CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background

Back in nineteenth century in Europe, Women were assumed as inferior tier and lower than man. Some negative perspective on women have been created through some sources for instance in theology and philosophy. They depict women as wicked, sinful, not fully human being, lack of capacity, and naturally inferior group (Bhasin 2006).

Nelson (2016) believed that the philosopher also depict negative perception towards woman. Aristotle in one of Philosophers that claimed woman as naturally inferior. As he stated in his book Generation of Animal “Women were lack of Virtues”. Aristotle portrayed women is inferior to men in moral, intelligence, and physical appearance. Aristotle had opinion about women as the property of men and claimed that women’s role in society is for reproduction and serving men in the household, he also seen men dominate the women.

Varada (2015:22) stated that behind the women’s inferiority through myth, theology, and philosophy there is a message where women have to preserve themselves in subordinate position and participate in system that oppresses them. Women have been participated for their own subordinate because they have been psychologically shaped for the idea of their own inferiority.

Hook (2004:17-20) believed that patriarchy is a system where man dominate woman in every social relation. Patriarchy is an ideology that regarded man are inherently dominant to woman that can be believed and acted upon by either man or woman, the earlier terms implied that only man who act as oppressors of woman. Patriarchy also regarded that woman inferiority is natural that unequal treatment toward woman is also natural.

According PSW Tim (2003:28) stated that in patriarchy society, man has main important role because they are considered as strong, potential and productive. On the other hand, woman are considered as weak, lack of potentiality and not productive. Therefore, in some sectors for instance; economy, law, education, politic and religion is dominated by men. Meanwhile woman are marginalized into domestic role and they still under control of men in domestic role.

Sultana (2010) stated that patriarchal society gives priority to men and to extent limits women's human rights. Therefore, patriarchy becomes the obstacle for woman's in developing their career. The space of men in society which wider than women make them easier to determine and reach their future. Meanwhile, women have the restriction and the rule of culture that curbs their way to involved in society. Moreover, gender discrimination arisen due to position of women that regarded as inferior.

Wafiroh (2016) stated that one of gender discrimination in traditional society that still embraces patriarchal ideology is the discrimination for daughter to get access of education. Parents treat their daughter differently with son, they prefer son to get education. Meanwhile, daughter is the second priority. Because they thought that women will become a housewife and mother who need to take care their children or their household in the future.

From the statement above it can be seen that patriarchy put women in disadvantageous situation. Women had been struggled to fight against patriarchy and gender discrimination since a long time ago. Therefore, women create a movement which is called feminism. Feminism has some points where women should have the equal right as men have.

In the holy Al-Qur'an there is verse which describe and explain about example of feminism that is Q.S An-Nisa: 32

وَلَا تَتَمَنَّوْا مَا فَضَّلَ اللَّهُ بِهِ بَعْضَكُمْ عَلَى بَعْضٍ لِّلرِّجَالِ نَصِيبٌ مِّمَّا اكْتَسَبُوا^ط
 وَلِلنِّسَاءِ نَصِيبٌ مِّمَّا اكْتَسَبْنَ^ع وَسَأَلُوا اللَّهَ مِنْ فَضْلِهِ^ط إِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ
 عَلِيمًا ﴿٣٢﴾

The meaning:

And do not be envious of what God has given you more than any of the others. (For) for men there is a portion of what they seek, and for women (also) there is a portion of what they seek, and ask Allah for some of His gifts. Allah is Knowing of all things.

The development of feminist consciousness is traditionally placed in the nineteenth century when historians began to trace earlier developments of feminism which had taken place at different stages over hundreds of years. Lerner (1993:14) believes that feminism must be perceived as not a unitary concept but as a term that covers diverse and multi-faceted ideas, theories and actions. Some feminists attempted to make feminism much older than the rise of feminism as a movement in the late 1800s. Martin (1994:145-146) stated that women who had engaged in women's issues before the 1900s reflected a proto feminist consciousness of prophetic judgments and condemnations of the injustice afflicted upon women. This consciousness was, however, not yet defined as feminist consciousness. Therefore, one has to concentrate on common characteristics of the many different types of feminism such as the call for changes in the social, economic, political, theological and cultural realms.

Botting & Houser (2006:265-278) defined that feminism can be challenging but it broadly includes women and men who act, speak and write about women's issues, rights and social injustice. Widely, feminists are concerned with issues like gender differences and equality for women. They all share one thing in common: the liberation of all women from oppression and discrimination.

Hooks (2008:8-9) define that "Feminism is a movement to end sexism, sexist exploitation, and oppression." She added feminism is not about being anti-male and this addition explained that the problem is sexism and not being anti-male. And that clarity helps us remember that all of us, female and male, have been socialized from birth on to accept sexist thought and action. As a consequence, females can be just as sexist as men.

Concerning feminism, woman take the resistant way to rise their pride and their rightful authority. Resistance maybe sometimes utterly destructive and anti-social. At least that is a theoretical possibility. But mostly resistance will be, as other social activities, productive, or, at least, both tearing down some things in society while creating new. Many authors wrote the novel about women struggle. The writer inserts some of feminist ideas in novel to criticize the unequal treatment that women get from society. The imaginative ways that writer use in depicting women's live can make people aware and angry about the problem that her face.

A Golden Web is a novel by Barbara Quick and published in 2010, the novel tells about a women that struggles to reach her dream in patriarchal society. The main charater named Alessandra Giliani. Alessandra portrayed as a women who aware of the circumstance of women in society, instead of being submissive to the system that insists the women should obey the rule in society. She attempted to make her own decision to act like her wish. Based on the explanation above, the researcher interested in finding out Alessandra's Resistance to Patriarchal Ideology in A Golden Web novel. The researcher scrutinize some of the efforts from the main character that struggle in patriarchal society using feminism approach.

B. Research Question

Based on the background above, the researcher will focus formulate problem statement about:

1. How is the main character described in the novel?
2. How is the resistance of the main character to patriarchal ideology?

C. Research Objective

Based on the research question above, the researcher will be aimed that this research to describe the characteristic and resistance of the main character to patriarchal ideology in A Golden Web Novel.

D. Research Significance

In sociology, patriarchal is a social system in which males hold primary power and predominate in roles of political leadership, moral authority, social privilege and control of property. In Indonesia, some people embrace patriarchal system in some place, so the researcher hope that the result of this research will give some useful information for student of literature, society and others who want to know more about literature, especially for himself.

The researcher hope this research can increase reader's knowledge about feminism in patriarchal ideology, especially in A Golden Web novel. Furthermore, it also can be used as the reference for further research.

E. Research Scope

The scope of this research is limited to the character analyze of Alessandra Stackhouse Character through her ambition based on the novel A Golden Web by Barbara Quick by using a feminist theory by Bashin and Khan. The description of the character shows her ability that can recognize someone's mind to get what she wants and it makes the novel interesting to analyze.

The researcher knows that there are some aspects that might be analyzed in the literary work, but in this research the researcher just intends to analyze patriarchal ideology in the novel "A Golden Web".

