ABSTRACT

Thesis Title : Developing English Materials for Students of Management Department: Bargaining & Macro-Micro Economic at STIE YPUP

Year : 2017
Researcher : Riska
Consultant I : Dr. Muh. Yaumi M.Hum., M.A.
Consultant II : Sitti Nurpahmi S.Pd., M.Pd.

This research aimed at developing English materials for students of Management Department especially in topics Bargaining and Macro-Micro Economic at STIE YPUP, Makassar. Based on the preliminary study on May 2016 by analyzing the module which used by the students of Management Department, the researcher found several problems such as the module used general English not specific English, the students of Management Department were not interest to study English and the vocabulary used in the module are difficult in each topic. The research design used in this study was Research and Development (R&D). The development model used was ISD model. It consists of needs analysis, instructional design, implementation and evaluation. The procedures included analyzing materials needed by the students of Management Department, design the English materials, developing the English materials through ISD model. The development of English materials for students of Management Department at STIE YPUP include conceptual map, goals, materials sequence, English material and worksheet, and additional task. The product was tried out to the first semester of students of Management Department at STIE YPUP. Types of data obtained in this study are quantitative and qualitative data. The instruments used in this research were questionnaire and observation sheet for two experts. In this research, two experts were involved in order to validate the product. There were three systematic aspects that they validated of the product: Materials Systematic Organization, Systematic English Teaching and Systematic Content of English. Therefore, the result indicated that based on the experts judgment as well as try-out design result, the developed Bargaining and Macro-Micro Economic materials were applicable to be taught at the first semester of students of Management Department as topics in English for them.
CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background

Materials take an important part in teaching and learning process. Good and appropriate materials will give positive influence to the students’ learning process. Many researchers offer developed English Materials for teaching. The materials include printed material, audio, visual, multimedia, internet, etc. those activities will give an impact to their and our futures as Allah SWT says in QS. Al-mujadilah verse 11:

يَرْفَعِ اللَّهُ الهذِينَ آمَنُوا مِنْكُمْ وَالذِّينَ أُوتُوا الْعِلْمَ درَجَاتٍ ۚ

“…. Allah will raise those who have believed among you and those who were given knowledge, by degrees….”

To conduct English learning material means aimed at support the students’ competence in English study program, so it should be based on the learners’ needs, and they should represent the material in a good way. Unfortunately, most of the lecturers in the university in Indonesia still have a problem related to the availability of conducting English learning materials which are appropriate for the students with vocational major. Materials which are provided by the government and launched by some developers are still using general English. The materials are not using specific English vocabulary, whereas English vocabulary and the materials in every unit which is needed by the students in their future occupation will be different.
The use of inappropriate materials might prevent the students to develop their skills to communicate using English in the target situation of their field of works. If such condition happens, the purposes of the English teaching will not be achieved. Therefore, developing appropriate English learning materials for students of Management Department is necessary. Appropriate materials can help the students to learn English more easily. It is because they are learning useful materials that are related to their future job; materials that are suitable with their needs.

Based on the reasons above, the researcher decides to overcome those problems and develop the English materials for the English materials and worksheet by using English for Specific Purposes (ESP) and also using Instructional System Design (ISD) Model.

First is ESP. Hutchinson and Water stated that ESP as an approach rather than a product. It means that ESP does not involve a particular kind of language, teaching materials or methodology.\(^1\) In other words, ESP is an approach to language teaching which aimed to meet the needs of particular learners. In contrast, Dudley-Evans and St John give their modification based on their-self-understanding of ESP definition. They make a distinction between absolute characteristic and variable characteristic in ESP.\(^2\)

Based on the English for Specific Purposes (ESP) tree of language teaching by Hutchinson and water’s, ESP has three kinds; English for Science and Technology (EST), English for Business and Economics (EBE) and English for Social Sciences (ESS). In each kind, there are divided into two kinds; English for Academic Purposes (EAP) and English for Occupational Purposes (EOP). In English for Science and Technology, it consists of English for Medical Studies and English for Technicians. In English for Business and Economics, it consists of English for Economics and English for Secretaries. Meanwhile, in English for Social Sciences, it consists of English for Psychology and English for Teaching.

In addition, English lesson for the students of Management Departement in this research named English for Accounting was included in English for Business and Economics. Moreover, with ESP, the goal of the lesson can be clearly for the students without involving a particular kind of language, teaching materials or methodology. This approach is called as an easy-going approach for teaching English especially for the first semester students of Management Departement because with this approach, the students’ mind did not have to think greatly hard and the lesson will be more specific.

The other way to solve the problem in this research the researcher is using ISD (Instructional System Design) model from Seels and Glasgow (1998) conclude that their model is quite similar to many others, it is based on the assumption that design and development take place in the context of project Management 3.

In this model, there are organized into three Management phases: needs analysis Management, instructional design Management, and implementation and evaluation Management. As a conclusion, this model was used to develop the English materials especially in developing module because with utilizing all three phases in this model and focus to develop the materials lesson such as module whose created and adopted by clients and users.

In this research, the researcher developed a worksheet for students of Management Department. The researcher focuses in topics Bargaining and Macro-Micro Economic. Through this research, the researcher developed a new worksheet which can make the students of Management Department interest to study English. These topics were consisted of a literature and a task.

To be much detail, in each topic consisted of vocabulary that is relevant with the topics. The important thing that in this English material and worksheet worksheet was integrated several English skills into each topic such as speaking, writing, reading and listening. Refers from the explanation and being aware of the fact above, the researcher would like to take a research about the development of English materials for the first semester students of Management Department at STIE YPUP.

B. Research Problems

Based on the background, the main problems were a good development for Bargaining & Macro-Micro Economic topics based on the students’ need and students’ context. In order to enable the researcher should elaborate the main problem. There were three research problems formulated as follows:
1. What kinds of English materials do the students need in Management Department at STIE YPUP?

2. What are the product of English materials development for students of Management Department at STIE YPUP?

3. How are the experts’ validation and students’ acceptability for the English language materials in Management Department at STIE YPUP?

C. Research Objectives

This research aimed at developing English materials and worksheet for the topics Bargaining & Macro-Micro Economic for students of Management Department. The specific objectives of this research were:

1. To analyze the students need of English materials in Management Department at STIE YPUP.

2. To produce the English materials based on ESP (English for Specific Purposes) approach and ISD (Instructional System Design) model in Management Department at STIE YPUP.

3. To know the experts’ validation and students’ acceptability for the English language materials in Management Department at STIE YPUP.

D. Research Significance

1. Theoretical Significance

The theoretical significance from this research is expected to give more knowledge about English for students’ of Management Department through easily way for the students of Management Department especially for Bargaining & Macro-Micro Economic topics.

2. Practical Significance

This research would be beneficial for the students of Management Department, English lecturer and Management Department of STIE YPUP. First, for the students of Management Department; in the future, the result from this research could help the students of Management more easily to understand about the materials especially for each topic in the worksheet and implemented into their work, studies, and future. In the future the researcher hoped that the result of this research is the worksheet could be used as a guidebook.

Second, for the lecturer; the product that designed in this research can facilitate the lecturer to more easily teach English for the student of Management based on the students’ needs. Third, for Management Department of STIE YPUP; hope this product could be used as a worksheet for students’ of Management Department learning and teaching process especially for the first semester students of Management Department.

