ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

All praises and thanks to the Almighty Allah SWT, God of worlds, and peace blessing of Allah be upon the Noblest of Messengers and Prophets, Prophet Muhammad SAW.

The researcher realized that this thesis could not be completed without getting assistance, guidance, understanding and encouragement from many people. Therefore the researcher would like to express my deepest gratitude as following:

1. Big thanks to my beloved mother as single parent, Ramliah A.Ma who has influential in my life. She always gives support and prays to all of her children for health, success and under the protection of the Almighty, Allah. Also, my father (the late) Bakri, S.Pd who tough to be fighter in wild world.
2. The writer's siblings for their loved and support, Muhammad Takbir, Jumrawani Bakri, Ainun Mardiyah, and Muhammad Hasan.
3. The rector of UIN Alauddin Makassar, Prof. Dr. H. Musafir Pababbari, M.Si for his advice during the period when researcher studied at the university.
4. The Dean of Adab and Humanities Faculty Dr. H. Barsihannor, M.Ag and his staff, the Head of English and Literature Department, Dr. Kustiwan Syarief, S.Ag., M.A., Ph.D and secretary of English and Literature

Department, Syahrynu Junaid, S.S., M.Pd for their support, help and encouragement.

5. Dr. Rosmah Tami, S.Ag., M.Sc., MA as the first supervisor and also Hj. Nahdhiyah, S.S., M.Pd as the second supervisor who always give comments, guidance, suggestions, corrections, and over all support since preliminary part of this thesis until the end.
6. The writer's gratitude is also addressed to all the lecturers of Adab and Humanities Faculty, for their knowledge, enlightenment, and advice during the academic years. Also the administrative officers of Adab and Humanities Faculty for their help, service and administrative support.
7. The writer's thanks is addressed to Andi Haris Asbal who borrowed his laptop during thesis writing was held.
8. The writer's thanks are addressed to the beloved friends in English Literature Department, especially writer's classmate AG 5.6 for happy and grief condition was hand in hand together during four years.
9. Members of HMI and DEMA (Dewan Mahasiswa) in Adab and Humanities Faculty, Alauddin State Islamic University Makassar whom have big influence to the researcher how to organizing an institution both in academic and social life.
10. The writer's thanks are addressed to all of the volunteers in KOMPASNA (Komunitas Pemerhati Anak Bangsa) for their support and sharing as volunteers in rimland that make researcher aware of the importance of sharing knowledge with others.

11. All of people who helped the researcher when the research was done in Tana Toa, Kajang, Bulukumba and also people whom the researcher cannot mention one by one.

Finally the researcher is sure that this thesis far from being perfect, so the researcher sincerely appreciates the constructive criticism from the readers.

Title : Structure of Myth in Kelong Basing (Requiem from Kajang)
Supervisor 1 : Dr. Rosmah Tami, S.Ag., M.Sc., MA
Supervisor II : Hj. Nahdhiyah, S.S., M.Pd

Kelong basing is one of the most beautiful regional sound arts which are contained in Pasang ri Kajang. The sound art is in the form of song in which there are several kinds of songs to entertain human journey from world to funeral, from funeral to Allo ri Boko (hereafter) and also contents advice to human. As a literary work, it certainly has a meaning of myth. Therefore, this research discussed about structural of myth in kelong basing as requiem from Kajang. This research aimed to analyze the meaning of myth in kelong basing (requiem from Kajang) based on method by Levi-Strauss.

The result of research, myth of kelong basing content of ceritheme variation is look at by: (1) the wish of the spirits, (2) advice. From that ceritheme can make in the linguistic Levi-Strauss, example binary oposition in three songs KBH, KBP and KBAR which related each other. Based on the variation ceritheme, the researcher conclude that the meaning of mtyh in kelong basing is about how to life in the word for getting easy journey to final destination, Allo ri Boko (hereafter).

The researcher concluded that kelong basing has turned out to have a correlation with Islam, it is shown the meaning of kelong basing with the Surah An-Nazi'at verses 37-41.

Key words: kelong basing, myth, structur

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background

In the modern era, many genres of music are loved by youth people. Most of them like pop music. A good illustration of this is the booming of broadcasting music program or music competition in TV. Now days, dangdut, a genre of Indonesia folk and traditional popular music is famous in this country and others like Malaysia, Singapore and Brunei. In many cultures, music is an important part of the way of people's life played in religion ritual, e.g, death ritual, passage ceremonies, social activities such as music which allowed to dance, and pleasure. In spite of the fact that pop music and dangdut are popular in society, Kelong basing as traditional music shows the existence in Kajang Customary Community.

Kelong basing is derived from two words, kelong and basing. Kelong means a song and basing means a long flute, traditional instrument made from bamboo. Further, kelong basing is a song accompanied by a long flute that played two male musicians who play bamboo instrument and other two female musicians who sing the song. It is played as reminding Kajang customary community about death, lay dead person down to have a sweet dream such as lullaby. It also contains about pray to have tranquility life which refers to requiem (forming of music) to dead person played in church conducted as death ritual.

Kelong basing is one of important parts at death ritual performed when the day of people die and the event of death ritual. It is concerned with a number of death rituals namely akdampok wealthy family, a'lajo-lajo for family who has not high income and dangang biasa for commoners. As a result of this, before performing kelong basing, the family has to decide the type of death ritual what they want to conduct based on their financial condition (Herlina, 2015:35).

Kelong Basing as the pray song performed for delivering to death people reaped pro-contra in society for generally people profess Islam religion. As usual Islam people deliver pray by using Al-Quran which became tools. Although, Kajang society in their identity card written Islam but they believe “patuntung mannuntungi”. It’s their belief and hold Pasang ri Kajang as their life directive to do their daily activities.

The existence of negative stigma from others and calling local belief like ritual as myth cannot excepted toward the ritual belief, so, it was led the researcher as part of Kajang population to elevate this research with clearly explain about myth in the second chapter, hopefully, it made to open up the mindset of differences of opinion and view on trust.

Many researchers took Kajang as the object of place in their thorough shown that there was only one research focusing on death ritual speech including kelong basing namely Herlina Sahib conducted in 2015 under the title Entextualization and Gendre Transformation of Kajang Death Ritual Speech. Accordingly, this research was only focus on analyzing kelong basing that consist in linguistic structural method by using Levi-Strauss theory. The researcher had not found out the similarity of this research before, in literary work that belong basing as the object yet.

The available of Levi Strauss' theory becomes bridge or mediator to give understanding and opening mindset to the public how they respect other belief with seeing the same purpose in literary concept.

This study was using structural method developed by Levi-Strauss to express the meaning of the myth itself. He argued that myths had structures that was similar to linguistics. If linguistics were used to convey messages, so do myths. In myth contained the various structures and meanings of the various elements present in myth (Ahimsa, 1995:5). Data analysis using Levi-Strauss linguistic models, he suggested that the analysis and interpretation were done through two steps; 1. Compare myths to one another, 2. Associate ethnographically from the society in which the myths emerge (Suwardi,. 2009).

B. Research Question

Based on background the research questions are as follows:

1. What is Kelong Basing (requiem from Kajang)?
2. How does Kelong Basing exist in Kajang society?
3. How is the ceritheme or mytheme based on structural analysis applying Levi Strauss' theory?

C. Objective of Research

Objective of researches are as follows:

1. To know more about Kelong basing based on the point of view from literary word og Kelong basing itself and also based informant's understanding.
2. To clarify the first Kelong Basing exist in Kajang society and still being performed now days.
3. To know the cerytheme or mytheme by using Levi Strauss' theory?

D. Significance of Research

This research was hoped to provide some theoretical and practical contributions as follows:

The research gave contribute thought and enriched the knowledge to understand the myths in Kelong basing. In the fact of this, myths did not definite as trust or belief that can occur pro-contra between people who whether or not by seeing the relationship every elements each others.

