This research focused on Fishman's theory that stated there are four domain, they are: the domain family, education, religion, and mass media. Then, the data were analyzed using descriptive qualitative method. The researcher used interview guide and observation sheet as the instrument to get valid data. The findings showed that the Luwu minority mostly dominant used Tae' language in their daily life. In the family domain, the condition of Luwu minority were monolingual as personally, bilingual and multilingual with code mixing. In the education domain, the language occurred monolingual, and bilingual with code mixing. Thus, in the religion domain, the language showed code mixing in monolingual and bilingual situation.

INTRODUCTION

This chapter consists of background, the problem statement, the objectives of the research, the significances of the research and scope of the research.

A. Background of the study

Language is the ability which people use in speak with other people, it can be seen through a sign of words and gestures. However, further language is a tool to interact or a tool to communicate, in the sense of a tool to convey the mind, ideas, and feeling. Widdowson (1996: 3) says that Language figures centrally in our lives. It covers our identity as individuals and social being when people acquire it during childhood. It serves as a means of cognition and communication that enables us to think about ourselves and to cooperate with other people in our community. The existence of language in human life is very important. However, this is sometimes not realized by the language uses and it may cause civilization changing by the existence of language itself.

In essence, all kind and varieties of language that exist in the entire universe are part of His Authority. Therefore, truly noble people who up hold the majesty of the verses of Allah SWT. In Al-Quran Karim Surah Ar-Rum Verse 22, Allah SWT says:

وَمِنْ آيَاتِهِ خَلْقُ السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضِ وَأَخْتِلَافُ أَلْسِنَتِكُمْ
وَالْوَنَاقِرِ إِنَّ فِي ذَلِكَ لَآيَاتٍ لِّلْعَالَمِينَ

Translation:

“And of His signs is the creation of the heavens and the earth and the diversity of your languages and your colors. Indeed in that are signs for those of knowledge”.

Linguistics tightly relation to the Al-Qur’an karim surah Ar-rum verse 22 said that language as a sign of greatness of Allah SWT, actually there are signs for those who know. By learning of language in the world, besides to useful continue the language, it is also to be grateful to Allah SWT. In addition, language and societies are two things that cannot be separated. It is because the society are individuals that interconnected and language is the most effective means of communication by society.

In communication, there is relationship between language and society, such as relationship about object, ideas, events, and actual speakers and listeners. Thus, Platt in Siregar (1984: 66) says that “Every language expresses in some ways or other how people think, perceive and act, in what state people, things and ideas are, and how they related each other”.

Talking about communication and culture, Indonesia has rich culture and ethnic in which each ethnic has its own vernacular language to communicate each other. Every vernacular language has its own rule to arrange a proper conversation politely. It can be analyze this case used sociolinguistics approach which is study of language in relation to society as the researcher have know that sociolinguistic is concerned with language in social and culture context. Thus, Holmes (2001:1) states that sociolinguistic is study of relationship between language and society. They are interested in explaining why people speak differently in different social context, and they are concerned with identify the social function of language and the way it is uses to convey the social meaning.

The study of language shift and maintenance is the powerless of minority immigrants maintain her native language in competition with the dominant majority language. Language maintenace related to an attitude problem or an assessment of a language. One common concern for groups whose migration has crossed linguistic boundaries language maintenance and/or shift in the newly created minority ethnic.

One of ethnic group in South Sulawesi has it is own language, it is Tae' language. Ibrahim, A. Gufran. (1997 p, 54) he stated that Tae' language is an ancient language that was used in the book Lontara La Galigo and also the capital ethnic of Buginese, Makassarnese, Torajanese, Massenrengpulu' and Mandarnese. Tae' is a dialect cluster consisting of 12 ethnic dialects used by the people who are in the area of Tana Toraja. Tana Toraja is an area that was formerly the territory Government of Old Luwu. Since Islam as the official religion in official United Luwu, Luwu Government has made Buginese the language of introduction and Tae' is the language used in daily activity.

Based on the reality, I have seen through the language in our live especially the minority of Luwunese live in Makassar that still uses their vernacular language (Tae' language) in the same ethnic and language. But when compared to other regions in Indonesia, the tae' language among metropolitan lack of the confidence to use the tae' language itself. For example, in comparison with one of the metropolitan areas such as Bandung, although Bandung has included the metropolitan area, but the society still use Sundanese language in their daily lives. In this case, it can be concluded that the effort uses to preserve a language is to maintain the language. That is why I decide to do this observation.

The phenomenon of language description above, the researcher interested in analyzing about the maintenance of language, because there is no research on language preservation of Tae' language in the field of linguistics. And the object of this research is Luwu minority living in Makassar. So, the researcher are interested to analyze how is Luwu minority tend to use the language in communicate in their daily activity. The researcher thinks that this research is important because the large number of people in habiting in a community does guarantee that their language is also widely used in the society. Therefore, based on the statement above, the researcher interested in conducting a research with the title, “Maintenance of Tae’ Language by Luwu Minority Living in Makassar”.

B. Research Question

Based the explanation on background of the study above, the researcher formulates the research question as follows: “how is the maintenance of Tae’ language by Luwu minority living in Makassar in family domain, education domain, and religion domain”?

C. Research Objective

In relation to the reserach question the objectives it generally describe the language maintenance of Luwu minority living in Makassar in family domain, education domain, and religion domain.

