CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background

Literature is one of the media, which is used to amuse people in written form. It contains the expression of a universal emotion or idea in an attractive and appealed form. It is shaped systematic form to put on our feeling in order to enable reader to understand the purpose and meaning of a literary work. It also exists in time and space, history and society. So, a literary work must speak to concern that readers recognize it as relevant to their own life. Literary is a form and result of creative art work which its object is man and life using language as a medium (Semi, 1988:9).

Literature and psychology have a close relation because literary works explain about human life event, where human always look at the various behavior, and psychology is the science that study about human attitude and behavioral (Syahrudin, 2000:20)

According to Endraswara (2008: 11) definitiely says that the purpose of literary works also is to understand the psychological aspects of psychology contained in a work. The psychological research of literature has an important role in understanding literature. Lots of interesting things are found when one examines the psychological literature.

Based on the explanations above, the researcher can conclude that literature is one of the mediums to draw our imagination by using the language and literature as reflection of society. Many kinds of literary work are like prose, poem, short story and the others, include novel.

According to Abrams (1972:61), novel as a fiction introduces an imagination world that consists of intrinsic element like setting, plot, characterization, points of view, etc. They are existential element because depends on the author imagination.

The researcher is going to analyze one element of the novel namely character by using the theory of psychoanalysis. Psychoanalysis is the main explores feeling. self concept is very closely related to psychology because through psychology we can know a person's character. self concept is a concept that neither imprisons (as does much in sociology) nor detaches (as does much in philosophy and psychology) persons from their social and symbolic universes, it has over the years retained a generic force that few concepts (Davis, 1991:105).

Based on explanation above, The researcher is interested in analyzing self concept of the main characters in the novel Every Silence has a Story novel particularly to the issues related to her family conflict and life. In Zara Zetira's novel, researcher explores how the main character as an individual with problems happening in her life by sticking to the self concept she believes in.

The main reason why the writer of this thesis feels interested in studying the novel Every Silence has a Story because this novel describes its main character, which is a woman, as someone who can escape from the social system lived by her family which was totally contradict to her own principles. Freedom from all kinds of restrain is the dream that all women wanted to achieve. This dream also created self concept and social concept of Zara Zettira's life which in this case became the main character of this novel.

B. Problem Statements

The problem statements he which the writer intends to work on in this thesis are outlined below:

What self concept does Zara Zettira ZR. want to adhere to the main character of her novel Every Silence has a Story?

C. Research Objectives

Based on the problem statements above, then the writer of this thesis would like to reveal the following facts from novel Every Silence has a Story.

The self concept that Zara Zettira ZR wants to adhere to the main character of her novel Every Silence has a Story.

D. Significance of Research

There are two benefits which the writer expects to achieve when this thesis is completed, as follows;

1. This thesis will enrich the gender comprehension of broader community especially to those who have big interest in studying gender or feminism aspect of a literary work.
2. This thesis will give alternative basis of analysis to the other students who plan to carry out the study toward literary works.

E. Scope of the Research

Based on the previous explanation above, the researcher is going to limit analysis of self concept in the Zara Zettira ZR's novel Every Silence has a Story. In this case, the self concept refers to self concept pertaining to the main character of the novel.

CHAPTER II

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

A. Previous Findings

Review of literature serves a presentation about the research and analysis that have been done previously, these are some theses which have similarities with the writer's thesis.

From Angriani (2004) in her thesis, Konsep Diri Dalam Novel Frankenstein karya Marry Shelley Daniel Frans W. It was found that self concept is the personality of an individual regarded as a persisting entity. Everyone has a self concept that would describe and identify themselves as unique characters because one identity is different from others. The analysis used theory of literature by Carl Rogers Wahyuni research which was conducted in 2010 with title Konsep Diri Tokoh Utama dalam Novel Antara Dua Hati Karya Maria A. Sardjono. In her thesis, Andi Nurwahyuni used structural analysis in analyzing the identity of the novel's main character named Aggraini. In the novel, Aggraini is described as a woman who lives with great and wild sexual desire over number of men which is in principle viewed as an uncommon and even taboo for people of this country, Indonesia, where traditional and religious values are still strongly upheld in life. The freedom of choosing way of life that became the center of analysis of Andi Wahyuni's thesis. The analysis used of literature by Erik H. Erikson.

