ABSTRACT

Thesis Title	Improving Students' Motivation using Ice breaker in English Learning at the First Grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao.
Researcher	Zulhulaefah Burhan.
Reg. No.	20400113043
Consultant I	Dr. Hj. Djuwairiah Ahmad, M.Pd., M.TESOL.

This study was generally attempted to find the improving students' motivation using ice breaker in English learning at the first grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao. To know whether the ice breaker effective or not, the researcher used pre-experimental study applied in VIIb class.

This ice breaker used in this study was quantitative research through pre-experimental method by using one shot case study pre-test and post-test design. Before the treatment, the reseracher did the pre-test in one class. Moreover, the researcher taught English by using ice breaker in the experimental class. The last, the researcher conducted the post-test to know whether a ice breaker was effective for teaching English in experimental class.

As the quantitative method, the researcher analized the data by using the t-test (2.77) which was higher than t-table value (2.042). The result showed that there was significant difference on the students' motivation taught by using ice breaker. The students' mean score of the pre-test of the experiment class was 60. Then, in the post-test, the mean score of experiment class was 66.1. Therefore, hypothesis H_0 was rejected and H_1 was accepted. It could be said that ice breaker was effective in teaching English learning toward the students' motivation for the first grade of junior high school students.

Based on the fact, the researcher concluded that, the ice breker was effective to improve the students' motivation in learning English at the first grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao. It was also proved by the observation which indicated that students always enjoy, be active, energize, feeling happiness, interactive in the classroom, stay in the class during learning process, and focus on the material.

Based on the findings, it is advisable that, the English teachers apply or implement the ice breaker in their English classes. It can improve the students' motivation. It is also advisable that, the future researchers conduct a similar study to different level of students, e.g., and first grade of Junior High School.

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

This chapter dealt with research background, research problems, research objectives, research significances, research scope, and operational definition of key terms.

A. Background

Motivation is needed in students' developments through learning process, whether the students have motivation or not, it influenced their abilities. In teaching and learning process, the teacher should pay attention to the students' motivation because motivation can influence both the teacher and the students. Moreover, students' motivation can be influenced by anything. It can be from the students themselves or from the environment; friends, family, and teacher who has important role in improving students' motivation in teaching and learning process.

In learning process, having motivation to learn is needed because it can determine whether a student has willingness to study or not. Motivation in learning is a motive that leads to the goal of learning process. Motivation in learning can be seen from students' behaviors and characteristics dealt with willingness, attention, concentration, and diligence. Students who have high motivation in learning will show willingness, attention and concentration to the study or learning activity. In contrast, student who have low motivation will show unwillingness, be easy to feel bored and try to avoid the learning activity. Therefore, to make the students have motivation in learning, the teacher has to prepare some techniques that can improve the students' motivation by seeing things that can influence their motivation. There are several things which can be used to improve students' motivation such as; giving reward and praise for their good jobs.

UNIVERSITAS ISLAM NEGERI
ALAUDDIN
MAKASSAR

Slameto (2003) said motive is an effective-cognitive factor which operates in determining the direction of an individual's behavior towards an end or goal, consciously apprehended or unconsciously. Motive was closely related to the goal that was going to be reached. In deciding the goal, be conscious or not, to reach the goal needs acted meanwhile the cause of act was the motive to motivate. Thing that had to be paid attention in learning process was what motivate the students so that they can learn well or the motive which leads to the motivation of the students in learning.

Based on the researcher's observation on May 2016, there were a lot of students at the first grade of MTs Madani Alauddin who had low motivation to learning English. It could be seen when the students felt bored and sleepy in the class. The researcher thought that it is necessary to apply the technique in order to make the students feel motivated in learning English. Ice breaker technique is chosen to solve the problem because ice breaker is one of the techniques which is effective to improve students' motivation. According to Draves (1997) Ice breaker are techniques used at the beginning of the first class to reduce tension and anxiety, to acquaint participants with each other, to immediately involve the class members.

ALAUDDIN
MAKASSAR

In order to help the teacher improve the students' motivation, the researcher applied a kind of technique that is called "Ice breaker" in the class. Soenarno (2005) said that ice breaker is a way to make the audience of training, seminar, or meeting to be concentrated. Moreover, it can be applied in the class situation also. He also said that ice breaker was the changes from boredom, sleepy, saturated and strained situation into relax, enthusiastic, attention and feeling like to hear or see person spoke in front of the class.

Kelly (2004) stated that ice breaker can make students emotionally connected with the school and increases motivation. Furthermore, Kuswara (2004) stated that ice breaker is needed in the classroom. It is much needed in order to make the teaching learning process running well, interesting, and the students keeping concentrate to the lesson.