D. Significance of the Research

By doing this research, it is expected to be relevant and useful in theoretically and practically. (1) Theoretically, it is hoped that research can be used as helpful references in order to understand the content of the language maintenance and how the maintenance theory applies in this research. This research also hope to be known and studied by students, lecturers, or other people who will be interested to the research especially in Adab and Humanities faculty. (2) Practically, hope that the research can be used as references for student who are interested to analysing the language maintenance, and it also can be used by lecturer as supporting to teaching about vernacular language or study of linguistic, then it is also hope that research can be used for other people to know and understand about how important thing to maintain our vernacular language, especially for people who are studying about linguistic. Finally, the whole of significance hopefully will be add more the redears knowledge about the language maintenance, it is also hope to be useful for all Luwu minority to realize that it is important to maintain their language in order to keep the existence of their ethnic group.

E. Scope of the Research

The object of this research is Luwu minority living in Makassar, by analyzing the data, researcher based on the theory of Fishman (1997: 44) has remarked that there are four domains they are: The domain of family, education, religion and mass media. But I just want to analyze the data in three domains.

LITERATURE REVIEW

This chapter deals with some previous related findings and explanation related to language maintenance as the focus of this research and also list of references and some pertinent ideas.

A. Previous Findings

Research on language shift and language maintenance are not new things anymore since those topics have been researched from many different perspectives by the following researchers: Masruddin, Jumharia Djamereng, and Yoga Hajar Rosmawan.

Masruddin (2011) entitled, “Wotu Language in Endangered: Phase Determinant Factors and Solution for its Maintenance”. On his research, the researcher used descriptive qualitative method and Wotu language as an object of the research. He also used Holmes’s theory. In his result, most of the speech communities of Wotu language are old age, more than 50 years old. While, the young generations do not use better their local language.

Djamereng (2012) It is concerned with “Factors Contributing to the Maintenance of Balinese Language among Transmigrant Communities in Sukamaju North Luwu”. It is a qualitative and quantitative research, and in this research many factors may influence in transmigration area, especially in Sukamaju. Such as Age, education, Mobility, bilingualism, Religion, culture, Attitude. The researcher used Fishman and Crystal’s theory and the object of this research is Balinese language in Sukamaju North Luwu. The result revealed that attitude put a high position as the influential factor in maintaining the language.

Other research is conducted by Rosmawan (2015) he conducted research on “Sundanese Maintenance By Sundanese Society Living In Makassar”. The research used Fishman’s theory and use descriptive qualitative method. The object of this research is Sundanese society who living in Makassar. In the result, the researcher describing the event of the language that occurs in Sundanese society live in Makassar are code mixing and code switching, it shows that there is language choice in their interactions.

Based on the previous finding above, the researcher find out the differences and the similarity between those third previous findings.

Masruddin (2011) the similarity with this research which also focuses on analyzing about language maintenance. The similarity between Djamereng (2012) with this research are analyze the language maintenance and has same theory, and the last one from Rosmawan (2015) the similarity uses Fishman theory to analyze the language maintenance.

The differences between the three previous findings above, from Masruddin (2011) the differences in this Masruddin’s research is focuses on endangered language, and this research the researcher’s focuse about language maintenance. Djamereng (2012) the differences with the research is the object and theory which applies in this research. The last previous findings above from Rosmawan (2015), the differences between this research are the object to analyze the research.

Therefore, it can be concluded that the research found out the cases of language maintenance and language shift accours as long as the immigrants maintain of shift their mother language in their daily life. Those researchers above help to describe the same cases to find out how is the Language Maintenance. So, the researcher will focuses on analyze the Language Maintenance by Luwu minority living in Makassar and how the maintenance of Tae' language by Luwu minority living in Makassar.

B. Pertinent Ideas

1. Language Maintenance

Masthrie et al. (2009:245) says that Language maintenance is the maintaining a language in the face of competition from a socially more powerful language in such community of majority. And the other explanation, language maintenance describe about the situation of speech community where more dominant to used they vernacular language in communitiy of majority. Acording to Fishman (1964: 172) states that the study of language maintenance and language shift is concerned with the realtionship between change and stability in habitual language use. On the other hand, it is occured in phsycology, social or process culture, and also occur when populations differing in language use are in contact with each other.

2. Factors Affect The Language Maintenance

Jendra (2010: 144) finds out the three factors which explain the language maintenance. The factors include in the following:

- a) Larger numbers of speakers
With more of speakers can make to maintain the language in community of majority
- b) Concentration of living
Where The minority group is able to maintain the language when they live together with the same ethnic and language.
- c) Identity and pride of culture
The speakers of the minority language consider and believe that, their language is their culture identity, the speakers are also have faith and pride of their language.

The other aspects that influence the language maintenance can be include in some factors, as follow:

a) Migration

Lee (1966: 49) asumes that the migration is describe widely as a change remain in a place to stay. In addition, in migration some of factors affect most people in much the same way, while others affect different people in different ways. Migration is part of the population. Mobility population is floating population of the region to other regions. In mobility population there is a nonpermanent (temporarily) for example turisme both the national or internasional. Mobility permanent (settled) is called the migration where floating population of a place to another with the aimes to settle down.

b) Generation

David (2002: 35) has asserted that a generation is still being the center of the study language maintenance and language shift, although raises the issues that classified as successive generations for a purpose analytical. Pauwels (2005: 129) believes that the language to the dominant language is known to take the most intense in the second generation of the immigrant.

c) Attitude to First Language (L1)

Attitude is one of the factors that affecting in language maintenance and language shift. According to Baker (1992: 93) assumes that language attitude is usually divided into instruments and integrative based on the motivation of attitude. The attitude of the language is suggestions or view of people about language, whether they are happy or not about the language. So that attitude of the language will be influence on language choice.

d) Domain of Language Use

Domain of Language use may able to affect in Language maintenance. Fishman (1997: 44) says that all of the iteration associated with the topic and the situation. Such family, education, religion, and mass media. It can be seen that in the difference every language in use is assorted. Where the use of language in different domain showing the state of the language as well as predictive state of a language in community of the future.