The similarity to this thesis with the previous findings mentioned above lies on the struggle of its main character in holding up their self concept against so many faces of problem and conflict happened in their life. The first previous finding is analysis of the way taken by main character has an self concept that would describe and identify them selves as unique character because one identity is different from others second on is an analysis of a women's character who decide to freely her identity.

The aspect put this research different to the previous findings that the research focused the analysis on six components of self concept mentioned in Bracken's theory. In addition , this research uses data gathered from different source i.e. Zara Zetira's novel Every Silence has a Story.

B. Theoretical Background

1. Psychology

Psychology is an academic and applied discipline that involves the scientific study of mental functions and behaviors. Psychology has the immediate goal of understanding individuals and groups by both establishing general principles and researching specific cases, and by many accounts it ultimately aims to benefit society. In this field, a professional practitioner or researcher is called a psychologist and can be classified as a social, behavioral, or cognitive scientist. Psychologists attempt to understand the role of mental functions in individual and social behavior, while also exploring the physiological and neurobiological processes that underlie certain cognitive functions and behaviors. According to (Alwiso.2008: 15)

Psychologists explore concepts such as perception, cognition, attention, emotion, motivation, brain, function, personality, behaviour, and interpersonal. Psychologists of diverse fields also consider unconscious mind.

Social psychology is a discipline that uses scientific methods "to understand and explain how the thought, feeling and behavior of individuals are influenced by the actual, imagined or implied presence of other human beings. Gordon Allport (1985;23).

Social psychology looks at a wide range of social topics, including group behavior, social perception, leadership, nonverbal behavior, conformity, aggression, and prejudice. It is important to note that social psychology is not just about looking at social influences. Social perception and social interaction are also vital to understanding social behavior.

According to Rogers (1902: 17) was a humanistic psychologist who agreed with the main assumptions of Abraham Maslow, but added that for a person to "grow", they need an environment that provides them with genuineness (openness and self-disclosure), acceptance (being seen with unconditional positive regard), and empathy (being listened to and understood).

Without these, relationships and healthy personalities will not develop as they should, much like a tree will not grow without sunlight and water. Rogers believed that every person can achieve their goals, wishes and desires in life. When, or rather if they did so, self actualization took place. This was one of Carl Rogers most important contributions to psychology and for a person to reach their potential a number of factors must be satisfied.

In psychology Self-concept has many definitions but they all have the same meaning. Your self concept is your perception of your own self and of your own abilities. When I ask you to describe yourself in one page you are going to write down all the beliefs you hold about yourself as a person. The way you view yourself and your capabilities is called the "Self-concept".

Common understanding of the concept of self psychology is the central concept (central construct) to be able to understand human behavior and is something that is learned through interaction with her man them selves, others, and the surrounding real environment.

2. self concept

Self-concept (self consept) is an important part of any discussion of human personality. The concept itself is a trait unique to humans, so it can be used to distinguish humans from other living beings. The psychologists personality sought to explain the nature and functions of the self-concept

Self-concept is expressed through the attitude of someone who is a self-actualizing person. Humans as organisms that have the drive to develop which eventually led to his being aware of it. The developments that took place later helped establish the concept of the individual self.

According to Burns (1993: 6) self-concept is a mixed picture of what we think others think, about ourselves, and what we want ourselves. concept themselves are the individual views of the who the individual, and it can be obtained through information provided by the information given by others on the individual.