E. Research Scope

This research was focused on developing English materials which oriented in printed materials such as worksheet. In developing product, there were five models focused on product oriented. The five models reviewed were: the Bergman and Moore model (ID models), the de Hoog de Jong and de Vries model (product-driven), the Bates model, the Nieveen model, and the Seels and Glasgow model (ISD models).

In this research, the researcher developed a unit for Bargaining and Macro-Micro Economic with integrated English skill used ESP and also used ISD (Instructional System Design) model to develop the English materials for the next printed materials in this research.

In addition, due to the limitation of time and budgeting in finishing this research, the researcher was conducted this research only into two phases. They were need analysis, instructional design materials and formative evaluation.

F. Operational Definition of Term

1. Development

   Development is a process to make something new or change something that was existed. In this research, development means that make a change in the materials lesson such as printed materials. In addition, if in previous printed materials have problems, through this development, the problems can be solved.

2. English Material

   English material consists of two words. First is English and second is material. English is an important language in this world. As we know, English is an international language which is used by people in this world for communication with the other people from the other countries. Not only for communication but also, English is used in educational world such as in textbook for students. While material mean anything, which is used to help to teach language learner.

As a conclusion, English material is information or ideas for use in creating a book or anything which is used to help to teach language learner which consist of used English as a language in the book.

3. Bargaining

Bargaining is a process of negotiation between two people or group to realize an agreement or bargaining is an agreement between two people or group in which each promises to do something in exchange for something else.

4. Macroeconomic

Macroeconomic is economics who specialized to study the behavior of the outside community in meeting the needs of the whole.

5. Microeconomic

Microeconomic is economics who specialized to study the behavior of individual human beings in order to meet their needs. Macroeconomics to analyzed the small parts of the overall economic activity.
CHAPTER II
REVIEW OF RELATED LITERATURE

This part centers around the study of some previous research findings on the related topics to the Bargaining and Macro-Micro Economic materials and the formulation of theoretical framework.

A. Review of Related Research Findings

Various researchers had conducted a research related to English materials about developing materials, exercises and about ESP (English for Specific Purposes). As a references from the previous research, the researcher present in this section. First is Ghozali. Ghozali conducted R&D to create English textbook for vocational high school. The conclusion from his research are designed textbook with using R&D is more effective to increase the students’ achievement in learning English and can increasing the quality of teaching English through improving the quality of the textbook.¹

The second is Suyadi. Suyadi had conducted his research at a state university in Jambi Province. The aimed at his research is improving teaching English materials for accounting program which is needed for the student of accounting at university level. He found that the students of accounting program needs a specific material in learning English which has tight relationship with their study program. While English skills are need to be combined with the knowledge target for accounting. Based on his finding Suyadi used ESP (English for Specific Purposes) to solve his problem in his research.²

In addition, the materials should follow the students’ current level of skills to avoid difficulties in adopting and transferring the ideas from the lesson materials from one language to another. The materials which the researcher will develop must match with the students needs. Because of that, the students can be more easily to understand the materials and the students will appreciate their time and they will effort to learn their materials.

The third is Safrizal. From his research, the conclusion is in several universities especially in Accounting Department, English subject in that university is taught as English General Purposes not English Specific Purposes. In addition, he found that teaching materials is designed by some criteria and also based on the students needs and supported by theories in ESP.³

The fourth is Ruth Hillis. In his research, he found that to developing instructional materials, should determine the procedures which will used in our development. The procedures are selecting the theme, setting up criteria to serve as a guide in preparation of new instructional materials and as a basis for evaluation, preparing first drafts of the materials, trying out the materials, and revising the materials for general use.⁴

The fifth is Harsono. The conclusion from his research is developing teaching/learning materials for ESP is more demanded than that for general English because the availability of the ESP learning materials in public is very rare. In developing the ESP learning materials, the researcher can develop the teaching materials by applying the principles and procedures of language teaching materials including formulating the teaching objectives, adapting and or supplementing the existing materials, and or creating our own materials.\(^5\)

Based on some previous finding research, the researcher concludes that to develop the materials and exercises, it must be based on learners needs. Developing printed materials especially through R&D can increase the students’ achievements and the qualities in the learning English particularly for printed materials which will use in the school or university.

In other side, developing printed materials with ESP (English for Specific Purposes) and ISD (Instructional System Design) could make the students more prepared to confront the real world occupation. The researcher developed new printed English materials to help the students to increasing their motivation to learn this material. So that, the target of SAP could achieve well.

B. Theoretical Foundation

Theoretical foundation was some theories which supporting this and relevant with our research. There are several theoretical foundations in this research about developing materials, bargaining, macro-micro economic, ESP (English for Specific Purposes) and ISD Model.

a. Developing materials. According to Tomlinson as cited in his second edition book, materials development is both a field of study and a practical undertaking. As a field it studies the principles and procedures of the design, implementation and evaluation of language teaching materials.\(^6\)

In other word, materials development refers to anything which is done by writers, teacher or learners to provide sources of language input and to exploit those sources in ways which maximize the likelihood of intake and to stimulate purposeful output.\(^7\) Materials developers might write textbooks, tell stories, bring advertisements into the classroom, express an opinion, provide samples of language use or read a poem aloud.

b. English material is information or ideas for use in creating a book or anything which is used to help to teach language learner which consist of used English as a language in the book.

c. Bargaining is a process of negotiating an agreement regarding the terms and conditions of employment though a system. In addition, based on the Cambridge dictionary, bargaining is an agreement between two people or group in which each promises to do something in exchange for something else.

d. Micro economic” is separately the word first. Macro-micro economic have different definition. The first is macroeconomic. Based on the Cambridge dictionary, macroeconomic means the study of financial systems at a national level. Mankiw (2007:2) macroeconomic is study of economic as awhole.\(^8\) The last is microeconomic. Sukirno (2014:21) a field of study in economics to analyzed the small parts of the overall economic activity.\(^9\) In addition, from the Cambridge dictionary, microeconomic is the study of the economic problems of businesses and people and the way particular parts of an economy behave.

e. ESP (English for Specific Purposes). Hutchinson and Waters see ESP as an approach rather than a product, by which they mean that ESP does not involve a particular kind of language, teaching materials or methodology.\(^10\) In other side, Dudley-Evans and St John said that ESP is divided into two absolute and variable characteristic.\(^11\)

Based on absolute characteristic, ESP is defined to meet specific needs of the learner; makes use of the underlying methodology and activities of the discipline it serves; and centered on the language (grammar, lexis, and register), skills, discourse and genres appropriate to these activities.

While based on variable characteristic, ESP may be related to or designed for specific disciplines; may use, in specific teaching situations, a different methodology from that of general English.

f. ISD Model. ISD model is acronym from instructional system design. ISD model was presented by Seels and Glasgow. They compare ISD Model. ISD model is acronym from instructional system design. ISD model was presented by Seels and Glasgow. They compare their model to several others and generic ADDIE framework. Seels and Glasgow emphasized the steps within each phase in this model may be conducted in a linear fashion, but often are not, although the three phase are generally considered to be self-contained and linear.