3. Monolingualism

According to Wardhaugh (1998 p, 96) stated that Monolingualism the ability to use only one language, is such a widely accepted norm in so many parts of the world that it is often assumed to be a world-wide phenomenon, to the extent that bilingual and multilingual individuals may appear to be 'unusual.' Indeed, the people often have mixed feelings when they discover that someone who meet is fluent in several languages: perhaps a mixture of admiration and envy but also, occasionally, a feeling of superiority in that many such people are not 'native' to the culture in which they function. Such people are likely to be immigrants, visitors, or children of 'mixed' marriages and in that respect 'marked' in some way, and such marking is not always regarded favorably.

4. Bilingualism

Bloomfield (1933: 76) says that bilingual is a ability of speaker to use the two language with the same good, both their mother tongue (B1) and other language that become their second language (B2). For example, the existence of a minority language immigrant using two language in interaction with the other people. The state of bilingual learn another language to survive. They need another language to interact effectively. The state of bilinguals are groups of individuals who use two language in most of the majority language society that surrounds them.

5. Multilingualism

Multilingual states by Valdes (2012: 45), multilingual has been define different depending on the ability and mastery language include a series of unity. Multilingual more referring to the description of speakers who controls more than two languages. For example in Iwuness, they are able to speak Tae' language as their mother tongue (B1), and they are also able to speak language as their second language (B2), and added English as the third language of them (B3).

In addition, Multilinguals develop competence in each of the codes to the extent that they need it and for the contexts in which each of the languages is used.

6. Language choice

Language choice, defined by Fasold (1984: 180) is chosen a language overall in communicate. The language choice not just a phenomenon of linguistics, but also a social phenomenon and culture. Because in language choice there are some factors that influence, includes:

a) Larger and situation interaction

Where the larger refers to time and place of the interaction, whether the interaction occur in homes, office, or the school. And in the sense of the situation showed that are in the interaction it heppened with formal or non-formal.

b) The topic of conversation

The topic of conversation is one factor the language choice in communicate. such talking about the journal research in the form of a speech, it otomatically make people to tend a language in their conversation.

7. Code Switching and Code Mixing

Wardhaugh (1998: 67) states about code switching is a term in study of linguistic that refer to use more one language in their conversation and it happened when used along together. Code mixing is event that mix two or more of language in an act of speaker. Based on the description, it can be concluded that code switching is a symptom of the transition use the language because of the change in roles and situation.

In addition, code switching is events the transition from one code to other in an act of speaker. For example speakers uses language then turn using vernacular language, or otherwise. In code mixing speaker tucked elements to another language when use the language certain. For example, luwuness speak language but sometimes their mix the conversation with their vernacular language inadvertently. In the same case, Wardhaugh (1986:67) also states tahat the other phenomenon closely related to code switching is code mixing. Code mixing occurs when it is used on both languages together to the extent that they change from one language to the other in the course of a single utterance. It means that, the conversation just change some of the elements in their utterance. Code mixing takes place without a change of topic and can involve various levels of language, morphology and lexical items.

8. Tae' Language (Luwunese)

Tae' language is the language used in the Luwu, one of the tribal languages of the ten tribes that inhabit the Luwu, South Sulawesi. Luwu language used by most residents of Luwu, from four counties and cities, each district Luwu, North Luwu, East Luwu and the town of Palopo Ibrahim, A. Gufran. (1997 p, 54).

Luwu kingdom is the oldest kingdom in Sulawesi vast territory. Some sepaiker of Gorontalo society in the north end of the former kingdom of this is to admit that their ancestors came from Luwu, this is a small example of this royal hegemony in the past. From some Lontara which is then used historical records, it is also known that geneologies of king in South Sulawesi, Southeast Sulawesi and West Sulawesi sourced from Luwu kingdom. Thus, Andi Zainal Abidin also revealing in the book "The Emergency of Early Kingdoms in South Sulawesi, 1983: page 212, as follows:

"... No one in South Sulawesi denies the importance of Luwu'. According to a popular belief and genealogies of the kings and nobility in South Sulawesi, Luwu' was founded before the formation of Bugis, Makassar and Mandar kingdoms. Several Lontara' readers estimated that Luwu' was founded in the thirteenth century, while two Assistant Commissioners of Bone ... estimated, without giving any evidence, that Luwu' was founded about the twelfth century. According to Couvreur, the Governor of Celebes (1929), Luwu' was the most powerful kingdom in Sulawesi from the tenth to the fourteenth century. This opinion is supported by the highest respect that the nobility in Luwu' traditionally enjoyed. Even petty principalities like Selayar, Siang, Lamatti' and Bulo-Bulo claimed that their first kings had come from Luwu'"

In Genealogy description above, Austronesian revealed that Tae' language is derived from the Malay language. Furthermore, the results of acculturation speakers Tae' language and Bare'e language, it gives birth to the Makassarnese. Makassarnese bore Walio language, and Wolio language childbirth Buginese and Mandarnese. One important information related to this case was obtained from one of North Luwu society that long ago inhabited the area Wotu up Malangke an oldest communities called Tribe "To Luwu”. It adds that this tribe ancestral language is the Tae’ language with little nuance Buginese. “To Luwu” Although current generation is more likely to be regarded as speakers of Buginese, but traces of the language of their ancestors many immortalized in some Lontara' South Sulawesi, including I Lagaligo original. Therefore, they prefer to call their ancestral language was the language term Lontara'.