A self-concept is a collection of beliefs about one's own nature, unique qualities, and typical behavior. Your self-concept is your mental picture of your self. It is a collection of self-perceptions. For example, a self-concept might include such beliefs as 'I am easygoing' or 'I am pretty' or 'I am hardworking. (Hammer, 2012 : 9)

According to Bracken (1990:58) provide an understanding of the concept of self as an idea that people have about him. concept itself is a combination of beliefs held about their own individual characteristics which include physical, psychological, social, emotional, aspirations and achievements.

According to Baumeister (1999) provides the following self concept definition: "the individual's belief about himself or herself, including the person's attributes and who and what the self is. Self Concept is an important term for both social psychology and humanism.

The opinion above can be interpreted that the self-concept of the individual can be known through the information, opinions, judgments or evaliasi from others about him. Individuals would know she was beautiful, smart, or friendly if there is information from others about him.

Instead of individuals do not know how he confronted another person without any information or input from the environment and other people. In everyday life people have indirectly assess themselves. Self-assessment that includes the character himself, other people can appreciate him or not, he was among those who look attractive, beautiful or not.

From the opinions of the experts on the above it can be concluded that the notion of self-concept is the overall perspective of himself, which includes capabilities, the feelings experienced, the physical condition of themselves and their immediate environment.

3. Components of Self-Concept

Like many topics within psychology, a number of theorists have proposed different ways of thinking about self-concept. According to a theory known as social identity theory, self-concept is composed of two key parts: personal identity and social identity. Our personal identity includes such things as personality traits and other characteristics that make each person unique. Social identity includes the groups we belong to including our community, religion, college, and other groups.

According to Bracken (1990: 23) suggested that there are six specific domains related to self-concept:

- a) Social - the ability to interact with others
- b) Competence - ability to meet basic needs

- c) Affect - awareness of emotional states
- d) Physical - feelings about looks, health, physical condition, and overall appearance
- e) Academic - success or failure in school
- f) Family - how well one functions within the family unit

Humanist psychologist Carl Rogers believed that there were three different parts of self-concept:

1. Self-image, or how you see yourself. It is important to realize that self-image does not necessarily coincide with reality. People might have an inflated self-image and believe that they are better at things than they really are. Conversely, people are also prone to having negative self-images and perceive or exaggerate flaws or weaknesses. For example, a teenage boy might believe that he is clumsy and socially awkward when he is really quite charming and likeable. A teenage girl might believe that she is overweight, when she is really quite thin. Each individual's self-image is probably a mix of different aspects including your physical characteristics, personality traits, and social roles.
2. Self-esteem, or how much you value yourself. A number of different factors can impact self-esteem, including how we compare ourselves to others and how others respond to us. When people respond positively to our behavior, we are more likely to develop positive self-esteem. When we compare ourselves to others and find ourselves lacking, it can have a negative impact on our self-esteem.

3. Ideal self, or how you wish you could be. In many cases, the way we see ourselves and how we would like to see ourselves do not quite match up

4 Factors Affecting Self – Concept

Many things can affect the development of self-concept some one. According (Selve,1998: 25), the devlopment of self-concept is very influenced by four interrelated factors,namely:

1. Reaction of others (significant other) Self- concept is influence by how others treat us
2. Comporasion with other in the process of the formation of self concept, individuals often compare them selves with other people who are usually the same age ar almost the same with him
3. The role of individual In the sense that the expectation-expectation and experience that corresponds to a role will affect formation of the concept him self
4. Identification with others most important is the indefication and especially. Children who identifies his parents as parents are warm and kind, will fell that he is also warm and kind as the parents.

According to Hurlock (2004: 12) development of self concept is influenced by two factors, namely, the factors of the individual it's self (internal) and external factors, the individual (external)

There are two internal factors that greatly influence the development of self concept, namely:

1. The physical appearance of the individual, which results in changes in outlook individual as assessment also others against him. Individuals are encouraged for and formulate new concepts about physical appearance.
2. Psychic development is characterized by the development of cognitive and language.