CHAPTER II

LITERATURE REVIEW

A. Previous Studies

The researcher will provide some previous findings, which relate to relevant study as follows:

Saranga (2014), in her thesis entitled “Gender inequality in Barbara Quick’s “A Golden Web”” analyze the whole character using theory gender inequality by Armatya Sens. This thesis focused on analyses seven type of gender inequality. As the result, of this analysis described that there are five gender inequality have been found by writer. They are morality inequality, basic facility, special opportunity inequality, professional inequality, and household inequality. Those gender inequalities are fallen by main character.

Fitriani (2017), in her thesis entitled “The analysis of Phrasal Verbs in A Golden Web by Barbara Quick”. This research aimed to find the types of phrasal verb that use in the novel “A Golden Web” written by Barbara Quick and to analyze the type that mostly used in the novel. The results of the research that are 162 phrasal verbs and four types of phrasal verb found in the novel. Of four types of phrasal verb, the most dominant type that used in the novel is type 1 which has pattern verb + adverb and the percentage of use is 55%.

Based on the previous finding it can be seen that this research is different from others. In this research, the researcher use feminist theory to analyze the data and use the same novel “A Golden Web” but it is in different approach. This thesis will be analyzed by using feminism approach in order to understand and explain about the main character which described the relation of feminism and her resistance to patriarchal ideology. The researcher focus on one character only, Alessandra Gilliani, a woman who struggles to seize her dream in patriarchal society. Feminism approach that used in this thesis is Feminism awareness, and women's right for education in Feminism.

B. Pertinent Ideas

1. Novel

a. Definition of Novel

Halim (2002) stated that novel is kind of literary work where it is created through the imagination and thought of author. Novel is a long work of narrative prose fiction dealing with character's situation and setting that imitate of real life. The word novel is derived from Italian 'novella' taking to taking to franc's word new and small. It refers to a picture of real life manner where it apply in newly made story taking place in recent time and not a traditional place long ago, novel is the story of human life dimension in interpreting of the essential life.

Halim (2002) believed that in the novel the author try to convey, deliver their feelings though, experience, idea, and they make it becomes magnificent and interesting to read. Novel usually illustrated about human life such as circumstance of social and politics, marriage of struggle for reaching better respect and honor from the society. But some of it also illustrates about the author of himself. Novels are particularly having deal with passage of life of character. It similar to what Kennedy (1983:55) says “a favorite subject of novelist is the growth of character from childhood to maturity”. The story of novel is created by author’s mind, feeling, and imagination.

b. Types of Novel

There are many different reconstruction of novel. Kennedy (1983:75) mentioned that there are of the main genres novel, namely:

- 1) Historical novel is a detailed reconstruction of life in another time, perhaps in another place. In some historical novels, the author attempt a faithful picture of daily life in another area.
- 2) Apprenticeship novels refer to depiction of growth and development. An apprenticeship is kind of novel in which a youth struggle toward maturity, seeking, probably, some consistent world view or philosophy of life.
- 3) Picaresque novels are a novel that is told in a series of episodes rather than in one all unifying plot and it narrated in person.

c. The Element of Novel.

(Halim,2002) stated that elements of novel divided into two main categories. One of them is extrinsic elements, extrinsic element that building up the work from outside of the work in these element literary work should be seen in the relation to the other discipline such as sociology, anthropology, psychology.

2. Character

a. Character and Characterization

Character and characterization have different meaning. Character is someone in a literary work who has some sort of identity, identity which is made by appearance, conversation, and action. Meanwhile, characterization is the way in which a character is created. Character is shown as acting in the drama or movie. Sometimes, the author conveys message through character in their acting. Robert Stanton (1971:20) states the process by which an author creates and the character is called characterization. Beside that, the author wants to show tensions within characters and therefore show their acting in contrary ways.

Character is one of intrinsic element in fiction. There are some definitions of character. According to M.H Abrams (1999:32), characters are the persons represented in a dramatic or narrative work, who are interpreted by the reader as being endowed with particular moral, intellectual, and emotional qualities by inferences from what the persons say and their distinctive ways of saying it (the dialogue) and from what they do (the action).

Hall (2001:109) stated that character is “what the reader is interested in”. It is through characters that he leads the extracurricular, imaginary and substitute life that is fiction's gift, and it is through the adventures, antics and predicaments of the characters that he may learn lessons that pertain to the conduct of his own life. Based on these definitions, it can be concluded that character is person that created for literary work that attracts the reader and it has the important role in literary work and has important role to make the story become more interesting and alive. As a concrete noun, the word 'character' refers to a person or animal and thing, but as an abstract noun, it refers to the attitude belongs to or something that being personified. Character is similar with the people of thin in a life. It is with Kennedy (1983:96) Character in fiction is obviously relevant to us and to our experience if he or like ourselves or like others whom we know. Life likeness then is properly leaner stood as one from relevance. A character is relevant if there are a lot of people like him or her in real world.

The way that researcher present and reveal character is called characterization. Characterization also can be defined as what the author does to bring a character life, to provide the reader with a sense of that characters personality. Author can characterize or develop the character directly and indirectly. In direct characterization consists of the writer who telling the reader directs statements about the character's personality and what the character is like. Meanwhile, in indirect characterization the writer reveal the reader about information of character and personality through the character thoughts, words and actions in the story, It also often involves the use of external details, such as dress, mannerisms, movements, speech and speech patterns, appearances, and so forth.

b. Types Character

Character can be divided into three types, they are:

- 1) Major or central character. This character is a character performing the main story so it is commonly becomes the focus of theme. Central or major character consist of protagonist and antagonist character
- 2) Minor or peripheral character namely a character that supporting the major character, so its presence becomes so important.
- 3) Figurative character that is character which also support the major mirror character but frequency and insolvent in the plot not the same as mirror character it is called caricature.

3. Plot

The plot of novel is the narrative and thematic development of the story, which happen and what these events meant. There are several type of plots. An episodic plot features distinct episodes that are related to one another but that can also be read individually, almost as stories by themselves. Most novels involve more complex plots. In which the story builds on itself so that each episode evolves out of a previous one and produces another one. Some plots are based less on the physical action of events than on the emotional reactions of character and their efforts to communicate their feelings to others. In addition, some novelist experiment with plot, interrupting the main story with subplots, moving back and forth in time, or emerging fact with fiction.

4. Setting

Setting is the place, time, and atmosphere of story. Background of the location or place maybe tells where the story take place a certain or specific name. Besides, background of time correlated with the problem of “when” the events take place.

Rene and Austin (1982:131) concerned with the places where the story was happened. Setting refers to biographical location of the story, time period, daily lifestyle of the character and climate of the story.

The setting is extremely important to a story that can have immense effects the plot and the characters. Furthermore, it can also appear as the atmosphere of a story.

5. Theme

Theme is the problem issue contained in a novel or other literary work. According to Moelina (1990:921) believed that theme is the subject matter or the basic story it used as the basic of fabricated and changed the rhyme. Theme are divided into two types, as follow:

- a. Major theme is the principal meaning of the story in the basis or the basis of the general idea of a literary work
- b. Minor theme is the meaning contained in certain part of the story can be defined as meaning part or extra meaning.