C. Theoretical Framework

The problem faced by the students of management in learning English is the difficulties to understand the lesson because the materials using English for general purposes not English for specific purposes.

Because of that, in this research, the researcher tried to offer a new way by designing English materials for management students by creating a new English material with ESP and ISD Model to achieve the objective of learning in the SAP.
By designing it, the researcher expected in the learning and teaching process, the management students could more easily to understand the lesson than before, the teacher has a textbook as a model and the objective of the learning achieved. The theoretical framework underlying this research was presented in the following diagram:

![Theoretical Framework Diagram]

In this research the researcher developed English material such as worksheet for students of Management Department in topics Bargaining and Macro-Micro Economic. The researcher used English for specific purposes (ESP) and Instructional System Design (ISD) model in this research. ESP was used as an approach to integrated English for the other lesson in the other major such as in management department. Through ESP, the researcher used three steps. They were need analysis, materials design and formative evaluation. While ISD (Instructional System Design) model was used as an instructional design for design the printed material.

First was need analysis. The purpose of need analysis in this research was to find out what the students of Management Department need for the English materials (worksheet) which would develop by the researcher. Second was materials design. The researcher was designed the English materials for students of Management Department by using ESP (English for Specific Purposes) and ISD (Instructional System Design) model. Third was evaluation. The researcher used formative evaluation to know the development materials who designed by the researcher during ongoing of this research. While ISD (Instructional System Design) model was used as an instructional design for design the worksheet. The result from this research was printed material such as worksheet which consists of 14 units.
A. Research and Development Model

Based on the purpose of this study, the research design was Research and Development (R&D). There were some models which could be applied by the researchers especially for product oriented model such as The Bergman and Moore Model, The de Hoog, de Jong and de Vries Model, The Bates Model, The Nieveen Model and ISD Model. Based on those models stated previously, the researcher adopted ISD model by Seels and Glasgow. In addition, this model similar to ADDIE model as the result, this model was very useful having stages clearly defined which makes implementation and instructions effectively.

The ISD model is acronym of Instructional System Design. This model consists of three phases: needs analysis, instructional design, and implementation and evaluation.

The researcher only used two phases: needs analysis and instructional analysis because the researcher had a limited time and limited budgeting to conducting this research.
The first phase was needs analysis. The aim of this phase was to find out the needs assessment (goals), performance analysis (instructional requirements), and context analysis (constraints, resources, and learner characteristic). The second phase was instructional design includes all steps related to design, development, and formative evaluation. The third phase was formative evaluation. This phase was done by the researcher to know the experts’ validation and the students’ acceptability.

B. Research and Development Procedures

The procedures in developing Bargaining and Macro-Micro Economic based on ISD model which provided 3 phases in terms of need analysis, instructional design and formative evaluation.

1. Need analysis

First phase was need analysis which all of the decisions associated with conducting need analysis and formulating a management plan. These include need assessment (goals), performance analysis (instructional requirements), and context analysis (constraints, resources, and learners characteristics).

2. Instructional Design

Second phase was instructional design, indicated by double-ended arrows connecting each of the six steps with a central oval labeled, feed-back and interaction. Completion of phase two that occurs after satisfactory results were obtained from formative evaluation.

3. Formative Evaluation

Phase three was implementation and evaluation which include preparing training material, creating support structures, doing a formative evaluation by concluding the questionnaire and try-out, and disseminating information about the project.

C. Research Subject

The subject that researcher used in this research was the first semester students of Management Department at STIE YPUP Makassar in M.K 2.2, Management department. This class consists of 36 students, 23 females and 13 male students.

D. Types of Data

The types of data in this research were qualitative and quantitative data. Qualitative data gathered from the experts’ judgment and the quantitative data gathered from the result of questionnaire and from the try-out. The other sources type of data was quantitative data. Quantitative data gathered from the results of questionnaire which were answered by the students of Management Department of STIE YPUP that consisted of fourteen topics in Management lesson as need assessment and also from the result of try-out were used by the researcher to find out the effectiveness of printed materials (worksheet).

The result of the preliminary research and try-out were validated by the experts to know the experts’ validation and the students’ acceptability about the English language materials and worksheet was developed by the researcher.

E. Research Instruments

In this research, the researcher used two kinds of instruments. They were questionnaires and rubric for expert. In addition, the questionnaire was used to identify the learners’ needs. The questionnaire was given to students of Management Department to conduct need analysis. The question dealt with students of Management Department need points with the need to construct the English materials for students of Management Department and observation sheet were addressed to the expert such the English lecturer at STIE YPUP and the expert judgment.

F. Data Collecting Procedures

The data collection procedures in this research began from the researcher came into to the class and brought questionnaire that consisted of several topics related to Management Department for the research subject or students. The researcher asked the students to answer the questionnaire during 30 minutes. After that, the researcher collected the questionnaire from the student. The results from the students’ questionnaire about the topics were the next topics for the next printed materials which were developed by the researcher in this research. After determine several topics, the researcher developed the printed materials through two phases: need analysis and instructional design.

Furthermore, the researcher conducted a pre-validation and past-validation after the researcher conduct the first try-out toward the expert content namely English lecturer in Management Department and instructional design expert namely educational technology lecturer. The last phase was analyzing the data through formative evaluation to determine the experts’ validation and the students’ acceptability.

G. Try-Out

1. Try-Out Design

The try out design in this research means that the product which was been try-out to the target subjects in the real learning and teaching situation in order to evaluate the quality of the development materials and exercises. Thus, from this try out, the main benefit which the researcher got was the researcher find out how far the materials fulfill for students’ needs. Furthermore, in this phase, the researcher worked together with expert to evaluate the result of field try-out.
2. Try-Out Subject

The subject of this research was the new students of Management Department at STIE YPUP. In other word, the try out subject in this research was the first semester of students of Management Department at STIE YPUP Makassar at academic year 2016/2017. The researcher used one class the first semester students of Management Department at STIE YPUP Makassar in M.K 2.2, Management department. This class consists of 36 students, 23 females and 13 male students.

H. Data Analyzing Technique

In this research, the researcher used mix method. It consisted of qualitative analysis and quantitative analysis technique to analyze the data. The data obtained from the students were analyzed qualitative. The data from the students became an attachment and notes for the researcher in developing materials in the form of description of the products, comments, notes and suggestions. Next, the quantitative analyzed data obtained from questionnaire students need analysis and experts observation sheets. The result from the data became an attachment and notes for the researcher in developing materials in the form of description of the products, comments, notes and suggestions.

1. Qualitative Analysis

The data analysis technique in this research followed several steps by Miles and Huberman. They were suggests that in analyzing the data qualitatively consisted of three procedures. First is data reduction. Second was data display. Third was conclusion drawing/verification.¹

The data analysis technique in qualitative by Miles and Huberman was presented in the following diagram:

a. Data Reduction

In this phase, the researcher referred to obtain the mass of qualitative data which was obtained through content expert and instructional experts’ interview. In other word, this phase replaced all irrelevant information based on experts’ judgment.

b. Data Display

This phase contained the conclusions from the mass of data which draw in the form of tables, charts, networks and other graphical format. This was a continual process, rather than just one to be carried out at the end of the data collection.

c. Verification and Conclusion Drawing

In this phase, our analysis should allow us begin to develop conclusion regarding our study. These initial conclusions could be verified, that was their validity examined through reference to our existing field notes or further data collection.