Motivation and ice breaker had relation because ice breaker assist the teacher to show enthusiasm about the content area and learning, and about the students themselves. One way to do this was to make a link with prerequisite knowledge and relate the content to what a student was familiar with. Theoretically, it can be concluded that ice breaker was interest technique which effective to motivated students in learning English.

Therefore, the researcher wanted to apply ice breaker in the classroom. It was expected that ice breaker can motivate students in learning English so that the teaching and learning process can run well, both the teacher and the students can reach their goals; the teacher can deliver the materials, and the students can accept the materials given by the teacher well. Referring to some of the previous explanation above, researchers was interested in conducting pre-experimental research with the title "The Effectiveness of the Application of Ice Breaker toward Improvment Students' Motivation in Learning English at the First Grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-Pao.".

B. Problem statement

Based on the explanation in the background above, the researcher formulated the following problem statement; To what extent does the use of ice breaker effective toward improvment students' motivation in learning English at the first grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao?

C. Research Objective

Related to the problem statement previously, the objective of the research was to find out the effectiveness of the use ice breaker toward improvment students' motivation in learning English at the first grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao.

D. Research significant

The result of this research was expected to be useful theoretically and practically. Theoretically, it was expected to add an empirical evidence to support the learning theory of motivation and the technique to improve the students' motivation in learning English. Practically, it was expected to be valuable information and give a meaningful contribution for teachers, students and schools. So the significances of this research are as follows:

ALAUDDIN
MAKASSAR

a. Teachers

The result of this research could help teachers especially for those who teach at the first grade student of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao in helping student to achieve their target language. It also could give the alternative solution for improving students‘ motivation and students‘ achievements in learning English through ice breaker.

b. Students

This research could be significant for student to get the opportunities to increase their motivation to learn English, so that, the students do not bored when the teachers teach them in the classroom.

c. Schools

This research was expected to bring positive impacts for the school to solve some problems about students' motivation and to achieve the goal of learning.

E. Research scope

The scope of the research was focused on the students' motivation using Ice breaker in English learning at the first grade MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao. In this research, the researcher used limit the study because the problems related students of teaching learning English at junior high school especially to the first grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao. Therefore the discussion in this research must be restricted. So this research would be limited only on using ice breaker with the type energize and prior knowledge assessment in learning English and not provide other technique for first grade students of Junior High School.

f. Operational Definition of Terms

The title of this research was "The Effectiveness of the Application of Ice Breaker toward Improvment Students' Motivation in Learning English at the First Grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-Pao." In understanding the topic of this research easily, The writer would like to present the definition of key terms, as follows:

1. Motivation

Motivation is something that leads people to do something in order to reach their goal and it is as the energy changes in human body. It also can change or influence human behavior.

2. Ice breaker

Ice breaker is kinds of activity which can be used to melt the clumsy and strained condition in the classroom into relax so that the teaching and learning process can run well.

CHAPTER II

RIVIEW OF RELATED LITERATURE

This chapter was divided into three main sections, namely review of related research findings, pertinent ideas, and hypothesis.

A. Literature Review

In this chapter, the writer discussed the literature review of this research. It consisted of some previous related studies and some pertinent ideas. For more detail information, the explanations as follow:

1. Some Previous Related Studies

Selfiyani(2014) in its thesis about"using ice breaker to improving student motivation in learning physic in babussalam senior high school" This thesis used quasy eksperiment. It could be seen from the result of research. The descriptive analysis result of the students' motivation in experiment class by applying ice breaker was higher than control design class with conventional way. The researcher was found there were significant differences of students' motivation in learning Physics in Babussalamm Senior High School Pekanbaru that applied ice breaker and the result of student motivation in control class by using ice breaker technique have improving of 95% level of belief.

Kumala (2015) conducted a research under the title"Improving students motivation in learning English through implementation of ice breaker in the second year of eightclass of MTs Pembangunan Mandirancan" This research was used CAR method, acording this result the technique of ice breaker made the students felt enjoy, more active, interest and make the students felt motivated to learning English.

UNIVERSITAS ISLAM NEGERI ALAUDDIN MAKASSAR

Besides that the class condition during teaching learning process created positive atmosphere in the class.

Asmarani (2013) in its reserach about"the use of ice breaker to improve students' motivation in learning English at the fourth grade of SDN Randuagung IV Gresik" in the result of research found an improving motivation in control class by using ice breaker in conventional learning models. learning English was more fun and did not saturate which is can foster the spirit and attract the attention of students. Researcher used ice breaker when starting and closing of learning and the result of research student's achievement also improved.

Based on the findings above where some researcher ice breaker in teaching language and the purpose was to improve students' motivation, it proved that this way can be used to solve the problem in language learning teaching especially motivation. It was because used ice breaker teacher had to be a counselor and considered the students' feeling in learning process. So the researcher used ice breaker as the way to improve the students' motivation in learning English.