The theme of a literary work is always concerned with the meaning of life. The author offers specific meaning of life, invites the reader to see, feel and appreciate the meaning of life.

C. Resistance Theory

According Muslimin (2015) literally resistance is "resistance or opposition". Derived from English, namely resist. In this case is that all actions that reject or oppose whether formal or non-formal if they do not approve of what has been done can be said to be resistance. Resistance to government means opposition or resistance to government policies.

People's resistance according to Scott can be divided into two categories, namely resistance caused by direct causes and indirect causes. People's resistance due to direct causes such as oppression, threats, pressure, coercion by landlords, government, capital owners or other parties. Resistance which is indirectly carried out through clandestine resistance, clandestine resistance achieves greater results than overt resistance (Saputra, 2013). Resistance in sociology is a resistance which is carried out openly or quietly over policies and activities carried out in a party within the community.

Foucault (in Suriadi's book, 2012) offers the concept of power and resistance (resistance). The thought of power from Foucault gained an empirical place through the study of James Scott (2012), that understanding power must be spread out not only in the form of authority. Likewise, how to understand conflict no longer has to frontal meeting two forces directly, but resistance (resistance) can be done by anyone in various forms, both symbolically and avoiding. Spread power and increasingly indirect conflict and increasingly refined resistance make resistance more cultural. Foucault, sees power as a whole structure that suppresses and encourages other actions through stimulation, persuasion or also through coercion and prohibition. Power does not come from top to bottom, but spread everywhere both to individuals, organizations or institutions. Therefore, the spread of power gives space to weak communities to resist with strategies built on their own context.

Anwar Holif (in the book Suriadi, 2012) identified Foucault's resistance as having a spirit that was in accordance with diverse contexts and characteristics. Resistance can be in the form of two contradictory strategic movements, namely rebellion while the others isolate themselves. Because human beings are the subject of power, every human being will make resistance to other powers, not necessarily face to face. Study of Sociology History conducted by Nancy on forestry in Java shows that the resistance patterns on the edge of teak forests. Starting from stealing forests, ganging up on foresters, naked women stealing teak in the river, and the Samin movement sleeping on the ground being measured, speaking in riddles and refusing to follow village rituals.

The above studies show us that weak communities are able to resist in their way and their social context not only against weakened power but rather from strong power. This is due to the symptoms of resistance not to see power only as an authority from top to bottom, but power is in everyone, just how to optimize that power for oneself.

According to Scott there are several forms of resistance, namely:

- a. Closed resistance (symbolic or ideological), namely gossip, slander, rejection of categories imposed on society, and the withdrawal of respect for the authorities.
- b. Semi-open resistance (social protest or demonstration)
- c. Open resistance, is a form of organized, systematic and principled resistance. Manifestations used in resistance are violent (violent) methods such as slapping, knocking, spitting, throwing, yelling, cursing, insulting, yelling, ostracizing, glaring, sneering, and looking threateningly.

Tri (2011) stated the approach to local level research and its forms may be valuable in understanding the dynamics of development. Daily resistance and its form are symptoms that occur around us, which are sometimes often forgotten that resistance or rejection of a thing does not have to be open, because it is unconsciously we fight silently.

D. Patriarchy as an Ideology

Patriarchy is “a social system where the male acts as the primary authority figure central to social organization, and where fathers hold authority over women, children, and property” (Fedwa : 20017). The site also defines patriarchy as referring to social systems in which the power is primarily held by adult men. These two definitions give a meaning that patriarchy implies the institutions of male rule and privilege, and also produces female subordination. It also says that many patriarchal societies are mostly patrilineal which means that property and title are inherited by the male lineage.

More neutral than the site above, Lerner (1987:8) defined that it as “a historic creation formed by men and women in a process which took nearly 2500 years to its completion.” He also added that in its earliest form patriarchy appeared as the archaic state in which the basic unit of its organization was the patriarchal family, which both expressed and constantly generated its rules and values.

There are two important notions that defines patriarchy as an ideology. Those two important notions which come of patriarchy are male domination and female inferiority. This binary opposition becomes important because two of them are the grounded standing point that defines all men-women relationship. In line with it, Hooks (2000: 9) also stated that males as a group have and do benefit the most from patriarchy, from the assumption that they are superior to females and should rule over us (women). However, she added that those benefits have come with a price. In return for all the goodies men receive from patriarchy, they are required to dominate women, to exploit and oppress us (women), using violence if they must to keep patriarchy intact.

In order to keep the males world running, they (patriarchy and males) are going to need each other for a very long time. The conclusion, it can be inferred that patriarchy will become an ideology, especially males' ideology that will be inherited through times to times, generation to generation across gender. Here, the females become the main victim of this inherited ideology.

In the correlation to the patriarchy as an ideology, Pam Morris (1993:4-5) defined 'ideology' into two definitions. Firstly, ideology can refer to a consciously held system of beliefs which people knowingly choose or reject, such as competitive individualism, communism or any religions. Secondly, ideology is used to refer to the way we perceive 'reality'. Finally, in this second term that 'ideology' is used here in the context of patriarchal ideology.

The understanding of the second term of 'ideology' also rests on the researcher enter the cultural life of our society (as researcher acquire language and interact with others) researcher absorb and assume its ways of seeing. The researcher are drawn imperceptibly into a complex network of values, assumptions and expectations which are always already there prior to us and so seem natural, just the way things are. Here, a great deal of feminist study is concerned with patriarchal ideology in the second sense, that is with ways in which women's subordination is naturalized, made to seem just the way things are (Morris, 1993: 4-5).

Here, there is a belief which is produced by patriarchy as an ideology. Feminists believe as the major core which contributes to existed patriarchal ideology. This belief is then called biological essentialism.

Biological Essentialism has been clearly said that women have suffered from a long tradition of what is generally called as 'biological essentialism'. Morris through her book defines it as "the belief that a woman's 'nature' is an inevitable consequence of her reproductive roles.” This belief implied that what is natural or essential cannot be changed in the way that social attributes of character can. Therefore, if biology were actually to render women more submissive and less adventurous than men there would be little that anyone could do about it (Morris, 1993: 1-2).

Further, Morris (1993: 94) also added that biological essentialism has been “the “bedrock” of most traditional thinking about women, used both to denigrate and to idealize them, but always to justify the existing status quo of power structures. Feminine attributes naturalized as biology become destiny: what is inborn must be borne since it cannot be changed.

This kind of essentialist or deterministic argument has been used throughout history and across societies to justify women’s subordination, even though what are considered to be essentially ‘feminine’ characteristics vary from culture to culture. For this reason feminists use the terms ‘femininity’ and ‘masculinity’ to refer to acquired cultural gender identity, even though for most of us this social and subjective sense of self is constructed so early in our (women) lives as to seem naturally coterminous with our sex (Morris, 1993: 1-2).