There some example of tae’ language that use by Luwunese in their dayli activity, as follow:

Mesa’/misa’ = One	Male = Go
Da’dua’ = Two	Kumande = Eat
Tallu = Three	Mangngiru’ = Drink
Appa’ = Four	Mamma’ = Sleep
Lima = Five	Manjio’ = Bath
Annan = Six	Metawa = Laugh
Pitu = Seven	Tumangi = Cry
Karua = Eight	Masannang = Happy
Kassera = Nine	Sule = Back
Sangpulo = Ten	Malaja’ = Study

In this study, it can be observed some of the vocabulary used by luwu minority who live in Makassar such vocabulary as described above.

a) Retention of Tae’ language in the area of Makassar

Tae language preservation undertaken by the minority of Luwu living in Makassar is one form of language attitude where they seek to maintain their language even though they are far from their original culture. Then, Chaer and Leonie (1995: 197) says that the attitude of this language can determine the life of a nation.

b) Retention of Tae' language in daily communication

Faithfulness language or language loyalty is an attitude that encourages the people to maintain a language, and to prevent the influence of other languages. The loyal attitude shown by the minority of Luwu indicated by sought to use Tae' language through the speech in their daily lives, especially with the community of fellow tribe Luwu in a majority area.

9. Efforts of Language Maintenance

Effort is an attempt, way, doing something or take action so that something that still exist and persist. Efforts of Tae' language maintenance in this section is understood as a way, act, or attitude that can support the use of Tae' language as well maintain various social effects of changes in social life. Efforts of language maintenance as follows:

a. Efforts of language maintenance in Family domain

Maintenance of the heritage language is a constant concern for families raising children bi-/multilingually in communities where their language is a minority language. Sociolinguistic research has produced an extensive body of knowledge about the general trends that characterize language maintenance and the strong tendencies towards language shift in the second generation of immigrants (Luykx 2005: 1408). While research on bilingualism/multilingualism in families has suggested particular approaches to language maintenance and highlighted the interplay between wider societal processes and parental perspectives on family language policies, the family, like many domains of social life, constitutes a complex, intergenerational context for negotiating language policies and expectations regarding language use. Understanding of the processes of language maintenance/shift can be enriched by an examination of face-to-face social life and family interactions in their own right (Fishman 1991: 4). Recently, detailed investigation of family interactional practices and children's active role in reconstructing or negotiating language policies in family interactions has been highlighted as necessary and timely.

In relation to the context above, conceived as a forum for members to communicate, because the family is the first place to someone to learn about something (related to living together). Communication with family members can be mature understanding between parents and children, or vice versa between children and parents, as well as between members in one of family with other family members.

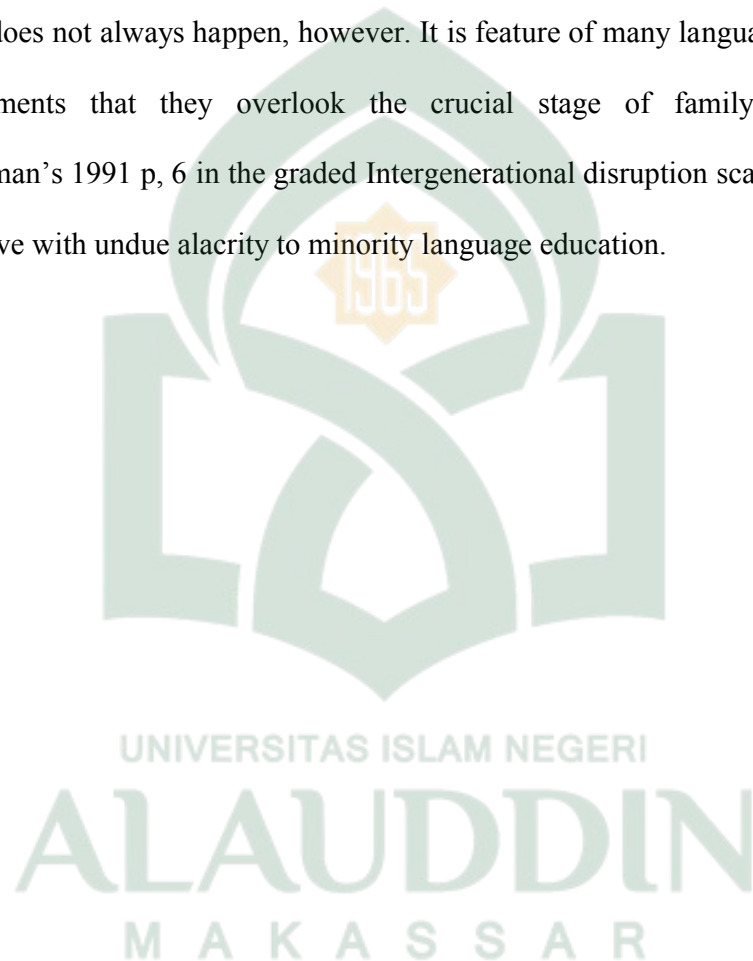

b. Effort of language Maintenance in Religion domain

In Fishman's (1991 p, 174) makes sense. From the point of view of sociolinguistics and the sociology of language, the systematic study of the interface between language and religion only really got into its stride at the turn of the millennium. Not surprisingly, Fishman once more was among the ones who gave it a boost.

