The aim of this research is to find the empirical evidence about the effectiveness of using suggestopedia method towards the students motivation in learning english, which was observed and analyzed from students of first grade at SMAN 5 Sidrap.

This research was quasi experimental design using "Non-equivalent control group design". by taking 60 students as the sample from 158 students of populations. The sample of students was divided into two classes; 30 students for experimental class and 30 students from controlled class. Before giving treatment, the researcher gave pre-questionnaire. Then the researcher taugh in the experimental class by using suggestopedia method, and traditional method in controlled class. After treatment, the researcher gave the post-questionnaire to both experimental class and control class.

The finding of this research shows that suggestopedia method was effective to improve student motivation. It is proved by t-test (2.36) which is higher than t-table in the degree significance (1.67). It is considered that the null hypothesis (H_0) in this research is rejected and the alternative hypothesis (Ha) which states that There is a significant effect of using suggestopedia on students motivation in learning English is accepted. It means that suggestopedia method is effective towards the first grade students motivation in learning English at SMAN 5 Sidrap.

CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

A. Background

For Indonesian learners is not so easy to understand English. Students still get difficulty in learning English, they felt that English is annoying, they get problem about pronounciation, writing, and so on. The researcher thought the problem came from their own selves if they could not do the best in everything, it caused they were unmotivated to learn English. Therefore, in learning process motivation is one of the important things to make them happy in learning, especially in learning English.

To be successful in learning English depend on motivation. In other word, learning and motivation are closely bound together and influence one another heavily. Parsons, Hinson and Brown (2001) define motivation as an important component or factor in the learning process. Motivation in teaching and learning process is one of the supporting elements for the creation of educational goals. If someone learns without any encouragement or motivation, they are faster bored. Ryan and Deci (2000) to be motivated means to be moved to do something. Someone who did not have inspiration to do something means that they are unmotivated. While, someone who had inspiration to do something means they are motivated.

When learning English, students have different difficulties and problems. They can make different mistakes in English pronunciation, grammar and vocabulary usage. It was give the influence on students motivation in learning English. Some of the students feel that English is very difficult to study, but they have motivation to study hard for the good achievement. In other hand, some students feel anxiety and bored in learning. As the result, they got low achievement in English. In this case the students or teacher must have idea to build the students motivation in learning English, because motivation is the one of important factor to the success of learning English.

So far, some teachers in Indonesia still used a traditional method like grammar translation method to teach English for example reading. The teacher only asked students to read and translated the text into Indonesian language. It is not completely bad method but students need differents atmosphere which makes them relaxed and motivate them in learning activities.

As the English teacher, the teacher has to create interesting model of teaching and atmosphere of learning process which make student relaxed and happy to learn english on the class. However, the researcher arranged to motivate students to learn english by suggestopedia or desuggestopedia. Suggestopedia is a modern method in teaching foreign language that come from Bulgaria. It is developed by a Bulgarian doctor and psychotherapist, Georgi Lasanov. Suggestopedia is a concept also used as acceler-ated learning (Lozanov 2011). In addition, Suggestopedia is a developed method for understanding how human brain works and how active learning occurs (Becel, 2014).

Many students in EFL classes think that learning foreign language is difficult. Lonny Gold (2014), the founder of the National Council of Suggestopedia, said in his speech that suggestopedia was created to make easier learning for students because suggestopedia make the students feel fun and interested in the teaching and learning process. Lozanov also states that "if you want to learn more, more easily, more pleasantly, in a stable way and with a better impact on health – then accept Suggestopedia, desuggestive learning, because it is learning with love". By applying the suggestopedia method, the students will feel that learning foreign language is not as difficult as they think. If the students feel that learning is easy and fun, they will be able to learn foreign language maximally.

Based on the preliminary observation in SMA 5 Sidrap, the researcher found that many students still were unmotivated to learn English, because they felt English was one of the difficult subject after Mathematics, students got difficulty about pronounciation and grammar.

Therefore, based on the background above, the researcher interested to conduct research by title ''The Effectiveness of Using Suggestopedia Method Towards the First Grade Students Motivation in Learning English at SMAN 5 Sidrap''

B. Research Problem

Based on the background above, the researcher formulated the research question as follow: Is suggestopedia method effective to improve the students motivation in English learning for the first grade students of SMAN 5 Sidrap?