From the description above, it can be concluded that biological essentialism as a belief produced by patriarchy has become the core of all discrimination towards women. It also can be inferred that biological essentialism becomes an ideology that thinks out the notions of sexual oppression, gender discrimination and feminine roles issues in the society. It is men and their patriarchal system that supports biological essentialism to oppress and discriminate women.

E. Feminism

Bashin and Khan (1986:1) states that the unequal treatment that happend to every women has been occured since a long time ago, people who thought that women being treated unfair, they create the ideology in order to firght against the unfair treatment or disadvatages situation to liberate women, they called it feminism.

Feminism is consiousness from theadverse treatment such as oppression, and explanation that occurs to women in some aspects of life, including with doing a movement to change that situation.

“Feminism is an awariness of patriarchal control, exploitation and oppression at the material and ideological levels of women’s labor, fertility and sexuality, in the family, atthe place work and in society in general, and conscious action by women and men to transform the present situation.”

Osborn (2001:8) stated in book pocket essential ideas define feminism as a way of looking at the world, which women occupy from the perspective of women. It has its central focus on the concept of pariarchy, which can be described as a system of male authority, which oppresses women through its social, political and economic institutions.

Feminist is concepts, studies, and social movement that has purpose on changing the subordinate status of women in society that prioritiez the male perspective. People who put the interest of men over women’s interests is the definition of patriarchal society.

Ratna (2013:184) believed that feminist is a movement based on the idea of the effort to raise awareness of the inequality and oppression of women in society, as well as the conscious actions committed by both men and women to change the situation. The purpose of feminist is to reach the equality in gender interrelation. In the wide term means the feminism is a women movement that refuse to everything that marginalized, subordinate by the dominant culture (patriarchy) in some sectors like politic, economy, and social. Equality in feminism can be defined as a state or condition of being the same, especially in terms of social status or political right.

Women often did not aware of the system that oppressed them, therefore they should raise their consciousness. Feminism can be defined “a movement to erase and sexism, sexist, exploitation and oppression”, it emphasized that feminist in the most basic level, predicated some upon awareness of discrimination based on gender. Based on the definition, the construct of feminist consciousness would include any traits, values and attitude that held by an individual that acknowledges the existence of sexist discrimination and its power as an inevitable and damaging aspect of all women’s life.

Hook (2000:7-8) stated before women could change patriarchy, they should change their self and they should rise their consciousness. They should aware of that they are being discriminate, exploited, and victimized by sexism. Moreover, women must learn about patriarchy that oppresses them how it becomes standardized and how it become exist. Through the consciousness, they gain their strength to fight patriarchy. It can be inferred that women should have consciousness to fight patriarchy and discrimination toward women.

Ann B (2012:63) believed that in traditional society before feminism arises, women were considered as weak intellectually, this concept has been used as social construction in society. Based on this concept, society is divided into two parts: private and public world, the private world implied that women should stay at home, they were prohibited to work and learn, and they are just educated that suitable with society claimed as their nature such as sewing, nursing and painting. The sole role for them is in marriage. The public worlds implied that men are more potential in intellectually. So they were allowed to get education such as mathematics, scientist, and etc.

Feminism grow rapidly around 1960's in America had widespread impact. This movement make people aware the inferior position of women. The impact of this movement can also be felt in the field of literature. Women began to realize that in the works literature there is an imbalance regarding the view of human in the characters. This is what eventually led to what is called Feminist literary criticism. In history, Feminism literary criticism arises to go against misogyny (negative attitudes toward women) in various kinds of source that describes women as inferior or lesser creatures. Feminists states about these disagreements toward the statement that degraded women capacity.

Wollstonecraft (1792:92) denied that women are naturally inferior in rational capacity. She believes that women as well as men have the rational capacity. Thus that society should treat women and men same in education. She states that women has right to achieve education and expend their intellectual capability and morality.

Mills in Okin (2016:108) wrote about the idea of women's right for education and he also denied some of the statements who degraded women. In subjection of women Mills states that he against the opinion about women which states that women are naturally inferior, less rational. He states that those opinion is not base on the valid evidence and probably wrong. Meanwhile, in subject of marriage Mills also write about his disagreement that women had the different intellectual capacity with men, he denied the dogmatism which states about women and men are naturally have the differences of intellectual capacity. He argues that women and men have some potential, and women should be given the same opportunity as men have in government, science and education.

Woolf in a Room of Ones's Own (1929:52) states about her rejection of patriarchy, Woolf argues that the male dominated ideas of the patriarchal society prevented women from realizing their creativity and true potential. Woolf argues that women have the right to develop their potential and they also have the right to get education. She states if women are given access to education equal to men in a system tat viewed both sexes as equals, they can lead lives in which they are fee and able to truly be themselves.

Jonathan (1983:55-60) states that feminist literary criticism is an approach that is used to reveal many subordination and oppression of women. In this context, feminist theory is expected to reveal the veil that covers the certain message inside the literary works and reclaim the opinions in literature both reflects and shapes stereotypes and other cultural assumptions. Thus, feminist literary criticism examines how works of literature embody patriarchal attitudes or undercut them, sometimes both happening within the same work.

Based on the explanation above feminist literary aims to reinterpret literature from a female point of view. This accomplished in several ways. Some feminist critics seek to interpret the works of male authors, with particular attention to women characters, in order to explore the moral, political and social restrictions women traditionally faced. Other feminist critics choose to analyze the works of women authors that have been previously overlooked by male critics. The objective of feminist literary criticism is to give a critical respond towards the opinion manifested in literary works which is given by its culture. Thus, it is questioning the relation between text, power and sexuality reveals in text.

Moreover, feminist literary criticism has been very successful especially in reclaiming the lost literary women and in documenting the sources. In this respect, feminist criticism has successfully directed attention to the female intellectual tradition. Many early works on women writers before the 1960s usually focus on the female literary tradition. Here it is necessary to point out the difference between “female” and “feminist” positions and in literary studies. According to Moi (1986:204), feminist criticism a specific kind of political discourse, a critical and theoretical practice committed to the struggle against patriarchy and sexism.

In addition, “feminist criticism is a political act whose aim is not simply to interpret the word but to change it by changing the consciousness of those who read and their relation to what they read. The first act of a feminist critic is to become a resister rather than an assenting reader and by this refusal to assent, to begin the process of exorcizing the male mind that has been implanted in us.

On the ideological level, the reader seeks to learn not accept the hegemonic perspective of the male and refuses to be co-opted by a gender-bias criticism. Gender is largely a cultural construct, as are the stereotypes that go along with it: that the male is active, dominating, and rational, whereas as the female is passive, submissive, and emotional.

F. Synopsis of the Novel

The researcher acquire the synopsis by using internet and reading the novel. This synopsis was made by Becca Taylor’s review on april 3th 2010.

A Golden Web tells the inspiring story of Alessandra Giliani, a 14th Century Italian girl reputed to be the first female anatomist. Alessandra, like many young girls of her time, is expected to obey her elders, act a certain way, and submit to an advantageous marriage arranged by her family. Unlike her contemporaries, she has a keen intellect, curious mind, and fiery spirit. She recognizes the gift inherent in her intelligence and yearns to do more with her life than is expected of her.