Practically, the research provided more comprehensions of the structural linguistics methods developed by Levi-Strauss in analyzing myths in Kelong basing.

E. Scope of Research

Based on objective of research, scope of research focused on myth in Kelong basing text using structural method by Levi-Strauss.

CHAPTER II

LITERARY REVIEW

A. Review of Related Research

There are a couple of researches discussing about Kajang as follow as:

Herlina Sahib. Entextualization and Genre Transformation of Kajang Death Ritual Speech, Hasanuddin University Makassar, 2015. In her research, she focused on the entextualization of Pasang ri Kajang into death ritual speech include kelong basing, pappisakbi and deppok by analyzing at three distinctive texts, interconnected in textual levels: denotational, mediatioanal, and interactional text. In her thesis, she used qualitative method with observation and interview in revealing linguistic features of Kajang death ritual speech, the process of entextualization of Pasang ri Kajang was elaborated into decontextualization and recontextualization which used Saussure's and Peirce's theory. The result indicated that linguistic features in Kajang death ritual speech were observed in parallelisms and metaphors, process entextualization. Pasang ri Kajang could be elaborated into hierarchical divisions by extracting text decontextually and recontextually. Process of entextualization could contribute to the transformation of Pasang ri Kajang such as observed in the death ritual (dangang dampok, the highest death ritual). Social relations constructed were humbleness, harmonization, social power and kinship.

Harlinah Sahib, Tallasa 'kamase-Mase (Humble Life Principle): A Cultural Value Of Ammatowa Customary Communities, Kajang, Bulukumba Regency, South-Sulawesi Province, English Department, Hasanuddin University, Indonesia, 2015. She focused in two aspects, the causes of Ammatowa customary community were so obedient in carrying out tallasa kamase-kamase and the ways to maintain tallasa kamase-mase in modern era. Based on those two aspects she found that Ammatowa customary community were obedient due to they believe God (Tu rie' A'ra'na) promise a happy life to the human being at the end of their lives which related to Pasang ri Kajang "Anre' kalumanyang ri linoa, mingka ri ahere pi niuppa". And also to maintain tallasa kamasemase in modern era was done by not following reformation or reduce any kinds of influences that were not messaged by their ancestors. Another way to maintain this life principle was to carry out the customary feast and customary rituals which was taught from one generation to the next.

Basrah Gising, Simbolisme Dalam Tradisi Lisan Pasang ri Kajang: Tinjauan Semiotik, UNHAS: Bahasa dan Seni Tahun 40, NO. 2, Agustus 2012. In his research, he took sample in 9 Pasang ri Kajang by using cultural behavior and cultural artifact to investigated in symbol. He found that in nine Pasang ri Kajang had a domain relationship with forming the substance concept of the hydrological cycle in ecology. He discussed in nine Pasang ri Kajang using personification in the process of hydrological circulation which described the evaporation process of water ions into clouds, then into the rain, flowing into the low ground and again evaporating into the atmosphere. In addition, there was a relationship between nature and humans in the continuity of the hydrological cycle.

Basrah Gising, The Belief System of the People Of Kajang: A Perspektif In Religion Anthroppology, "Al-Qalam" volume 17 nomor 1 Januari- Juni 2011. He focused in system of worship and religion behavior of Kajang indigenous people. In this research he found two worships of inner Kajang, there were; first sambajang tattappu which release their transcendental activities to Riek A'ra'na (God) every time by three ways: 1) take your God to your sholder when you are walking, 2) hold your God in your lap when you are seating down, 3) embrance your God when you are sleeping. Second is je'ne talukka, ablotion water never canceled, by doing wash their hand, leg, mouth and face, which means: 1) wash your hand for not stolen, 2) wash your face include your ayes for not seeing bad thing, 3) wash or clean your mouth for not saying uncorrect thing (laying), 4) wash your leg for not going anywhere for do bad thing (sin). So inner Kajang, people thought that the body and spirit clean were the most important in worship in daily activity.

Samiang Katu, Local Islam In Indonesia: Religion "Patuntung" In Kajang, JICSA volume 03-number 02, Dec 2014. He focused on the concept of God in Pasang ri Kajang which were relevant to the concept Islam theology. In this journal, he found which there were parallelisms between the teachings of Islam and the teaching of Pasang ri Kajang in the form of great respect to the substance of God and the prophet was the concrete evidence of Islam accommodation to local culture which cannot be separated to the Islamization in Soth Sulawesi in early seventeenth century

AD. The accommodation between Islam teaching and local culture contained of Pasang ri Kajang were seen in the concept that called Appa Panggentung tanaya na pattukkulu'na langi', four things and the hanger of erth and sky that were summarized in the phrase lambusu (honest), gattang (firm), sabbara (patient), and apisona (surrender) in line with concept of islam teachings called constancy, patient, honest, and fair.

Syamsurijal, Islam Patuntung: Temu-Tengkar Islam Dalam Tradisi Lokal di Tanah Toa Kajang, "Al-Qalam" Volume 20 nomor 2 Desember 2014. He found the practice of praying patuntung already mingle with the teachings of Islam with the word "Tu Riek Akrakna" referred to almighty God and "Nabi Muhammad" in Sanro's prayer lyrics when invoking prayer in kalomba ritual. In this research, there were similarities and differences between Patuntung and the teachings of Islam; 1). Akkattere is a haircut ritual as a haj of Kajang customary society, 2) beliefs of revelation, Kajang customary believed the Al- Quran but it is not 30 juz but 40 juz including 10 juz in Patuntung as oral.

Bungawati, Budaya Akkattere dan Implikasinya terhadap Pengalaman Hukum Indonesia di Kajang, UIN alauddin Makassar, 2017. She found that Akkattere as the custom which was used as the implementation law of Hajj in customary Kajang community was not in accordance with the teachings of Islam based on Al-Imran (3:97). She thought Akkattere was 'Urf which contradicts the shari'ah of Islam that was throwing away the treasures because the preparation of Akkattere was quite expensive, and they did not do how the pilgrimage process in accordance with the teachings of Islam.

Ahmad M. Abdullah, Hafied Cangara, Maahmud Tang, Komunnikasi Tradisional Kajang di Tengah Transformasi Komunikasi dan Informasi, Komunikasi KAREBA vol. 3, No. 2 April-Juni 2014. He focused to describe the picture of traditional community life Kajang and how Ammatowa efforts made in face of transformation and communication with the situation unfolding currently. In this research they found that traditional community Kajang had a firm attitude rejecting the transformation from the outside that lead to negative things, they only took positive benefits, examples diligent learning in adding knowledge. They accepted the transformation of communication and information if there was an equivalent to the values and norms in Kajang that were highly regarded by the community. Therefore the researchers also found that there was a change in communication patterns that caused people to realize the importance of language to know and learn the world around so that, young people not only used Konjo language.

Heryati, konsep islam dalam Pasang ri Kajang sebagai suatu kearifan local tradisional dalam sistem bermukim pada komunitas ammatoa Kajang. Jurusan Arsitektur UNG Gorontalo. She focused in the power of customary law (pasang) as a traditional local wisdom of Ammatoa Kajang communication and link between customary laws with the concept of Islam in the system settled in Ammatoa Kajang area. This research, she found local wisdom in living systems what was seen in the house model which was a reflection of the cosmological concept, 1) the top of nature, para, the roof was useful to homeowners seeing or hearing if there is somebody intend evil, 2) the center of nature, kale bola, there was spacious spaces for use as a gathering place, the community hold a custom meeting or receives the guest refers to QS. Al-Hujarat 13 verse, 3) the under nature, siring, under the house was used as a place to establish social relations between neighbors and fellow nuclear families refers to QS. Al-Hujarat 13 verse.