Individuals are aware of the capabilities and weaknesses, talents, beliefs, attitudes and values and personality traits. Individuals can form abstract concepts about themselves and be able to express with abstract language. And external factors that are most influential to the development of self-concept is a person's social environment, where ongoing series of social interactions. Social interactions is an element very influential on the development of one's self-concept.

Based on the description above it can be concluded that the concept of self-concept is a useful concept for understanding the behavior of a person, consists of a variety of aspects in which each form an integral part of self-concept intact.

C. Structure of the Novel

1. Theme

Theme is the main discussion, which is put on important place in literary work, M,S Hutagalung (in Ahmad Badrun, 1983:85).

William Kenny (1966 : 89) adds the theme is neither moral or the subject of the story. In addition, theme is meaning the story releases. Moral is a simple kind of theme, because all of themes of moral. It can be said that theme is the main discussion the story released. Add moral is a simple sort theme .

2. Plot

Plot is a series of events created by the author to tell the story .In most of stories, these events rise out of conflict experiences by the main character. The conflict isn't come from internal only but conflict comes from something external too, Stanton (In Nurgiantoro, 2002 : 113) said that plot is story that contains series of events. However, the causality aspect only connects each those event. One event caused the other event to happen.

Nurgiantoro(2002 : 115) said that plot is the reflection of the character' s behavior and attitude in acting, thinking, felling, and facing the problems of life he or she faces. However not all of the human being experiences called plot. In addition, he added that the event, attitude, and behavior of human being would called a plot if they have special type.

3. Setting.

Aminudin(2005 : 16). Explained that setting is background of occurrence in fiction .Setting refers to place, time relationship , and social environment in which the events taken place .Setting can be divided into two; physical and spiritual setting. Physical setting refers to place and time. Spritual setting refers to custom, tradition, believe and value of the society where the event happens. (Nurgiantoro, 2002 : 218).

4. Character

According to foster (Taylor, 1981 : 65) character is divided in two types: flat and round character. Flat character is less the representation of human personality than the embodiment of a single attitude or obsession in a character. Foster this calls kind of character flat because we see only one side of him .A flat character that never surprises the readers is immediately recognizable and usually can be represented as a single formula

CHAPTER III

METHOD OF THE RESEARCH

A. Method of the Research

The method used in the research is descriptive qualitative the method intends to describe all related teoritical background of the research. In this case the research will describe the gender ideology and self concept of main character in the novel Zara Zettira ZR Every Silence has a Story.

B. Data Source

In this research, the writer used Zara Zettira ZR's novel which ius published in 2009. It contains 3 chapters and 267 pages.

C. Instrument of Research

In collecting data, the researcher used note taking as the instrument of research. An important aspect of good note taking skills knows what to write down in the notes. Distinguishing important from unimportant information is a skill that improves with practice. Being able to identify key words and key points will help you determine what should be recorded (Ray, 2005:14). It will be used to find the data from the novel every silence has a story.

D. Procedure of Collecting Data

Method of data collection on this research is as follows

1. Taking 6 colors of cards. And categorized the colours such as
(1) red : social, (2) blue: competency, (3) green: effect, (4) chocolate: physical, (5) yellow: academic, (6) pink: family
2. Reading novel carefully.
3. Identifying data from the novel that indicated as the kinds of self concept (chapter, page, and paragraph) by using colors of cards.
4. Classifying the data based on the six kinds of self concept on the colors of cards.

E. Technique of Data Analyzing

In analyzing data, the writer used Brucken theory about self concept. According to burcken (1990:58,) provide an understanding of the concept of self as an idea that people have about him. concept itself is a combination of beliefs held about their own individual characteristics which include physical, psychological, social, emotional, aspirations and achievements. . Therefore, the writer used this theory to analyze the self concep Zara Zetira ZR's novel every silence has a story. It aimed to find out the six component of self concept that used by the main character (Zara). Then, the writer explained the componen of self concept based on the six componentself concept on which found in the novel. Then, the writer made conclusion based on the finding and discussio

CHAPTER IV

FINDING AND DISCUSSION

This chapter consists of finding and discussion parts that show the result of the research. The writer would like to present what have been found from the Zara Zetira ZR's novel every silence has a story.