Although Alessandra is surrounded by a doting father and loving siblings, her stepmother arranges to send her away to a convent for a year prior to her marriage. Alessandra manages to escape the convent and sets out on a daring adventure pursuing her dream to become a scholar of medicine. Her path is filled with intrigue and danger, for during her time a woman who dares too much is often persecuted as a witch.

Barbara Quick has woven a wonderfully engaging imagining of Alessandra's life and times. The characters are rich and the settings beautifully detailed. I found myself immersed in Alessandra's world, eagerly anticipating how her story would unfold. Quick has created a lovely story that will inspire young and old women alike to pursue their dreams unapologetically.

A. Research Method

The method that use in this research is descriptive qualitative. According to Berg (2009:101) states that qualitative research is research that refers to the meaning, concepts, definition, characteristics, metaphors, symbols, and description of things. Qualitative research is a research approach that reveals a particular social situation, by describing reality correctly, that formed by words based on the relevant data collection techniques, this research also supported with descriptive analysis which is done by describing and analyzing the data.

B. Research Object

Based on the research question, this research aim to reveal the resistance to patriarchal ideology of the main character, using feminism approach in novel A Golden Web by Barbara Quick.

C. Instrument of the Research

Instrument of research can be defined as tools or means that is to obtain data or information which needed in research. In this research the instrument of research is subject of research through reading the novel A Golden Web repeatedly and analyzing the main character using the feminist theory.

D. Data Collection Procedure

The procedure of collecting data that used by the researcher:

- a. The writer will read the novel carefully. Through this way, the researcher will analyze the element on as the primary data.

E. Techniques of Data Analysis

Technique of data analysis can defined as the processing of data collected by using various ways including statistical or non statistical that used in study. In this research, the researcher will use feminist theory to analyze the data and use novel “A Golden Web” to understand and explain how the main character described related to feminist theory. The researcher will conduct some steps such as reading the novel carefully, classifying the data, giving some notes related data, and analyzing the data to support the data, the writer found the related data from various sources.

CHAPTER IV

FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

A. Findings

1. The Characterization of The Main Character

a) Physical Appearances

Character is one of the important elements in story. The main character is the character that becomes the central in a story. In A Golden Web the main character is Alessandra Gilliani, She is a smart girl who lives in patriarchal era, when the subordination and patriarchal system still dominant. The researcher analyze the main character by her appearance, action and thought, in order to know more deeply the character in the story.

Alessandra is a beautiful girl, her beauty resembles her mother, especially for the eyes. According to her sister her eyes look like her mother who has almond shape, and the appearance of her mother can be described by painting of her mother.

“...form the almond-shaped to the startled brow and the slightly lips that seemed about to speak

“You look like her, Zan-Zan, “ said Pierna, gazing up in to her sister’s widest, unmistakably almond-shaped brown eyes.” (Quick2010,20)

Alessandra showed the painting of their mother to her sister, from the painting her sister admitted that Alessandra resembled their mother. She inherited her mother’s beauty. Her eyes is like almond shaped eyes started brows and slightly parted lips seemed about to speak.

Beside beautiful, she is also dressed up herself beautifully. She always wears gown. Her step mother insists her to become graceful woman, so she must wear dress and behave like a graceful girl.

“She is going to kill you when she sees the wreck you’ve made of your gown!” said Nicco as he pushed her gently away.

Nicco tousled his sister’s hair. “You’re as hopeless a well-behaved girl as I am a scholar. Which reminds me...!” (Quick 2010,7)

From the quotation above we can see that Alessandra wear gown when she was at home. Her brother reminded her that their step mother may get mad if she knew the gown was messes up. From that quotation we know that her mother wanted Alessandra to behave like a graceful girl.

As a girl her behavior is not graceful like a common girl. It’s shown from the beginning of the story. When Alessandra comes to help her brother to studying, her appearance is mess up. Her gown is dirty with mud because she chases a pig.

“...And no sooner did Nicco think of his sister than she appeared in the doorway, a curly hair shrimp of a girl with her green velvet gown all spattered in mud “ (Quick2010, 5)

“I trampled his turnips, quite by accident, while trying to catch the new piglet that had wandered off—and now I’ve ruined my gown, and Mother is surely going to kill me.”(Quick 2010,6)

Moreover, she also has hobby like a boy, not like a common girl who stay at home. She liked to wander of the forest and learn how to ride the horse with her brother Nicco. Moreover, she always wears her brother’s clothes while she rides the horse. Her mother never allows her to ride the horse, but she insisted.

“It seemed to Alessandra that Ursula had loosened her hold on her or, much to her delight, had somehow forgotten about her. She grew enough that year to ride the little gelding kept by Carlo’s groom. She never learned to ride as well as Nicco—but, still, she learned to ride well enough and wear her brother’s clothes with such confidence that the neighbors—always alert to anything new—took her for an apprentice or cousin or some other young male hanger-on at the Gilianis” (Quick 2010, 52)

Even though she must learn secretly by disguised as man, but she didn't give up learning until she could ride a horse. Sometimes her neighbor assumed that she is a boy.

b) Physiological Appearances

Alessandra is a caring person. She always cares to her brother and sister. She always helps her older brother. Whenever her brother gets trouble with his study she helps him.

“Alessandra turned away from him to examine the book that stood open on its stand. “oh, I parsed this out last harvest season. Look, let’s just go over it so that you can at least do a passable job when he comes back, and I’ll see if I can find an excuse to stay close by, so that I can help you out with a whispered answer, if need be. Did you know that he’s deaf in the left ear?”(Quick 2010,7)

The text above tells about Alessandra who helped Nicco to study. He must master his subject before the teacher came. Alessandra help Nicco to translate the subject and when Nicco couldn't answer the question, she would stand beside Nicco to whisper the answer.

She is also a responsible person. When her little brother wanders off outside house without her baby sitter Emilia, she takes the responsibility to keep Dodo.

“The two years old was all smiles at the success of the journey he’d taken on his own .he sturdly his little arms around his sister’s neck, crowing his own version of her name: ZanZan.”
“madame our stepmother will be livid if she finds out he’s wandered off on his own again, was it you supposed to be watching him?”
“Emilia-but never mind” (Quick 2010, 9)

The text above tells about how responsible Alessandra as a sister. She knew that her mother would be angry if she knew that Dodo wandered off without Emillia taking care of him, and Nicco ask her whether it is her responsibility or Emilia. But she answered that it is Emillia duty to take care Dodo but she didn’t care about that. She just watched over her little brother regardless from whomever duty to keep his brother.

Alessandra is a clever girl. She has a medical knowledge; she knows how to help people who choke.

“What ill luck” wailed Emilia, “to die without the chance to make his peace with god!”
“it would have taken this one a month to confess all his sins” said Nicco, nudging the friar’s body with the toe of his boot.” He’s as dead as a pike , God save me!”
Alessandra knelt down and traced a cross near the top of Fra Giuseppe’s belly. Between his ribs.” Just here! Stomp on him, hard and sharp, but not hard enough to break his bone(Quick 2010, 11)

The text above shows that she could help Nicco’s teacher who choked by a piece of meat, everybody scared and assumed that teacher has died, but Alessandra knew that teacher has not died. Everyone who saw that tragedy was impressed by her ability, because they thought the teacher has died and she has saved his life, she gets knowledge from the book and she prefers to read book about nature and medic.