Mimi Arifin, Ruang Hunian dalam Perspektif komunitas Ammatoa Kajang Sulawesi Selatan, Temu Ilmiah IPLBI 2013. He used phenomenology with heuristic analysis in his research. He got result that residential space of Kajang customary community was an expression and embodiment of the values, norms and ideas and behavior of its inhabitants. Spaces were physically (house and environment) and non-physical (sense of ownership, necessity and functionality) that supported each other's system of daily and temporal survival.

An examination from many researches above describing Kajang customary community was shown that there was only one research focusing on death ritual speech including Basing namely Herlina Sahib conducted in 2015 under the title Entextualization and Gendre Transformation of Kajang Death Ritual Speech. However this research was only discussing about linguistic aspect. Therefore, in this research, basing will be focused in linguistic structural method which was looking for meaning in myth.

Accordingly, the idea was about somebody goes to Makassar. In linguistic aspect, this sentence will be uncorrected because the structure does not appropriate.

According to Levi-Strauss, to analyze myth, the meaning of word in the story shows not only its meaning itself but also something else follows; world, society, and history.

B. Conceptual Framework .

1. Structuralism

Structuralism is course in philosophy, linguistic, psychiatry, religious phenomenology, economics and politics. Therefore, structuralism investigates the fixed patterns in languages, religions, economic and political systems and literary works (Mudhofir, 1988: 92). Human is perceived as a functioning element in variation. The human function in the whole structure is compared with the function of the word in a text which is the human is not the subject but the object. Humans as historical beings and as free subjects which became the theme of poko in existentialist philosophy do not appear in the philosophy of structuralism to be described as the result of structures and no longer as the creator of structure (Munir, 2015).

According to Hawkes (1978) stated that structuralism is a way of thinking about the world as it relates to perceptions and descriptions of structures. The structure of the system of elements and relations are interconnected and is an organized whole. According to Piaget in Hawkes (1978: 16) the structure is an order of beings that includes wholeness, transformation, and self-regulation. Wholeness means that the stage form is not just the only one but every component join on it which attached to the intrinsic and not having free authority outside the structure. Transformation means that structuralism is not static but dynamic and new materials continue to be processed by. While self-regulation means the structure never asks for outside help to carry out the procedure of transformational.

a. Structuralism by Levi-Strauss

Thinking of Levi-Strauss is so interesting and influential but it was not easily to be understood by the socio-cultural scientists in Indonesia. Among the factors that make Lévi-Strauss's thinking are not easily to be understood because first the structural paradigm of Lévi-Strauss is much inspired by linguistics, a discipline that is not so popular to several socio-cultural experts in Indonesia (except among linguists only). Second, Lévi-Strauss's structural paradigm is also a new epistemology in socio-cultural science that is different from the positivistic epistemology shared by most socio-cultural scientists in Indonesia (Ahimsa, 2001: 3-4)

Based on Levi- Strauss' analysis, he used structural linguistic models to describe the existing culture in society, this cannot be separated from the figures influencing thinking such as Ferdinand de Saussure, Roman Jakobson and Nikolai Traubetzky what sets them apart from Levi-Strauss is their way of applying the linguistic models in the analysis, as well as the linguistic course that they have taken as the source of analysis. The influence of thought from Saussure in the form of a signifier and signified view in linguistic, Levi-Strauss views culture as a symbolic system so as to understand a particular cultural device, so that, people must see in connection with the overall system in which the system is symbolized. Such subscriptions produce patterns, how the symbol elements are interrelated logically and form the whole system. Those are linguistic rules that will form the binary opposition relationships utilized by Levi-Strauss to understand the myths in society.

Levi-Strauss took a structured linguistic model developed by Ferdinand de Saussure. Saussure argues that language has two aspects: langue and parole. Langue is social aspect yang are shared in the language while parole is a dialect speech individually. This language and parole differences can be applied in other communication systems such as myth, music and others. (Ahimsa, 1999:7)

Structuralism by Levi was also adopted Jakobson's thinking about phonemes, the phoneme is the smallest element of language that distinguishes meaning however the existing order behind such a varied cultural phenomenon, the model of phonem analysis is helpful to express meaning (Ahimsa, 2001:55).

The linguistic model abused in structural analysis can be either homoemorph or paramorph. Homoemorph is the subject of the model being the source, for example, dolls are models used to replace babies, while the paramorph is the subject and the source is not the same, for example double helix is a model for DNA molecules, but this double helix is made on the basis of a simple mechanical structure, not on the basis of the reality of DNA (Pettit, 1997). This paramorph model is used by Levi Strauss in his structural analysis.

Levi-Strauss looks at the phenomenon of social-culture, such as clothing, food menu, myths, rituals, as well as linguistic symptoms, i.e. as a sentence or text. In everyday life, we can find the social-culture symptoms such as sentences or text due to requirements that fulfilled.

Hence in this perspective, Levi-Strauss looks at language and culture as a result of the wide variety of activities that are essentially the same. He termed the activity uninvited guest which means human mind. And therefore this kind of cooperation between language and culture is not due to problems relating to a kind of a causal relationship between language and culture but since both products or the result of human mind (Ahimsa , 2001:26). With regard to the cooperation, he said that there is no cooperation which has full hundred percent. Otherwise there is no cooperation at all that it is not possible. "Some kind of correlation exists between certain things on certain levels, and our main task is to determine what these things are and what levels are" (Lévi-Strauss, 1963:79)

For determining the rate which cooperatives are, and to each other, an anthropologist must be able to analyze that aligns with the people of linguistic or linguistic phenomenon. So it's strongly recommended to cooperate between linguists and anthropologists to compare the expression and concept about time landscape language and on a level kinship system or relation individual. Levi-Strauss's structuralism in implicit considers the text of narrative, as well as myth, similar to a sentence based on two things. First, the text is a unified meaning which can be considered to embody, express, the circumstances of the author's thought, as does the sentence shows a speaker's thought. The meaning of the text of the narrative is more than just the meaning that can be captured from single sentences that make up the texts.

Second, the text provides evidence that it is articulated from its parts like a sentence which it is articulated by word to form sentences. A text is the collection of events that make up a story and displays the figure in motion. Structuralism of Levi-Strauss follows a view that the meaning of story like sentence is the result of an articulation process (Pettir L, 1977)

Based on two perceptions above that first, the meaning of a text depends on the meaning of its parts. This means that if the meaning of a part changes it will also change the overall meaning of the text. Second, the meaning of each event in a text is determined by events that may replace it without making the text meaningless or absurd. So the meaning of new events will appear after we connect between events and backgrounds.

Through linguistic rules applied by Levi, researchers tried to find a ceritheme or mytheme, according to Ahimsa (1998), ceritheme or mytheme in Levi-Strauss' analysis equals mytheme or lexical by Barthes. Ceritheme or mytheme is words, phrases, sentences, sections of paragraphs that indicate certain meanings that can be positioned in a particular relation with other narratives. Ceritheme or mytheme describes an experience, nature, life background, social interaction and others. Ceritheme or mytheme has different context of the story so that the researcher needs to arrange syntagmatic and pragmatic to make it easier to know the meaning of myth in the analysis of kelong basing.

Researchers take the example in research conducted by Neneng Yanti Kh (2009: 318), she analyzes myth using linguistic structural Levi-Strauss method in Kisah Pedagang dan Jin, fairy tale on Seribu Satu Malam.

She focused in three figures (F), old man I (OM I), old man II (OM II). The three figures are found relationships between characters and events that surround it.

Table 1.