C. Research Objective

The objective of this study Is to find out the effectiveness of using suggestopedia method towards the first grade students motivation in learning English at SMAN 5 Sidrap.

D. Reasearch Significances

The result of this study was expected to be useful both in theoretically and practically.

a. Theoretically

The result of this research gave the answer the question at the formulation of the research problems. In addition, this research gave the beneficial contributions to the school as the field of English education about how important the motivations to achieve their study.

b. Practically

1. For the students, this research was expected to motivated students to be more interested in English learning.

2. For the teachers, the researcher hoped this research could help the teacher to improve students motivation to learn english.

3. For the next researchers, This research was expected to give a great contribution to other researchers as a reference for the further studies on a similar topic.

E. Research Scope

The scope of this research was under the discipline of applied linguistics related to the problem statement which deals with students' motivation in English using suggestopedia method. Motivation that the researcher mean focus on student intrinsic motivation. While, Suggestopedia is to use soft or classical music as the backround. For the place, the research was conducted at the first grade of senior high school of SMAN 5 Sidrap. The method used in this research was Quasi Experimental Design, exactly Nonequivalent Control Group Design.

F. Operational Definition of Terms

a. Suggestopedia

Suggestopedia is a method that use classical music in learning activity to have develop the students idea and create their imagination. However, suggestopedia is a method that giving a good suggestion to build student confidents, active, enthusiast by making a different atmosphere in the learning process.

b. Effective

Effective is a successful in producing a desired or intended result, actually in operation or in force.

c. Motivation

Motivation is an internal process that activates, guides, and maintains behavior overtime. Motivation has been considered as one of important factors influencing the succes of second language learning. Motivation in English as a foreign language is one of the most important factors. Because if students are motivated to learn English, they can enjoy, and thinks that english not difficult to learn. In other hand, if students are unmotivated to learn English, they feel anxiety and bored in learning process.

Motivation in teaching and learning process is one of the supporting elements for the creation of educational goals. If someone learns without any encouragement or motivation, they are faster bored. One of the alternative to build the students motivation in learning English is used suggestopedia method. Suggestopedia is a method how we will learn effectively. It can three more faster than convensional method. Suggestopedia methods provide a lots of fun while learning so that student will understand easily the materials, give tranquility and relaxation, pleasant or uplifting, speed up the learning process, stimulate the imagination of the students. So that, the students will be more motivated to follow the materials.

REVIEW OF RELATED LITERATURE

This chapter discussed previous studies related research findings, some pertinent ideas, theoretical frameworks, and hypothesis.

A. Previous Related Research Findings

The first researcher is Wendi Alhimda Murliansyah (2013), in her thesis "Efektifitas Metode Suggestopedia Menggunakan Musik Klasik Terhadap Minat belajar Bahasa Inggris di SMPN 13 Yogyakarta". The second researcher is Diah Setiyowati (2013), in her thesis "Peningkatan Motivasi Belajar Bahasa Inggris Melalui Metode Suggestopedia pada Kelas 1 SMA S idorejo". And the third is A'am Rifaldi Khunaifi (2015), in his research about "Penggunaan Metode Suggestopedia Dengan Musik Klasik Tehadap Minat Belajar Bahasa Inggris".

From the previous researchs above, it could be found that suggestopedia was effective to improve students motivation and interest of learning, exactly for English learning.

B. Some Partient Ideas

1. Suggestopedia

a. The definition of suggestopedia

Suggestopedia is a teaching method that was introduced by Georgi Lozanov in 1970. Lozanov (2005) states that suggestopedia is a teaching system which makes use of all the possibilities tender suggestion can offer. The suggestion here is about something that can make students feel enjoy in teaching and learning process. Lozanov created this method in the hope that students would enjoy in learning, especially learning foreign language. Suggestopedia was originally applied mainly in foreign language teaching, and it is often claimed that it can teach languages approximately three times as quickly as conventional methods.

Suggestopedia is based upon on how human brain works and how individuals learn most effectively. The physical surroundings and the classroom atmosphere are most important and must be rich in sensory learning with art, colour, and music, (Harmer, 2001).

b. Principle of Suggestopedia

According to There are three general principles (Schusterand Gritton, 1998):

1. Learning should be characterized by the joy and the ebsence of tension.

2. Humans operate on a conscious and paraconcious level.

3. Suggestion is the means to use the normally unused mental reserves for learning.

c. Technique of Suggestopedia

Diane Larsen-Freeman (2000) the technique and the classroom set up of suggestopedia are :

1. Classroom set-up

In the teaching learning process, the teacher should create the class cheerful to provide the students as a positive mindset in the class.