2. Quantitative Analysis

In gathering information from students and experts the researcher used the need analysis questionnaires and observation sheets. Types of questions was linguistic needs and learning needs used for assessing whole needs of the target. The categories of question are:

a. Introduction (personal information and perceptions on the need of speaking course availability).

b. Linguistic needs (abilities: students’ level of proficiency, priorities: language items that considered the most important to learn).

c. Learning needs (problems: weakness and difficulties in learning), and attitudes: participants’ feeling toward elements of programs.

d. Experts’ observation sheets.

The proficiency score, the importance score, the frequency score and the qualitative score of linguistic needs and learning needs were derived by giving each category scores from one to four as indicated below.
Table 1. Categories Scores

The researcher used the formula below as the quantitative data technique:

$$\bar{x} = \frac{\sum fx}{\sum f}$$

Explanation:

- $\bar{x}$ = Mean Score
- $\sum f$ = Frequency
- $\sum fx$ = Number of Respondents

The mean score of the respondents’ perceptions and expectation toward students’ need of English material were then described by the following scale:
1. Refers to 0 – 1.50
2. Refers to 1.15 – 2.50
3. Refers to 2.51 – 3.50
4. Refers to 3.51 – 4.00

To clarify the data presentation, some data were analyzed by using diagrams to see the distribution of the level of the frequency and the important level of using language skill.

The overall data were then analyzed to recognize the needs inventory of the target group in language learning which is then used as the basis for formulating aims and objectives of learning and designing syllabus of English materials for students of Management Department.
CHAPTER IV
FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

A. The English Materials Needed by The Students of Management Department

1. Description of the Students

The researcher made a research which had been held at STIE YPUP Makassar in M.K 2.2, Management Department. This class consisted of 23 females and 13 male students as respondent. The researcher entered to the class to give a questionnaire for the respondents.

2. Description of the Students Need

a. The Data on the Students Need Obtained Through Questionnaire

The researcher gave a questionnaire to respondent in order to know what the students need in English materials for Management Department. The researcher gave a questionnaire to the respondent which consisted of 12 questions, where the results further describes the students need for English materials in their department.

The researcher used the formula below to analyze the data from the questionnaire:

\[ \bar{x} = \frac{\sum fx}{\sum f} \]

Explanation: \( x \) = Mean Score
\( \sum f \) = Frequency
\( \sum fx \) = Number of Respondents
After analyzing the questionnaire, the researcher can inform the result by the table below:

The table below shows the result of the first question:

The conclusion from the chart analysis above was actually all of the topics were important or very important for new English materials and worksheet. The result from the analyzing was aimed as a foundation for developing English materials and worksheet which aimed for students of Management Department who constructed by the researcher.

The next analysis was about the students’ learning need. The table below shows about the result of analysis from the seventh question.

The data of table 10 was the result of the problems analysis faced by the students in speaking. All of the learning problems faced by the students in speaking are in the ‘often’ level of frequency, because all of the problems average score range from 2.36 to 2.91 which mean ‘often’ occurred when the students speak English.
Next analysis was from listening skill. The table below shows the result from the difficulties in listening.

According to the table 12 there were four problems faced by the students in Listening. All of the learning problems faced by the students in listening are in the ‘often’ level of frequency, because all of the problems average score range from 2.66 to 2.4 which mean ‘often’ occurred when the students listening English.

The table 8.4 was the result of the problems analysis faced by the students in writing. All of the learning problems faced by the students in writing are in the ‘often’ level of frequency, because all of the problems average score range from 2.91 to 3.05 which mean ‘often’ occurred when the students writing English.

The eighth analysis was about the learning need of methodology. This table below shows the result of the eighth question:

Falling back on the data presented in table 9 there were two techniques that the students of Management Department had to choose. First, read faster or as it is known as skimming or scanning and second is intensive reading.

The first technique, there were 15 students who chose read faster is important, 12 students chose very important, 8 students chose less important, and only 1 student chose not important which the total average score from all students is 3.05. For the next technique, intensive reading there were 18 students thought it important, followed by 16 students chose very important and a student choose not important which the total average score from all students was 3.30.

Next analysis was about learning methodology on speaking skills. The table below shows the result of the analysis.

Next was from speaking skill. The table above shows the result from the students’ learning need of methodology in speaking skill. There were three techniques; report back, simulation of conversation, and interview which the average score between 2.51 to 3.50. So, the students’ learning need of methodology in speaking skill is important level.

Next was from listening skill. The table below shows the result from the students’ learning need of methodology in listening skill.

Refer to the table 11 there were four possible ways of learning listening. There were four techniques that students have to choose. First was listen and write, watching video, fill in the blank based on audio, and guess picture. The result of the data analysis indicated that the students think learning listening with listen and writewas the most approptiate way forthe students to learn listening of English which in the very important level. Then, fill in the blank based on audio, and guess picture which in the important level.

Next was from writing skill. The table below shows the result from the students learning need of methodology in writing skill.

First was write reports, second was developing the main idea, third was writing formal and informal letters, and last was making up stories.

The result of the data analysis was found out from the average score were last making up stories 3.41, write reports and writing formal and informal letters 3.30. the last, second was developing the main idea 3.25.

Chart 2. The Most Preferred Way of Learning English

The chart above shows that the most preferred way of learning English consists of five kinds: speak English with friend, talking in pairs, self-learning, doing task, and games. The result of need analysis consists of need inventory.

The overall data were analyzed to recognize the needs inventory of the target group in language learning

1. Need inventory

   a. Reviewing Needs Inventory from the Linguistic Needs

   Identifying linguistic need was carried out by analyzing the students learning ability and learning priorities. The result of the analysis was used for prioritizing the components of integrated skill and selecting appropriate teaching materials which were required to design the English material.

1) Learning Ability

The process of identification was first of all carried out by analyzing the students’ learning ability in English material. Learning ability was measured based on the results of analysis of the students’ proficiency level in the area of the integrated skill such as speaking, writing, reading, and listening. The result of analysis indicates that the students’ proficiency level of all the integrated skill ranges around level “Good and Fair “as indicated in the following average scores achievement.