Another event that shown she has medical knowledge is when she helped people who got stung. It's shown when Nicco got stung by bee. She knows how to cure it.

They fell into the basket with the sound of hail. "Ouch!"

"Did you get stung?" said Pierina.

"It's nothing."

"Come down," said Alessandra. "Let's put some mud on it."

"I'll get some of these lower ones," Pierina urged.

"Do come down!"

Nicco gave in to his sisters' tender ministrations and jumped to the ground. "Can you see the stinger?"

Pierina, who liked to think her brother loved her best, grabbed Nicco's injured hand. "Move over, Zan—you're blocking the light!"

"wasps don't drop their stinger—just their poison". Pushing Pierinna aside, Alessandra brought Nicco's hand up to her mouth, sucked on the swelling there, and then spat "let's put some mud, on it now"

Pierinna said: "we should get you a pair of red gloves, Alessandra- and then you could go about the parish, selling cures" (Quick 2010, 50)

The quotations above show us how clever Alessandra is. When Nicco got stung by bees she knew that bees never leave their stinger, but pierina asked Nicco about bee's stinger. In this case Alessandra has more knowledge than her sister. She applied her knowledge to cure her brother. She sucks the poison and smeared the mud to neutralize the poison. Her sister were impress by her ability, even she teased Alessandra to sell the Medicine.

Her father also knows that she is clever, but he doesn't support her ambition. The researcher can see about her father thought.

"I want to study as Aristoteles says men should study."

"men Alessandra, not girls"

"Carlo thought how proud his daughter was- how proud and pretty, and he had to admitted, correct in her opinion. She had all capacity required to pursue any of seven liberal arts: grammar , logic, rhetoric, arithmetic, geometry, music, or even astronomy, Nicco, for his lovable manly bluster, was as a lowly apprentice, not even worthy of holding a candle to his sister's intellectual pursuits. She was a natural scholar and an original thinker.”

(Quick2010,64)

Alessandra's father admitted her intelligence, she has the capability more than her brother Nicco. He admitted it even though Alessandra is a woman she has the ability more than a men. He thought when Alessandra asked him to learn anatomy in Bologna. But he refused it because she is a woman, even though he admitted that Alessandra is really clever.

She is a determine woman. It can be seen when she decided to go to Bologna. She declares her thought about going to Bologna and learning anatomy in Bologna, even though her environment and her father prohibit her to get high education to learn in Bologna, she still decided go to school to reach her dream.

I want to study as Aristotle says men should study as Aristotle says men should study

Men Alessandra not girl!

“It's true the old stagtire has nothing kind to say about intellectual capacity of females. But I am living proof that he was biased in his view.”

“How you vex me, Alessandra! What you're asking is unreasonable! No girl of Persiceto has ever gone off to study in Bologna. And females are not permitted to compete for advanced degrees. You would heap shame upon our heads—and even Pierina's chances of marrying well would be compromised.”

“It is not fair!”

“It is the way of this world, daughter.” (Quick 2010, 67)

The text above tells about Alessandra who couldn't deal with her father, who didn't allow her to go to Bologna. She insisted her father that she could go to Bologna. She didn't care about people says. She feels that it's not fair because she is a woman it means she couldn't study in Bologna, her father angry with her. She has her own decision to decide what she want to do, she finally decide to go to Bologna, although she must learn secretly by disguises as men.

The intelligence and knowledge that Alessandra got beside from reading book is also because she is a curious person. She want to know how to make book and the painting from Gezzo.

She walked up quietly behind Old Fabio to watch him as he hunkered over the vellum folio, applying gold leaf to an illumination of the Adoration of the Magi.

Alessandra touched the tiny brush to the escaped piece of pounded gold, as delicate as an insect's wing. She cupped her other hand around it and held her breath as she dropped it onto the blood red silk of the tiny cushion. "There it is." (Quick 2010, 36-37)

From the text above the researcher can see how curious Alessandra, besides interested in anatomy she is also interested in painting. It tells about Alessandra who involved in her father's printing house, it's shown when she observed her father's staff Fabio. She tries to paint as Fabio did.

Her curiosity also can be seen through her thought who wonder about woman and man as creation of God.

Why would god have given her a keen and questioning mind if he didn't intend her to use it? why would the world and all of nature be laid out like a book, waiting to be read and understood, if the creator had not desire her to discover its secrets and draw wisdom from them?"
Woman created last of all, after all the animals and after Adam himself.
Why would God have done it thus if He intended woman as a lesser creature? Would he not then have made her just after the animals and before Adam? (Quick 2010, 121)

The text above tells about Alessandra mind. In her mind, she thought about women and men that have given the ability by god, but just women who couldn't use their ability. She wondered why god create woman as the creature who lower than men. Her curiosity showing that she is different from the girl in her time, where women accept about the rule in society that curbs women, she is aware and thought why the rule in society discriminate women. She aware that position of women in her time is not equal as men.

Alessandra is also an independent woman. Even though she has Emilia as her guard, but she never relies on her. She want to be independent and doing everything by herself.

“These clothes are my protection. Sandro, my alter ego, is my protection. I'm in need of no one else.” Alessandra looked at both of them. “Not even you, Emilia! Go home to Persiceto. I'm sure you'll be most welcome there. (Quick 2010, 132)”

Alessandra states that she didn't need Emilia as her guard to keep her always, she ordered Emilia to go home with Nicco. She said that she could do everything by herself. And she didn't want to worry about her. Even though Emillia is her guard that order by her father, but she didn't want to make Emillia feel burden with it. She assured her that she could protect herself.

Alessandra also earns her own money when she works as Mondino's assistant. She can support her life in Bologna.

“Alessandra Giliani became Mondino’sprosector, before she was even properly admitted in to the medical school—and just in time to earn her room and board.”(Quick 2010, 196)

The text above tells about Alessandra who can stand independently in Bologna. She earned her own money by being assistant lecturer, even though she has not become a medical student. Her intelligence and surgery skill were quite impressive to make Mondino interested in Alessandra, thus that make Mondino chose her as his assistant. In this case Alessandra became an independent woman, she didn’t depend on her parents to support her own life. She used her skill to earn her money.

Alessandra is also a hard working woman, she learns really hard while attending to university, even she also approaches her lecturer after study.

“When she knew a subject well she would approach the professor afterwards and arrange to be examined. In this way , all within the space of her first nine mothns in Bologna. She passes her first year examination, then the second years followed by the third.” (Quick2010,120)

From the text above the researcher can see how hard she works, she always approaches her professor to graduate quickly.

She also learns every night and kept the book close by her bed, it can be seen when she tries to understand the content of the book every night, because she can’t understand the book. So she tries to learn it.