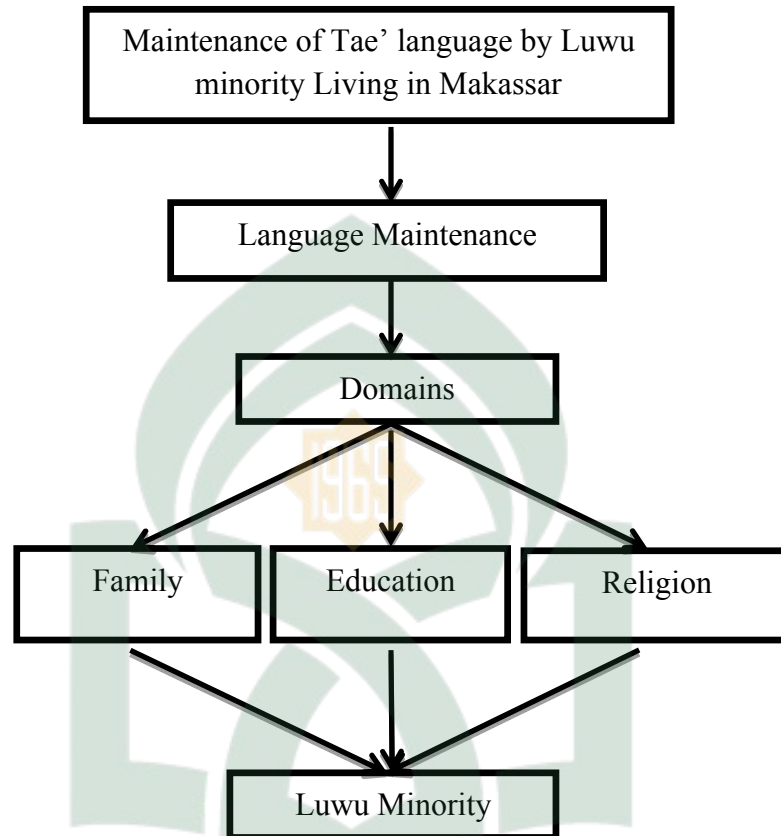

c. Effort of language maintenance in Education domain

Fishman (1991 p, 40) claims that schools have limited value in language revival in that restoration and successful survival of a threatened language essentially requires reinstating and relocating the language to be maintained primarily in the home domain in parent- child transmission. Unless schools directly feed into and facilitate the six reinstatement of home and family transmission, then they always occupy a secondary rule in language restoration. This does not always happen, however. It is feature of many language revitalation movements that they overlook the crucial stage of family transmission (Fishman's 1991 p, 6 in the graded Intergenerational disruption scale) in an effort to move with undue alacrity to minority language education.

C. Theoretical Framework

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

This chapter dealt with research method, subject of the research, instrument of the research, procedures of data collection, and techniques of data analysis.

A. Research Method

The research method is descriptive qualitative method. Issac and Michael (1987: 42) define, descriptive qualitative it provided a systematic, factual, and accurate descriptions of situation and area. It aims to give the description about maintenance of Tae' by Luwu minority living in Makassar.

B. Research Object

The respondents of this research were Luwu community who live in Makassar. There are three domains, in every domain consists of three groups respondents. The repondents of Luwu minority who live in Makassar get interaction each other in their daily life. The sampling technique is snowball sampling, snowball sampling is one of technique that used to take the subject of the research based on the information from the informant. As Sugiyono (2010) stated that, it means a non-probability sampling technique that is used by researchers to identify potential subject in studies where subjects are hard to located. There are 22 respondents of Luwu minority that researchers founded in every domain, they are: domain family, education, and religion.

C. Research Instrument

The instrument on this research are interviewe sheet and observation sheet. The interviewed and observation are used to collected the data and the researcher transcribed, clasified and analyzed the data based on the domain and consists of three domains. There are three interviewed guide about domain family, education and religion. In supporting the data, the researcher used documentation and recording.

D. Data Collection Procedures

The researcher collected the data that interpreted in the following ways: The researcher observed the Luwu minority in their conversation use Tae' language as daily life based on three domain, they are: family domain, education domain, and religion domain. The researcher give the interviewed guide in every domains. The researcher take the pictures of Luwu minority in every domains and in their conversation. Then, the research also recorded the Luwu minority conversation in every domain.

E. Data Analysis Technique

In analyzing the data, the researcher focused on Tae' language maintenance by Luwu minority who live in Makassar. The reaseracher identified the Tae' language maintenance by Luwu minority who live in Makassar on their conversation in every domain. Then, the researcher interviewed and do observation in every domain. In collecting the data, the researcher transcribed, classified and analyzed the data by Fishman's theory that consists of three domains, they are: family domain, education domain, and religion domain.

According to Miles and Huberman in Sugiyono (2012: 246) reveals that the qualitative data processing is done through a phase of reduction, data presentation, and redrwa the conclusion.

1) Reduction

Reducing means summarize, select the subject matter and it is important then look for themes and patterns (Sugiyono, 2012: 247). At this stage, the researchers sort out which one information is relevant and which one are not relevant to the study. Having reduced, the data be narrowed, it become less and leads to the crux of the matter so as to give a clearer picture of the research object.

2) Presentation of Data

After the data is reduced, the next step is to present the data.

3) Redraw the Conclusion

The final stage of data processing is the conclusion. Overall the data presented are object of this research problem can be understood and then draw conclusion is the result of this study.

CHAPTER IV

FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

This chapter deals with the findings and discussion.

A. Findings

In this findings deals with three domains and seven extract. In the domain of family consists with four extracts, in the domain education are founded two extracts, and in the domain of religion there are one extracts. In TN's family, they always use the Tae' language in their daily life. But, they also often mixed it, and if they communicate to the different ethnic and language they use Bahasa. Based on the conversations above, it can be analyzed that TN's Family use Tae' language in their communication. Although, TN sometimes mixed the word in Bahasa. Such as "alami" in Tae' language "maballo", in Bahasa "bumbu-bumbu", in Tae' language "bumbunna", "di campur" in Tae' language "dipasigaru". In this case, TR and TN also DN as monolingual as personally, because along their conversation they use Tae' language. It means that language maintenance are happened.

And Darna use her mother language too, such "ya melo to' ketalarai". It is means, they are monolingual as personally and bilingual with code mixing, so automatically language maintenance are happened in their interaction each other.