Even if the students speaking skill average score was felt fair, the lecturers should not give priority to this component due to the students’ tendency to have less attention to learn speaking skill in English material. However, speaking may not totally be ignored in the English material. The lecturers should prioritize writing and reading in teaching English material and strengthened out the speaking skill after English material practices in the classroom.
2) Learning Priorities

Determining learning priorities was conducted by analyzing the respondents’ perceptions on their leaning problems of the integrated skill such as speaking, reading, writing, and listening. The results of the analysis recognized as follows:

Table 15. The Result of the Students Learning Priorities

The findings above illustrate that the material designed need to give four priorities; (1) speaking, (2) reading, (3) listening, and (4) writing.

b. The Data Obtained Through Interview Guide

There are five components of the questions used as interview guide: (1). The interesting in learning English is very important because it could increase the students’ motivation when they learnt. An example of why learning English is interesting because it is challenging to be learnt. This reason is supported by some followed statements:

As followed from Mutiarasani statement:

I choose very interested because in my opinion, first I like to learn English although I have not mastered it. Second, because English is related to my major; Management.¹

The second came from Cici by supporting Mutiarasani statement:

I am interested because at the end of my study I will enter the business world so I must master English in order to go abroad so that I could interact with new people.²

Additional statement which interested in learning English is very important because it is very important to learn English. As followed from Riska’s statement:

I believe with learning English, it will help me a lot for my future job.³

The importance level of learning English is variated. In management department for example, most of the student see English is very important because it could help the students whether to increase their knowledge or implement it for their future job. All of these reasons were proved in followed statement:

As followed in Mutiarasani statement:

¹. (Mutiarasani, 2nd semester of student of Management Department of STIE YPUP Makassar, interviewed on June 15th, 2017)
². (Cici, 2nd semester of student of Management Department of STIE YPUP Makassar, interviewed on June 15th, 2017)
³. (Riska, 2nd semester of student of Management Department of STIE YPUP Makassar, interviewed on June 15th, 2017)
It is very important to learn English because there will be some materials or objects that contained English in Management Department whether in learning program or job environment.\(^4\)

Supporting Mutiarasani statement, Cici stated that:

Learning English is very important because we need to learn and understand it for operate some programs that using English which related for my future job.\(^5\)

The last statement came from Riska, she stated that:

We should master English if we want to work in Management major, especially in marketing Management.\(^6\)

To be much concerned why learning English is important, it will guide to several aims for future planning. English could be used as the media to communicate or it could be a reason to get a job easily. These aims are proved by followed statements:

Mutiarasani wants to learn English so that she can get a job someday, as proved in her statement:

By mastering English, it would be easier to get a job.\(^7\)

Addition for Mutiarasani statement, Cici thought that mastering English could also help her to achieve her dream which she want to go abroad. As stated in her statement:

Get success in education is good for now, we can get some achievement. If I and my friends keep improving to master English, it will be easier to get a job someday, moreover in accounting. We also can continue our magister in abroad, because I myself dreamed to visit many countries, do business with many people and get success.\(^8\)

Different with Mutiarasani and Cici statement, Riska gave more focuses on her Speaking improvement. As stated in her statement:

If I mastered English, someday I could speak with tourist as well as I could also promote my products on the field.\(^9\)

The four skills that integrated with English language competence are very important to be learnt. Students sometimes found difficulties in vocabulary or speaking. Although students found some obstacles when they learnt it, but they still have one favorite skill as motivation to keep learning English. This is proved by followed statements:

I think it is very important because if you cannot read English correctly, you will get problems in the meaning. Moreover, if you don’t master English you will difficult when speak with native speaker. So, all skills are very important, it’s all related each other.\(^10\)

In my opinion, it is very important to master all the skills. I love learning English since childhood, even if I have not mastered it well but I try to master it until the completion of my study so that I can be success in the future. The importance of Reading skill, if we read some paragraph in English, the way it was written is different when we read it. When we can read it correctly it will be good, but when we do not know how to read it correctly people will be laughed because the missed-meaning. Speaking skill is alsoimportant because some word in Indonesia is different with English, for example the “R” word. That’s why learning Speaking skill is important in order to speak like a native speaker. Listening skill is important to be learn too, because we can found some obstacles in what we hear with what we write because of less ability, so I think all skills are very important.\(^11\)

\(^11\) (Cici, 2\(^{nd}\) semester of student of Management Department of STIE YPUP Makassar, interviewed on June 15\(^{th}\), 2017)
The four skills in English are very important. The skill that I like most is Reading, because I love to read even I have not master English yet.\textsuperscript{12}

The obstacle that students got in learning English was lack of vocabularies. That is why with adding vocabularies will help the students to learn English well. This reason approved in followed statement:

I think vocabularies should be served in each topic. It will be better if we required memorizing the vocabulary that related with the lesson to increase the vocabulary.\textsuperscript{13}

That is good if there is vocabulary in each topic, it will help us to understand the lesson.\textsuperscript{14}

With the help of the vocabularies, it would help us to add more vocabularies comprehension that related with our vocational; Management.\textsuperscript{15}

\textbf{B. The Result of English Materials Development}

\textbf{1. Conceptual Map}

The implementation of the overall procedures of English language competence was conducted by an idea of formulating a conceptual framework for English language competence based on syllabus. The conceptual framework illustrated the key elements which underline the syllabus content.

\textsuperscript{12} (Riska, 2\textsuperscript{nd} semester of student of Management Department of STIE YPUP Makassar, interviewed on June 15\textsuperscript{th}, 2017)
\textsuperscript{13} (Mutiarasani, 2\textsuperscript{nd} semester of student of Management Department of STIE YPUP Makassar, interviewed on June 15\textsuperscript{th}, 2017)

\textsuperscript{15} (Riska, 2\textsuperscript{nd} semester of student of Management Department of STIE YPUP Makassar, interviewed on June 15\textsuperscript{th}, 2017)
In order to create learning opportunities based on students' needs, the syllabus must contain three main pedagogical procedures:

a. Providing Language Skill

In this procedure, the researchers prepared the learners with English integrated skill namely; speaking, reading, listening, and writing which composed English language ability for later English material and worksheet.
Afterwards, a set of activities to make the students able to know and to practice the knowledge (skill getting methodology) must be given such as preparing a topic to be read and then answered associated with the management department, arranging the words to complete sentences for writing drill, providing a dialogue script to practice their speaking within specific language grammar rules in pair, and getting the student watch or listening to the audio for listening comprehensiveness skill. These activities may be viewed as skill getting methodology.

b. Giving Opportunity to Use the Integrated Skill

In this phase, the researcher tried to connecting between the students’ needs and their potential functional and social interactional activity. Therefore the functional activity and interactional activity must be given. Functional activity aimed at equipping students with the ability to function the integration skill in conversation, intensive reading, arrange word, and fill in the blank.

On the other hand, the social interaction activity is intended to give the students stimulus for implementing the integrated skill with several methods such as role play and discussion in which the students must interact each other using a certain situation provided by the researchers. These activities functions as skill was using methodology.

c. Reviewing Learning Outcomes

This procedure aimed at reviewing the students’ achievement in English language competence by giving them an interactive for each unit e.g.
“wordsearch puzzle”. Through this game, the students had opportunities to express their knowledge of language in a particular topic, ability to know specific vocabulary for management department.

Conclusively, the organizational structures of the syllabus framework have been used to develop English materials and worksheets. The English materials and worksheets were planned by units in which unit represent topics and consist of three pedagogical procedures. This procedure identified as skill setting, skill using and review.

2. Stating Goals

This lesson prepared for the students to be able to master the four skills effectively and confidently in applying the English language. This lesson can increase the students’ ability in Speaking, Reading, Listening and Writing. After learning this lesson, the students expected to be able:

a. Practice the conversation effectively with their friend.

b. Understand the passage and answer the question related with the passage.

c. Fill in the blank test based on the recording audio.

d. Arrange the provided words into the correct sentence.