“Alessandra kept the book close by her bed, where she looked at it every night trying to parse out what the pictures meant even though she couldn’t make any sense of the world” (Quick 2010, 187)

The text above tells how hard Alessandra study, she tried her best to learn and understand, even though the book was not easy to understand. She tried to understand by learned it every night.

From character analysis above, it can be concluded that Alessandra's characteristics such as clever, curious, optimist, brave, determine and independent helps her to fight patriarchy. As clever and curious woman she never gives up on her dream to learn anatomy, her curiosity brings her to consciousness about discrimination toward women in her society. Meanwhile, as brave and determine woman, she breaks the rule in society that forbids women to get higher education.

2. The Resistance of Alessandra Giliani to Patriarchal Ideology

The feminist fought for women's inequality between men and women, to have equal right position as men have. In this part the researcher analyze Alessandra, as the main character of the novel. Researcher discuss the main character as a feminist. From the characters analysis researcher found that her character as curious, brave, clever, determine and hard working. Her characteristics bring her to do some tendencies to fight against women's unequal situation in patriarchal environment. Although in refusing it is not easy because there are many obstacles that main character faced in the novel, but finally the main character has broken the rules that have been made by showing her ability in many aspect.

The researcher found some data about resistances of the main character in the novel A Golden Web:

a) Resistance to Gender Inequality between Man and Woman

Hook (2001) stated that before women fight patriarchy they should raise their consciousness, they should aware that they are victimized and being discriminated. From the character analysis researcher found that Alessandra as curious person, this curiosity make her aware about women's condition in society that being subordinate. She thought about women and men as God creations but they have different level. She knew that women also have the capability, but the society never allow women get chance to use their ability.

Why would god have given her a keen and questioning mind if he didn't intend her to use it? why would the world and all of nature be laid out like a book, waiting to be read and understood, if the creator had not desire her to discover its secrets and draw wisdom from them?"
Woman created last of all, after all the animals and after Adam himself. Why would God have done it thus if He intended woman as a lesser creature? Would he not then have made her just after the animals and before Adam? (Quick 2010, 121)

The quotation above shows about Alessandra's consciousness. The discrimination that happened to women makes her curious about position of women. In this novel, women as the lower class than men. Meanwhile, her thought describes that she is curious about God who created women lower than men. This curiosity can indicate her awareness about gender inequality. She knows that women don't have the equal chance as men have. Her thought is also the reflection of feminism idea which states that feminist refuse the notion about inequality between man and woman, they are insisted that the inequalities must be questioned.

Women who lives in patriarchal society can't get the equal right in field such education and career. The perspective at that time states that women just needs to stay at home, and doing their housework. This perception is influenced by theology and Philosophy that degrades women by their biological determinism. Meanwhile, Feminism rejects the traditional notion that degrades women. Feminism assumes that women and men have the equal logic and capability, Jhon Stuart Mill (2016:108) stated his rejection about assumption which states that women are naturally inferior, less rational, and lack of capability. Feminism also states that women should be educated to expand their potential capacity.

b) Resistance to Education Priorities for Men

In this case, Alessandra blaming Aristotle treatise, because women cannot get the equal chance as well as men in education due to Aristotle's treatise that degrades women's capacity, Aristotle states that men ought to receive education because they are rational, strong and active; meanwhile women should not receive education, because he thinks that women are lack of capacity. Therefore, in patriarchal culture son is the priority to get education, while women doesn't have right to get education. Alessandra states that women also have the capacity, and she have right to get the chance in education. She clearly states that Aristotle is wrong, and she is the proof that his treatise is wrong.

“I want to study as Aristotle says men should study.”

“It's true the old Stagirite has nothing kind to say about the intellectual capacity of females. But I am living proof that he was biased in his view!”

“How you vex me, Alessandra! What you’re asking is unreasonable! No girl of Persiceto has ever gone off to study in Bologna. And females are not permitted to compete for advanced degrees. You would heap shame upon our heads—and even Pierina’s chances of marrying well would be compromised.”
“It is not fair!”
“It is the way of this world, daughter.” (Quick 2010,64)

Feminism aware that education is important to expand their potentiality. It proves through Alessandra when she decides to pursue her dreams to study in university. She wants to expand her potentiality in anatomy. Therefore, she studies hard to pursue her dreams to become anatomist.

“Alessandra kept the book close by her bed, where she looked at it every night trying to parse out what the pictures meant even though she couldn’t make any sense of the world” (Quick 2010, 187)

Moreover, feminist states through education women can expand their ability, show their skill and get job as their wish. It is shown when Alessandra study in university. She can prove that she has the skill and ability in anatomist. It’s shown when Mondino chose her as his assistant.

“He chooses assistants from among the best students in the medical school. I know you’ve heard of him”
“You!” said Mondino. He was pointing at Alessandra.
“Me?” she mouthed silently.
“Yes, you—I’ve seen your skill with a knife. Step up—be swift! The body is decaying rapidly.” And so Alessandra Giliani became Mondino’s prosector, (Quick, 2010, 152)

The text above tells that Alessandra is the best student among another student. Mondino choose her, because he knows her skill. He chose Alessandra rather than another student. She proves that women also have capability more than men. The idea of feminism states that women have the capability as well as men. Mondino also pay her as his assistant, thus she becomes independent by earning her own money.

Furthermore, she proves her ability to the world. She shows that she invents blood circulatory system.

“Rumor traveled fast, as it does in the student quarter: an unusually large and distinguished crowd had assembled. Word passed from man to man, each vying for the distinction of being the first to spread the news that a startling discovery was going to be announced—not by Mondino himself, but rather by his famous young assistant, Sandro. Many more people gathered that day at the river than usually attended the lectures. There was to be a show, people said: a magic show of some kind.”

The text above tells that Alessandra has been famous to the entire University of Bologna, people gather to see the invention that she made. It shows that women also have the same capability.

c) Resistance to Arranged Marriage in Young Age

She is also a courage woman. It can be seen when she refuses to marry with men that her parents chose to her.

She spoke in a whisper. “Have I already been promised to someone?” Carlo, in his turn, was silent. “It’s true, then!” Alessandra’s voice broke when she spoke again. “Could it not be deferred, Papa?”

Carlo shook his head. “The papers have already been drafted.”