The situation of the interaction that occurred when the sisters talking about playing basketball. They use Tae' language and also use Bahasa. They still used their mother language in their daily life, even though they sometime mix it in Bahasa. However, Ikha monolingual as personally, it is occurs at the moment she said "tae' bang mora mu male ma' basket le"", then she also bilingual, and occurs when she said "masih bukakah pendaftarannya?". In the same line, Mutia as multilingual, she also sometime mixed her language. Such as, "baru saya jarang pergi karna male na' bali'i sangmuane'ku' ma'jama", then she mix in English "event-event". It showed that they are monolingual and multilingual, they use Tae' language and then they mix it in Bahasa and English. It is can be seen through that the language maintenance happened in their interaction.

The conversation between Hj. Nuni and Upi' also Nurul, they use Tae' language well in their interaction in daily life. In their interaction, they mostly dominant use the Tae' language. Hj. Nuni lived in Makassar 29 years ago, but she is still maintain her mother language to communicate in daily life. Such as, she said "alanna' to' pedampi mesa' ", but sometime she also use Bahasa "biarmi dulu, nanti kalau ada rejeki, na dipameloi ". In the other side, Upi dominant use Tae' language without mix it in Bahasa. such us, "la di bongkar nasang ri te' ". Thus, Nurul sometime mix her language in Bahasa, such as "noka' raki kah sewa pegawai, supaya den bantu ki' jo apotik". In this case, code mixing happened in their interaction when Hj. Nuni and Upi also Nurul are communicate each other in bilingual situation.

The condition of Luwunese in the conversation about Selling a watch, language maintenance are happened with code mixing in bilingual situation, because the condition of Luwunes mixed some different words in their interaction. Such as Sabri mix his language in Bahasa "berapa", in Tae' language "sipira", "jualkan" in Tae' language "balukan", "ini" in Tae' language "yate' ". Then Ary also mix in Bahasa "itu" in Tae' language "to' " and in English "stock" in Tae' language "sediaanna", "order" in Tae' language "pesananna". It is showed that language maintenance are happened in their interaction.

Based on the four extracts of conversation in the domain of family, the condition of the language use occurred that the language maintenance referred in this domain, they mostly dominant use Tae' language in their conversation. Eventhough, they sometime mix some words in Bahasa and English also Makassarese. Based on the conversation in domain of family, all of the extracts in the domain of family mostly dominant use Tae' language. But, they are also mix some words in different language in bilingual, and multilingual situation. In the same case, the other researcher such as Rosmawan (2015) with his title "Sundanese Maintenance by Sundanese Society Living in Makassar". In his findings in the domain of family, based on their conversation generally use Sundanese than Bahasa or Makassarnese. In his research found that the Sundanese society as bilingual and monolingual, they able to sepak in two language. In general, based on the four extracts in the domain of family showed above they still maintain their mother language as immigrant.

2. The Language Maintenance of Tae' language by Luwu Minority Living in Makassar in the Domain of Education

The situation in the domain of education, the students still considered to maintain the mother language. In their daily life they mostly used Tae' language. However, the community of IPMIL mostly dominan use the formal language in learning teaching. Such as Syafi'ih as a teacher in IPMIL community, he said "kita berada dalam ruang lingkup mahasiswa dimana salah satu ciri mahasiswa yaitu kritis, makanya saya harap semua teman-teman bisa berargumen. Jadi apa definisi kerangka itu sendiri?" then Patrik most use formal language, such as "contohnya dari tidak tahu menjadi tahu, dan dari tahu menjadi lebih tahu". In this condition, they are monolingual, because in their interaction they mostly dominant use formal language, eventhough they consider it and still maintain their mother language. But, when they in the educational enviroment, they mostly use the formal language in their interaction each other. As Wardhaugh (1998 p, 96) stated that, monolingualism is the abilty of language user to use only one language.

This situation in the domain of education between Illah, Ikhsan and Eka. In their interaction, they use Tae' language. But, they also sometime mix some words in Bahasa and English. Such as, they said "seperti" in Tae' language "susi", in Bahasa "mengerti" in Tae' language "mutandai", then in Bahasa "tanyakan" in Tae' language "pakutanai", in Bahasa "jelaskan" in Tae' language "pakadai", in Bahasa "juga" in Tae' language "duka", and then in Bahasa "sudah itu" in Tae' language "pura to ", in Bahasa "kembali" in Tae' language "sule". Thus, Ikhsan mix in English "review" in Tae' language "pasule omo", and in Makassarnese "di" " in Tae' language "le" ". In this case, they still maintain their vernacular language, but sometime they also mix some words along their intetraction. So, it is can be concluded that there is language maintenance happened.

Based on the two extracts in the domain of education they stil maintain their mother language, eventhough they sometime mixed words and use Bahasa as monolingual as personally.

3. The Language Maintenance of Tae' Language by Luwu Minority Living in Makassar in the Domain of Religion

In this part, the situation of the language in the domain of religion is occur code mixing in bilingual situation. There are one extract based on interviewed and observation. In the same case, based on their conversation, they dominant use Tae' language, eventhough they sometime mixed in Bahasa. Ma'ruf always use Tae' language in their conversation eventhough he sometimes mixed some words in Bahasa. Such as in Bahasa “tiga hari atau tujuh hari”, in Tae' language “tallung allo ato pitu allo”, in Bahasa “kalau”, in Tae' language “yake”. Then his wife Ramlah also mixed the words in Bahasa. Such as in Bahasa “sama” in Tae' language “susi”, in Bahasa “disini”, in Tae' language “inde’ “, “juga” in Tae' language “duka”. Thus, Marni as they mother, she also mix her mother language, such as in Bahasa “juga”, in Tae' language “duka”.

Based on one extract in the domain of religion, the condition of the language use showed that the language maintenance occurs in this domain, altought they sometime mix in Bahasa, but dominantly they use Tae' langugae in their interaction.