3. Material Sequence

In the topics that the researcher have developed, the material sequence consisted of four skills. They were speaking, reading, listening, and writing. As a learning method, the researcher used one kind of a learning method in each skill. In speaking material, the researcher used conversation between two speakers, aimed to develop the students speaking ability by practicing the conversation effectively with their friends. In reading material, the researcher used passage which is consists of vocabulary and comprehension to increase the students reading ability by understanding the passage and answer the question related with the passage. While in the listening skill the researcher use fill in the blank style to increase the students listening ability by filling in the blank test based on the recording audio. In writing material, the researcher used arrange word to increase the students’ writing ability by arranging the provided words into the correct sentence.

The learning method which is used by the researcher aimed to enhance the students’ skills in English (speaking, reading, listening and writing).

4. English Materials and Worksheets

A. Read the following passage

Macro-micro economic

Microeconomics is generally the study of individuals and business decisions. Macroeconomics looks at higher up country and government decisions.
Macroeconomics and microeconomics, and their wide array of underlying concepts, have been the subject of a great deal of writings. The field of study is vast; here is a brief summary of what each covers:

Microeconomics

Microeconomics is the study of decisions that people and businesses make regarding the allocation of resources and prices of goods and services. This means also taking into account taxes and regulations created by governments. Microeconomics focuses on supply and demand and other forces that determine the price levels seen in the economy. For example, microeconomics would look at how a specific company could maximize its production and capacity so it could lower prices and better compete in its industry. Microeconomics' rules flow from a set of compatible laws and theorems, rather than beginning with empirical study.

Macroeconomics

Macroeconomics, on the other hand, is the field of economics that studies the behavior of the economy as a whole and not just on specific companies, but entire industries and economies. This looks at economy-wide phenomena, such as Gross Domestic Product (GDP) and how it is affected by changes in unemployment, national income, rate of growth, and price levels. For example, macroeconomics would look at how an increase/decrease in net exports would affect a nation's capital account or how GDP would be affected by unemployment rate. John Maynard Keynes is often credited with founding macroeconomics when he started the use of monetary aggregates to study broad phenomena. Some economists reject his theory and many of those who use it disagree on how to interpret. (http://www.investopedia.com/ask/answers/110.asp)

A. Read the following passage

BARGAINING

Bargaining or haggling is a type of negotiation in which the buyer and seller of a good or service dispute the price which will be paid and the exact nature of the transaction that will take place, and eventually come to an agreement.

Bargaining is an alternative pricing strategy to fixed prices. Optimally, if it costs the retailer nothing to engage and allow bargaining, he can divine the buyer’s willingness to spend. It allows for capturing more consumer surplus as it allows price discrimination, a process whereby a seller can charge a higher price to one buyer who is more eager (by being richer or more desperate).

Haggling has largely disappeared in parts of the world where the cost to haggle exceeds the gain to retailers for most common retail items. However, for expensive goods sold to uninformed buyers such as automobiles, bargaining can remain commonplace.

practice expressions used in bargaining / shopping:
—Is there any discount?
—What about Rp. 50,000,- for each book?
—Can you make it for $ 1 ?
—What about 20% off?
—How about Rp. 10,000,- per kilogram?
—Etc.

3. The expert validation for the development of product such as English materials and worksheet have been very well designed due to the following reasons.

B. Suggestions

Based on the conclusions above, the researcher would like to give suggestions as follows:

1. It is suggested to the English lecturer to use a worksheet which appropriate with the learners’ need in their department. Not only that, but also the English lecturer should be known what the learners’ need for their department in English lesson. In addition, the product of this

2. It is suggested to the students of Management Department to use the product of this research as a primary worksheet for English lesson in their Department.

3. It is suggested to the next or further researcher to conduct a research by using research and development method. ESP (English for Specific Purposes) can be used as an approach to develop a product because it can make a product suite with the English lesson. While for development model, the next or further researcher can use ISD (Instructional System Design) model, ISD include three phases, they are need analysis, instructional design, and implementation and evaluation. Due to the limitation of time and budgeting in finishing this research, the researcher in this research was conducted this research only into three phase. They are need analysis and instructional design materials and formative evaluation. So the next or further research can implemented the material.

The World Bank: History and Purpose

The World Bank came into existence in 1944 at the Bretton Woods conference. Its formal name is the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (IBRD), which clearly states its primary purpose of financing economic development. The World Bank’s first loans were extended during the late 1940s to finance the reconstruction of the war-ravaged economies of Western Europe. When these nations recovered some measure of economic self-sufficiency, the World Bank turned its attention to assisting the world’s poorer nations. The World Bank has one central purpose: to promote economic and social progress in developing countries by helping raise productivity so that their people may live better. In 2009, the World Bank provided $46.9 billion for 303 projects in developing countries worldwide, with our financial and/or technical expertise aimed at helping those countries reduce poverty. The Bank is currently involved in more than 1,800 projects in virtually every sector and developing country. The projects are as diverse as providing microcredit in Bosnia and Herzegovina, raising AIDS-prevention awareness in Guinea, supporting education of girls in Bangladesh, improving health care delivery in Mexico, and helping East Timor rebuild upon independence and India rebuild Gujarat after a devastating earthquake.

MoneySmart Schools

Being able to confidently navigate the ever-changing financial landscape and make good decisions about money is a core life skill that every Australian needs for their full participation in society and their short- and long-term financial wellbeing.

Young people are particularly at risk in today’s fast-paced and ever-changing consumer society as they are already making significant consumer and financial decisions. Many young people are struggling to make informed decisions about how they use money. This is likely to impact on their future wellbeing.

ASIC, together with its partner state and territory education sectors, views consumer and financial literacy education as an essential part of young people’s education. As such, it is a clear part of the Australian Curriculum and state and territory curriculum frameworks.

A MoneySmart School can lead the way in improving consumer and financial literacy education not only in their school, but also with parents, local school networks and local businesses. It is this engagement with the broader community that makes a MoneySmart School.

A. Read the following passage

Good design presentation

Good afternoon everyone and thank you for attending this presentation. I am Mike Johnson from the furniture company “Comfortable Environment”. I’m responsible for the company’s design choices. In today’s presentation I would like to show you the importance of good design.

Why is good design so important, you may ask?

To begin with, a good design makes us want to buy the product. We want to have the most beautiful furniture, so that it would make our homes more attractive. The more we like our environment, the happier we are.

Secondly, good design is always user-friendly. This means we have to make a product that is very easy to use and comfortable. Nobody wants to buy a beautiful, but useless thing.

Last but not least, a good design can match our lifestyle. For example, if I am a businessman, I will probably buy a tablet with a black case, as it looks formal. However, for home I may buy another case with yellow flowers. We really don’t need to create a chair that looks neutral. Design must always be extraordinary.

Please take a look at several examples of amazing design ideas and a few that were not well-thought-out.

In conclusion, I want to mark that a good design is more than just beautiful appearance. If you want your product to be bought, you must take your time to make it perfect. Make it not only look good, but make it useful!

The history of importing and exporting dates back to the Roman Empire, when European and Asian traders imported and exported goods across the vast lands of Eurasia. Trading along the Silk Road flourished during the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. Caravans laden with imports from China and India came over the desert to Constantinople and Alexandria. From there, Italian ships transported the goods to European ports.

For centuries, importing and exporting has often involved intermediaries, due in part to the long distances traveled and different native languages spoken.

Exporting is defined as the sale of products and services in foreign countries that are sourced or made in the home country. Importing is the flipside of exporting. Importing refers to buying goods and services from foreign sources and bringing them back into the home country. Importing is also known as global sourcing.