2. Some pertinent ideas

1. The Concept of motivation

a. Definition of motivation

We are all familiar with a word motivation. Whatever we do, usually are started by questioning, what is our motivation or what motivate us to do something? Joining seminar or training, entering organization, working area, school, and even the small thing such as like or dislike of something. The word motivation is always go along with us. There are many definitions of motivation because it is an abstract concept that is not easy to define.

ALAUDDIN
MAKASSAR

Sardiman (1990), states the word “motif” is mean as motivation, which motivators someone to do something it is an activators from intern subject to do sure activities in a purpose of interest it can be as mean intern conditions.

Motivation is composed of three elements. These include effort, desire, and affect. Effort refers to the time spent to study the language and to drive the learner. Desire indicates how much the learner wants to become proficient in the language, and affect illustrates the learner’s emotional reactions with regard to language study (Gardner, 1982).

Therefore, motivation comes from two sides; from inside and outside of the learners. Motivation from inside comes from the learners hopes and expectations, and from the desire to do something. Motivation that comes from outside is grades; in education the most obvious kind of outside motivation is grades for many students, because grades help to motivate the learner from day to day (Maflukha, 2006).

Language teachers frequently use the term motivation when they describe successful or unsuccessful learners. Motivation explains why people decide to do something, how hard they are going to pursue it and how long they are willing to sustain the activity. (Maflukha, 2006).

Hamalik (2001) defines motivation as the energy changes inside person which is signed by arising of feeling and reaction to reach the goal. He also states that there are three functions of motivation, they are; (a) motivate emerge of behavior or act, without motivation there will not emerge an act such as learning; (b) motivation as director, means direct an act in order to reach the expected goal; (c) motivation as activator, it acts as a machine for car. High or low motivation will decide the process of a job.

ALAUDDIN
MAKASSAR

Vojnovich (1997) describes student motivation as a student's desire to participate in the learning process. Teacher's ability create appropriate classroom so that the students feel valued and respected and the way in which tasks are structured helps to improve motivation.

Based on the definitions above, the writer concludes that motivation is something that leads people to do something in order to reach their goal and it is as the energy changes in human body. It also can change or influence human behavior. Students' motivation is students' desire in participating learning process.

b. Kinds of Motivation

1) Instrinsic motivasi

Intrinsic motiation is some kind of internal drive that encourage somebody to pursue of action. If we perceive a goal and if that goal is sufficiently attractive, we will be strongly motivated to do whateer is necessary to reach that goal. In relation to students, intrinsic motiations mean that the reason encourages in gaining success inside the classroom.

Ella (1984) statets In educational psychology, intrinsic motiation is sometimes though to related to long term success and is usually defined as motivation which is guided bu an interest in the task it self in which one.

Gilmer (1973) states that when a person is intrinsically motivated to do some activity, he does it because he likes what he is doing, the activity it self in own reward. Thus, when something is doing for its own sake it is intrinsically motivated. Intrinsic motivation implies self actualization undergo involvement (Singer 1980).

Bhrehm and Kassing (1996) states Intrinsic motivation is motivating force that comes from withina motivated individual, which are at work when the person engages in behavior because the person enjoys doing so, people are intrinsically motivated when they perform for the sake of interest, challenge, or sheer enjoyment.

Aaccording to Djamarah (1996) Intrinsic motivation is concerned with factors affecting inside the class. It decide into four categories are:

a) Physical condotion

This factor is one of the crucial factors that can influence the students' motivation is a good mood or bad mood depend on this factor, the student without a good physical conditions.

b) Method.

The method by which students are taught must have some effect or their motivation. If they find it deadly boring they will be probably become the motivations. Where as if they have confidence in the method they will find it motivating. It is also true that differentnstudents are more or less symphatic to any particular method depending upon their expectation.

c) Teacher

One of the most important elements, the teacher is the most factors affecting in students confidence,interesting classes, and qualities of the students. The students' were concerned in additional important qualities of the teacher

2) Extrinsic motivation

Extrinsic motivation is motivation that cause people tp participate in activities for tangible rewards. Gilmen (1975) states that when are extrinsically motivated to do something, we do it because it leads to external rewards, such as money, and praise from someone. From the definition above, it can be stated that extrinsic motivation is motivation which is directed toward external goal to the students such as goal grades, rewards, from work well done, and teachers' explanatio, thus extrinsically motivation students persist at the learning activity for external rewards guided or receive from it.

Gardner and Lambert (1972) states Peolpe are extrinsically motivated when they engaging an activity from money, recognitions or other tangible rewards. According to Djamarah (2002) Students who decide to go and study a language usually do because they have some goal, which they wish to reach. It has been seggested that there are two main of goal.Extrinsic motivation concerned with factor outside of the class, it devided in to two categories.

a) Interrogative motivation it refers to whether or not the students need to attract by the culture of that foreign language, there fovea, it causes him interrogative himself into culture.

b) Instrumental motivation. It describes a situational in which students believe that mastery of the target language will be instrumental is getting them into mutual, job, position, or status.