A. Finding

In this research the writer analysed by classifying the data collected from the source, i.e. Zara Zettira Novel's Every Silence Has a Story, in a table according to self-concept component they associate with. As mentioned above that Brecken has divided self-concept into six components along with their functions i.e. social, competency, affect, physical, academic, and family. To understand the way data of being collected, the writer has also provided additional code indicating location where the data was found i.e. C for chapter, P for page and D for data.

The following is The data which is firstly categorized into sub theme before being analyzed by referring to the definition of respective self concept component

2. “I am still alive, though. I have come to my senses a little bit, I guess. I don’t want to end up crippled or being handicapped from failed suicide attempss. And deep inside, I still belive that our life is not for us to decide.” (Ch.2/p.122/D.21)

4. physical

a) Beautiful

1. “ I made the semi final,then finally came as runner-up. Since then, I got addicted. I entered the Miss Indonesia pageant and won again. I entered the Mis Campus pageant and I won! I entered Miss Jakarta pageant and, guess what, I won..”(Ch.1./p90./D.22.)

b).like his mother face

5. My mother’s father came from a small island called Formosa. He spoke Taiwanese, which is again very different from Chinese Hokkian, or mandarin Chines . my mother’s mother was Dutch,so mother spoke Dutch most of the time.” (Ch.1/h.9/D.23)
6. “Today, if put my picture and my mother,s side by side, every body I bet you, will automatically tell you that we are releted, I was photocopy of her.if we were the same age we would probably pass as identical twins.” (Ch.1 /p.45 /D.24)

c). Health condition

1. “I remember closing my eyes that night a cigarette was still held between my index and middle finger, I was shaking. Smoke got my eyes. My nose was running my tears flew loke a river on my face. My face was as wet as the soil poured by rainfall and I said to good, in my heart .”

(Ch.1/ p.101/D25)

2. “So here I am . a former student of psicology, sitting in a psychiearat office, needing help, a psychological help. I almost though I was going crazy. But stragley, I don’t have any desire to kill my self anymore all I want now is to just finish this puzzle.”(Ch.2/ P.123/D.26)

3. Lylled at the reception to force her lo let me in without any appointment . I guess she couldfd tell by may appointment. I guess she could tell by aperancece that she couldn’t argue with me or mybe she though I was derngaur. So she let me in

Doctor frank was with another client started at me in fear and ran out without saying a word. My wrist was bleeding I noticed only after doctor frank placed a bandage over it the knife must have done it right befor soocher came in (Ch.3/ P. 185/ D. 27)

5. Family

a) Her Mother: dis harmony relationship

1. “How would you feel, or how are you supposed to fell when you her your mother, say this (to you, in front of you lovely darling sister and,worst of all, in front of lost of people): “ They look so different. Vira looks like a doll. A porcelain doll. Obviously she took after the Dutch side of my family.

But yaya....hmm...I am not sure which side of the family she resenbels.” And then she would give me that look. As if she was trying to analyze my weird look. As if sjhe was not even sure wheter she gave birth to me or whether I was adopted.