2. Peripheral learning

The students provide grammatical information from decoration of the class like pooster on the classroom's wall. It is help the student learn many things indericltly and exposed themselves in the classroom or outside classroom than teacher for language input.

3. Positive suggestion

The teacher has responsibility to arrange the suggestive factors in learning situation with tell a positive suggestion like tells student are going succesful. It is make them get believe in her/his self and relax without pressure in the learning process.

4. Choose a new identity

The students choose a terget language name and occupation. As the courses continues, they have an opportunity to develop a whole biography about their fictional selves.

5. Role play

Students are asked to pretend became other character temporary with someone else and to perform they role play to create their own kines in target language is relevant to the situation.

6. Firts concert (active concert)

In active concert teacher give a dialog to the students and read the text. The students follow and focus students attention to some grammatical or word. After that the teacher will be read aloud to students by follow the intonation of music.

7. Second concert (passive concert)

In particular, fulfills Williams in passive concert the student are creating their "fantasy" with closing their eyes; a comportable; quite place, and instruction of teacher with a pleasing voice by slow-paced presentation. It means that the students have relaxed but do not sleeping to create their imagination about the story that teachers read.

8. Primary activation

The students playfully read the target language dialogue out load, as individuals or in group. They can practice in front of the class with many expression based on the dialogue like angrily, sadly, cheerfully etc.

9. Creative adaption

The students engage various activities designed to help them learn the new material, to review and consolidate the laarning. The activities include singing, dancing, dramatization, and games which students just only focus in the communicative intent do not focus on the form of the linguistic message.

d. Theoritical Component of Suggestopedia

There are six principal components are used in the classroom includes :

1.   authority,

2.   infantilitazion,

3.   double-planedness,

4.   intonation,

5.   rhythm,

6.   concert pseudo-passiveness.

2. Motivation

a. Definition about motivation

Motivation is a fundamental concern among teachers (Linnenbrink and Pintrich, 2003). Motivation is generally defined as an internal condition that initiates behavior. Motive is a complex statement in organism which instructing behaviour or act into a goal or stimulating (Ngalim Purwanto, 2004).

Motivation gets humans going. Motivation arouses interests. Motivation creates the want to achieve a goal. Motivation is the process through which individuals are driven to increase their action or performance either by internal (intrinsic) or external (extrinsic) factors (Forman, 2005).

Motivation is an influential factor in teaching learning process. The success of learning depends on high or low motivation of students. It can drive learners in reaching learning goal. Therefore, motivation is the key of success in learning teaching process. Without motivation, the goal of learning is difficult to be reached.

b. Types of motivation

According to Harmer (2007), Student in learning English have two motivation that are intrinsic motivation and extrinsic motivation

1. Intrinsic motivation

Intrinsic motivation comes from within individual. Person might be motivated by enjoyment of the learning process or desire to make themselves feel better. Motivation comes from inside an individual rather than from any external or outside rewards, such as money or grades. Students who have intrinsic motivation would have pleasure one gets from the task itself or from the sense of satisfaction in completing or even working on a task. An intrinsically will motivated student to work on a math equation, for example, because it is enjoyable. Or an intrinsically will motivated the students to work on a solution to a problem because the challenge of finding a solution is provides a sense of pleasure. In neither case does the students work on the task because there is some reward involved, such as a prize, a payment, or in the case of students, a grade. Another example, intrinsically will motivated student to get a good grade on an assignment, but if the assignment does not interest that student, the possibility of a good grade is not enough to maintain that students motivation to put any effort into the project.

2.   Extrinsic motivation

Extrinsic motivation is the result of any number of outside factors. An extrinsic motivation will motivated the students to learn on a task even when they have little interest in it because of the anticipated satisfaction they will get from some reward. The rewards can be something as minor as a smiley face to something major like fame or fortune. For example, student who dislikes English may learn hard on English equation because want the reward for completing it. The reward would be a good score on an assignment. Extrinsic motivation does not mean, however, that student will not get any pleasure from learning on or completing a task. It just means that the pleasure they anticipate from some external reward will continue to be a motivator even when the task to be done holds little or no interest. Other example, students may dislike an assignment, they may find it boring, or may have no interest in the subject, but the possibility of a good grade will be enough to keep the student motivated in order for him or her to put forth the effort to do well on a task.