F	Man	Middle age	Rich (many wives)	Trader	Travelling
OM I	Man	Old	Rich (two wives)	Trader	Travelling
OM II	Man	Old	Rich (one wife/jinn)	Trader	Doing a cruise

Based on the table above, she found that there is a transformation in ceritheme or mytheme marking with the transformation between the three characters. Also found in the opposition pair and elements that can unify. In ceritheme or mytheme of the age of OM I and OM II is an old man. The age is opposed to the middle-aged F, OM I and F are opposed to OM II with one wife and the jinn as well. But the third profession's, their profession is reunited with opposition in various ceritheme or mythemes. All three are both tradesmen and travel.

a.1 Structural and Transformation

Several important concepts in Levi-Strauss' structuralism are structural and transformation concepts. According to him, structural is model made by anthropologist to apprehend and illustrate cultural symptom when be analyzed which is not related to cultural phenomenology itself. This model is connected to relations that influence each other.

Structural structure analyzing is divided into two kinds namely; first, surface structure is relations between the elements making based on the external or empirical on it. Second, deep structure is the particular arrangement which building on surface structure creation, but not always on the empirical side of the phenomena in generally. Deep structure is arranged with analyzing and comparing various surface structures built. So, deep structure is more suitable for use in understanding cultural phenomena. (Ahimsa,2001:61)

The deep structure is used as a model to understand the phenomenon under study because through this structure, researcher will understand the cultural phenomena studied. Surface structures is such as myths, kinship systems, costumes unlike the inner structure which is a surface structure that can be realized the meaning while the deep structure is not realized (Tasrif,2007:232). By examining myths, Levi Staruss uses a structural paradigm to reveal the logic behind the myth that appears from the surface structure. The logic is realized from the activities of human daily life. Various cultural phenomena are a form of reason (Sutrisno and Putranto 2005:121).

Levi Strauss focused on the myths contained in every fairy fragmentarily. According to him, myths are its own narrative, especially related to certain aspects of culture. Basically myths are cultural messages to community members. He said that myth in context had a structure in which empirical reality is presented logically in the content of the myth (Tasrif, 2007:215)

The definition of transformation in this study differs from the generally knowing, the transformation context is defined as the transfiguration. It means that in a transformation occurring is a change at the surface level.

Although, the changes occurring in the same sentence empirically indicate the difference and change, in the context of transformation, the meaning or message contain the same.

In the scope of symbolism, transformation is most clearly seen in language, for example:

- a. I go to Makassar (S V O
- b. Go I to Makassar (O S V)
- c. Go to Makassar I (V O S)

Empirically, these sentences clearly indicate differences and changes, but the meaning or message remains the same, namely: the subject will go to a certain place. The arrangement of the elements. Element "I" in each sentence changes at the surface level but also occurs in the sentence occupying different positions, So the message of the sentence or its internal structure remains the same.

In a structural perspective, culture is basically a series of transformations of certain structures that are behind them. In structural analysis researcher can construct a transformation sequence from the phenomenon under study. After getting the transformation of the phenomenon, we can build a model that can explain or help researchers understand the phenomena that occur in society, the owner of the culture. From here, the researcher will then see a structure that is fixed, unchanging. This structure is said to be deep structure, from various symbols of the process of symbolizing socio-cultural phenomena in anthropology.

According to Ahimsa (2001: 65) Structural analysis has also opened up the possibility to put forward estimates about cultural transformations taking place in society, both in the past and in the future. Structural analysis can basically be applied to any cultural phenomenon or smaller elements, the goal is to find the structure of the phenomenon under study.

2. Myth

According to Badcock (1975 : 52- 55), definition of myth is something tells a story that does not convey common sense information, it is not for political purpose. It serves no utilitarian end whatsoever, and convey no information about the everyday world. Nor is it necessarily morally or political pedagogic. It is this boundary explaining that myth is a specific story that is part of an interesting cultural phenomenon. According to Levi-Strauss in Ember and Ember (1986:48), socio-cultural phenomenon is a representation of outer structures based on internal and human structures. Levi Strauss (1974:232) explained that in myth there are unstructured units (structural) relationships, but a unity of relationships can be combined and used to reveal the meaning behind the myth itself.

Analyzing the meaning of myth, the word of the story must be separated to mythical discourse. However, the meaning is looked by seeing the other combination of story where it creates meaning because of oppositional. So that, myth shows not only its meaning but also something else by meaning of about world, society, and history (Ahimsa, 2001:95).

Although myth tells about fairy tale, there are many messages contained in it. These messages are not stored only in one myth but in their entirety from myth. So as to look for the meaning of myth, what needs to be considered is the overall meaning of the story not just from one word.

a. Myth and Human Mind

Levi-Strauss is interested to knowing basic human mind principles to cultural phenomena both “primitive” thinking and “modern” thinking. According to him, knowing the principle, researchers will experience many obstacles in using modern thinking because modern thinking has many patterns of thought that exist in their culture. It is gotten in the middle living conditions supported by high technology, and have been influenced and shaped by the education system.

Modern thinking will ignore that something cannot be explained scientifically, they only believe around the world we see, smell, taste, and perceive (Lévi-Strauss, 1955). They have a lifestyle that is influenced by many aspects, such as technology, education, pop culture and politics. Thus, if a researcher wants to know primitive thinking, basic logic in a form that is still not contaminated by an artificial environment like modern humans.

One of cultural phenomena which comes from human mind is a myth. According to Levi-Strauss that myth in structuralism context is only fairy tale which is believed by other people. Myth is also not a "holy" story like the other mythical understanding that says that myth will lead to the word with God, as in the Apollo story ritualized by the Delos community in the form of singing (Barbara Kowalzig, 2007:68). What is considered sacred, it considered mediocre by other groups.

b. Myth and Language

Cultural research can be approached by studying the language, through language we can get to know the local culture. Language becomes a tool for viewing logical relations, opposition, correlation, analysis of relationships with one another (Susilo Pradoko, 2001).

Example, word “rice” in English when this word is translated to Indonesia it will refer to several words. Start from here, researcher will cultural context and the cause of the description of some words against "rice" in English.

One of the cultural phenomena studied by Levi-Strauss is myth, he described the existence of language and mythical features. First, language is a medium, a tool to communicate, to convey messages from one individual to another, as well as to myths. Myth is delivered through the language and inside it contains story-shaped messages.

Second, following de Saussure view about language having langue and parole aspects. Langue is social aspect shared in the language while parole is dialectical expressions of an individual nature (Ahimsa, 1999). According Levi Strauss view, parole is statistical aspect from language arising from the concrete use of language, while the langue aspect of a language is its structural aspect.

Language is a langue in reversible time, due it is regardless of the diachronic timeframe but the language as a parole cannot be detached from the time device or is non-reversible time.

According to Levi-Strauss, myth is in two times at once, specifically present and past. The fact showing that myth always refers to past is marked with using words “A long time ago”, “one day” in beginning paragraph. In addition, the distinctive patterns of myth are a feature that keeps myths relevant and operational in the current context. Certain patterns expressed by myths, described by myths are timeless, unbound by time, or in reversible time. These patterns explain what happened in the past, but at the same time explain what is happening in the present and the future. “Explains the presents and the past, as well as the feature”(Lévi-Strauss, 1963:209).

The third characteristic of the myth is, the myth can be in reversible time and non-reversible time at the same time that does not exist in the nature of the language. It means a story that happened in the past for example Sangkuriang story that is believed by the community that the character really exist in the past and will remain.

There are some of the foundations by Levi-Strauss in the structural analysis of myths (Ahimsa, 1963: 211), namely

- 1) The meaning of myth does not exist in its own elements which are separated from one another, but these elements are combined with each other

- 2) Myth is not just language, only certain characteristics are found in the characteristics of language. A characteristic feature of myth is that it can be felt, captured, understood, as a myth by anyone.
- 3) Myths are more complex, than other forms of language, because the meaning of myth has broader meaning through the analysis of the smallest part of the myth namely ceritheme.