Reading

Business Law

Business law deals with the creation of new businesses and the issues that arise as existing businesses interact with the public, other companies, and the government. This area of the law draws on a variety of legal disciplines, including tax law, intellectual property, real estate, sales, employment law, bankruptcy, and others. Business law attorneys specialize in transactional work, meaning they do not represent clients in court. In fact, business lawyers are often hired for the purpose of avoiding future litigation.

To understand the role of business law within the legal system, it helps to view businesses as entities separate from their owners and employees. Just like individuals living together in society, business entities are subject to legal rules designed to give every participant in the marketplace a fair opportunity to succeed.

An enforceable system of business laws also benefits the economy as a whole and provides for more efficient transactions. For example, a supplier who sells goods on credit can be confident that the buyer will held to the agreed payment terms. As long as the contract is drafted and executed in accordance with the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC) adopted in that jurisdiction, the supplier knows ahead of time it will be able to enforce the contract against the buyer if necessary.

Questions:

- What do you think about business law?
- Is Business Law important for us?
- How if there is no Business law in a Business?
Read and memorize the vocabularies below!

- Company: /ˈkəm.pəˌni/ (noun) : Perusahaan
- Tax: /tæks/ (noun) : Pajak
- Court: /kɔrt/ (noun) : Pengadilan
- Employee: /ˈemploiˌe/ (noun) : Karyawan

- Enforceable: /enˈfɔrəbəl/ (adjective) : Ditegakan
- Accordance: /əˈkɔrdns/ (noun) : Sesuai

Answer the questions below!

1. What is business law deal with?
2. Tell at least three varieties of disciplines!
3. Where the business law attorneys specialize?
4. What do you think about business entities?

Give the example of an enforceable system of business law related on the passage above!
Business law encompasses all of the laws that dictate how to form and run a business. This includes all of the laws that govern how to start, manage, and close or sell any type of business.

Business laws established the rules that all businesses should follow. A savvy business person will be generally familiar with business laws and know when to seek the advice of a licensed attorney. Business law includes state and federal laws, as well as administrative regulations. Let's take a look at some of the areas included under the umbrella of business law.

Much of business law addresses the different types of business there are laws regarding how to properly form and run each type. This includes laws about entities such as corporations, partnerships, and limited liability companies. For example, let's say I decide to start my own pet grooming business. I need to decide what type of business I want to be. Will this be a partnership? Will it be a sole proprietorship? What papers do I need to file in order to start this business? These questions fall under the laws that govern business which are state laws. The type of entity I pick will also affect how I pay my federal taxes. These of course are federal laws.

In this section, the lecturer divided the students into two groups. The woman group act as a presenter and the man group act like a Mark.

Business Angel

Presenter: Welcome to this week’s program. With me, he is Mark Fletcher, a business angel. Mark, can you explain what a business angel is.

Mark: Yes, well it sounds like someone who is altruistic, but in fact a business angel expects to make a good return on their money. We usually invest in start-up and small business looking to expand. When the company does well we expect our capital back with a substantial return. Sometimes, we group together to make a syndicated deal.

Presenter: How do you decide who to invest in?

Mark: I go very much by gut feeling. Of course I need to see business plans, but if I think the company is producing something that there’s a market for, and if I think the owners have the drive and ambition to do well, then I’ll put my money on.

Presenter: The last, you invested your money, is that it or do you have any further involvement in the company?

Mark: I’m very much a hands-on investor. Before I became a business angel I ran several successful business which I then sold on, so I’ve got plenty of experience and I like to help companies develop and expand. Sometimes I’ll expect to become a director of the company. Other times I concentrate on giving financial advice. The great advantage is that I can see what is happening to my money.

Presenter: Thank you very much, Mark. Now if anyone is interested in contacting a business angel, you can find out more on our website. (Fade out).
Types of Business Organization

A. Read the Passage Carefully

It is important that the business owner seriously consider the different forms of business organization—types such as sole proprietorship, partnership, and corporation. Which organizational form is most appropriate can be influenced by tax issues, legal issues, financial concerns, and personal concerns. For the purpose of this overview, basic information is presented to establish a general impression of business organization.

Sole Proprietorship
A Sole Proprietorship consists of one individual doing business. Sole Proprietorships are the most numerous form of business organization in the United States, however they account for little in the way of aggregate business receipts.

Partnership
A Partnership consists of two or more individuals in business together. Partnerships may be as small as mom and pop type operations, or as large as some of the big legal or accounting firms that may have dozens of partners. There are different types of partnerships—general partnership, limited partnership, and limited liability partnership—the basic differences stemming around the degree of personal liability and management control.

Corporation
Corporations are probably the dominant form of business organization in the United States. Although fewer in number, corporations account for the lion's share of aggregate business receipts in the U.S. economy. A corporation is a legal entity doing business, and is distinct from the individuals within the entity. Public corporations are owned by shareholders who elect a board of directors to oversee primary responsibilities. Along with standard, for-profit corporations, there are charitable, not-for-profit corporations.

Dear Mr. John Headsworth,

I would like to convey my sincerest apologies for my absence in the staff meeting last Monday.

It was my responsibility to make a short presentation; however, I was unable to make it. There were some personal problems. Therefore, I had to cancel the presentation of my part.

Since I was able to solve my problems, eventually, I would like to inform you that I can attend our next meeting and make a longer presentation if such a thing is needed.

I am looking forward to our next staff meeting.

Yours sincerely,

Helen Watson

A. Read the following passage

TAXATION

Taxation is a system of raising money to finance government. All governments require payments of taxes from people. Governments use tax revenues to pay government employees, soldiers, and police, to build infrastructure, provide public facilities, to operate schools and hospitals, to provide medical care to the poor, and for hundreds of the purposes. Without taxes to fund its activities, government could not exist.

Taxation functions primarily to raise revenue to finance government expenditure, but taxes can also have other purposes. Indirect tax duties, for example, can be designed to discourage people from smoking, drinking alcohol, and so on.

There are various ways of avoiding tax on profits done by companies. Firstly, making a tax loss is done by bringing forward capital expenditure so that at the end of the year all the profits have been used up. Secondly, tax havens, that is, countries where multinational companies often set up their head offices because taxes there are low. Thirdly, money laundry, i.e. criminal organizations pass money through a series of companies in very complicated transactions in order to disguise its origin from tax inspectors and the police.

A. Read the following text

INSURANCE

Insurance is a contract, represented by a policy, in which an individual or entity receives financial protection or reimbursement against losses from an insurance company. The company pools clients' risks to make payments more affordable for the insured.
Insurance policies are used to hedge against the risk of financial losses, both big and small, that may result from damage to the insured or her property.

There are a multitude of different types of insurance policies available, and virtually any individuals or businesses can find an insurance company willing to insure them, for a price. The most common types of personal insurance policies are auto, health, homeowners and life insurance policies. Most individuals in the United States have at least one of these types of insurance.

Businesses require special types of insurance policies that insure against specific types of risks faced by the particular business. A fast food restaurant, for example, needs a policy that covers damage or injury that occurs as a result of cooking with a deep fryer. An auto dealer is not subject to this type of risk but does require coverage for damage or injury that could occur during test drives. There are also insurance policies available for very specific needs, such as kidnap and ransom (K&R), medical malpractice and professional liability insurance, also called errors and omissions insurance.

