, sometimes.

Swill: Like a fucking brother!

Shannon Dunham: Once he finds out his golden boy got kicked out of Harvard, he'll dive headfirst into an empty swimming pool.

Pete Dunham: Alright, look. We're sort of goin' into my place of business, right? Shut up until you're spoken to and you might have a better run at things. The only thing regarded worse than a Yank around here are coppers and journalists.

Matt Buckner: What d'you got against journalists?

Pete Dunham: How long have you got? They're lying fucking scum who'll write anything just to fill papers.

Steve Dunham: I thought you were going to the match.

Pete Dunham: Well, technically, yes. But, what happened was me and the boys got in a bit of a drinking session last night. One thing lead to another...

Steve Dunham: Let me guess. You've lost your wallet.

Pete Dunham: And me keys.

[car horn beeps outside]

Pete Dunham: Ah. There's a taxi outside.

[Steve walks away to get his wallet]

Pete Dunham: Top bloke, my brother. So, how are we my colonial cousin?

Matt Buckner: Fine, thanks.

Pete Dunham: [mimicking Matt's accent] Fine, thanks.

Pete Dunham: [after Pete introduces Matt to his friends at the Abbey] Where's Bovver?

Swill: He's been in the toilet for about fifteen minutes, like dodgy Ruby or something down at Bengal last night.

Dave: [Dave points at Matt] Oh, look, look, he looks lost. No, "Ruby Murray" means curry. We call it Cockney rhyming slang...

Matt Buckner: Slang. Yeah, like, uh, "bees and honey" for money.

Dave: That's it, yeah.

Swill: Like "struggle and grunt" for cunt!

Dave: Oh, you went dark. Why'd you go...

Swill: I'm not a cunt.

Bovver: [Bovver walks up to the table] Like "septic tank" for Yank.

Pete Dunham: [the guys greet him; Pete hugs him and indicates Matt] This is Matt, Shannon's brother.

Matt Buckner: Hey.

[Matt extends his hand; Bovver ignores it and the guys all laugh]

Swill: That's the proper, right? He don't give a fuck, does he? He don't give a fuck.

Pete Dunham: Mate, he's practically family.

[Bovver shrugs and the guys laugh again]

Swill: Oh, mate, it's fucking painful!

Pete Dunham: Bov's a miserable cunt, but we love him dearly, don't we, boys?

Dave: Eh, sometimes.

[he smiles]

Swill: Like a fucking brother!

Swill: [when see group of Zulus] Well come on then! What you fucking standing there for you cunts?

Matt Buckner: So basically, firms are gangs?

Pete Dunham: Kind of... but we're a far cry from all that Bloods and Crips bullshit. I mean shootin' a machine gun out of a movin' car at an 8 year old girl, that's just cowardly. See, we might be into fightin' an all that... but it's more about reputation. Humiliatin' another mob in a row, doin' somethin' the other firms get to hear and talk about - like a Yank in his first fight battering one of Birmingham's main lads.

Pete Dunham: Hey broth, you couldn't make a hundred could you?

Steve Dunham: Yeah, how does piss off sound?

Pete Dunham: Oh fuck off. Come on. Get some drinks in. Get some drinks in. Get some...

Steve Dunham: Shut up! Just shut up. I'll tell you what I'll do, alright? I'll give you a hundred, if you take Matt here to the match.

Pete Dunham: Oh fuck off. You're havin' a bubble. Broth, you know I can't take a yank to football.

Steve Dunham: Sure you can. And your gunna be on your best behavior. DO you understand?

[Pete tries to grab the money as Steve pulls it away]

Pete Dunham: Come on then.

Pete Dunham: Fuckin' "journos." Look at this. West Ham wins three-nill in a blinding performance and our little scrap makes the headline. Bloody muckrakers.

Bovver: [after Matt has been introduced to the guys and sent to buy a round] What's with all the fuckin' babysitting? You know we had a meet set up for today.

Pete Dunham: It's all right, Bov. He'll stay out the way. It's not like we didn't have it last night.

Bovver: What? That's not the bloody point, is it? We'll look like right mugs if we set something up and our fearless leader don't show 'cause he's playin' pin the tail on a fuckin' Yank.

Ned: No, he's right, man. He's got a point.

Pete Dunham: You let me worry 'bout that, all right, boys?

[Matt returns with the beers]

Pete Dunham: As for the Yank, he's too modest to tell you, but back in the States, he's an internationally-ranked double-black belt in karate.

Dave: Is he fuck? Look at the size of him.

Pete Dunham: No, no, no, no. Bloody "Karate Kid" film? Based on his exploits.

Dave: Really?

Pete Dunham: Yeah.

Dave: Really?

Matt Buckner: Yeah, it's true.

Pete Dunham: Fuckin' straight.

Swill: Bollocks.

[Matt looks at Swill nervously]

Swill: Bollocks.

Matt Buckner: Come on, why not?

Swill: You're lyin' already. You been here fuckin' five minutes and you're lyin'!

[everybody laughs]