3. Kajang Customary Community

Kajang customary community area is in the administrative area of Tana Toa village, Kajang, Bulukumba district, South Sulawesi. So it also called Tanah Toa custom area. From the city of Bulukumba the location of the customary area is 56 km through on Tanete, while from the city of Makassar it reaches 250 km.

Based on the socio-cultural community, Kajang area is divided into two parts "Kajang in" and "Kajang outside". Kajang in refers to the community areas that still follow ancestral tradition so that it is still maintained the authenticity of traditional values and culture of society both in religion, social, culture, and ecology, while Kajang outside refers to the society area that has been touched by modernism life.

The language used by Kajang peoples to communicate is Konjo language which it is still allied with the Makassar language but Konjo language has different distinctive dialect from other areas and languages of Makassar itself.

a. Mitology of Kajang Society

Islam believes that the Prophet is the first man who was sent down to earth along with his wife and then gave birth to a child. Adam's descendants thrive and make lifestyle also create civilization from time to time until the present age of globalization. Certain the beginning of human life according to Kajang society's mythology also has its own story. Kajang community believe that the first human in the world is Amma Toa carrying messages from Turiek Akrakna (Almighty God) to human and have to done by Amma To's generation to the next. These messages are called pasang (Ramli and Andhika, 2012: 38).

Amma Toa as the first human being in the word, he delivers the wise saying to his generation, pasang. In addition, amma toa has a role as mediator between human being and Tu Riek Akrakna and between Tu Riek Akrakna and human being. Therefore, Pasang ri Kajang is not instructed directly to the common people but through the first mankind. Amma towa has function to mediate ethnic Kajang expectations and divinity conception.

4. Kelong Basing* (Requiem from Kajang)

The word basing means a long flute, a traditional musical instrument made from bamboos and accompanied by kelong basing (basing song). There are two basing prayer (pakbasing) played by man and two basing singers played by woman (pakelong basing). Basing song is primary items in death ritual event that performed when a person stop breathing.

Taken from <http://budaya-indonesia.org/Basing-Musik-kematian-dari-Kajang>, Perpustakaan Digital Budaya Indonesia

According to Herlina, there are eleven types of kelong basing can be seen as follows:

- a) Kelong basing Tempa Sorong is a song for the death which has not lyrics because of worship.
- b) Kelong basing Rikong, a song for a death and life
- c) Kelong basing Iok-iok, it is a lullaby
- d) Kelong basing Tinke-tingkere, pampered song
- e) Kelong basing Leko'-Leko', entertaining song
- f) Kelong basing Hammancia, entertain song
- g) Kelong basing Palamojong, entertaining song
- h) Kelong basing Ati-ati Raja, entertaining song
- i) Kelong basing Dondak, entertaining song

- j) Kelong basing Sio Sayang, entertaining song
- k) Kelong basing Cui-cui Didi, guesses, entertaining song

CHAPTER III

METHODOLOGY OF RESEARCH

A. Research method

This research will be used qualitative method. According to Maleong in Drs. Kuntjojo (2009), qualitative methodology is a research procedure that produces descriptive data in the form of written or oral words or behavior of the community that can be observed.

Qualitative is the kinds of discoveries that cannot be achieved by using quantitative. Qualitative research is used to examine community life, history, behavior, organizational functionalization, social activities. So using this method, researchers will discover and understand what is hidden behind the phenomena that occur in society (Pupu, 2009:2)

Descriptive is procedure to solve the problem analyzing by describing the subject or object research such as novel, drama, story or poem which related to the fact appearing or drawing in field. (Nawawi, 1995: 63). However, Descriptive research aims on current issues or problems through a process of data collection that enables them to describe the situation more completely than was possible without employing this method.

B. Source of Data

Source of data in this research is the result from interview. The interview will be done such as question-answer by the researcher and the informant namely:

Ammatoa, public figure in Kajang community, the subdistrict office, pakbasing (basing player), pakelong basing (basing singer)

C. Techniques of Data Collection

1. Interview

Interview is technique of data collection with asking and answering between researcher and respondents, the right parties such as Ammatoa, public figure in Kajang community, pakbasing (basing player), pakelong basing (basing singer).

2. Recording

In Kajang, the electronic tools are strongly forbidden in Amma Toa's area so the researcher only use note taking while interview him. Recording is used when interview the informant except Amma Toa. Not only recording, the researcher also use camera to take a picture and video.

3. Note taking

All data collection from the informants from technique of interviewing, recording is well understood by researcher to get the information, therefore note taking is also used while collecting the data.

D. Technique of Data Analysis

There are two techniques in analyzing structural myths, namely:

1. Looking for mytheme

According to Levi-Strauss, mytheme is elements in the construction of mythical discourse and also unit that it tends to oppositional, relative, and negative. Following Jakobson about phonem, it refers to “purely differential and contentless sign” (1985:145). Thus, for analyze a myth or story, the meaning of the word in the story must be separated from the meaning of mytheme. He thinks meaning of myth not showing myth significance itself but it has to combined to elements by elements such as world, society and history.

2. Arranging mytheme

After researcher find mytheme, it is the form of sentences indicating certain relationships exist in a few myths. That mytheme, researcher will write in index, each index will be given number based on the order of story. This number aims researcher to find specific function that called relations.

E. Instrument of research

1. Interview paper is used when researcher gave questions to informants
2. Recorder was used to record the data while the researcher used note card to note what instruments said.
3. Camera or smartphone was used to take picture and video to get the data when the researcher was talking to the informants.

CHAPTER IV

FINDING AND DISCUSSION

A. Finding

After conducted interview with several informants, note taking and recording during field reseach, the researcher analysed kelong basing into the structural of myth which was related to the finding and discussion.

1. Kelong Basing

Kelong basing consists of two words namely kelong which means singing while basing means bamboo. Kelong basing is a song accompanied by music instruments made of small bamboo which is called bulo. Kelong basing is performed by two men as music instrument players and two women as singers.

According to H. Mansur Embas (08/06/2018) stated that kelong basing is Pasang ri Kajang which is sung in the ritual death to entertain human journey to other world called to allo ri boko (hereafter).

Besides, taking about the the hole lyric of the songs, Kelong Basing were containing stories that happened in the past and then retold in the form of songs, so that there was a process of recalling people who are still alive. Not only in the form of stories that happened in the past but also in the form of praise or grand songs that led the spirits while they went to the end of their journey, hereafter. According to Puto Rudding (02/08/2018) when the kelong basing was played it will make the person remember the good behavior done by the person who died during his life.

The researcher visited Amma Toa as tribal chief to know more what kelong basing is in (08/08/2018). He stated that there were two types of kelong basing, namely:

a) Kelong kamangeang

The definition of kamangeang is to go somewhere, in te spite of this, Kelang kamangeang is a song intended such as salvation prayers for the spirits who are traveling to hereafter. The song is usually sung on the day of death and the anniversary of death such as the nights of 20, 30, 40, 50, 70, 80, 100. Kelong basing is performed in that night until the day of release called akdangang.

According to Puto Topo (08/02/2018) the akdangang is divided into 3 types, namely: baca doang, aklajo-lajo, dampok. Among the three types of akdangang above, the family will choose one that will be carried out on their release day according to family finance. When the family has a good finance, they will choose dampok by slaughtering two buffaloes while releasing by calling 38 adat and karaeng stakeholders. Families who have enough finance, choose aklajo-lajo by slaughtering one buffalo and calling 26 adat and kareng stakeholders. Meanwhile, if the family has a lack of finance, then they can choose baca doang, they do not slaughter buffaloes at all and present local customs and government.