Elisabeth: I don’t have (9)_____ statements I’m afraid, but I’ve got a police report. They came and measured up and checked the marks on the road. But unfortunately nobody else was around at the time of the accident.

A. Read the following passage

Macro-micro economic

Microeconomics is generally the study of individuals and business decisions. Macroeconomics looks at higher up country and government decisions. Macroeconomics and microeconomics, and their wide array of underlying concepts, have been the subject of a great deal of writings. The field of study is vast; here is a brief summary of what each covers:

Microeconomics

Microeconomics is the study of decisions that people and businesses make regarding the allocation of resources and prices of goods and services. This means also taking into account taxes and regulations created by governments. Microeconomics focuses on supply and demand and other forces that determine the price levels seen in the economy. For example, microeconomics would look at how a specific company could maximize its production and capacity so it could lower prices and better compete in its industry. Microeconomics' rules flow from a set of compatible laws and theorems, rather than beginning with empirical study.

Macroeconomics

Macroeconomics, on the other hand, is the field of economics that studies the behavior of the economy as a whole and not just on specific companies, but entire industries and economies. This looks at economy-wide phenomena, such as Gross Domestic Product (GDP) and how it is affected by changes in unemployment, national income, rate of growth, and price levels. For example, macroeconomics would look at how an increase/decrease in net exports would affect a nation's capital account or how GDP would be affected by unemployment rate. John Maynard Keynes is often credited with founding macroeconomics when he started the use of monetary aggregates to study broad phenomena. Some economists reject his theory and many of those who use it disagree on how to interpret it.

A. Read the following passage

ADVERTISING

The progress of advertising during the twentieth century has been so remarkable as quite to overshadow its earlier development. In fact, its rapid progress has caused many people to accuse this branch of marketing of being new and experimental, and to overlook the part it played in the earlier growth of business. The truth is that advertising has been associated with the selling of goods for more than two centuries.

Advertisement is a public promotion of something as a product, service, business, or event in order to attract or increase interest in it. The purpose of advertising is to inform consumers about the existence and benefits of products and services, and attempts to persuade them to buy them. Word-of-mouth advertising is probably the best form of advertising. It occurs when people tell their friends about the benefits of products or services that they have purchased.

In the minds of public, the articles bought had usually been associated with the merchant who sold them, and not with the manufacturer who made them. This condition changed, for the necessity of enormous investments in manufacture brought with it the necessity of more definite touch with the consumer, which could be secured most economically through the use of advertising. Some means of identification of the manufacturer’s goods by the consumer also became necessary, and consequently the trade mark. The appearance of the package, etc, were affected to an unusual degree.

The enormous development of manufacturing units was the primary cause of the recent impetus given to advertising in modern diversified lines of industry. This future obligation demanded a more definite control of business than the sale to a distributor or the marketing of an unidentified product would give. As a consequence, an appeal to the consumer, giving individuality and identity to the particular product, became a necessary part of the sales proceedings.

A. Read the following passage

BARGAINING

Bargaining or haggling is a type of negotiation in which the buyer and seller of a good or service dispute the price which will be paid and the exact nature of the transaction that will take place, and eventually come to an agreement.

Bargaining is an alternative pricing strategy to fixed prices. Optimally, if it costs the retailer nothing to engage and allow bargaining, he can divine the buyer’s willingness to spend. It allows for capturing more consumer surplus as it allows price discrimination, a process whereby a seller can charge a higher price to one buyer who is more eager (by being richer or more desperate). Haggling has largely disappeared in parts of the world where the cost to haggle exceeds the gain to retailers for most common retail items. However, for expensive goods sold to uninformed buyers such as automobiles, bargaining can remain commonplace.

practice expressions used in bargaining / shopping:
—Is there any discount?
—What about Rp. 50,000,- for each book?
—Can you make it for $1?
—What about 20% off?
—How about Rp. 10,000,- per kilogram?
—Etc.

Islamic economics (Arabic: الاقتصاد الإسلامي), is a term used to refer to Islamic commercial jurisprudence or fiqh al-mu'āmalāt (Arabic: فقه المعاملات), and also to an ideology of economics based on the teachings of Islam that takes a middle ground between the systems of Marxism and capitalism.

According to the Pew Research Center’s Forum on Religion & Public Life in 2010, the world's Muslim population is expected to increase from 1.6 billion in 2012 (23.4 percent of the global population) to 2.2 billion by 2030 (26.4 percent).

The study projected that the Muslim population globally would grow at about twice the rate of the non-Muslim population over the next decades. Sixty percent of Muslims live in Asia, 20 percent in the Middle East and North Africa, 15 percent in sub-Saharan Africa, 2.4 percent in Europe and 0.3 percent in the Americas. It clearly indicates that the Muslim population is an important part of the world economy.

A large population from a marketing perspective has a big market potential. The Muslim population tends to be an exclusive segmented market for certain industries.

Currently, some segmented markets have emerged based on the religious aspect or social and ethical values. In the financial sector, for example, there are the Ethical Fund, the Credit Suisse Christian Fund, Islamic finance and others.

Today, the Islamic economy has captured substantial interest in the market, particularly after its sub-sector, Islamic banking and finance, showed a significant increase worldwide. Moreover, the industry has expanded globally to countries with smaller Muslim populations, such as the UK, Germany and the US.

The question is what is Islamic economy' refers to. One thing to note is that the Islamic economy is not just another name for Islamic finance. From a commercial perspective, it naturally encompasses all the sectors driven by the Muslim population's adherence to some form of faith-based activity that has a market impact.

So, Islamic economy refers to economic activities driven by the Islamic lifestyle, consumer behaviour, business practices in accordance with sharia principles and one that has market value (see Thomson Reuters' Report, 2013).
In 2013, Thomson Reuters issued a special report on the state of the global Islamic economy. The report used 'Islamic economy' as a term representing economic sectors driven the Islamic lifestyle in accordance with sharia principles. This article is intended to review the report on the global Islamic economy and its potential.

Thomson Reuters (2013) in its special edition classified Islamic economy into several sectors, namely finance and banking, food, family-friendly travel, fashion and clothing, cosmetics and personal care, pharmaceuticals and media and recreation.

Islamic finance works differently to conventional, and is regarded as ethical by those who use it. But how is it different and why is it considered ethical?

Unlike conventional, Islamic banks operate without interest, or Riba, which is forbidden in Islam. Instead, Islamic banks’ activities are based on. They don’t use risky, speculative practices but generate returns from relatively low risk physical assets, such as property and metals. Using the principles of partnership and risk / reward sharing, relationships are built on trust, openness and. Customers know that their money will never be invested in that are prohibited under Sharia, such as tobacco, alcohol, pornography, gambling or arms. And at all times, Islamic banks consider how they must behave, so that they act in the best interests of their customers, and society as whole. Everything they do is routinely monitored by an external, independent panel of qualified Sharia scholars and an internal Sharia Compliance. So Islamic banks offer a different way of doing banking, one that is relevant to anyone who is looking for an ethical alternative, not just Muslims. At Al Rayan Bank we call this “you can believe in”.