I really don't know why she would say such a thing. And why would she even think about such a thing? Comparing me with my sister? My skin, my eyes, my facial features, my complexion, my hair. Everything.”(Ch.1/ P. 45/ D. 28)

b) Her Father: closely connected in emotion

1. “My father and I this very special love story and mostly we communicate with unspoken words. I would understand what he wanted just by looking.” (Ch.1/ P. 42 D. 29)

2. “To tell you what to do. To correct your mistakes. To shower you with love to spoil you with hugs when you are feeling lost and confused. To provide you all the answer to anything you ask. He is my father, my love, my best friend, my teacher, my guiding light. It is from him that I have learned about life and how to live my life was my encyclopedia.” (Ch.2/ P. 120/D. 30)

3. “I love him too and I promised myself that day when the time comes and when, have for him, I would do the same exact thing for him. I will, I will not let my ears hear anything bad about my father.”(Ch.1/p.73/D.31)

6. Academic

a). Academic excellence

1 “She always been a straight A student not because I wanted to, but merely to make my mother proud. No to show off my sister, but perhaps to give a good example. “(Ch.1/p.25/D.32)

2. “...and I was there, in Depok, studying the subject that was offered to me: psychology. Well, actually they gave to me two choices .The other one was Indonesia literature .At that time, the second coice sounde like a road to become librarian or something like that, not challenging at all. Far from creativity. So I took the frst one . I chose to learn about human behavior, their thoughts and possibly their dreams too. I chose to learn about my self as a human being as well. So I had nothing to lose in learning something I could use my one good .”(Ch.1/p.88/D.33)

3. “So I left my dear university. Ifelt bad, relly. I shouldn’t have taken this scholarship to start with. I could’ve given my seat to sameone else. Someone who really wanted to bwe a good psychologist” (Ch.1/p.92/D.34)
4. “I chose to go ahead to Los Angels and took a short course in movi production instead.....”(Ch.1/p.91/D.35`)

B. Discussions :

The analysis is carried out by revealing main messages laid under the sub themes and then being confirmed to number of statements taken from the novel which, in this regard, are considered as data:

1. Social

(The social aspect of self concept is used to assess the ability of main character building interaction with others).

a) Interaction with friends

Datum 1 Looking at the way of main character interacting with her friends, the writer tends to say that she is kind of person who is always struggling in building friendship relation with people. Factors making her such kind of person are likely coming from her life history in which when she was little girl she preferred to spend her personal time in a silent way and played with her own imagination instead of getting along with all kids similar to her age.

Datum 2 As the consequence of this condition, the main character thought she only had one best friend all this time although in reality she possessed many close friends.

Datum 3 This condition was getting worse when she became a teenager and when her family faced a lot of problems. She ended up with losing her pride as her friends at school thought her family as criminal.

b) Interaction with her boy friend

Datum 4 The main character possesses a highly modern view in building loving relationship with her significant one. This is proven from her openness to propose a marriage to her boy friend.

Datum 5 as well as decision she has made of living together without marital bond. These values are definitely seen as uncommon values, even taboo, for most of people living in traditional society like as in Indonesia\

The explanation above in Self concept social main character is close with best friend, independent and she doesn't believe of change.

2. Competency

(The competency aspect of self concept is used to assess the ability of main character meeting basic needs).

a) Academic skill

Datum 6 The main character of this novel has a strong academic background as she was grown in western education environment i.e. Los Angeles, United States of America. It is widely known that standard of education is higher in quality compared to other countries in the globe including Indonesia. Previously she had a chance to pursue academic activities at one of the best universities in this country before deciding to move abroad. This can be seen from.

b) Decision making skill

Datum 7, 8 and 9 Leaving university which has been considered as the best in Indonesia is not an easy decision. It requires careful and thoughtful consideration and need big effort to convincing family.

Such a big decision was also made by main character when taking path as copywriter for her carrier. Something rarely taken by female at the time considering its nature of work and the its less prospect of getting welfare life in the future. Women tend to pursue carrier in business world which offers glamour and higher social class. For some people, especially to women, making such decision seems to be life taking battle, but the main character could do it without any fear and even bravely make her step forward to take the risk.

c) Vocational skill

Datum 10 The main character has a big talent in writing that made her standing upper position in several writing competitions since she was in the sixth grade of elementary school. The most stunning from this gift was that she even won a competition with her first writing.