In kelong basing there are also kelong kamaeng, the song is the song that is intended for the living person usually in the form of a warning, advice in carrying out life in this world. Based on Puto Rudding (02/082018) kelong kamaeng is also called basing cakkodo-kodo. This song is like that found in kelong basing Palamojong whose contents are in the form of advice about not to overdo everything, kelong basing Ati-ati Raja, kelong basing dondak.

Based on H. Mansur Embas (08/06/2018) stated that kelong kamaeang contains rules, norms, customs, and advice so that the people of Kajang always carry out what is stated in the Pasang ri Kajang.

b) Kelong pakbaruga

Kelong pakbaruga is a song performed in welcoming guests, welcoming new birth, akkarena, anggaru and kelong jaga. The song is also intended as entertainment and advice for others.

Because kelong basing is a traditional art, both pakelong and pakbasing must fulfill customary rules according to Pasang ri Kajang which is Kajang community life guidelines, such as wearing black clothes, passapu, and carrying out the prevailing norms. According to Puto Topo (02/082018), pakelong and pakbasing must have four qualities that are always maintained, namely; lambusuk (honest), sakbara (patient), gattang (assertive). On the other hand, being pakelong or pakbasing, must be at least 35 years old. It is called attangga tau (middle-aged) that is based on the calculation of prophet Muhammad's age, which is 63 years.

There are several actors who participated in the appearance of kelong basing in a ritual death of the Kajang community. Those actors cannot be separated with the successful of performance.

a) Pakbasing

Pakbasing is 2 men as instrument music players who blow small bamboo, bulo. Therefore, they have to know basing piercings and tones that must be played according to the song sung by the singer. They wear passapu (used on the head), black clothes and tope lekleng (black sarongs) according to the custom of the Kajang community.

The length of bulo used is about 50 cm with 5 holes. The 5 holes in the bulo have a symbol, which means human gratitude towards the five provision in the body, namely; nyaha (life), tallasa (life), pallanggerang (hearing), pakkasiak (feeling), and Panggitte (sight). At the top of bulo there is a Palippi Tala made of Lontar leaves which functions to make a sound, while the bottom of the bulo there is a piece of buffalo horn that makes a beautiful and loud sound.

b) Pakelong basing

Pakelong basing is 2 women as singers who sing a song. They have to know the lyrics of each song and the meaning of the song. Pakelong wears black bodo clothes and tope lekleng (black sarong) also aksimboleng (rolled up their hair backwards) like the portrait of Kajang customary women generally.

When pakelong was singing, they used papik, a fan woven from palm leaves and spheroidal. Based on Puto Rajai (05/08/2018) the benefit of papik is to make the voice of the singer is united and in tune with the basing rhythms released. In addition, women who are shy, papik is used to cover their mouths while singing so that their mouths are not seen by others.

c) Tau Apparenta Tumate

Tau Apparenta Tumate is a person who is entrusted by a deceased family to guard the bodies of died people that are buried through visiting dead graves and praying for them three times a day including morning, afternoon and night. Before pakbasing blew the basing, Tau Apparenta Tumate had to read something praying that was intended for Panji 'as the first person who did basing by remembering and saying "tangsilaing basing, tangsilaing tau, tangsilain bulo", means no other basing, no other human and no other bulo. Based on information from Puto Rasi (08/08/2018) basing cannot be separated by humans, so that when a person dies, he is sent by kelong basing.

2. The beginning of the appearance of kelong basing

One upon the time, there was a couple as husband and wife traveling to a place to trade which sailed on a ship with a captain. Upon returning from trading, after long way and get profit from their trade, this couple continued their journey to come back home. But on the way, her husband died while the ship stopped and did not move in the middle of the sea. The captain began to worry about the ship being stopped in the middle of the sea, on the other side there was a person who died. So the captain told his wife to throw her husband's body at sea because the captain feared his body would rot.

With a very sad feeling, the wife held him very loud cry and asked God for helping. With His permission, the wife listened to the unseen voice and orders to take bulo, the small bamboo that drifted and started blowing the bamboo so that the ship that had stopped, suddenly moved back. Rythme from the Bamboo blow is known as Tempa Sorong because of the blessing of the blow, the ship moves again. After stopping blowing the bamboo, the ship did not move again, so the wife blew back the bamboo she was using her nose and began to sing, this song was known under basing rikong, or rikodong, it means feeling love to somebody. Every time the wife stopped blowing bamboo and singing, the ship did not muve, so on until appeared kelong basing iok-iok and tingke-tingkere. While singing, her husband woke up from his death and alive back see his wife without saying any words.

After finished her song, her husband and wife returned to his house while the ship were ridden by them overturned in Dalisea village. Unfortunately, when they arrived at their home, her husband did not breath and pass away on her lap.

Kelong basing is also called Pirauna Panji 'which means Panji's cry, because the wife named Panji who grieved by lossing her beloved husband. Kelong basing was lowered to his daughter named Bohe Dalia and kept in descent until now, generation fron generation. The kelong can only be formulated by families of karaeng descendants and indigenou descendants.

3. Ceritheme or mytheme in Kelong Basing

In kelong basing basing, singing is intended for people who are dead and people who are still alive. Therefore, the researcher only focuses on the story to find the relationships of each element in the kelong basing on the two topics told about. The song is intended for the deceased being the focus of the analysis kelong basing (a) the wish of the spirit; Rikong (KBR), kelong basing Sio Sayang (KBSS), kelong basing Lekok-lekok (KBL). In the three songs, there is the desire of the deceased, on that case, the researcher sees differences and equations that show the variation of an element in the story based on the theory of Levi-Strauss while Kelong basing is intended for people who are still alive in the form of advice contained in Pasang ri Kajang to live in the world to get the results they want later (hereafter). (b) advice with including songs namely; kelong basing Hammanca (KBH), kelong basing Palamojong), kelong Basing Ati-ati raja (KBAR).

The analysis is carried out by looking for the ceritheme or mytheme contained in each kelong basing and feeding it synagmatically and paradigmatically to help researcher more easily understood the meaning that is using structure method.

a. Ceritheme or mytheme “The wish of the spirits”

Some of the stories on Kelong Basing's lyrics as the focus of "wish of the spirit" analysis are three classifications of kelong basing, namely KBR, KBSS and KBL. The wish of spirits shows the similarities and differences that shown, even though in each of the three songs, there is a transformation there are also similarities in the end goal of their journey.

KBR ceritheme tells hereafter life, being dead makes them happy because they have arrived at their last trip. That feeling of pleasure is due to the behavior they did during their life in the world, the Kajang community believes that what is done in the world will get a reply in the hereafter so that, they assume for not being excessive, arrogant and following the norms contained in Pasang ri Kajang made them towards safety.

ceritheme on KBSS told about hereafter life, it means that death will be useless if during his lifetime, he never did good behavior to others. Based on kelong basing, KBR and KBSS have similarities that tell about hereafter, it also has a transformation shown the difference in life in the hereafter. The result of hereafter based on what is done in the world. Different from KBR and KBSS, the two songs turned out to have undergone a transformation in KBL, if KBR and KBSS talked about the final journey of the spirits, then KBL told about people who died did not move to hereafter but they walked towards Jampea. Jampea was a place of corpse cultivation in ancient times.

The wish of the spirits from KBR, KBSS, KBL are undergoing transformation from every songs, the wish of the spirit in KBR is their sarong to be arranged. Their wish are conveyed through to the earth temporary the wish in KBSS, the spirits want to be visted and asked. According to the understanding of the word to be visited and asked refers to a wish getting prayed by their family.