Extrinsic motivation refers to motivation that comes from outside an individual. The motivating factors are external, or outside, rewards such as money or grades. These rewards provide satisfaction and pleasure that the task itself may not provide.

An extrinsically motivated person will work on a task even when they have little interest in it because of the anticipated satisfaction they will get from some reward. The rewards can be something as minor as a smiley face to something major like fame or fortune. For example, an extrinsically motivated person who dislikes math may work hard on a math equation because wants the reward for completing it.

ALAUDDIN
MAKASSAR

In the case of a student, the reward would be a good grade on an assignment or in the class.

Extrinsic motivation does not mean, however, that a person will not get any pleasure from working on or completing a task. It just means that the pleasure they anticipate from some external reward will continue to be a motivator even when the task to be done holds little or no interest. An extrinsically motivated student, for example, may dislike an assignment, may find it boring, or may have no interest in the subject, but the possibility of a good grade will be enough to keep the studen tmotivated in order for him or her to put forth the effort to do well on a task

c. The element of motivation

According to john keller theory in sahabuddin(2002) there are four elements or conductions that can appear the motivation, they are:

1). The interest

Impossible someone to do something if they don't like the object at all, all students will attend the lesson all the time if they interest with the subject.

2). Relevance

Relevance shows the relation between the students' need and study activities, sometimes the students lazy to study because they don't care about why they have to study English.

3). Expectation for success

This case shows the expectation for the students to reach the successful in studying, one of the reason will make the students don't care about the lesson they are easy to give up and don't have expectation to success.

UNIVERSITAS ISLAM NEGERI ALAUDDIN MAKASSAR

4) Satisfaction

If the students will get satisfaction to their lesson grade so they will have high motivation to reach it.

d. the importance of motivation in learning

Sahabuddin (2002) states the asters of educational psychology emphasize about the important motivation in the learning and teaching process, motivation has relation with need to motivate get satisfication. In relation with in the expand modern educational system. The master give that in learning and teaching process can use need approach and the student can just study with full attention if there are needing, interest, and expectation or ambition who will be got.

According to Damyati and Mudjiono (2006) Motivation in learning is so crucial to the students and teacher important of motivation in learning to the students namely:

1). Giving information about the strong of the students' effort.

2). Setting up class position to begin learning process to find better last result.

3). Giving direction to study activity.

4). Expanding the spirit in learning.

5). Spending time to study for getting a better job in the future.

These point the entire find important of motivation and beware by his individuals. The important of motivation must be known by teachers' knowledge and undertanding about motivation in learning to the students' the benefit to the teachers is namely:

1) Arousing and keeping the students' spirit to learn it order to seccess.

2) Knowing and understanding the students' motivation to learn different class.

ALAUDDIN
MAKASSAR

3) Increasing and encouraging the teachers to choose one in the kinds of characters like counselor, facilitation, and instructor.

g. Measurment of motivation

Since motivation is a kind spirit or mental power that cannot identified by senses, it is quiet hard to measured. Andrson et al in Ratnasari (2008) says that motivation is a concept or variable without physical reality. We do not see motivation, we see behavior. Thus, the measurement of motivation is indirect, examples: attitude, interest, and values. But, to know the motivation there is one way namely identifying indicators, because our ability to measure is restricted on something concrete that can be identified by our sense.

Morgan in Hery (2004) identifies two ways to measure the motivation:

1) Self-report measurement

Motivation is mentioned above is a mental power or spirit that cannot be identified directly from outside by other people but the subject can touch it intuitively in his inner soul. Therefore, motivation can just expressed directly by the subject. For example, when the student is just calm without any comment on his motivation or at least on learning English, he does not also produce any English sound in his speech. Other people cannot know whether or not the student has high motivation on learning English. The students' motivation on speaking English can just be known if he himself says something about it like "I like learning English very much" or "learning English is boring". This called selfreport because the subject report about self.

2) Behavioral measurement

The most valid data to identify motivation is to see students' behavior. This is because behavior is believed as the more accurate indicator that can be used to see motivation. It is quiet for someone to tell lie with his behavior. Someone may say that he has a high motivation in learning English but more accurate indicators in his participation in learning English. When the students participate actively in learning English, the researcher may judge that they have a high motivation. This measurement is called behavioral measurement because the researcher analyzes and judges motivation according to the students' behavior.

2. The concept of Ice breaker

a. Definition of Ice breaker

(Dover, 2004) states Ice breaker are discussion questions or activities used to help participants relax and ease into a group meeting or learning situation. Kelly (2004) said Ice breaker allow for a student to become emotionally connected with school and increases motivation.