Datum 11 Having carrier as a writer seems like living in a comfort zone for her as she can enjoy her work and making a lot of big jumps and stunning achievement such as getting promoted as director. This promotion crowned her as the youngest director in the media industry ever existed. All these are possible as she has made passion about writing that has been living inside of her since the beginning created huge motivation to keep learning and sharpening her creativity in writing.

Datum 12 Her career was getting progress when she returned from Los Angeles for taking writing short course. She started to spread her wings and flew into film industry as scriptwriter

Datum 13 Even in this new brand of world, the main character continued to show her talent and grabbed big attention from the film practitioners when the TV serial she wrote the script reached the highest rate on number of viewer over periods. This achievement has brought her name flying to sky of this country became monumental outcome for her hardwork and edgeless dedication to the word of writing.

Datum 14 The stunning achievements had made the main character living in a fortunated world. Money is something easy to find now.

The explanation above in Self concept competence of the main character is to makes the best. she is strong women, she has academic skill, she has a big talent in writing and she is brave to take a risk decision

3. Affect

(The affect aspect of self concept is used to assess the way of main character in expressing her feeling and emotion).

a) State of love

Datum 15 or Main Character, love is viewed as something abstract and it is a kind of mystery that is uneasy to figure out. Eventough someone has been living with that kind of feeling for a years but it remains a difficult lesson to understand.

Datum 16 Beside, love is also associated with separation fore her. This perception was born from her grief after being left and abandoned by her beloved relatives. She said that love can only be felt until people we love go away and leave us behind, dead or alive.

Datum 17 Not only the state of love which turns into something unusual, her perception towards virginity seems hardto be agreed by women in this country in which the Main Character thought that virginity is not only for husband.

b) State of grief

Datum 18 In regard to the state of grief, it can be said that the Main Character is quite vulnerable and easy to fall down into a deep sadness when facing hard and complicated problem. Sometimes the sadness she lived with was manifested into attempt of suicide. Such attempt was taken by her, for example, when she lost her father.

Datum 19 In living that kind of feeling, it seems nothing valuable in her life, even money

c) State of faith

Datum 20 Although the Main Character is considered as a vulnerable and fragile person but deep down in her heart lays a piece of strong belief that human's life or death is fully under decision of the Almighty God. This state of faith was getting stronger after she survived from her attempt of doing suicide.

Datum 21 Surviving from suicide attempt and her state of faith brought an awareness eventually that human is not created to make decision over their destiny but the God does.

The explanation above in Self concept affect main of the cracter is that our plan doesn't always succeed

4. Physical

(The physical aspect of self concept is relating to the feeling of Main Character owns about looks, health and physical condition, as well as overall appearance).

a) Beautiful

Datum 22 There were some facts that can be used as evidence in saying that the Main Character physically is georgeous. It was when she could make good results in number of peageant competition such as Miss Campus, Miss Indonesia and None Jakarta. All surely will agrees that when someone wins the crown of beauty contest, she must be pretty. Although there are still other point of judgments, instead of physical beauty, used in selecting a winner of peagent competition such as "Brain" for inteligance level and "Behaviour" for attitude, but still "Beauty" comes to the first factor if it is about to be crwoned as the winner.

b) Mixed Ethnic Origin

Datum 23 The Main Character was born from a mixed ethnic family in which her father is combination of Minang (West Sumatra) and Javanese while her mother was a mix between Chinese and Europe.

Datum 24 Although relationship between the Main Character and her mother was often up and down but she admitted that her face is a copy of her mother. Thus, physically she has a strong connection with her mother not in emotion.

c) Health condition

Datum 25 There was no any record directly stating the Main Character's health condition but if we take a look to her living style in which hard smoking and stressful life have become friend to her so it can be said that the Main Character might live in a bad health condition.

Datum 26 and 27 Particularly to her emotional stability. In some parts of this story, it was revealed that the Main Character even needed to regularly consulting her mental condition to a psychologist after facing number of harsh life experiences such as losing her father and her boyfriend.