Brown (2000) divided intrinsic motivation into two main types that are integrative motivation and instrumental motivations. Integrative motivation is employed when learner wish to integrate themselves within the culture of the second language group, to identify themselves and become a part of society. For example immigration or marriage. While, Instrumental motivation is learner wishes to achieve goals utilizing second language. Robert Gardner and Wallace Lambert states that refer to motivation to acquire a language as means for attaining instrumental goals furthering a career, reading technical material, translation and so forth. This is describes a situation in which the students believe that by mastering of the target language, they will be instrumental in getting a better job, position and statutes.

c. Impact of Motivation in the English Classroom

Stipek (2001) suggests there are a variety of reasons why individuals may lack motivation and provides a list of specific behaviours associated with great students need to pursue a written list of personally important goals :

1. Students should have positive feelings about present goals or activities

2. They must have enough self-confidence to perform present activities or to attain future goals.

3. They must pursue goals that provide immediate satisfaction after they are attained.

4. They should make sure present activities are not related to important goals or interfere with one another.

C. Theoretical Framework

Motivation as an important component or factor in the learning process. If someone learns without any encouragement or motivation, they are faster bored. Someone who did not have inspiration to do something means that they are unmotivated. While, someone who had inspiration to do something means they are motivated. The result to be obtained between each individual is very different, someone who has a high motivation it will be more persistent in achieve the desired objectives, thus the results obtained will be better than someone whose motivation medium or low. As the English teacher, the teacher has to create interesting model of teaching and atmosphere of learning process which make student relaxed and happy to learn english on the class. However, the researcher arranged to motivate students to learn english by suggestopedia. According to Selva (2015) on the International Multidisciplinary Research Journal, relaxation suggestopedia method will help students to concentrate and also with the music classic that is used in class, the student can have fun. So the suggestopedia method foster the students motivation.

If suggestopedia method was applied in teaching learning English at the first grade student of SMAN 5 Sidrap, the students will be happy with different atmoshpere in classroom, relaxation by using music, and listening soft or classical music as a therapy which make students relax and comfortable in the learning process without pressure or bored, they could develop the ideas and created the imagination. By applying the suggestopedia method, the students will feel that learning foreign language is not as difficult as they think. If the students feel that learning is easy and fun, they will be able to learn foreign language maximally. However, suggestopedia is a method that giving a good suggestion to build students confident, active, motivation, and enthusiast in the learning process.

D. Hypothesis

H_a : Using suggestopedia was effective on students motivation in learning English for the first grade students SMAN 5 Sidrap.

H_0 : Using suggestopedia was not effective on students motivation in english learning for the first grade students SMAN 5 Sidrap.

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHOD

This chapter discussed about the research method, the research variables, the population and sample, the research instrument, the data collection procedures and the data analysis techniques.

A. Research Method

The research was conducted by employing Quasi Experimental Design, exactly Nonequivalent Control Group Design that the sample were chosen purposively. In this method, there were two classes which were experimental class and controlled class.

O_2 : Pre questionnaire in controlled class

X   : Treatment for experimental class by using motivation

O_3 : post questionnaire in experimental class

O_4 : post questionnaire in controlled class

(Sugiyono, 2010)

B. Population and Sample

1. Population

The total number of classes from SMAN 5 Sidrap were 15 classes. Each class from first grade until third grade consisted of 5 class. The total number of first grade population were 158 students from 5 classes, 94 females and 64 males. In the second grade, the total number of population were 135 students from 5 classes, 86 females and 49 males. While, in the third grade, the total number of population were 139 from 5 class, 81 females and 58 males.

2. Sample

In this research, the sample used two class. The researcher used class X. MIA 1 as experimental class and X.MIA 2 as controlled class. Each class consisted of 30 students. Therefore the total number of sample were 60 students.

C. Research Instruments

The researcher used instrument, namely; Intrinsic Motivation Inventory (IMI). The Intrinsic Motivation Inventory (IMI) is originally develop by R. Ryian, Mims, and Koestner (1983) to assess the overall level of intrinsic motivation experienced by an individual. It had been used in several experiments related to intrinsic motivation, the IMI version for this research were four subscales which measure various underlying dimensions or indices intrinsic motivation including; interest/enjoyment, perceived competence, perceived choice, and pressure/tension. In this questionnaire, students were asked to answer the question by choosing 5 categories, there were strongly agree, agree, undecided, disagree, strongly disagree. Each student were assigned the questions based on their opinion and feeling.