“Burn them—I beg you!”(Quick 2010, 122)

The text above tells that Alessandra that refuse arrange marriage. She braves to breaks the rule in society. In her society usually women marry in young age and it’s such an obligation. Thus they cannot get education, due to the society regarded that women should serve their household. She asked her father to burn the agreement documents to refused arrange marriage. She preferred to reach her dreams in learning anatomy rather than marry in young age.

d) Resistance to Aristotele's Statement

Feminism states that women and men has some capacity intellectuality, she reject all of the statement that degrade women's intellectual and capacity. It's reflected in Alessandra's statement bellow

"She spoke so faintly, only Otto could hear her. "Aristotle...", she said, then closed her eyes. She pressed his hand and looked at him, and moistened her lips. "Although I revere him, Aristotle was wrong about many things." Alessandra, with surprising strength, pulled him closer. "He was wrong about the capacity of women." He smiled at her, trying very hard not to cry. "Spectacularly so!" "He said..." She paused, her lips parted, gathering strength. "He said, 'The courage of a man is shown in commanding, of a woman in obeying.' By that measure, Otto, I am a coward."(Quick, 2010, 199)

From the statement above Alessandra shows her disagreement about Aristotle's statement. She blames that Aristotle is wrong about women's capacity. She denies the notion of Aristotle that states "the courage of women is showing by obeying men, the courage of men is showing by ordering". She said that if she obeys the rule from that perspective, so she is a coward. Men always dominate and have power over women, men superior and women inferior. In order to proves that the ideas is wrong, she against that idea and proves that woman is also has the same level and capacity as men. By disobeying the rule in society that state women is the lower creature and lower level than men. It's showing her strong disagreement of patriarchal society.

B. Discussion

Based on the finding above, the researcher found some data about describe the main character and the resistances of the main character to patriarchal ideology in A Golden Web novel:

1. The Characteristics of Alessandra Giliani as The Main Character

Alessandra lives with her father and stepmother in Persiceto. His biological mother died while giving birth to his youngest sister. Alessandra has an older sister, Nicco, and two younger siblings, Pierina and Dodo. Since birth she has been considered different because of his intelligence. None of his siblings can match his intelligence. He read a lot of books, he watched spiders make their webs, he was accustomed to paying attention to many things in his environment. Entering the age of 14th years, his stepmother locked him in the house, he could not even meet with Nicco, Pierina and Dodo. Like other teenage girls at that time, when entering the age of 14th years, a girl will begin to be looked at by young men who are looking for a wife, or arranged marriage by their respective parents. No exception for Alessandra, her stepmother intends to set her up with the young man of her choice. Alessandra feels that her life is over. If she is compliant to get married, it means she will forever stay at home as a wife, serve her husband, and throw away all his curiosity about living things, nature and science.

One day, he revealed his plan to his father. Alessandra wants to enter medical school. Since the death of his mother, Alessandra continued to think, if someone is able to master a science called Anatomy, maybe his mother can be saved. He was interested when he discovered a professor of Anatomy at Bologna University named Mondino de 'Liuzzi. But when he expressed his ideals to his father, the disappointment he got, because it turns out his father also considers his plans to be unreasonable and impossible for a girl. This is where an escape plan appeared in his mind. He had no other choice to move on with his life. Of course the road to be taken is not easy especially considering the thoughts of the people at that time did not side with the plan.

Alessandra is a beautiful girl, her beauty resembles her mother especially for the eyes. She is also dress up herself beautiful and always use gown, but her behavior is not graceful like a common girl, she like to wander of the forest and learn how to ride the horse. Alessandra is a caring person, she always care to her brother and her sister, she also responsible person, she is clever, especially in a medical. Her father also knows that she is clever but he doesn't support her ambition, but Alessandra still want to study about medical even environment and her father prohibit her to get high education to learn in Bologna, but she still decided go to school to reach her dream.

The reflection of feminist can be seen through what she has done to go against the perception of patriarchy, in proving the capability of woman and rejects the notion that has degraded woman. Alessandra fights and struggles proving that woman also have capability equal as men in patriarchal society. Her struggle implies that woman also has the right and chances to expand their intellectual capacity.

2. The Resistance of The Main Character to Patriarchal Ideology

Alessandra characteristic bring her to do some tendencies to fight against women's inequality situation in patriarchal environment. There are four resistances that researcher found in the novel. First, resistance to gender inequality between man and woman, this curiosity make her aware about women's condition in society that being subordinate, she knew that women also have the capability, but the society never allow women get chance to use their ability. Second, resistance to education priorities for men, in this case in patriarchal culture son is the priority to get education, while women doesn't have right to get education, and she want to prove that women have ability just like a men, it proves through Alessandra when she decides to pursue her dreams to study in university and improve her potentially in anatomy. Third, resistance to arrange marriage in young age, Alessandra refuse to marry with man that her parent chose to her society usually women marry in young age and it such as obligation but Alessandra is different from the other girl in her society, she refuse to marry young and asked her father to burn the agreement documents to refused arrange marriage in young age. Fourth, Alessandra blames that Aristotele is wrong about women's capacity. She denies the notion of Aristotele that states "the courage of women is showing by obeying men, the courage of men is showing by ordering. Alessandra said if she agree that statement, so she is a coward.

Based on analysis above, it can be concluded that Alessandra as the main character reflects some feminism values through her resistance to patriarchal ideology. First, she rejects the statement that states women as inferior. Second, she proves that women capability as equal as men. It can be seen from her invention of blood circulatory system. This novel wants to criticize the perspectives that degrade women's capacity through the main character in novel.

Based on the previous finding it can be seen that this research is different from the other previous findings. First, is Saranga (2014) analyze A Golden Web novel by using gender inequality theory by Armatya Sens. Second finding is by Fitriani (2017), her research focused to find the types of phrasal verb that use in the novella Golden Web, in this research the researcher analyze the characteristic and the resistance to patriarchal ideology by the main character using feminism theory by Bhasin and Khan.

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusions

A Golden Web is a novel that tells the story about young women scientist that lived in 14th century, Barbara Quick as the author put some of feminism ideas to criticize misogyny through Alessandra as the main character. After analyzing the novel that focuses on the main character researcher found some conclusions. The main character in this novel portrayed as the feminist that fought the discrimination toward women at her time. Some forms discrimination is subordination where women viewed and placed as inferior in society, it creates the limitation for them to get education. Second is marginalization where women cannot chose their job freely they just can do the job at some kind of job such as noon and house wife.

In character analysis researcher found some Alessandra's characteristic such as curious, clever, determine and optimist, her characteristic help her to fight the discriminate situation. There are some feminism values that researcher found in this novel. First is the rejection of statement that degraded women's capacity. Feminist rejects the statement that states women capacity is naturally inferior, it's reflected through Alessandra, she clearly rejects Aristotle treatise that degrades women capacity. Second is expanding women potentiality through education, Feminist aware that education is important to expand their potentiality. Feminist also states that women also have same chances to get education. It's reflected through Alessandra, she struggle to get education to achieve and expand her potentiality, she decides to pursue her dreams to study anatomy in university. She studies hard while working to earn her own money.

Finally she can prove that she also has the capacity as well as men. Alessandra chosen by Mondino as his assistant for anatomy and she also proves her ability through her invention of the blood circulatory system.

Through the explanation above it can be concluded that Alessandra reflected the feminism idea that states women also have equal capacity as well as men. She also reflected the idea that women should expand their potentiality through education.

B. Suggestions

Researcher suggest to reading the summary and the differences between the feminist ideas, and then related it with the novel. Reading the novel many times is important things to understand the novel and to know what issue that can be analyzed in novel. This research has not been completely analyzed every aspect or issue in novel. Thus, for people who want to analyze another issue of this novel, researcher suggests to analyze the main character uses the psychology perspective, since the main character really motivated to reach her dreams even though it is very risky to her.