The explanation above in Self concept physical of the main character is that she thinks beautiful, like his mother's face and she doesn't care to health.

5. Family

(The family aspect of self concept is relating to well the Main Character functions with the family unit).

a) Her Mother: disharmony relationship

Datum 28 Although physically the Main Character and her mother are alike but the relationship between them seems to take different way. There are so many conflicts occurred as the effect of unwork relationship. Her mother tends to give more attention, love and cares to her younger sister. Her mother loves to make comparison between the Main Character and her younger sister which eventually create a higher dislike feeling on her.

b) Her Father: closely connected in emotion

Datum 29 The relationship between the Main Character with her father is totally different to what happen between her and her mother. With her father, she lived with millions of love, affection and care

Datum 30 This is because her father can be a good listener and always gave her solution to every problem she has.

Datum 31 The Main Character even once promised to her father that she would always love him forever and ever, and she would give back up whatever happen to him.

The explanation above in Self concept family of the main character is that she loves her family a lot, especially to father

6. Academic

(The family aspect of self concept is relating to well the Main Character functions with the family unit).

a) Academic excellence

Datum 32 In the academic life, the Main Character always gets excellent position among the students. Since she was grade of elementary school she always becomes the champ of the class.

Datum 33 After completing her senior high school, she won a scholarship from one of the well known university e.g. Universitas Indonesia for two subject i.e. Bahasa Indonesia and Psychology but finally she decided to take Psychology.

Datum 34 and 35 After studying psychology for years, she has to end up in a big decision that is quitting from the faculty she love so much and go to Los Angeles for taking a new horizon in her life, a writer.

The explanation above in Self concept academic of the main character is that she always commits for the best in the her education

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

This chapter provides conclusion and suggestion. After analyzing the Zara Zetira's novel Every Silence Has a Story, the writer makes some conclusions and suggestions as follows:

A. Conclusions

Based on the analysis of data, the writer took several conclusions as follow:

1. Novel is a miniature of our real world. Characters who live in it are samples some kinds of us. The story of their lives in somehow tells the story of real life in many aspects including the process of deciding self concept reflect. Is this reflected in the main character of the novel "Every Silence has a Story" by Zara Zetira

There are six components that can be used in understanding the self concept adhered to the main character of the novel i.e. Social, Competency, Affect, Physical, Academic and Family. Those components are still feasible to be explored into some sub themes to see the inter-component connections in building the whole story.

After elaborating data analysis of the research and reading the novel with aim to know the self concept of the main caracter of the novel, the writer comes up with some general conclusion of each component as outlined below :

- a. Self concept social main character is close with best friend, independent and she doesn't believe of change.
 - b. Self concept competence of the main character is to make the best, she is a strong woman, she has academic skill, she has big talent in writing and she is brave to take a risk decision.
 - c. Self concept affect main of the character is that our plan doesn't succeed.
 - d. Self concept physical of the main character is that she thinks beautiful, like his mother's face and she doesn't care to health.
 - e. Self concept family of the main character is that she loves her family a lot, especially to his father.
 - f. The explanation above in Self concept academic of the main character is that she always commits for the best in her education.
2. From the process of data collection and analysis carried by the writer, it was revealed that studying a novel written in a one-way flow of story is really challenging in terms of less data availability and the connection between character of the story

B. Suggestion

Based on the conclusion above, the writer gives suggestions as the following below:

1. The writer suggests the next researchers who want to analyze self concept of a particular novel need to find more sources about the external points regarding the novel's background such as community or the country where the story takes place.
2. For the readers, the writer hopes that people are inspired of doing self concept analysis as it can be a good way to understand better who they are and how to be a good person. For the students of English Department, in particular, the writer recommends to analyze the other aspects of the novel Every Silence Has a Story with the aim of bringing clear comprehension toward this literature work.