The items of the IMI were adapted to measure the intrinsic motivation of the first grade students of SMAN 5 Sidrap in English Learning. This instrument aimed to gain data of the enhancement of the students' intrinsic motivation before and after the treatment. There were two questionnaire based on the IMI that given to students. The questionnaires were pre and post questionnaires. The questionnaires consisted of 10 items.

D. Data Collection Procedure

The data were collected by using the following procedures.

a. Pre-questionnaire

The pre-questionnaire was given to the students before treatment. The purpose was to know how the students interest in english learning before giving treatment to the students.

b. Treatment

    After giving a pre-questionnaire, the researcher treated the sample by using suggestopedia method.

c. Post-questionnaire

    At the last meeting, the researcher gave a post-questionnaire to measure the students' motivation after the treatment.

E. Technique of Data Analysis

    The data were obtained through pre-test and post-test. The researcher used the procedures as follows:

1. Calculate the percentage by used the formula :.

    $$P = \frac{f}{N} \times 100\%$$

    Where :

    P   : Percentage

    F   : Frequency

    N   : The total of respondent

2. The rating means score of motivation category:

	Strongly agree	Agree	Undecided	Disagree	Strongly disagree
Positive	5	4	3	2	1
Negative	1	2	3	4	5

3. Calculating the mean score of the students' answer by using the following formula:

$$\bar{x} = \frac{\Sigma x}{n}$$

Where:

$\bar{x}$ = mean score

$\sum X$ = the sum of all scores

n   = the total number of subject

(Gay, 2006: 320)

4. Finding out the standard deviation by applying this formula:

$$SD = \sqrt{\frac{SS}{N-1}} \text{, where } SS = \sum X^2 - \frac{(\sum X)^2}{N1}$$

Where:

SD   = Standard Deviation

SS   = The sum of square

N   = Total number of the subjects

$\sum X^2$ = The sum of all square; each score is squared and all the squaresare added up

$(\sum X)^2$ = The square of the sum; all the scores are added up and the sum is square, total.

(Gay, 2006: 321)

5. The formula used in finding out the difference between students' score in pre-test and post-test.

$$t = \frac{\bar{x}1 - \bar{x}2}{\sqrt{\left(\frac{SS1 + SS2}{n1 + n2 - 2}\right)\left(\frac{1}{n1} + \frac{1}{n2}\right)}}$$

Where:

t   = Test of significance

$\bar{x}_1$ = Mean score of experimental group

$\bar{x}_2$ = Mean score of controlled group

SS_1= Sum square of experimental group

SS_2= Sum square of controlled group

n_1 = Number of students of experimental group

n_2 = Number of students of controlled group.

(Gay, 2006: 349)

CHAPTER IV

FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

Based on the result of the post-test on the experimental class and the control class, the researcher differenciate the score between the experimental class and the control class. At the first questionnaire, the experimental class got 105 score and the control class got 112 score. At the second questionnaire, the experimental class got 106 score and the control class got 78 score. At the third questionnaire, the experimental class got 100 score and the control class got 83 score. The fourth questionnaire, the experimental class got 102 score and the control class got 103 score. At the fifth questionnaire, the experimental class got 96 score and the control class got 96 score. At the sixth questionnaire, the experimental class got 112 score and the control class got 105 score. At the seventh questionnaire, the experimental class got 98 score and the control class got 125 score. At the eighth questionnaire, the experimental class got 85 score and the control class got 93 score. At the ninth questionnaire, the experimental class got 88 score and the control class got 99 score. At the last questionnaire, the experimental class got 87 score and the control class got 86 score. The researcher concludes that the experimental class got 979 score and control class got 980.

3. Mean Score and Standard Deviation of Experimental Class and Control Class

After calculating the result of the students score, the mean score and standard deviation of both classes can be presented in the following table.