Johnson (2012) Ice breaker are a perfect teaching tool. In just five to fifteen minutes, a properly planned academic ice breaker can:

1) Engage students mentally and emotionally.
2) Reduce student anxiety.
3) Encourage critical thinking.
4) Create a unified classroom community.
5) Establish positive teacher-student rapport.
6) Bridge economic, social, and cultural boundaries.
7) Introduce an teacher's authority.
8) Promote cooperative behavior.
9) Set the emotional "climate" of the classroom.
10) Create positive attitudes toward school and learning.

UNIVERSITAS ISLAM NEGERI ALAUDDIN MAKASSAR

In the process of teaching and learning in the classroom, definitely not always run well, the crowded class or the lack of students' willingness to study can cause it. Students may be tired, bored or sleepy if the lesson is started after the break or at the end of the learning schedule. In the situation and condition as previous example, it is needed something to melt the clumsy condition.

Kelly (2004) states Ice breakers are designed to "melt" the ice in the classroom. Kelly writes: "Although ice breakers can seem frivolous, they are an important first step to getting student buy-in, unless a student is emotionally connected to school, they will lack motivation to learn. Fostering feelings of trust and acceptance is difficult, if not impossible, when students don't know each others' names".

It means that ice breaker is necessary to be applied in the classroom, in which ice breaker can help the teacher to encourage the students to the lesson in the classroom. There are many opinions about ice breakers, some of them are explained below.

Varvel Jr (2002) explained that, Ice breakers are activities or modes of discussion used to help individuals ease into a group setting. Some ice breakers are done in groups and some can be individually completed. Others involve physical activities while others can be purely mental. Any activity that suits the intended purpose can be used.

Another opinion, Soenarno (2005) explained that, ice breaker is a way to make the audience of training, seminar, or meeting to be concentrated. More over it can be applied in the class situation also. He also said that ice breaker is the changes from boring, sleepy, saturated and strained situation into relax, enthusiastic, attention and feeling like to hear or see person speak in front of the class.

ALAUDDIN

Further more Kuswara (2004) said that ice breaker is needed in the classroom. It is much needed in order to make the teaching learning process running well, interesting, and the students keeping concentrate to the lesson. He also noted in teaching learning process intentionally or not, teacher always or once in a while gives ice breakers in the class, even though the type is not a game, physical action or other instrument. Interesting statements, anecdote, sounds that can attract students' attention are included the type of ice breaker.

Dover (2004) define ice breaker as discussion questions or activities used to help he participants relax and ease into a group meeting or learning situation.

In conclusion, ice breaker is kinds of activity which can be used to melt the clumsy and strained condition in the classroom into relax so that the teaching and learning process can run well.

b. Types of ice breaker

It has been explained above that there are many types of ice breakers. Kuswara (2004) said that the types of ice breakers can be in the form of: games, physical actions, teaching instruments, interesting statements, anecdotes, and accentuating voices. In general, Dover (2004) defines that there are two types of ice breaker, those are:

1) Falicitating introduction

Ice breaker can be used to create familiarity between everyone and ease everyone into the group process. It means that ice breaker can be used as the bridge of unknown or unfamiliarity students into the familiarity condition.

UNIVERSITAS ISLAM NEGERI ALAUDDIN MAKASSAR

Dover, (2004) explain the example is “Find Someone Who…”, the teacher gives a card to each students in which the card is consist list of sentences, such as; find someone who speaks 3 languages, find someone whose favorite color is blue, find someone who like cat, etc. The students have to complete the sentences by walking around the room and find students who can positively answer the statements.

2) Prior knowledge assessment

Dover (2004) said Ice breaker can help the teacher to assess the students’ prior knowledge of certain material or materials that have been given to them.

The example is multiple choice test and true/false quizzes. The teacher gives multiple choice tests or true and false quizzes before introducing a topic. The teacher can discuss the answer before and after the lesson in order to focus on the important parts of the topic being taught.

3) Evironment creation/fostering group unity

Ice breaker is used to encourage a breakdown of status/gender/race/etc. barriers that may pre-exist in the group. Ice breaker is expected to help create an open environment in which all participants are willing to open up and participate.

The example is Cartoon Mix, students have to find the group member according to the cartoon strips with panel they have. Then if they have found the rest of their cartoon, they have to put the cartoon in order.

4) Topic segues

Kelly (2004) Ice-breakers can be created to introduce the topic. It means that it can be used when the teacher will deliver a new topic or material of the lesson. The teacher can dig up the students’ knowledge dealing with the topic or material that will be given to them by using ice breaker.

ALAUDDIN
MAKASSAR

For example the teacher will explain about numbers, the teacher uses ice breaker ‘Birthday line-up’. The teacher asks her/his students to make a line in order of their birth dates.