The last, a wish of the spirit in KBL, in the previous lyrics tells about people who died do not move to hereafter but to a strange place therefore they want to arrive at the place where the spirits must return called hereafter. If we make a series of ceritheme based on "the wish of the spirits" of the three kelong basing, it will appear as follows.

Table 1.

	The Wish of The Spirits Variations	Medium	Destination
KBR	Sarong to arranged	Earth	Hereafter
KBSS	To be visited and asked		Hereafter
KBL	Have one goal (hereafter)		Jempa

Based on the above table, the researcher can explain that in the three of the kelong basing there is transformation from wishes of the spirit, the essence of the spirit has the same travel destination in the end of their destination, hereafter.

b. Ceritheme or mytheme “Advice”

After finding the meaning of spirit wishes about the journey to hereafter. The other ceritheme was found in the form of advice that must be carried out by humans in order to get the desired journey and happiness until arrived at hereafter.

Ceritheme at KBH shown advice to humans that the world is only a place where we live temporarily and what we have and get is only something borrowed from Tu Riek Akrakna (Almighty God) and will return to Him.

In KBP raises a different word, hometown, the lyrics of the kelong invites people to always live simply as in the philosophy of life of the kajang people tallasa kamase-mase which they always keep up and are not proud of what they have, Portrait of tallasa kamase-mase can be seen from the structure of the house, how to dress, and their way of life. Simple life refers to the lyric which means even though they turn in bed with their lace padded they always remember pillows made by wood.

In KBAR, it tells the human that the world is wide but narrow to get around, happy and sad messages always go hand in hand. Based on the three songs above, the following scheme can be prepared as follow as.

Table 2.

	Place	Use of place	Behavior	Destination
KBH	World	A place to live	Borrowing	Hereafter
KBP	Hometown	Slept in bed	Remembering	Hereafter
KBAR	World	Laughing and crying are hand in hand

Based on the table above there is binary opposition to each other, in the three songs both KBH, KBP, and KBAR contains advice that must be done by humans during his life, the KBH contains a ceritheme that the world is a place where yours is borrowed with the result that humans don't need to be arrogant, the song, KBP teaches that always remember what is done in the world that is what will be harvested in the hereafter. Contrasting to KBH and KBP, KPAR emphasizes that the world is a place where happiness and sadness always coexist with, so it is necessary to always hold firmly Pasang ri Kajang as a guide for life to get eternal happiness in the hereafter.

B. Discussion

Based on findings by the researcher above, the meaning of the myths contained in kelong basing can be understood logically by the general public where people understand that the human journey to the hereafter after life in the world therefore the basing position in the Kajang community will look like chart below.

Kelong basing contains the wish of spirit and advice, from both contents of kelong basing there was transformation, wish the spirit told about the journey of the deceased where in that journey every kelong had a difference, that is in KBR the opposition was "the wish of the deceased so that their sarong was arranged" with KBSS "the wish of the deceased to be visited and questioned about the situation". KBR and KBSS were in Opposition to KBL "the wish of the deceased to immediately go to hereafter because of his spirit while traveling in Jampea". The word "Jampea" in KBL is a place in Selayar, where the place was a corpse disposal place in ancient times. The correlation of the song is the person who died does not go directly to the hereafter but the spirit was traveling in a strange place so that the spirit wanted to go to the hereafter as the end of his journey. The three songs, both of KBR, KBSS, and KBL are reunited through the final destination from the journey of the spirit, namely hereafter.

Kelong basing which contains advice about what humans should do in the world was explained earlier that the concept of life that must be done by humans were humble life in order to get true happiness in the hereafter. Kelong basing songs according to the researchers turned out to have a correlation with Islam, this is explained in the Surah An-Nazi'at verses 37-41;

فَأَمَّا مَنْ طَغَىٰ (٣٧) وَءَاثَرَ الْحَيَاةِ الدُّنْيَا (٣٨) فَإِنَّ الْجَحِيمَ هِيَ الْمَأْوَىٰ (٣٩) وَأَمَّا مَنْ خَافَ مَقَامَ رَبِّهِ وَنَهَى النَّفْسَ عَنِ الْهَوَىٰ (٤٠) فَإِنَّ الْجَنَّةَ هِيَ الْمَأْوَىٰ (٤١)

Meaning: 37. Then, for such as had transgressed all bounds, 38. And had preferred the life of this world, 39. The Abode will be Hell-Fire; 40. And for such as had entertained the fear of standing before their Lord's (tribunal) and had restrained (their) soul from lower desires, 41. Their abode will be the Garden.

Based on the verse above, humans are divided into two groups namely the inhabitants of hell and the inhabitants of heaven. The inhabitants of hell are disobedient and attach importance to the world while sacrificing their hereafter. This is because they are arrogant so that they are not afraid of God, not To acknowledge greatness and majesty in God and also not afraid on the day of vengeance while the inhabitants of heaven were afraid of God and acknowledge the majesty of God and do not indulge their desires and always attach importance to the afterlife, even though they do not sacrifice their world. (Shihab, 2002: 60)

The verses above explain about responding on behavior human in hereafter, and also give awareness to human for restraining desire, based in the meaning refers to meaning kelong basing songs which were describing life in hereafter and doing tallasa kamase-mase what holding in Pasang ri Kajang. Kajang Custom Community was practicing humble life in daily life with drawn through kelong basing.

Researcher strongly agreed with the views of Levi Strauss in analyzing meaning where he connected the meaning of myths with the social background of own culture, it different from Bungawati in her thesis Budaya Akkattere dan Implikasinya terhadap Pengalaman Hukum Indonesia di Kajang, conducted on 2017. She saw the process of akkattere which was one of the almost identical cultural rituals of the Hajj by Kajang customary community was not in accordance with Islamic Shari'a. However claimed to a culture with different trust of the owner of the culture made the culture was worthy of one another's views. This was avoided by researcher to know the culture that it had been highly valued and upheld by its society.

According to researcher, regarding myths in a culture will form a fact in accordance with what is in the social life adopted by the local community. So that, what is understood by society in general that myth is an exaggerated story can be read through the relationships contained in the myth itself.

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

A. Conclusions

Based upon the finding yielded in the present study, researcher could draw conclusion in answering the research question as following below;

The song of Kelong Basing as the one of ritual death played by two singers and two bamboo instrument players had relation to social background in Kajang community what They believe that the spirit had a journey to hereafter while the provisions to it explained also in kelong basing which contained advises called talasaa kamase-mase, humble life. It referred how to get easier when the spirit went to the end of journey, hereafter and got happiness forever in it. That advice reminded to the human, in order that they always keep the life principle which hold humble life said in pasang ri kajang. Human should be carrying out their desire and not intemperance in everything about world but the human have to always remember about Allo ri Boko, hereafter.

B. Suggestions

1. It is suggested that people who always look at myths something refer to musyrik as the result of this, they will have a newer angle in getting the meaning of myth in their culture society.
2. It is suggested for new researchers to develop cultural research in Bulukumba, especially the Kajang customary culture which is very rich in beautiful literary values.

Transcript of Interview Results

1. H. Mansur Embas as Culturalist of Kajang.

Nenni : Bagaimana pengertian dari kelong basing menurut kakek?

H. Mansur : Jadi basing itu merupakan satu kesenian daerah yang terpaut di dalam pasang bahwa basing adalah kidung yang didalamnya terkandung beberapa kidung yaitu untuk menghibur perjalanan manusia ini dari duniawi ke pemakaman, kemudian dari pemakaman menuju selajutnya, yaitu yang disebut Allo ri Boko. Kelong basing adalah suatu lantunan-lantunan kidung agung, nyanyian yang bagus itu untuk mengantar para roh leluhur mereka atau keluarga mereka dari alam fana ini kea lam barsah, dari alam barsah kea lam akhirat. Itulah kegunaan basing, selain hiburan, juga untuk orang yang ditinggalkan.