Table 4.5 The Mean Score and Standard Deviation of Experimental and Control Class

Class	Pre-Questionaire		Post-Questionaire
	Mean Score	Standard Deviation	Mean Score	Standard Deviation
Experimental	28.46	13.91	33.46	3.97
Control	28.16	4.33	31.66	4.87

The table above showed that, the mean score of experiment class in pre-questionnaire was (28.46) and the standard deviation was (13.91), while the mean score of controlled class in pre-questionnaire was (28.16) and the standard deviation (4.33). While the mean score of experimental class in post-questionaire was (33.46) and the standard deviation was (3.97), and the mean score of controlled class in post-questionaire was (31.66) and the standard deviation was (4.87). It can be concluded from both of the tests; the experimental class gained greater mean score in the post questionnaire than the control group.

4. Test of Significance

The significant score between experimental and control class can be calculated by using t-test. The result of the t-test can be seen in table 4.6 as follows.

Table 4.6 T-Test

Variable	t-test	t-table
$X_1 - X_2$	2.36	1.67

Table 6 showed the result of test of significance testing. For the level of significance (p) 0, 05 and the degree of freedom (df) $(N_1 + N_2)$-2 = $(30 + 30) - 2 =$ 58, showed that the value of the t-test was higher than t-table. The result of the test clearly showed that there was a significant difference between the students' score in the experimental and control class after the treatment by used Suggestopedia method. It indicated that the Suggestopedia method was effective on students motivation in English lerning. It meant H_0 was rejected and H_1 was accepted because the t-test was higher than t-table (2.36 > 1.67). Therefore, the hypothesis of the research was accepted.

5. Discussion

The application of Suggestopedia method at the first grade students of SMAN 5 Sidrap had effect to improved the students motivation in English learning.

The description of the data collected through suggestopedia method had improved. It was supported by the mean score of the result of the students' score of pre and post-questionnaire in experiment class. The students' score after treatment in teaching English through suggestopedia method was better than before the treatment was given to the students. The mean score in experimental class of the students' pre-questionnaire was 28.46 and post-questionnaire was 33.46 . It showed that the mean score of students' post-questionnaire was greater than the pre-questionnaire.

Based on the result above, it could be concluded that using suggestopedia method could motivate students to engage in language learning. It also could be concluded that the first grade students of SMAN 5 Sidrap especially X MIA 1 as experiment class had good motivation after learning by suggestopedia method. In the other words, there was an effect of using suggestopedia method on the students' motivation at the first grade students of SMAN 5 Sidrap.

According to Darmansyah, 2010. "Music can change the minds of people who think learning is boring. By listening music, learning will be more fun and not longer boring. Music will also provide enjoy and relax to the listener. Moods have a meaningful effect on the achievement of the learning out comes of comfortable feelings and relax opens opportunities for the brain to work lightly. Thus, the in coming information gets more access and certainly makes it easier for ask to remember."

Therefore, Suggestopedia method is a method that is based on modern understanding of how the human brain works and how we will learn effectively, it can three more faster than conventional methods. In accordance with the research of Elfiza (2014: 185) Suggestopedia teaching method is easier to assimilate and understood by students, and have positive effect to the learning process

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter presented the conclusions as well as few suggestions of this study. Suggestions were taken based on findings and conclusions obtained in this research.

A. Conclusions

Based on the findings, it is shown that using suggestopedia method on students motivation is effective to be implemented in the first grade of SMAN 5 Sidrap. In this research, the students mean score of post-questionnaire in experimental class (33.46) was higher than pre-questionaire (28.46). From the data analysis, the test hypothesis was determined by t-test > t-table in the significance degree α of 0.05%. thus, the value of t-test was (2.36), while the value of t-table wit df 58 in the significance 0.05% was (1.67). Therefore, t-test was higher than t-table scre obtain from the result of calculating, so the alternative hypothesis (Ha) was accepted.

It means that there was a significant effect after suggestopedia method was implemented for students of first grade SMAN 5 Sidrap in academic 2017/2018.

B. Suggestions

Based on the result of the research, it can be delivered some suggestions that go to :

1. Teachers

   Many students consider that English is a difficult and boring lesson. To change the students mindset, the teacher has to be creative in choosing the appropriate method. The method should be able to attract and motivate the students. This research proves that suggestopedia method is effective for the first grade students of SMAN 5 Sidrap. Therefore, suggestopedia can be an alternative method choosen by the teacher.

2. The Institutional or School

   For the institutional or school, it is important to provide some teaching media to support the suggestopedia method. Therefore, ecery classroom should be as comportable as possible, for instance, provided by Air Conditioner (AC) or fan , pictures, posters, and speakers.