5) Preaption partisipant

Boyd (1997) said by structuring ice breaking activity into learning environment or course management system, students can get to know one another while getting to know the course delivery method. For example The Mingle Game, in this kind of ice breaker participants have to walk around the room collecting signature from people who meet the criteria, such as; someone who has brown socks, saw … movie, has two sisters, etc.

6) Energizer

Boyd (1997) explained ice breaker is used to energize the groups or participants. It is very useful in second day/morning activities to help wake up everyone. The example of ice breaker activity for energizer is “Beach Ball Brainstorming”. The material needed is beach ball and topics; it could be from the lesson or others. Then pass around the ball. Have everyone stand and pass the ball. When someone catches the ball, they shout out something relate to the topic and then toss the ball to someone else.

In addition, ice breaker is a kind of activities which is used to make the class situation into a melt condition so that teaching and learning process can run well. Moreover there are several uses of ice breaker so that it can help the teacher to teach well, and also for the students, ice breaker can help them easy to learn and engage in learning process well.

B.Theoretical Framework

Weiner in Ellot et al (2000) explained that motivation is defined as an internal condition that awakens us to action, encourage us to achieve certain goals, and keeps us interested in certain activities. Vallerand et al (1993) stated that in academic domain, lack motivation of the students has been associated with boredom and poor concentration in class, it also correlation with tired, talk with her friend or making noise in the classroom and also most of the time students lose their interest and enthusiasm in learning. Because sometimes teachers are still delivering the material eventhough the learning conditions of students are not conducive. There are teachers who force students to be silent and follow the lesson with orderly ways. This will influence students pychologically. For example, they may hate the lesson or loose enthuciasm to learn. It is not impossible to make students more willing to learn. Mitchell (2009) stated that to retake the students interest in learning activities, it is necessary to add adorable activities in learning for instane, before starting activities the learning teachers can refresh the class by playing games or teachers can give yells or song when students begin saturated that can make students concentration, in addition completing individual or groups taks teachers can provide by games which can make learning more interesting and and also decrease boredom of students in learning process.

Kuswara (2009) stated that by seeing the meaning of the word, "ice breaker" or literally means an melting atmosphere, then the ice breaker means an activity which occasionally need to be created by the teacher when the situation seems to begin saturated, stiff and tense, it is continues until the fear of students consentration decrease or even disappear in learning process.

UNIVERSITAS ISLAM NEGERI ALAUDDIN MAKASSAR

Soenarno (2005) stated that ice breaker is a way to make the audience of training, seminar, or meeting to be concentrated. Moreover, it can be applied in the class situation. He also said that ice breaker is the changes from boredom, sleepy, saturated and strained situation into relaxing, enthusiastic, attention and feeling like to hear or see the person speak in front of the class. Kuswar (2004) explained that it is much needed in order to make the teaching-learning process running well, interesting, and the students keep being concentration on the lesson. Kelly (2004) stated that ice breaker makes students emotionally connected with the school and increases motivation. Therefore, ice breaker is needed in the classroom.

Related to some previous evidence, the researcher believed that ice breaker was effective for students' motivation in learning English.

C. Hypothesis

Based on the research focus, the researcher hypothesis was the effectiveness of the use ice breaker toward improving students' motivation in learning English at the first grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao.

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHOD

In this chapter, the researcher explained about the research method, research participants, research instruments, data collecting procedures, and data analysis technique.

A. Research Design

This research was a Pre- Experimental method with one group pre-test and post-test design. There were three designs in pre-experimental design; one shot case study, pre-test and post-test, and static group comparison. This research employed one group pre-test and post-test design. This design involved one group pre-test (O1), exposed to a treatment (X), and post-test (O2). In this research, the subject of research was one group class. In the pre-test and post-test design, this research aimed at knowing the effectiveness of the use ice breaker toward improving students' motivation learning English. Arikunto in As'ad (2014) recited that the nature of the research was pre-experimental using "pre-test and post-test on group design. In this design, the observation was done twice before and after treatment. Observation made before treatment called pre-test and observation made after treatment called post-test.

The design can be presented as follows:

Group	Pre-test	Treatment	Post-test
Experiment	0	X	0

(Gay, 1981 :225)

X : Treatment*(using ice breaker)*

O : The ability of experiment class after given treatment.

B. Research variable

Research variable was an attribute to examine people, object or activities that had a certain variation defined by research to learn and then draw the conclusion Sugiyona (2010). In the experimental research, there were two variables that would be manipulated by the researcher. They were independent variable (x) and dependent variable (Y). The dependent variables of this research were the use of ice breaker, as well as the independent variable was students' motivation in learning English.

C. Research Participants

1. Population

Gay (1981) stated that a population was a group to which a research would like the results of a study to be generalizable. The population of this research was the first grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao. The class A consisted of 20 students, class B consisted of 32 students, class consisted of 30 students and class D consisted of 25 students. Therefore, the total numbers of the population were 125 students.