According to Bloomfield (1933 p, 76) he says that when the people have an ability to use two language, it is called as Bilingualism. Minority of Luwu who live in metropolitan area such Makassarnese, although in monolingual, bilingual, and multilingual situation, they must be have an awarness to keep mostly use they mother language as effort of them to maintain their mother language.

Based on the data which is obtained, the researcher found the code mixing such as Wardhaugh (1998: 67) stated the code mixing occurs through:

a. Code mixing: code mixing occurs in all domains.

- 1) In the domain of family : The topic Selling a bananas green (dessert), the Tenry's family are monolingual as personally sometmie they mix the words in Bahasa, but they mostly dominant use the Tae' language. Such as, "alami" in Tae' language "maballo". In the topic of talking about playing basketball, the situation of language are mix in many occasion. Such as Ikha mix the word in Bahasa "masih aktif" in Tae' language "maningo pa", then in Bahasa "masih buka kah pendaftarannya" in Tae' language "tibukka pa raka pendaftaranna". Mutia also mixed the word in Bahasa and English. Such as in Bahasa "ada" in Tae' language "den", in English "free" in Tae' language "lussu", and then in Bahasa "tidak ada motor" in Tae' language "tae' omo motoro", in Bahasa "jarang" in Tae' language "majarang", in Bahasa "pergi" in Tae' langugae "male", then in English "event-event" in Tae' language "paningo-ningo". In topic at aunt's apotek, Hj. Nuni and her nephew are monolingual as personally. However, they sometime mix the words in Bahasa. Such as, in Bahasa "pindah" in Tae' language "papindai", then "ke" in Tae' language "jo". Then in Bahasa "kalau ada" in Tae' language "yake den". In the same case, Nurul also mix her language in Bahasa and Makassarnese. Such as in Bahasa "bagus" in Tae' language "melo", then "perluas" in Tae' language "pakalua". In Makassarnese, such as "lemarita" " in

Tae' language "lemarimmi". Thus, the topic about selling a watch, they sometime mixed some words in Bahasa and English. Such as in Bahasa "berapa", in Tae' language "sipira", "jualkan" in Tae' language "balukan", "ini" in Tae' language "yate" , "itu" in Tae' language "to" . Then in English "stock" in Tae' language "sediaanna", "order" in Tae' language "pesananna".

- 2) In the domain of education, by the topic Process of Learning: The Framework of Think Scientific (IPMIL Community) and Explain about the PPL. The situation of this case are different, the topic one, there are language choice happened, because in the formal situation they mostly dominant use the formal language. Whereas, the second topic, they use dominant use the Tae' language. However, they sometime mix in Bahasa and Makassarnese also English. Such as following words in Bahasa "seperti" in Tae' language "susi", in Bahasa "mengerti" in Tae' language "mutandai", then in Bahasa "tanyakan" in Tae' language "pakutanai", in Bahasa "jelaskan" in Tae' language "pakadai", in Bahasa "juga" in Tae' language "duka", and then in Bahasa "sudah itu" in Tae' language "pura to" , in Bahasa "kembali" in Tae' language "sule". Thus, Ikhsan mix in English "review" in Tae' language "pasule omo".
- 3) In the domain of religion. In the beginning of interviewed and observation, the situation of Luwu minority is bilingual. Such as, in their conversation Ma'ruf always use Tae' language in their conversation eventhough he sometimes mixed some words in Bahasa. Such as in Bahasa "tiga hari atau tujuh hari", in Tae' language "tallung allo ato pitu allo" , in Bahasa "kalau", in Tae' language “yake”. Then his wife Ramlah also mixed the words in Bahasa. Such as in Bahasa “sama” in Tae’ language “susi”, in Bahasa “disini”, in Tae’ language “inde’ “, “juga” in Tae’ language “duka”.

Based on the data of the findings and discussions above in three domains and consists of seven extracts, it showed that the language maintenance occurred in their daily life of Luwu minority who live in Makassar. The data signify that the Tae’ language still maintained by minority of Luwu in the metropolitan area. In different situation and condition they have an awareness to use their Tae’ language as their mother language. Based on the interviewed and conversation, the domain of family, education and religion mostly use the Tae’ language in their interaction.

One of Indonesian local languages or vernaculars language are Tae’ language (Luwunese), Buginese, Javanese, and etc. It showed that Indonesia has rich cultures and languages ethnic groups. This phenomenon can be influential the choice of language by the language users. This case can be seen through the different attitude which showed by the language user to his interrogator, and the awareness by the language user to maintain their vernacular language or mother language. Moreover, it indicates that the creation of differences languages and cultures among the human that aims to know each others. In relation to the Al-Qur’an karim surah Ar-rum verse 22 said that language as a sign of greatness of Allah SWT, actually there are signs for those who know. In Al-Qur’an Karim Surah Ar-Rum verse 22, Allah SWT says:

وَمِنْ آيَاتِهِ خَلْقَ السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضِ وَأَخْتِلَافُ أَلْسِنَتِكُمْ
وَالْوَلَوْنِكُمْ إِنَّ فِي ذَلِكَ لَآيَاتٍ لِّلْعَالَمِينَ ﴿٢٢﴾

Translation:

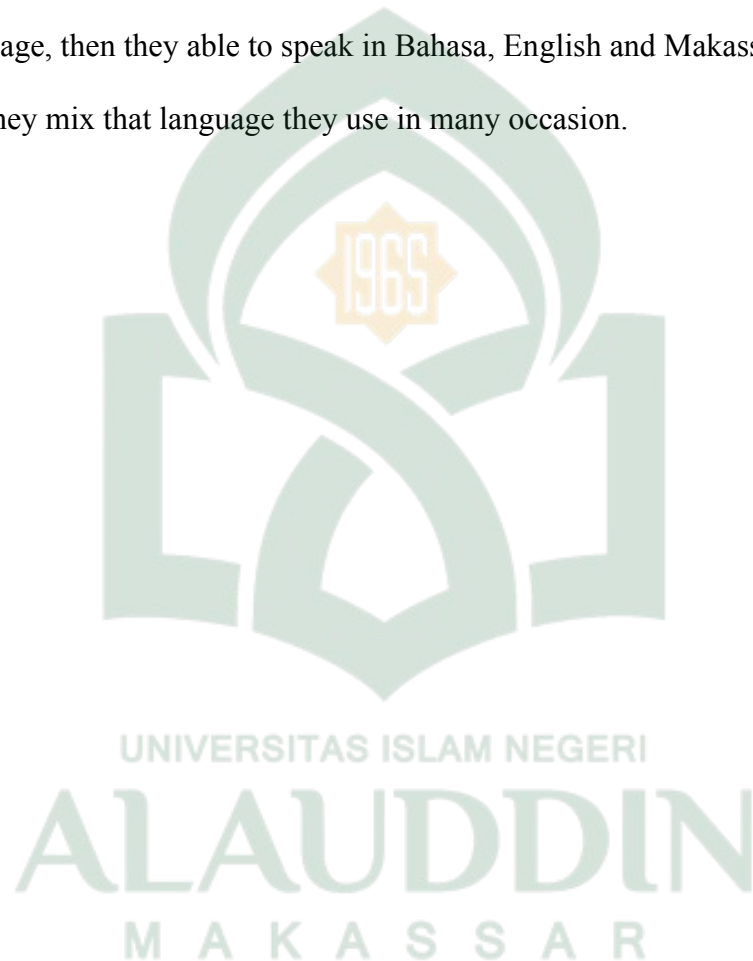

“And of His signs is the creation of the heavens and the earth and the diversity of your languages and your colors. Indeed in that are signs for those of knowledge”.

In this surah verse 22, Allah SWT says that, “ And Of His signs is the creation of the heavens and the Earth”. It is means that, it shows the greatnest of Allah SWT. He created a high sky, wide and an invisibility, and the stars seems glitter, well is circulating or settle. And He created the earth with the beautiful montains, the seas, the animals, and the trees. Then, “Diversity of your language”. As such different of language, there are Arabic, Bahasa, and also Kurdi, there Indian language, Afrika, English, and Etiopia. They consists of various parts of the nation and etnich. Everybody honors the creation of Allah SWT because it takes us closer to Allah SWT. By learning of language in the world, besides to useful continue the language, it is also to be grateful to Allah SWT verily in that are Signs for those who know. Thus, He adds your colors. The Difference colored skin also is a sign of God. There are lot of different ethnicities in the worlds. It supposed to have respect among them which have different races it is just because God called races themselves, different colors of skin themselves, as a divine sign. A sign of Himself, a reminder of Himself. Therefore, people look at the color of skin and that consider someone inferior or superior or a hated race or a loved race then that itself is a denial of the ayat of God. Read all the places in the Qur'an where Allah says, "those who disbelieve in our ayat, those who disregard our ayat, those who do not care about our ayat, those who lie against our ayat, those who do not consider our ayat", then this is the ayat too. A person's skin is an ayat too. Thus, someone does not respect a person who has different skin than you are disregarding an ayat of God. It might be the powerful way to combat and remove racism, prejudice and the disregard for other cultures away from our hearts because a disregard of that is in fact, and His ayat may bring us closer to Him and a disregard of them never happens. That we never look over something that Allah made that we can come closer to Him.

In reality, the researcher as Luwunese minority has usually seen the situation of language use in her community. In this case, the dominantly occurs to the immigrant is monolingual, bilingual and multilingual. As known that monolingual is the ability to speak one language: using or expressed in only one language. In the same line, Bilingual stated by Bloomfield in his book "Language" (in Chaer and Agustina 2004:85) said that bilingualism is the ability of the speaker to use two languages with the same ability. It means that, the speaker called as bilingual if they are able to use B1 and B2 in the same ability. Therefore, Haugen (in Chaer and Agustina 2004: 86) stated that in order to know the two languages or more, it means bilingual. He adds, bilingual does not need actively to use both of those language, but enough to understand. In various definitions of the bilingualism, it can be concluded that the general concept of bilingualism involves the use of two languages by turns of the speaker in interaction with others. Thus, according to Valdes (2012: 45) stated, multilingualism is the ability of human speech to use two or more language in same ability. Such the result of this research, the Luwu minority who live in Makassar have an ability to speak two or more language, they able to speak Tae' language as their mother language, then they able to speak in Bahasa, English and Makassarnese. In the other hand, they mix that language they use in many occasion.

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

Luwu minority as bilingualism and multilingualism that able to speak two languages, moreover speak more than two languages that as known multilingual, they are Tae' language, Makassarnese, English and Bahasa. The phenomenon of the language that occurs of Luwu minority who live in Makassar are monolingual, bilingual, and multilingual with code mixing. It is shows that still there are language maintenance in their daily life as immigrant.

With maintain their mother language, they may can not forgot how important thing to keep or maintain their language as the identity. For the researchers itself, as the water as a source of life, the vernacular language is the water of culture, because from there, their speeched about the rich of culture.

3. Domain of religion

The third domain is religion. The respondents are Murni (67), Ma'ruf (36), and Ramlah (31). They conversation are founded on October 23 2016, the duration about 02:37 minutes. As the researcher found the conversations of Luwu minority who live in Makassar as follow:

Ma'ruf : yake jio kampung, iyato' ta'sianna sampai 3 hari atau 7 hari
[in the village, their ta'sia held for three days or seven days]