Ah, kemudian, basing dalam rangka menghibur keluarga yang berduka itu juga ada, basing itu adalah juga merupakan satu seni yang di dalamnya ini termasuk seni suara yang sangat indah yang merupakan salah satu dari bagian dari pasang tentang keluhuran budi seseorang. Itulah basing.

Sebenarnya tidak sembarang dimainkan tapi dia bukan baruga. Baruga itu berarti hiburan umum. Jadi kelong basing kamangeang artinya mange itu berangkat ke sesuatu tempat . ada juga yang namanya kamaeang untuk menhibur nurani kita agar senantiasa melestarikan pasang.

Dalam kidung kamaeang itu selalu dilantungkan nasehat-nasehat yang mengandung budi luhur dan budi pekerti yang mengandung nilai dan norma, budaya yang tinggi supaya kita terhindar segala bentuk perbuatan keji, contoh; semena-mena, mencuri, judi , megumpat, dan segala macamnya. Jadi di dalam pasang itu, selalu mengingatkan kita ini, hidup di muka bumi ini kita harus berprasaaja, kamase-mase dengan memperbanyak amalan kehidupan dunia ini dalam kamaeang kita untuk menolong sesame.

Dalam kandungan nilai basing artinya menyangkut kita ini, kamase-mase, menanamkan rasa cinta kepada seni itu supaya di hari kemudian kita hidup kaya raya “tallasaki kalumanynyang kalupepeang”

Nenni : apakah tallasa kamase-mase memiliki hubungan dengan kelong basing?

H. Mansur : tertu ada kaitannya, itu sangat erat kaitannya, baik kamaeang maupun kamangeang di basing.

Nenni : bagaimana pendapat anda tentang keberadaan kelong basing kedepannya dalam menghadapi perkembangan zaman yang sekarang?

H. Mansur : kalau menurut hemat saya, itu juga akan tergerus, sewaktu dari pengaruh luar, sama dengan pengaruh IT sekarang ini. ini bisa saja, tapi saya rasa sedikit demi sedikit akan mengalami kelunturan tetapi dia akan tetap lentur maksudnya masih didunakan oleh masyarakat.

Sekarang ini sudah banyak perubahan terhadap tanah adat.

APPENDIX II

Classification of kelong basing

There are eleven classifications of Kelong Basing but only ten with lyrics. The lyrics are taken by researcher in previous research compiled by Herlina Sahib in the title of her dissertation, Entextualization and Genre Transformation of Kajang Death Ritual Speech, this dissertation was conducted on 2015. It was the first transcript of kelong basing, because Kajang people themselves are more acquainted with oral than writing, however lyrics from kelong basing itself even though it is usually sung by the Kajang customary community but not structured as found by Herlina Sahib. After getting the lyrics from Kelong Basing, the researcher classifies the meaning of song lyrics based on the understanding of the translator and the researcher himself.

a. Kelong Basing Tempa Sorong

Kelong basing Tempa Sorong is opening rhythm without lyrics in kelong basing which it is in the form of prayer for people who have died.

b. Kelong Basing Rikong

Banyan tree, please, falling down you will be a digger

La nikeke sai moncong nipaklengukia

It will be dag the mountain the palace we can hide

Talia keke-kekeang moncong nipajlengukia

It is not ordinary excavation but we dig the mountain the place we can hide

Nakammik nabi natarinti malekak

It is looked after by prophets and angels

Punna jammengki ammukoang teaki angkana sarennna

If one day we die don't ever say because of destiny

Angkana jakia jamming ri pakrisikna

Just said he died because of his illness

Malekak turukki cidong gae-gaemi kalenta

O angels, let's sit, separate yourself

La nicinik sai suruga lolong bonena

We want to see heaven and its contents

Terek minjo la nicinik la nilangngere sakranna

Where will be seen and heard his voice

Tallu moncong napaklenguki

Three mountains the place we can hide

Anjoke-jokeji bolana, oroji passimbangngenna

The house is very close, only bamboo becomes an intermediary

Kunjungta allallo kunjungta nipakkusissingang

It is useless to pass, it's useless to ask

The one who died was who went to Jampea

Inakke kunni-kunnina sekre mami takgalakku

I now only have one goal (hereafter)

f. Kelong Basing Hammancia

Ka ri anja bedek borick suruga pammempoanna

Because in the Hereafter is where heaven is Ia ri lino tumanginrang jaki borik

While in the world only a place we are borrowing

Pada nginrang jaki barik padattiro pakrasanggeng

We all just borrow a place to live

Talia tokja borik nikale-kalei

Not a place controlled by yourself

g. Kelong Basing Palamojonng

Manna kale naboritta teaki taklibak-libak

Even if your hometown, you do not proud

Laminro jinni ri bali pakrasangenna

We will return to the real place

Mangku mamō mammene ri ranjang

Even though I sleep in bed

Mappaklungang renda-renda

With beautiful laced pillow

Kuukrangi tok ji paklungang polongkajungku

I keep remembering my wooden pillow

h. Kelong Basing Ati-Ati Raja

Sia-sia mi mate a paracuma tallasa yya

Die is vain, life is useless

Longgang I lino na seppang pang mitikang na

The world is wide but narrow to get around

Sibola-bola mintoī simpunga sale-salea

Misery and joy are hand in hand

Sipammeneang kakkalak jeknek matayya

Laughing and crying are hand in hand

Kelong kinni ka pirau kakkalak ka jeknek mata

We sing because of crying, laughing because of tears

Tak muri kinni na pirau cakdi-cakdi

Smile but crying in deep heart

i. Kelong Basing Dondak

People who does not want to ask will regret

Makkusissing jintu sallok punna jammengki mukoang

People will ask if they die later

Lapparikodong punna laklingka rianja

So pity if they have already go to hereafter

Riek tokmo makkusissing nek tokmo pakrikodong

Somebody ask, some other feel pity

Riek tokmong kua kasarennamo sikua

Some say that their destiny is like that

Erokki jammeng nitoak, garring nipakkusisingang

The spirit wants to be visited, asked if he is sick

Kitangang nanro pau hajik ri taua

But he did not good characters to other people

Nanro memangki pakmaik ri gentengang tallasatta

Do good behavior when we are still alive

Jammengki sallok buttayya mami larua

When we die later, only soil has power

Kuanna buttayya larua anjayya nipaka sunggu

Let the soil has power, the spirit will be joyful

Kala patokong battung ngohe-ngoheang

Rather than eagles come to tear up repeatedly

Barak anrekja nisurung mattanang-tanang pakmaik

Who knows, no advantage doing good behavior

Takbu nilamung bojok mangbua paria

Sugar cane is planted, cucumber fruiting pariah

k. Kelong Basing Cui-Cui Didi

Kelong basing Cui-Cui didi contains a story that occurred in Dutch colonialism in Indonesia, this song in the form of songs that form innuendo to people who do not want to be involved in warfare.

Cui-cui didi ngurako nu didi

Little bird, why is your color yellow

Ka pangrita dok,

Because i am educated people

Ka pangrita jako palek tannu bundu balandayya

You are educated people but why you did not attack the Dutchman?

Ka sianaka dok,

Because we are siblings

Ka sianak jako palek tannu pattunuang tedong

You are siblings but why did you not cut buffalo for them?

Kasia-si a dok,

Because i am poor

Kasia-si jako palek namalompaja bolanu

You are poor but your house is really big

Ka uragika dok, ka uragika dok

Because i am a house paranormal

Ka uragi jako palek, nanutekbak kulantuknu

You are a house paranormal but you did not cut your knee

Ka takbessolo dok,

Because it is missing