2. Sample

The researcher conducted at first grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao. Non-probability sampling technique by using purposive sampling. The researcher choose class VII b as sample the number of the students were 32 students. Researcher was chose the sample because it was the first grade to learn English which usually they feel that English is boring and difficult at the first time they learn it. That was the researcher's reason to use ice breaker in teaching English to give a good impression to students in learning English that it is a fun and easy subject and it can motivate them in learning English.

D. Research Instrument

Sugiyono (2010) stated research instrument was a tool used to measure and collect data in research so it was easier to be processed. The function of this research instrument was to get data information concerning execution of the study. In order to get data the research used instrument. Instrument which has been used in this research.

1. Questionnaire was the response of students' process in studying while applying ice breaker to motivate students in learning process. This questionnaire was a response filled by students. Questionnaire was used to know the students' responses about their motivation. This research used closed questionnaires. Furthermore, the researcher used Likert's Scale which had four options to answer the questions. The options were strongly agree (SA), agree (A), disagree (D), and strongly disagree (SD) It was used to know data about the students' motivation. The questionnaire, in this research the gues consisted of 20 statement. 14 items included positive statement and other 6 items were negative statements.

E. Data Collecting Procedure

This research was carried out from 10th Juny 2017 until 3th July 2017. During the research, the researcher conducted treatment and collected data from any subject. The procedures of treatment were chronologically performed as following:

1. Saturday, 10th June 2017, the researcher socialized and introduced the way of the research that would be conducted to the students.
2. Monday, 12th June, the researcher performed the pre-test. The researcher gave students questionnaire to know their motivation before giving the treatment .
3. Wednesday, 14th June 2017, the researcher did the treatment. After giving the pre-test, the researcher applied ice breaker. The material was asking apologize. In the treatment process the researcher applied ice breaker three times the name; crazy claps, number and action, crazy claps.
4. Thursday, 15th June, the researcher did the treatment in experimental class. The material was offering help. In the treatment process the researcher was applied Simons said, meaningful matches, crazy claps ice breaker.
5. Wednesday, 21th June, the researcher did the treatment. The material was about introduction yourself. In the treatment process the researcher was applied if you happy and you know it song, introduction(who is he/she), crazy claps ice breaker.
6. Thursday, 22th June, the researcher did the treatment. The material was about introduce other people. In the treatment process the researcher was applied find your friend, if you happy and you know it song ice breaker.

UNIVERSITAS ISLAM NEGERI ALAUDDIN MAKASSAR

7. Wednesday, 28th June, the material of the treatment class was about animals. In the treatment process the researcher was applied count action, animals games, crazy claps ice breaker.
8. Wednesday, 29nd June, the material of the treatment class was about things. In the treatment process the researcher was applied count action, picture box, sound of rains ice breaker.
9. Monday, 3th July, The researcher gave the post-test to the students. The post-test aimed to know the improving of students motivation in learning English by using ice breaker after they got treatment from the researcher. This test was questionnaire.

F. Data analysis technique

The data was collected through pre-test and post-test. The researcher used the formula as follows:

1. Scoring pre-test and post-test by using following formula

$$\text{Score} = \frac{\text{the s} \quad \text{s' g} \quad \text{s}}{\text{t} \quad \text{s}} \; x\, 100\ \%$$

(Sudjana in Andi, 2008)

2. Classifying the students' level score motivation into the following criteria. Making the table of score category :

N = The number of students

(Gay 2014)

4. Finding out standard deviation of the students' score in pre-test and post-test by using the following formula:

SD =

Where:

SD = Standard Deviation

px = The sum of all score

ΣX^2 = The sum square of all score

N = Total number of the students'

(Gay 2014)

5. Finding out the mean score difference by using the following formula:

$$D = \frac{\sum D}{N}$$

Where:

D = The mean of differences score

6. Finding out the significant differences between the score of pre-test and post-test by using the following formula:

Where:

$$t = \frac{D}{\sqrt{\left(\frac{\Sigma D2 - \frac{(\Sigma D2)}{N}}{N(N-1)}\right)}}$$

t : Test of significance

D : The mean score

pD : The sum of total score of difference

CHAPTER IV

FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

This chapter deals with the findings and the discussion of this research.

A. Findings

The findings of this research were based on the results of the data analysis. The data analysis was used to collect data. The students' motivation in learning English consisted of pre-test and post-test. The pre-test was given to know the students' motivation in learning English before giving treatment, and the post-test was given to know the improvement of the students' motivation in learning English after giving the treatment.

1. The Classification of Students' Pre-test and post-test

The questionnaire consisted of 20 items, each items provided with four alternatives of response result categories namely: Strong Agree, Agree, Disagree. In data analysis, the researcher gave five classification components of students' motivation. They were less, low, enough, good, very good. The students' motivation levels were classified into some criteria as follow:

Table 3.4 The Frequency Distribution and Percentage of Students' Pre-test and Post-test score.

No.	Motivation Category Range Score	Range	Pre-test		Post-test
			F	P(%)	F	P(%)
1.	Less	1-16	0	0	0	0
2.	Low	17-32	25	78.1	0	0
3.	Enough	33-48	0	0	0	0
4.	Good	49-65	7	21.9	16	50.0
5.	Very good	66-82	0	0	16	50.0
Total			32	100	32	100

UNIVERSITAS ISLAM NEGERI ALAUDDIN MAKASSAR

The table above shows that from the 32 students who followed the pre-test; sixteen students (78.1%) were in low category, seven students (21.9%) were in good category, while in post-test; sixteen students (50.0%) were in good category, sixteen students (50.0%) were in very good category. It means that the score and the percentages of the score in post-test are better than in the pre-test.

2. Mean Score and Standard Deviation

The mean score and the standard deviation of the pre-test and the post-test can be shown in the following table:

Table 3.5 Total Mean Score Standard Deviation of the Students in Pre-test and Post-test score.

Class	Pre-test		Post-test
Experimental	Mean Score	Standard Deviation	Mean Score	Standard Deviation
	60	10.6	66.1	50.00

The table above shows that, the mean and the standard deviation of pre-test and post-test score.

ALAUDDIN
MAKASSAR

3. Test of Significance Testing

In order to know whether or not the mean score was statically different from two variables (pre-test and post-test)at the level of significant difference (0,05) with the degree of freedom (df) = N-1, where N = the total of the students (32). The following table shows the result of the t-test and t-table calculation:

Variable	t-test	t-table
X_1-X_2	2.77	2.042

The table above indicates that the value of the t-test was higher than the value of the t-table. It indicates that there was a significant difference between the result of the students' pre-test and post-test score.

B. Discussion

The result of data analysis showed that using ice breaker has managed to motivate students in learning English. It could be seen from the effectiveness of ice breaker from the table above which showed that the t-test value was higher than t-table value. The t-test was 2.77 and t-table was 2.042. It means that there was a significant improvement after treatment, so the students' motivation in learning English was effective by using ice breaker and also the percentage of pre-test there are 27 students who had low motivation, 7 students who had a good motivation. After giving treatment the percentage of students post-test, there are 16 students who got good, 16 students who got very good motivation. It means that there was an improvement of students' motivation using ice breaker in learning English at the first grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao.

In general, the performance of the students improved by using ice breaker, most of them were in medium and enough scores. The use of ice breaker was effective. Some statements from the previous researcher supported this thesis. Nasution (1982) states that ice breaker can be used for fostering motivation to learn, atmosphere of learning, eliminate boredom. This matter in accordance with the theory of Gestalt (2001) which stated that learning is nothing without any intention to learn. Hence, students' predilection toward their teacher's attitude in class will drive high motivation of students to study. Soenarno (2005) Ice breaker is a way to make the audience of training, seminar, or meeting to be concentrated. More over, it can be applied in the class situation also. He also said that icebreaker is the changes from boredom, sleepy, saturated and strained situation into relax, enthusiastic, attention and feeling like to hear or see person speak in front of the class, therefore it can make students motivated in learning process. Kelly (2004) stated icebreaker can make students emotionally connected with the school and increases motivation. Furthermore, icebreaker is needed in the classroom. And the last, Kuswara (2004) explained it is much needed in order to make the teaching-learning process running well, interesting, and the students keeping concentrate on the lesson. The researcher believed that ice breaker improved students' motivation in learning English.

In summary, the researcher asserted that the treatment by using ice breaker was surely beneficial to improve the students' motivation in learning English at the first grade in of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao.

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter presented the conclusion as well as few suggestion of this study. Suggestion and conclusion were taken based on findings in this research.

A. Conclusion

Based on the findings and the discussion in the previous chapter, the researcher concluded that using ice breaker was effective to improve students' motivation in learning English at the first grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao. It was proven from the result of students' motivation level which showed that there was a significant difference between students' pre-test and post-test and also the t-test value was higher than t-table value. So it could be stated that giving treatment by using ice breaker could help students to improve their motivation.

B. Suggestions

Based on the conclusion above, the researcher proposed the following suggestions:

1. The researcher suggested that the teacher should use various techniques in the classroom because it can motivate the students especially through the implementation of ice breaker.
2. In applying ice breaker technique the researcher suggested that the teacher needs a better preparation and should manage time when using ice breaker technique in order not spending too much time to get the students' interests.
3. The application of ice breaker could significantly improve the students' motivation in learning English at the first grade of MTs Madani Alauddin Pao-pao. So the researcher suggested to applying this technique when teaching English in the classroom in order to improve the students' achievements.

ALAUDDIN

4. The researcher suggested for the other researchers to investigate other techniques to improve students' motivation in learning English.
